ACTS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY PASSED DURING THE SESSION OF 1921, APPROVED AND SIGNED BY THE GOVERNOR WITHIN THIRTY DAYS AFTER FINAL ADJOURNMENT.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Department.

Harrisburg, January 2, 1923.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: The following acts of the General Assembly, passed during the session of 1921, were approved and signed by me within thirty days after the final adjournment of the Legislature, on the twenty-eighth day of April, A. D., 1921, viz:

May 4, 1921.

To amend section two of an act, approved the twentieth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws, five hundred and twenty-one), entitled "An act providing for the imposition and collection of certain taxes upon the transfer of property passing from a decedent who was a resident of this Commonwealth at the time of his death, and of property within this Commonwealth of a decedent who was a non resident of the Commonwealth at the time of his death; and making it unlawful for any corporation of this Commonwealth, or national banking association located therein, to transfer the stock of such corporation or banking association, standing in the name of any such decedent, until the tax on the transfer thereof has been paid; and providing penalties; and citing certain acts for repeal."

Relating to weak-minded persons and lunatics; providing that service of process may be made upon next of kin of such persons and lunatics in the discretion of the court, and that such next of kin may be added as parties in all court proceedings in which such weak-minded persons or lunatics are parties or concerned; and permitting blood relatives of such persons or lunatics to intervene as such in pending and future proceedings where weak-minded persons or lunatics are parties or concerned; and repealing all inconsistent acts or parts of acts.

May 5, 1921.

WILLIAM C. SPROUL,
Governor.

REASONS FOR PARDONS GRANTED BY THE GOVERNOR FROM JANUARY 1, 1921, TO JANUARY 1, 1923.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Governor's Office.

Harrisburg, January 2, 1923.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: In conformity with law I have the honor to present the reasons for pardons granted by me from January 1, 1921, to January 1, 1923.

Respectfully yours,

WM. C. SPROUL.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg, Pa., January 24, 1921.

His Excellency, Wm. C. Sproul, Governor.

Sir: At No. 145 September Term, 1918, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Clearfield County, Anthony Paladino was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter. On September 25, 1918, he was sentenced to the Western Penitentiary for a minimum term of three years and a maximum term of six years. The applicant and the deceased were each married to the other's sister, and the two families lived in the same neighborhood. About a month before the crime a quarrel arose between the two men over their children.

On a certain Sunday morning the applicant was sitting on his porch with his wife, when the deceased approached and began using harsh language. The applicant told him he was drunk and should go home. The deceased thereupon came toward the applicant, who with his wife, retreated inside of their house and closed the door. The door was beaten and kicked and finally the deceased went in with a stick in his hand. Shortly afterward shots were heard, and when the house was entered deceased was found mortally wounded. He was taken to the hospital and died the next day, having stated that the shooting was brought about by his own fault, and that he did not want his brother-in-law prosecuted. The applicant contended that the deceased, being much heavier and more powerful than he, and being armed with a stick, caused him to fear for his life and to shoot in self defense.

The wife and her seven children, ranging in age from fourteen years to three years, are in the most pitiable circumstances, and moved by their condition the District Attorney stated to the Board he was not opposed to clemency. His minimum term will expire in about eight months.

Under the foregoing circumstances, we are impelled to the conclusion that this is a proper case for clemency, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Anthony Paladino.

E. E. BEIDLEMAN,
Lieutenant Governor.

CYRUS E. WOODS,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

GEO. E. ALTER,
Attorney General.

JAS. F. WOODWARD,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg, Pa., January 24, 1921.

His Excellency, Wm. C. Sproul, Governor.

Sir: At No. 60 February Sessions, 1907, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Northampton County, Giacomo Libetti pleaded guilty to an indictment charging felonious assault and carrying concealed deadly weapons. On April 9, 1907, he was sentenced to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern State Penitentiary for a flat term of seven years. At the time this sentence was imposed the Indeterminate Sentence Law had not yet been passed, but the applicant was entitled to commutation based upon the length of the sentence, and aggregating at the time he committed the second offense two years and four months. The subsequent indictment charged assault and battery, assault and aggravated battery and assault and battery with intent to kill. He also pleaded guilty to this indictment and was sentenced to a minimum term of six years and six months and a maximum term of seven years. The minimum term expired June 15, 1920, and the applicant is now serving the commutation forfeited on the first offense. He desires a pardon for this first offense so that he may be eligible for parole upon the second offense.

The circumstances of the first crime are as follows:

On a certain day the applicant and his father were in a shanty preparing to get their tools in order to start to work. Another Italian threatened to kill the applicant's father. He made a lunge at him with a knife. The son, seeing his father was in danger, seized a revolver from a shelf and shot him, although not fatally. At that time the applicant was about sixteen years of age.

We are impelled to the opinion that inasmuch as this applicant will be under the control of the prison authorities until the maximum term for the second offense has expired, considering the length of time he has been in prison and the character of his first offense, this is a proper case for clemency. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session," recommend that the said Giacomo Libetti be pardoned for the crimes of felonious assault and carrying concealed weapons on which he was sentenced on April 9, 1907, as aforesaid.

Sir: At No. 1 August Term, 1917, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Jefferson County, Thomas Valeri then twenty years of age, was found guilty on an indictment charging voluntary manslaughter. On August 25, 1917, he was sentenced to pay a fine of Five hundred dollars ($500.00), costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a minimum term of ten years and a maximum term of twelve years. The circumstances of the crime were not fully brought out at the time of the trial. There is now no doubt but that they were as follows:

The applicant on a certain morning took a revolver and started out of the house to go target shooting. He stopped in a pool room, gave up his original intention, and after a while returned home. There he found his mother in tears, and inquiring the cause, was told that his brother-in-law had dishonored his fifteen year old sister. He could not believe it as he and the deceased had been friendly. He went to a mine a short distance away to wait until the deceased should come out after his work had been finished. When his brother-in-law did appear the applicant joined him and walked away conversing. After they had travelled a distance the applicant told him of his mother's statement and inquired whether it was true. The deceased replied it was and asked the applicant what he was going to do about it. An altercation ensued. The applicant was thrown to the ground and kicked, and as he was regaining his feet, the deceased picked up a large stone, drew back his arm and said he was going to kill the applicant. The applicant then drew the revolver which he had procured, as before stated, early in the morning, and fired with fatal results.

The applicant has never heretofore committed any crime. He has now been confined for about three years and five months.

We are of the opinion that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Thomas Valeri.

Sir: At No. 30 November Sessions, 1919 in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Philadelphia County, Matthew McCabe eighteen years of age, was convicted on an indictment charging robbery. On November 20, 1919 he was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years nor more than three years.

The circumstances of the crime, as alleged by the Commonwealth, were that the defendant had asked the prosecutor several times for money with which to buy drink, and upon being refused, he followed the said prosecutor and struck him with a blunt instrument. The defendant's version of the affair was that he and the prosecutor had been drinking together, and becoming angry when his companion refused to bear his share of the expense, he had struck the prosecutor and had taken the sum of ten dollars from him.

The Trial Judge has written as follows:

"I am informed that an application is before your honorable body on the behalf of one, Matthew McCabe, who was convicted of robbery in the court over which I happened to be presiding. The court sentenced him to from two to three years in the Eastern State Penitentiary. At the time it appeared to the court as though the defendant McCabe was an old and dangerous offender. Subsequent investigation has satisfied the writer that under all the circumstances of the case the penalty inflicted was rather a severe one. If I had the power, I feel that it is a case that I would gladly place him on parole, but it is out of the court's jurisdiction in view of the fact that he was sentenced to the Eastern State Penitentiary. Without intending to interfere with any of the functions of the Board of Pardons, may I be permitted to suggest, for whatever weight it may bear with you, that I feel that he has paid the penalty for what was at the time, as investigation has developed, a drunken brawl.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH P. ROGERS."

The applicant has heretofore borne a good reputation. He has now been confined for more than a year. His aged mother is wholly unable to support herself.

Under all the circumstances of the case we are of the opinion that the petitioner has been sufficiently punished, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Matthew McCabe.

Sir: At No. 45 April Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Luzerne County, Tony Palma an Italian, aged thirty-nine years, was found guilty of murder of the first degree. On March 23, 1920 the death penalty was imposed. The circumstances of the case are as follows:

About 12:30 o'clock on a certain morning Bronislau Myskowski was found dead in his bed room, his throat having been cut with some sharp instrument. His wife, who had been lying in bed with him, awoke and gave the alarm. Police officers were called and took the wife into custody. Later in the morning the same police officers went to the boarding house of the defendant where they found him asleep in his bed. He was placed under arrest and charged with the crime, the alleged motive for its commission being his intimacy with the decedent's wife. Defendant denied he committed the offense and contended he was asleep at his boarding house, a distance of somewhat over six hundred feet from the scene of the crime. He was convicted on circumstantial evidence consisting of the alleged motive, certain alleged threats uttered before the decedent's death, a piece of charred substance, alleged by the Commonwealth to be a burned razor, found in an ash pile in the yard belonging to the house in which the defendant boarded, and also a piece of feather, alleged to have been found in a handkerchief taken from the pocket of the defendant's trousers hanging in his bedroom.

There is no doubt the defendant and the wife of the deceased were criminally intimate, and that the wife was likewise intimate with others. As to the threats, the wife testified that a few nights previous to the commission of the crime the defendant had become involved in a verbal altercation with the deceased, and said he would "fix" the deceased. A girl, fourteen years of age, present at the time of this altercation, testified that the deceased had applied opprobrious names to the defendant, but that the defendant had not made the threat testified to by the wife. What appeared to be a piece of razor blade was found in the sheet, and scavengers were employed to locate the thing with which the murder was committed. Nine days after the commission of the crime, when they were about to give up their search, one of them scratched about with a stick in an ash pile in the yard of the boarding house, which ash pile had been searched before, and picked up what was alleged to be a charred razor with a nick out of the blade, into which the piece found in the sheet could have fit. These ashes had been taken from the stove of the boarding house the morning after the crime was committed.

Before they had been dumped into the yard, and on the same day on which the crime had been committed, the police officers had examined them, but nothing of an incriminating character had been found therein. The scavenger who had discovered the object in the yard told counsel for the defendant a reward of $1,000.00 had been offered if he was able to locate the razor. As a matter of fact no reward had been offered and when the scavenger was asked thereabout on the witness stand he told defendant's counsel he had been "fooling him."

When the police officers awakened the defendant and told him to dress and accompany them, he reached for a pair of gray trousers, and as he was about to put them on, an officer ordered him to put on the clothes he wore the night before, whereupon the defendant put on a pair of blue trousers, and was taken to jail. Some days later the gray trousers were taken by the officer and blood stains were found on the outside of one of the hip pockets, and on the inside a folded handkerchief was found and when this was opened blood stains were seen, and a small feather, which was identified as a goose feather, and similar to those in the tick on which the deceased was sleeping at the time of his murder, was found. It was shown that the tick had been cut by the violence with which the instrument had been used in the hands of the perpetrator of the crime, and it was contended by the Commonwealth that this feather, adhering to the razor when it cut the tick, had stuck to the handkerchief when the razor blade had been drawn through it. When produced in evidence the feather had blood stains on it, and one witness was produced who said when she first saw the feather she observed no marks of blood thereon.

Another witness testified that the defendant had come home quite a while before midnight on the night the crime was committed; that she had seen him go to his room; had heard his shoes dropped to the floor; remembered that the bed springs creaked as he lay down to sleep; that she occupied a room directly opposite his room; that she was a light sleeper and would have heard him if he had gone out; that she did not hear him and that there was no other way in which he could leave his room.

This is a close case. A jury has found the defendant guilty, four Judges refused a new trial, which the appellate court affirmed. The defendant should not be pardoned, but we are of the opinion that under the foregoing, a miscarriage of justice might occur if the death penalty were carried out.

We are of the opinion that he should be given the benefit of the small degree of doubt which exists in our minds as to his guilt, so that if it should appear at some future time that another did commit the crime, it will be possible to restore him to freedom.

We therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session," recommend that the penalty of death imposed upon the said Tony Palma shall be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 250 September Term 1914 in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Luzerne County, Richard Murphy was convicted on an indictment charging rape. On September 15, 1914 he was sentenced to pay a fine of one thousand dollars, ($1,000), pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than ten years nor more than fifteen years.

A previous application was filed in 1920 and at that time the District Attorney wrote the Board as follows:

"In re: Commonwealth vs. Richard Murphy and John Parker.
Charge: Rape.

These two men were convicted under the Administration of my predecessor and I have had some difficulty in obtaining any information whatever concerning the case.

From the information I have been able to gather, these two men were connected with a Carnival show which had an exhibition in the City of Hazleton. The girl upon whom the crime was committed was called 'Gussy', but whose right name was Christiana Flain. On the night that the crime was committed this girl was seen on the way to the Carnival grounds at about 11 o'clock and evidently had an engagement with someone. At that time she was between 15 and 16 years of age, and was considered by the neighbors as being somewhat giddy. At that time her parents were in the saloon business in the City of Hazleton and now reside at Hazleton Heights, in this County, and the girl is located at Atlantic City and, from what information we have been able to receive, has not been conducting herself as she should.

The recommendation which I have received from one of my County Detectives is that these men have been sufficiently punished for the crime to which they plead guilty, and I believe, from what knowledge I have received of the case, that the men have been sufficiently punished.

Very truly yours,

ARTHUR H. JAMES,
District Attorney."

We are of the opinion that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Richard Murphy.

Sir: At No. 15 January Term, 1916, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Lackawanna County, Anthony Lapriesta was convicted on an indictment charging murder of the second degree. On June 23, 1916 he was sentenced to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern State Penitentiary for a minimum term of eight years and a maximum term of twelve years.

The applicant was one of a party of men who were in a saloon on a certain evening drinking, singing and dancing to the music of an accordion. A dispute arose between the applicant and the deceased as to whose turn it was to dance. The deceased invited the applicant to go outside and settle their dispute with their fists; whereupon the applicant said he did not desire to have any trouble with him. The two, however, left the hotel and a fight followed. The deceased drew a revolver and fired four times, and the applicant drew a knife and stabbed once, inflicting a fatal wound. The only eye-witness testified that two of the shots were fired before the stabbing took place and two were fired afterwards.

The applicant has never heretofore been accused of any crime. The Trial Judge, the Trial District Attorney and the present District Attorney are not opposed to clemency.

We are of the opinion that the defendant's crime goes no higher than manslaughter, and under the foregoing circumstances, having now been imprisoned for four years and seven months, we are of the opinion that he has been sufficiently punished.

Therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session," we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Anthony Lapriesta.

Sir: At No. 52 March Term, 1916, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Lebanon County, Paul Smith pleaded guilty to an indictment charging larceny and receiving stolen goods; and at No. 4 March Sessions, 1916, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of said County, he was convicted on an indictment charging robbery. On March 10, 1916 he was sentenced for the crime of robbery to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a minimum term of four years, and a maximum term of five years; and for the crimes of larceny and receiving stolen goods he was sentenced on the same day to the same institution for a minimum term of one year and a maximum term of two years, to commence and be computed from the expiration of the sentence imposed on the conviction of robbery.

The applicant has served the minimum term on his first sentence and now desires a pardon for the crimes of larceny and receiving stolen goods and also for the crime of robbery, in order that he may secure his liberty. The circumstances of the robbery were briefly as follows: Two men entered a small store in the Borough of Palmyra about six o'clock one evening, and at the point of a revolver held up the proprietor and robbed the cash register of approximately $50.00. The indictment for larceny and receiving stolen goods grew out of the same circumstances. Paul Arms, jointly convicted with the applicant, was pardoned on March 24, 1920.

The trial District Attorney has written, inter alia, as follows:

"I wish to say that in my opinion and also in the opinion of Mr. Light (the present District Attorney) Smith has been sufficiently punished and the Commonwealth desires to raise no protest, nor enter any objection to his pardon.

Very truly yours,

PAUL G. ADAMS."

By reason of the foregoing, we are of the opinion that this is a proper case for the exercise of executive clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Paul Smith for the crimes of larceny and receiving stolen goods, to which he pleaded guilty at No. 52 March Term, 1916, and also for the crime of robbery, for which he was convicted at No. 4 of the March term, in the respective Courts aforesaid.

Sir: At No. 3, June Term 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Carbon County, Charles Wernett and Frederick Wernett pleaded guilty to indictments charging highway robbery and carrying concealed weapons. On May 26, 1919, each was sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, the cost of prosecution, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a minimum term of eight years and a maximum term of ten years.

The applicants "help up" two foreigners and robbed them of approximately eighty dollars. They were apprehended shortly after and admitted their guilt. The money, which the boys stated had been taken for the purpose of purchasing a victrola, was returned. The crime was not characterized by circumstances indicative of the act of habitual criminals; it had more of the elements of a boyish prank. The applicants come of good parentage and have never heretofore been accused of any crime. The trial District Attorney has written, inter alia, as follows:

"At the time of conviction of Charles Wernett and Frederick Wernett, I was District Attorney of Carbon County. The two boys pleaded guilty to the charge of highway robbery, alleged to have been committed in Kidder Township, this County. My investigation at that time of the case, with the aid of the State Troopers was to the effect that the boys held up and robbed two Assyrian peddlers of some eighty dollars, all of which was immediately recovered.

The Court sentenced the boys to eight years in the State Penitentiary for the Eastern District. In my judgment, I considered that they were proper subjects for reformatory influences, and now that they have served over twenty months I am satisfied that the ends of justice have been satisfied and the boys should be pardoned. They were never in trouble before, come of a good family, and from my investigation I found that their act, at that time, was more of a boyish prank, than criminal.

Very respectfully,

C. G. SELTZER."

The applicants have now been incarcerated for about a year and nine months.

By reason of the foregoing, we are impelled to the conclusion that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency and, therefore, "after full hearing, upon due public notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Charles Wernett and Frederick Wernett.

Sir: At No. 724, January Sessions 1912, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Philadelphia County, William V. O'Neil then about twenty-one years of age, was convicted on an indictment charging larceny and receiving stolen goods. On January 26, 1912, sentence was suspended and the applicant, along with a codefendant, was discharged. At the time of the trial the applicant declared he was innocent, and now presents an affidavit of his codefendant which, inter alia, is as follows:

"About nine years ago, when I was a boy eighteen years old and he (the applicant) was a few years older, I asked him to go calling with me on a girl of my acquaintance..... We spent perhaps a half hour at the house. Most of the time was spent in the kitchen, where the girl provided some refreshments for us. Then I went up to the second story. I understood that the room back of the bath room was the girl's room, and as I came out of the bath room I went in there for a moment and snatched two rings from the top of the bureau..... O'Neil was not with me on the second floor, nor did I tell him that I had taken the rings from the girl, nor did he have anything to do with the act. When we were brought up for trial in the City Hall we both pleaded guilty, but I told the Court that I had only taken the rings as a jest and that O'Neil had nothing to do with it. O'Neil told the Court that he had been with me but knew nothing about the rings..... It was my own idea my own act and he had nothing whatever to do with it."

Five years later the petitioner, in making an application for appointment to the Philadelphia Police Force, thinking that the statement made to the Court, as well as the action of the Court in discharging him, was tantamount to an acquittal, averred that he had never been convicted of any crime. In March, 1920, an investigation of the applicant's record was instituted as a formal condition precedent to his promotion in the Police service. The record of his conviction was discovered and the applicant was not only denied the promotion, but was dismissed from the service. He desires a pardon in order that he may make an effort to be reinstated, as well as for the purpose of his restoration to his former respected place in society. The District Attorney interposes no objection to clemency.

By reason of the foregoing, we are impelled to the conclusion that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing, upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William V. O'Neil.

Sir: At No. 251 September 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Philadelphia County, Morris Winokur pleaded guilty, on advice of counsel, to an indictment for receiving stolen goods. On December 20, 1920, he was sentenced to undergo an imprisonment in the County Jail for a term of six months. The circumstances of the crime were as follows:

The applicant was called upon at his place of business by a teamster who offered to sell him two barrels of flour, and which the petitioner ultimately bought, ignorant of the fact that the flour had been stolen. The teamster was subsequently arrested, charged with larceny, and informed the police authorities that he had sold the flour to the applicant. Winokur was thereupon arrested and charged with receiving stolen goods. Immediately thereafter, learning that the property belonged to a Mr. Brown, the petitioner made restitution. When arraigned he pleaded guilty to the receiving of the flour not knowing that by so doing he admitted a guilty knowledge of the fact that the flour had been stolen. The private prosecutor has written the Board, inter alia, as follows:

"The flour which he (the petitioner) bought from my teamster was my property and I think it only fair to say to your Board that as soon as Mr. Winokur learned that it was stolen from me he immediately offered and did pay me for the value thereof. I am firmly of the belief that when Mr. Winokur purchased the flour he did not know that it was stolen."

The applicant has always been a law-abiding citizen respected by his friends, and never before accused of any crime. His wife and child are without means of support. He has now been confined for approximately two months.

Impelled by the foregoing, we are of the opinion that Executive clemency should be extended, and therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon now be granted to said Morris Winokur.

Sir: At No. 21 April Sessions, 1917, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Jefferson County, Melvin Wilson Styers, Jr., then about twenty-one years of age, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging breaking and entering, larceny, and receiving stolen goods. On April 10, 1917, he was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of one hundred dollars, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a minimum term of five years, and a maximum term of ten years.

The applicant and certain other youths forced an entrance into a store and stole pocket knives, guns, and other articles, aggregating about four hundred dollars, most of which, however, was recovered. The other offenders fled from the jurisdiction of the State, and their whereabouts are still unknown. The wife and aged parents of the applicant were dependent upon him for support; the prosecutor has written, urging a pardon; the District Attorney does not oppose clemency; the applicant has now been confined for about three years and ten months; a medical examination indicates that he is suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis, although the disease is still in the quiescent stage.

By reason of the foregoing we are of the opinion that this is a proper case for the exercise of clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Melvin Wilson Styers, Jr.

Sir: At No. 39, March Term, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, in and for the County of Allegheny, Frank Dombek was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on March 8, 1920, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

On February 3, 1919, the body of Marie Rzasa was found in the kitchen of her home in the South Side of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Her skull was fractured, and a necktie had been tied tightly around her neck.

The applicant had formerly roomed at her house, and on the day of the tragedy called at her home. After drinking with her for a considerable time a quarrel ensued, and Mrs. Rzasa was either struck or fell, fracturing her skull so that death resulted. The applicant was very drunk and recollected little of what had happened, but, upon his arrest, made an alleged confession upon which he was convicted.

The twelve jurors who convicted him have joined in an application for the commutation of the sentence. The Trial Judge does not oppose the application.

We are of the opinion that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due notice and in open sessions," recommend that the penalty of death imposed upon the said Frank Dombek shall be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 52 January Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Allegheny County, Frank A. Petrone pleaded guilty to an indictment charging conspiracy and robbery, and on May 2, 1919, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than five years nor more than ten years.

The applicant was assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Bridgeville, Pa., and was acting cashier at the time of committing the offense. The petitioner's crime consisted of abstracting money from the bank, which was lost in gambling. The petitioner conspired with others for a hold-up of the bank on the morning of December 6, 1918, about 8:30 o'clock, and petitioner obtained the sum of $12,500. On the same day he was arrested, confessed and returned the full sum he had taken. After he was released on bail he worked five full weeks with the Bank Examiner and Auditor in straightening out the bank's affairs, and made every restitution possible for him to do.

He was twenty-one years old at the time he committed the crime, and was led into the evil course by the cashier under whom he served. Prior to committing the crime he had at all times led an upright life and had a good reputation for honesty and morality. A position is open to him upon his discharge, offered by one of the Bank Examiners.

The President and Vice-President of the bank with which he was employed recommend his pardon, and suggest that he has been sufficiently punished.

The Trial Judge, Honorable Charles H. Kline, says:

"I was on the Bench when the boy was sentenced and from my knowledge of the facts in the case at that time and also at the present, believe that the aims and objects of the law in his case have been met."

Judge Ford, of Pittsburgh, does not oppose the pardon, nor does the District Attorney.

In view of these facts we have concluded that the ends of justice have been met, and that it is a suitable case for Executive clemency.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Frank A. Petrone.

Sir: At No. 3 September Term 1913, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Somerset County, Pennsylvania, Mike Madar was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on the 20th day of January, 1914, he was sentenced to be electrocuted. On March 18, 1914, the death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

The applicant, at the time of his trial, was twenty years old, a driver in the coal mine, a single man, with his parents living in Hungary. He was unable to speak English, had no money or friends to help him in the preparation of his trial and was unable to employ an attorney. Because of his lack of knowledge of English he was unable to advise his attorney, appointed by the Court, of many of the facts in the case later ascertained.

On the evening of the crime the applicant went to a dance hall in Boswell, and at the close of the dance started for home. On the way home he was attacked by a miner and a general melee ensued. Mike Madar was thrown to the ground and there were three or four in the fight against him, without much assistance being rendered by any of the bystanders. He took from his pocket a pocket-knife, opened it, and, as he says, cut to get away. He cut the femoral artery in the groin of Steve Dudla, from which wound death ensued. There was no testimony that there was any enmity between the deceased and nothing from which premeditation could be inferred prior to the fight. The Trial Judge and the District Attorney recommend that pardon be granted, believing that the offense committed was not greater than voluntary manslaughter.

Believing that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, we conclude that the prisoner has been sufficiently punished and we therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Mike Madar.

Sir: At No. 47 November Term 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Erie County, Richard Lehman was convicted of the crime of robbery, and on November 15, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars, the costs of prosecution, and undergo imprisonment in the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon.

The applicant met two other men in the city of Erie on October 5, 1920, and entered into a conversation with them, during which the two men furnished him with intoxicating liquors. They then entered upon a drinking bout, and about two o'clock in the morning, in the streets of Erie, the prisoner and his two companions engaged in an altercation during which it is alleged that the applicant and Caldwell robbed McHogan, who had been with them during the evening, of thirty-five dollars and a diamond ring he was wearing.

The applicant, prior to his conviction, was industrious and devoted his time and energies to the support of the family, there being six brothers and sisters. His father is in poor health, and the family is dependent upon his support. This is his first offense.

The District Attorney is not opposed to the granting of the pardon; in fact, he practically joins in the application. The Trial Judge is also favorable to the application.

We therefore have concluded that this is a proper case for Executive clemency and, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Richard Lehman.

Sir: At No. 53 March Sessions 1919, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Lycoming County, William H. Rote pleaded nolo contendere to an indictment charging a violation of the Act of Assembly No. 282 (Pamphlet Laws 1917) relating to the possession, control, giving away, dispensing, administering, prescribing and use of certain drugs, and on May 12, 1919 was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars and costs of prosecution.

The applicant, a practicing physician of the city of Williamsport, prescribing drugs containing opium or its derivatives, to a number of his patients, known to him as habitual users of said drugs, and that the same were not prescribed for the cure and treatment of any malady other than the drug habit.

The applicant is fifty-seven years old and has been a practicing physician since 1890 and bears a good reputation in the community in which he lives. He has never been arrested or charged with a crime other than this offense, and the crime in this case was committed in ignorance of the law. The applicant has complied with the sentence of the Court and a pardon is necessary in order to allow him to obtain a reinstatement of his license to practice medicine. The Medical Society of Lycoming County, the Trial Judge and the District Attorney recommend that the pardon be granted.

For these reasons we have concluded that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William H. Rote.

Sir: At No. 89 December Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Allegheny County, Andrew Kretick pleaded nolo contendere to the charge of larceny. September 21, 1920, he was sentenced to pay a fine of 6¼¢, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Allegheny County Workhouse for six months.

The application shows the prisoner is thirty years of age. This is his first offense, and the first charge of crime against him. He is married, has two children, one three years old and one four months old, who are entirely dependent upon him for support.

The offense was the taking and carrying away of six pairs of socks of little value from the ruins of a burned building, which socks were all returned almost immediately thereafter.

The District Attorney recommends that the pardon be granted. In view of these facts we regard this case as a suitable case for Executive clemency.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Andrew Kretick.

Sir: At No. 9 August Sessions 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of York County, Pennsylvania, Ralph Troxell pleaded guilty to an indictment charging the crime of larceny and receiving stolen goods. On August 24, 1920, he was sentenced to undergo an imprisonment in the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory.

Ralph Troxell, at the time of his arrest, was seventeen years of age, and was employed as a helper in a foundry in the city of York. While under the influence of liquor, with some other boys, he stole an automobile, took it to Baltimore, where he was arrested, and on waiving requisition was brought back to York. The Trial Judge and the District Attorney recommend that the pardon be granted.

Sir: At No. 139, March Term, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Philadelphia County, Hyman Harrison was found guilty on an indictment charging assault and battery with intent to ravish and rape, and on December 29, 1920, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for six years. This was the second trial of accused, the jury being unable to agree on the first trial. The crime was alleged to have occurred at midnight on the second floor of the home of the applicant in a room adjoining the other rooms where applicant's father, mother and five sisters were sleeping. No outcry was made and the sleeping family was not aroused, nor were they told of the alleged crime on the following morning. The prosecutrix testified that she told no one of the crime until four days thereafter and information was not made until the engagement of applicant to another girl was announced. The applicant was twenty-three years of age at the time and his accuser twenty-nine.

These circumstances throw considerable doubt upon the question as to whether the very serious crime alleged was committed, and this is clearly shown by the charges of the trial judges to the juries.

In view of the youth of the applicant, his previous good character, and the other circumstances in this case, we have concluded that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Hyman Harrison.

The applicant is eighteen years of age, unmarried, an American, and this is his first offense. In company with Richard Lehman, et al, he engaged in a drinking orgy in the City of Erie and on the way home, it is charged, the applicant and Lehman robbed one of the others of a sum of money. They were tried, convicted and sentenced. At the last meeting of the Board of Pardons Richard Lehman was recommended for a pardon and the pardon has been granted. The application of Watson Caldwell was not then before the Board. The District Attorney is favorable to this recommendation. For the reasons given in the recommendation for the pardon of Richard Lehman, Watson Caldwell should now be pardoned.

We conclude that Watson Caldwell has been sufficiently punished and we recommend, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions", that a pardon be now granted to the said Watson Caldwell.

Sir: At No. 16, May Term, 1914, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Lackawanna County, Matthew Brogan pleaded nolo contendere to the crime of sodomy, and on December 10, 1914, sentence was suspended. Upon a second arrest for a repetition of the same crime, he was sentenced on July 24, 1918, to pay a fine of one dollar, costs of prosecution, and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of four years and six months.

A co-defendant, arrested on the same charge, Andrew Pallick, was tried by jury, found guilty, sentenced, later the sentence was reduced and finally, on February 12, 1915, defendant was paroled.

The circumstances surrounding the crime throw some doubt upon its having been committed. The defendant was without counsel and made no defense to the charges. Outside of these charges he has a good reputation and his prison record is good. The trial judge and the trial district Attorney are favorable to a pardon at this time.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Matthew Brogan.

Sir: At No. 250, September Term, 1914, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Luzerne County, Jack Parker was convicted on an indictment charging rape, together with one Richard Murphy. On September 15, 1914, each defendant received a sentence of a fine of one thousand dollars ($1000), payment of the costs of prosecution, and an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than ten years nor more than fifteen years.

On January 24, 1921, this Board recommended that a pardon be granted to Richard Murphy, the application of Jack Parker not then being before the Board.

The crime alleged was upon a girl of loose character.

For the reasons given in the recommendation for the pardon of Richard Murphy, we are of the opinion that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Jack Parker.

The applicant, at the time of the commission of the crime was eighteen years old. He broke into a store, and stole a child's bank, containing twelve dollars and sixty-one cents ($12.61) in money, and a pocket-knife.

This was his first offense, and he had previously borne a good reputation. Reverend Nicholas Chohey, of Wilkes-Barre, pastor of the family, in a letter recommending the pardon, promises that if the boy is pardoned he will keep in touch with him, and do all he can to guide him in an honest and honorable life.

The applicant is twenty-four years of age and was a police officer of the City of Pittsburgh at the time of his arrest. He was convicted of holding up the proprietor of a butcher shop at the point of a revolver and taking money therefrom at about four o'clock in the afternoon. The identification of the applicant was not certain. Affidavits of numerous persons whose testimony has been discovered since the conviction, place the applicant at the time of the commitment of the crime at least four miles away.

The District Attorney favors a recommendation.

The applicant is alleged to have entered a store in East Pittsburgh, taking sixty-five cents from the cash register, and while running away is alleged to have shot at his pursuers. To these charges he pleaded guilty. Subsequent to his arrest on these charges he was convicted of felonious assault and battery in shooting Frank Heppe in Bethel Township, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania. His identification upon this arrest was of uncertain character.

The applicant is twenty-seven years of age, an Austrian by birth and unnaturalized. He had never before been charged or convicted of any crime and his reputation had been good.

The District Attorney does not oppose the application.

The applicant was charged of breaking and entering into a distillery and removing a number of barrels of whiskey.

The Trial District Attorney and the District Attorney favor the application, and state that they believe the prisoner has already served as much time as necessary.

The applicant is a discharged soldier with a distinguished war record, and prior to his conviction in this case had a good reputation.

He arrived in Philadelphia on the evening of September 9, 1919, and planned to leave for New Jersey in a few hours. He met a man by the name of Grangers in Broad Street Station. They went to the theatre together and after the theatre walked along Ninth Broad Street. Grangers got into an automobile. Grangers was immediately arrested for attempted theft and Lerz with him. There is no proof that Lerz knew of the attempt theft. The District Attorney favors the application.

For these reasons we conclude that the applicant's guilt was not sufficiently shown, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Joseph Lerz.

The alleged crime was the assault and robbery of one, Peter Maderski, of the sum of $108.01 about 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon of October 14, 1920, when the applicant was on his way home from his work at the mines. The conviction was obtained upon the uncorroborated testimony of Maderski.

The District Attorney says of the case, the defendant may have committed the crime, but this was a close case and the testimony was far from overwhelming against him. The defendant had previously borne a good reputation and has a large family dependent upon his support.

In view of these circumstances we have determined that there is substantial doubt of the applicant's guilt, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Adam Skoverinski.

The applicant and one, Peter Pisaneschi, boarded at the same house and Peter Pisaneschi insulted the boarding mistress and the applicant defended her. Bad feeling ensued and Peter threatened the life of the applicant. Peter seized the applicant by the chest with one hand, grabbed him by the throat with the other and pushed him against the fence. He was a much larger man than the applicant and the petitioner in defending himself shot and killed his assailant. The applicant had always borne a good character and was of a peaceable disposition.

The District Attorney who tried the case does not object to the pardon.

He served the minimum sentence of one year and was paroled in May, 1914.

The crime consisted of conspiring for the uttering of false checks and having them cashed. He was convicted on the testimony of a self-confessed convict, at the best, flimsy evidence. His purpose in asking the pardon is to obtain a re-instatement in his profession as a private detective. His record outside of this conviction is good. The District Attorney favors the application.

At the time of the crime the applicant was sixteen years old. He became engaged in an altercation with another boy about dusk, during which the boys commenced throwing stones at each other. The defendant, together with his wife, Mary Miraco, were found guilty of killing one, Pietro Gerage. The allegation is that Jackino Miraco held the deceased while Mary Miraco stabbed him to death. The defendants were convicted upon the testimony of the County Detective James Meli, who took what was alleged to be the dying confession of Gerage. Gerage was an Italian and unable to speak English. The deceased had first stated that he had been stabbed by a man from Philadelphia, but later in the alleged confession he fastened the crime upon the defendant and his wife, saying that they were angry at him because he had circulated the story that Mary Miraco was not the wife of the applicant. No sufficient motive was shown for the crime.

It has since been discovered that Gerage was a criminal and a fugitive from justice. Prior to the crime, for which he was convicted, the reputation of the applicant had been good and he had never been charged with the commission of any crime. His conduct in the penitentiary has been exemplary.

Because of these facts we conclude that there is substantial doubt of the applicant's guilt, and, we therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Jackino Miraco.

Board of Pardons.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 23, 1921.

Sir: At No. 696 November Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Allegheny County, John Doe, alias Thomas Shea was convicted of the crime of aggravated assault and battery, and on January 27, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of $25.00 and costs.

The applicant was a police officer and the offense charged was, that in making an arrest he struck the prisoner five or six times with a blackjack.

The applicant has complied with the sentence of the Court and the application is made so that he may obtain further employment.

We are of the opinion that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said John Doe, alias Thomas Shea.

Sir: At No. 68 December Sessions, 1916, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Delaware County, Mary Miraco was convicted of the crime of murder in the second degree, and on April 11, 1917, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs and imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than eighteen years nor more than twenty years.

It is alleged that Mary Miraco stabbed one, Pietro Gerage, to death while her husband, Jackino Miraco, held him.

For the reasons given in the recommendation for the pardon of Jackino Miraco, we have concluded that there is great doubt of applicant's guilt, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Mary Miraco.

Sir: At No. 544 August Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Philadelphia, Joshua Crump pleaded guilty to the larceny of 200 pounds of sugar, and on December 13, 1920, was sentenced to pay the costs and undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for nine months.

The applicant is thirty-nine years of age, has a wife and four children and his record for sobriety and honesty prior to this case was good. His employers, Barber & Perkins Company, write that his confinement in prison has been sufficient to teach him not to steal and that if pardoned they will furnish him employment as soon as he is released.

In view of these circumstances we have determined that this is a proper case for Executive leniency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Joshua Crump.

Sir: At No. 721 May Sessions, 1917, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, George Moulter pleaded guilty to larceny, and on June 6, 1917 was sentenced to imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for three to five years, said sentence to run concurrent with the sentence of the Court on a prior conviction in 1910. The applicant pleaded guilty to stealing some gas fixtures and lead pipe to the value of $200 in 1910, and for this crime he was sentenced on March 29, 1910 to an aggregate minimum term of two years and six months and an aggregate maximum term of ten years in the Eastern Penitentiary. He was paroled on April 11, 1914. In May, 1917 he was arrested for stealing a gold watch to the value of $250. and upon this offence he was recommitted to the Penitentiary upon his former unexpired sentence and was also sentenced as above stated. For these crimes he has served nine years. A pardon in this case makes it possible for him to be paroled upon the sentence the Court imposed for the crimes committed in 1910.

We are impelled under the foregoing facts to the belief that the petitioner has been sufficiently punished, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said George Moulter.

Sir: At No. 172 November Sessions, 1920 in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, William Green and Alonzo Scott alias Alonzo Leech were convicted of robbery and on February 28, 1921 were sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo an imprisonment in the Philadelphia County prison for a period of eighteen months.

The applicants, together with Joseph Morris, were in a cabaret at a saloon in the City of Philadelphia in the presence of two or three hundred people. The crime for which they were convicted was the holding up of one, Louise Shelton and stealing from her the sum of twenty dollars. It is alleged that Joseph Morris was a former sweetheart of Louise Shelton, and seeing her in company with another man, became engaged in an altercation with her and that the applicants were mere spectators. They were convicted almost entirely upon the testimony of Louise Shelton, who bears a bad reputation. There is considerable doubt as to their guilt.

In view of the foregoing the Board believes that this is a proper case for the exercise of executive clemency, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William Green and Alonzo Scott, alias Alonzo Leech.

Sir: At No. 69 April Term, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and Quarter Sessions of the Peace for the County of Lancaster, Mary E. Bennett was convicted of perjury, and on March 12, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs and undergo imprisonment in the Lancaster County Prison for one year.

The applicant was a married woman with two children. Her husband mistreated her and finally put her out on the street. She went to Philadelphia to live, and was there advised that Mr. Alexander, a lawyer of Lancaster, was the best person to secure her divorce. She employed Mr. Alexander and he prepared a libel in divorce, wherein it was stated that she was a citizen of Lancaster, and advised her to sign it, which she did. She did not know that the libel contained misavements. She was arrested for perjury and convicted. Mr. Alexander has since been disbarred because of his action in this case.

The District Attorney, William C. Rehm, writes the Board as follows:

"I am satisfied that Mary E. Bennett acted on the advice of her counsel, who has since been disbarred for his conduct in the case. While her conviction was justified, I feel she has already suffered sufficiently for her offense, and I recommend her pardon."

The application appears to the Board to be a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, and, we, therefore, "after full hearing and upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Mary E. Bennett.

Sir: At No. 9, May Sessions, 1918, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace for the County of Tioga, Pennsylvania, Stephen Boyce pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and larceny, and on April 28, 1919, was sentenced to pay a fine of $10.00, costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than six years nor more than ten years.

The applicant was raised on a farm, and moved into Wellsboro where he got into bad company. With another he broke into a store where some liquor was kept, became intoxicated, and stole two or three revolvers. On June 4, 1918, he was released on parole until April, 1919, when he became involved in another affair and was committed by the Court to the Penitentiary under the sentence above recited, of which he has served a little over two years.

The present District Attorney writes:

"I do not regard Stephen Boyce as a vicious man nor a hardened criminal. I think he ought to have been punished, but I believe that he has paid that penalty and in the two years that he has been in the Penitentiary has been punished sufficiently.
"As District Attorney I see no reason why the ends of the justice have not been met."

For these reasons we have concluded that Executive clemency should be exercised in this case, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Stephen Boyce.

Sir: At Nos. 279-280 November Sessions, 1919, in the Municipal Court of Philadelphia, Nicola Cupaiola was convicted of robbery and carrying concealed deadly weapons, and on March 26, 1920 was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than three years no more than five years.

The applicant is thirty-three years old, was formerly a private detective, had a good reputation and had never been charged with the commission of any crime before the present offense. The offense alleged to have been committed by him was holding up a pedestrian in a park in Philadelphia at twilight between seven and seven-thirty daylight savings time in October of 1919. The identification of him by the prosecutor, while positive, is doubtful in character because the only view had was at a distance of 100 yards in the dusk of the evening.

At the trial it was attempted to show an alibi and Dr. McCarty testified that he saw the defendant shortly before the commission of the crime at Sixty-ninth and Race Streets which was a short distance from the place of the hold-up. He now corrects this testimony by the statement that he saw the applicant at his office at Sixty-third and Race Streets. It is admitted that it would have been impossible for the applicant to have come from Sixty-third and Race Streets to the place of the crime after Dr. McCarty says that he saw him.

In view of these circumstances we have concluded that the applicant is entitled to Executive leniency, and, therefore "after full hearing and upon public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Nicola Cupaiola.

Sir: At Nos. 382 and 383 May Sessions, 1910, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, John H. Petit pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on May 15, 1910, was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon, Pa.

The applicant was not quiet nineteen years of age at the time of the alleged crime, and was then employed by William G. Conover to sell motor trucks in the vicinity of Camden, New Jersey. Upon his return from Camden with a truck he collided with a trolley car, causing great damage to the truck. He took the truck to a garage for repairs and made an unsuccessful attempt to telephone his employers so as to inform him of the accident and the whereabouts of the truck. Shortly thereafter he was arrested for the larceny of the truck, and, being without the services of an Attorney, he accepted the advice of an attache of the Court to plead guilty, and was sentenced as above.

He has served a total of twenty-nine months at the Huntingdon Reformatory, has been discharged and has since that time been a respected citizen. The purpose of this application is to remove the stigma and the legal disqualification of the above sentence.

In the opinion of the Board the application should be granted, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said John H. Petit.

Sir: At No. 28, January Term, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, John Stefanie was convicted of assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery, and on January 5, 1921 was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000.00, the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not more than three years and not less than eighteen months, to be computed from January 5, 1921.

The applicant is thirty-two years of age, a foreigner unable to speak English, and prior to this conviction had a good reputation as a law abiding man. The alleged crime occurred when the petitioner went to call upon the prosecutor in this case. He knocked at the door, heard a voice call "come in", the door was opened and the petitioner stepped forward. The prosecutor seeing who the visitor was exclaimed "you get out or I kick you out." The petitioner then started to leave, when the prosecutor went after him and seizing him by the neck conducted him to the street. There the petitioner is alleged to have cut the prosecutor with a penknife in the right arm while the prosecutor was grasping the petitioner by the neck.

Under these facts, there is considerable doubt as to whether or not the applicant committed an assault and battery or whether he used sufficient force to protect himself from the assault of a stronger man. In view of these circumstances, we, "after a full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said John Stefanie.

Sir: At Nos. 41 and 42 April Sessions, 1920 in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Allegheny County Myles Larkin pleaded nolle contendere to the crimes of larceny and receiving stolen goods and conspiracy, and on April 15, 1920, he was sentenced to pay a fine of twelve and one-half cents, costs and undergo imprisonment in the Allegheny County Jail for three months. The applicant has served his term and is out on parole, and the purpose of this application is to clear his name from the stigma of the crime.

Hon. A. B. Reid, the Trial Judge, speaking of the applicant, writes the Board as follows:—

"He can be restored to his position upon our Fire Department if a pardon be granted him. He was undoubtedly an excellent fireman, and has served the city faithfully for seventeen years, and before that lapse he had always borne an unblemished reputation as a citizen. One of the clergymen who have written letters in his behalf told me that he was the most devoted son he had ever known.

"I unhesitatingly join in the request that he be rehabilitated and allowed to return to an honorable career, freed by a pardon from the stigma which otherwise will adhere to him and his family through life."

Harry H. Rowand, Esq., District Attorney, is also favorable to the applicant.

We conclude that the application should be granted, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Myles Larkin.

Sir: At No. 31 June Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace and General Jail Delivery for the County of Lehigh and State of Pennsylvania, Ammon C. Godshalk was convicted of the crime of manslaughter, and on November 1, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, costs and undergo imprisonment in the Lehigh County Prison for a period of two years, with the privilege of asking for parole at the end of one year.

The applicant, together with his wife, was driving in an automobile from Easton to Allentown. He came to a point where a house was being moved across the road. One of the workmen engaged thereat, as he thought, motioned for him to come ahead, another on the car track waved a red flag, which the applicant thought was a signal for the trolley car. He went ahead passed the obstruction in safety, but on the other side thereof met a mother with two children. One of the children darted across the road, and in attempting to avoid the other child he turned to the left and struck and killed the little girl. He immediately stopped, picked the child up and rendered such services as he could in the reparation of the loss. He has paid money damages for the death of the child.

The Coroner's jury which passed upon the case absolved the applicant from blame. Ten of the twelve jurors who heard the case voted to acquit the applicant and only consented finally to the verdict of guilty upon the assurance of the other members of the jury that if the jury recommended leniency the Court would only impose a fine.

The applicant is of good character and reputation, is fifty-seven years of age, and has never been in any trouble of this kind before.

In view of these circumstances, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Ammon C. Godshalk.

Sir: At No. 79, April Term, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, Jacob M. Moses pleaded guilty to the charge of perjury, and on June 21, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500.00, costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than four years nor more than six years.

The applicant was born in Easton, Pennsylvania, is thirty-five years of age, and at the time of the alleged crime was a resident of Allentown, Pennsylvania—he was married in 1908—the marriage proved unhappy and his wife commenced proceedings for a divorce in Lehigh County, the subpoena being served on Moses. The applicant was later informed that the divorce had been granted and learned that his former wife married a man by the name of Graham and was living with him as his wife. Taking this information as true, the applicant in 1918 applied for a marriage license, obtained the same and was married to Miss Alice Ritter of Allentown. It subsequently developed that his wife had not obtained a divorce from him and in the divorce proceedings between the Grahams, the applicant for the first time learned that his first wife was not divorced from him. He then took his second wife home to her parents, told them the facts and did not longer live with her. Subsequently an information was made against the applicant for perjury. The alleged perjury being the obtaining a marriage license for the second marriage.

The father of the second wife makes affidavit to the above facts, and, inter alia, says:

"I have found Mr. Moses in all respects an honorable and worthy man, and I am fully convinced that it was through error and misinformation that he entered into the marriage state with my daughter and that it was not from any intent to wrong doing.

"I am making this affidavit of my own free will, trusting that his application for a pardon will receive the favorable consideration of your Honorable Board."

These facts do not indicate a wilful design to commit a crime, and it, therefore, appears that Executive clemency should be exercised. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Jacob M. Moses.

Sir: At No. 7, May Sessions, 1918, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Lackawanna County, Antonio Venturiello was found guilty of murder in the second degree and on May 24, 1918, was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than ten years nor more than twenty years.

On the morning of the killing the applicant and one Marsico, a brother of the decedent, had played pool at a saloon. Later in the same day, about five o'clock P. M., while the applicant was standing on the sidewalk, Marsico came out of a saloon and asked that they again play pool or cards. Venturiello refused to do so and Marsico became abusive, used insulting language until his brother Pasquale, the decedent, reprimanded him for his conduct. A scuffle ensued and Venturiello was struck several times and either knocked down or pushed to the ground. While on the ground with blood flowing from a wound caused by a knife which had been inflicted during this struggle, some one shouted, "Are you going to let that man get killed, is nobody going to save him?"

Thinking his life was in danger the applicant pulled a gun and shot three times. One of the shots went wild, a second struck a bystander in the arm and the third killed Pasquale Marsico.

The applicant was born in Italy, is now thirty-eight years of age, has lived in the United States for fifteen years, is a citizen of this country and has a wife and four children at Old Forge, Pennsylvania, where he worked in the coal mines.

The circumstances indicate that the killing occurred when the applicant thought he was in danger of his life and that he fired to protect himself when set upon by superior numbers.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Antonio Venturiello.

Sir: At Nos. 53 and 54 January Sessions, 1918, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and Quarter Sessions of the Peace of York County, Victor Clark pleaded guilty to the crimes of burglary, felonious entry, larceny etc., and on March 4, 1918, was sentenced to pay the costs and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than five years nor more than ten years.

The reason for the application is that the petitioner is suffering from an advanced stage of pulmonary tuberculosis. The physician certifies that he is weak, emaciated and is now bedfast and that the man has but a short time to live under the present environment. His mother is willing to take him to her home in New York State and give him care while he lives.

We deem that it is proper to exercise leniency in this case, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Victor Clark.

Sir: At No. 515 February Sessions, 1914, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of the County of Philadelphia, Harry Harris, alias Harry Williams pleaded guilty to an assault to kill and carrying concealed weapons, and on February 25, 1914, was sentenced to pay the cost of prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for an aggregate period of not less than fourteen years and six months nor more than fifteen years.

The applicant was arrested on suspicion of being concerned in certain apartment house robberies which took place in West Philadelphia and was acquitted on the bills of indictment founded on this arrest. The arrest was made by Detectives Clark and Barrett and their testimony showed that while they were pursuing him in order to make the arrest, he fired a shot in the air over their heads with the purpose of making his escape. The Detectives testified that there was no intent upon the part of Harris to shoot them. He has served a period of seven years in the penitentiary for firing this shot in the air and for carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

In view of the term of imprisonment already incurred by the applicant, which should be sufficient to meet the ends of justice, we have determined to grant the application, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Harry Harris, alias Harry Williams.

The applicant at the time of his sentence was sixteen years of age. He served his full term of imprisonment and is now forty years of age. He is an American citizen, is now a patrolman on the Harbor Police Boat of the Police Department, City of Philadelphia, and has been a member of the Police Department of Philadelphia for a period of nine years.

The applicant has led a straight life since the youthful trouble above mentioned, is a man of family, has a good reputation, and the purpose of the application is to clear his name of the stain of his early offense.

We have concluded that the application is a worthy one and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Robert Irvine.

Sir: At No. 1020 September Sessions, 1914, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Schuylkill County, Jacob Sovitsky was found guilty of the crime of murder in the second degree and on September 21, 1914 was sentenced to imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than eighteen years nor more than twenty years.

The applicant is now forty-four years of age, of Polish birth and was a coal miner living at Lost Creek, Pa., was married and has a family of four children. Prior to this crime he had never been charged with or connected with any crime in this State or elsewhere.

On June 25, 1914, the applicant came home from work in the afternoon and found his wife drunk in the yard. He asked her where she had obtained the drink and dispute followed and they went into the house together. The applicant states that he told his wife to go upstairs while he heated some water. While he was washing himself in the room below his wife called out the window that she would fix him while he was washing. He finished the washing and with the assistance of the children made the supper and after supper he states when going upstairs he found his wife hanging on the bannister. The body reached the floor and there was an apron tied around her neck. He called his daughter and she came up and in trying to unfasten the apron from her neck he made some finger marks thereon. He notified the authorities of the death of his wife and was arrested and convicted upon testimony that he had quarreled with her frequently about drinking and that they had been heard quarreling that day by neighbors and because of the finger prints on his wife's neck. His story is corroborated by that of Blanche, his daughter.

The District Attorney writes that the applicant always bore an excellent reputation in the community and that in the opinion of his neighbors who knew both Sovitsky and his wife, he is a victim of circumstances and was not guilty of killing his wife. The District Attorney further states that the case is a proper one for the exercise of Executive clemency and that the application should be granted.

Because of these facts we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Jacob Sovitsky.

Sir: At No. 51 November Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Allegheny County, Charles Pearson was convicted of the crime of robbery and receiving stolen goods, the jury asking for the extreme mercy of the Court, and on December 18, 1919 was sentenced to pay a fine of six and one-quarter cents, costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than two and one-half years nor more than three years.

The applicant is a Croatian, now twenty-three years of age, married, his occupation was craneman in the employ of the Pressed Steel Car Company at McKees Rocks, Pennsylvania, and prior to this arrest he had never been charged with or convicted of any crime. On the night of the alleged robbery he attended a wedding and drink being served he became intoxicated, and wandering on his way home was finally picked up by the officers with a watch upon him, later claimed as the property of Mick Shuma. A search was made for the owner of the watch and later Shuma was found also intoxicated, and claimed to have been waylaid, and identified the watch. At the hearing before the Justice of the Peace Shuma failed to identify Pearson as the person who robbed him, but at the trial he did so identify him.

A number of letters have been sent to the Board, among them letters from the Police Officers who made the arrest and to the effect that the applicant has served sufficient time for the crime of which he was convicted. Mr. John Francies, Warden of the Western Penitentiary, certifies that his conduct during his imprisonment has been exemplary.

We have determined that the applicant has been imprisoned for a sufficient length of time to punish him for his wrongdoing and to serve as a warning to others, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Charles Pearson.

Sir: At No. 941 September Sessions, 1912, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Philadelphia County, Matthew McMullen pleaded guilty to the crime of murder. The Court fixed the crime as murder in the second degree and on October 29, 1912, sentenced him to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from fifteen to twenty years.

The crime charged was the murder of Catharine M. Bell, with whom the applicant was living at the time of her death. The applicant and the Bell woman were heavy drinkers and on the night of August 21, it is alleged the decedent became very much intoxicated. Catharine M. Bell was found dead in the room occupied by herself and the applicant and it was determined that death was caused by a hemorrhage of the brain induced by blows on different parts of the body.

The applicant gave himself up to the Police authorities on the day after the crime, and when indicted, pleaded not guilty. At the completion of the Commonwealth's case he changed the plea of not guilty to one of guilty and was then sentenced as above stated. The reasons given by the applicant for his pardon are that he had never before been charged with or convicted of any crime, that there is doubt as to the exact manner in which the Bell woman came to her death, as there were no eye witnesses of the death, and the accident might have happened in a fall caused by her drunken condition, and that the applicant has been punished sufficiently for the crime.

The Board has received letters from a large number of people urging clemency and expressing the belief that if pardoned the applicant will lead a respectable life.

In view of these circumstances we have determined that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Matthew McMullen.

Sir: At No. 375 March Term, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Philadelphia County, Joseph Ramsey was convicted of the crime of robbery and on January 14, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than four years nor more than five years.

The applicant with two other boys was accused of robbing the Overbrook Bank. It was alleged that the applicant entered the bank and obtained change for a dollar and later returned with two other men and held up the paying teller and the other employes of the bank and robbed it of cash, liberty bonds, war savings stamps and stock certificates of a total value of approximately $11,000. After the robbery the bandits escaped in an automobile and no arrests were made until forty-six days thereafter when the applicant, together with John Hogan and Thomas Brennan were arrested and taken to City Hall where they were confronted by Thomas McCook, the youthful paying teller of the Overbrook Bank, who identified Ramsey and Hogan but failed to identify Brennan, and there Brennan was discharged and the two others held for court. Later on Hugh Dougherty was arrested for the same crime and the three defendants were positively identified at the trial by McCook as the men who held up the bank. Dougherty and Hogan were able to show by indisputable record evidence that they could not have been at the bank at the time of the robbery and were acquitted.

The applicant was convicted upon the identification of McCook, although there was positive testimony upon the part of his father, his mother, his brother and a disinterested person named Fannie G. Bodgen that he was elsewhere than at the scene of the robbery at the time the robbery was committed. No part of the money or of the securities taken has ever been found upon or traced to the applicant.

The applicant is an American citizen, twenty-three years of age, single and had a good reputation. His parents are respectable people and an alibi proven by them and by the other witnesses was entitled to greater consideration than it received at the trial.

We feel that there is great uncertainty as to the guilt of the applicant and that at least it was not proven at the trial beyond all reasonable doubt.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Joseph Ramsey.

Sir: At Nos. 402, 403 and 468, May Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Philadelphia County, Robert John Nolan pleaded guilty to aggravated assault and battery, and entering in the night with an attempt to commit a felony. A verdict of not guilty was rendered in several indictments charging assault and battery. On May 25, 1921, he was sentenced on Bill of Indictment No. 468 only to pay costs and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years nor more than three years.

The applicant is twenty-four years of age and unmarried, and is a resident of the City of Philadelphia. On April 25, 1921, he was arrested, charged with assault and battery upon Mrs. Kinnear and Mrs. Hannah Rumpford. He was calling at the house of Mrs. Kinner, where he had formerly roomed, when Mrs. Rumpford approached him and told Nolan to get out; that he was no good, and that he was an idler and a worthless character. An altercation followed, and Nolan struck Mrs. Rumpford in the face with his hand, knocking her down. He also pleaded guilty to striking Mrs. Kinnear although he has no knowledge of so doing. He was intoxicated at the time.

The Trial Judge evidently imposed the sentence under the belief that the applicant entered the house with the intent to commit a felony, which is now shown not to be a fact.

Honorable Samuel E. Shull, Trial Judge, in a letter dated October 21, 1921, writes the Board as follows:

"Since the imposition of this sentence, I have been informed, and believe, that there are circumstances surrounding this case which were not within my knowledge at the time of imposing this sentence, and which circumstances, if they were true, as I believe them to be, would, in my judgment, warrant the Board of Pardons in giving this case their earnest consideration."

In view of the position now taken by the Court, we recommend, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", that a pardon be now granted to the said Robert John Nolan.

Sir: At Nos. 2 and 3 April Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Venango County, Joseph Leonetti pleaded guilty to the crimes of voluntary manslaughter and murder in the second degree, and on April 29, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not more than fifteen years nor less than ten years.

The applicant was a coal miner, industrious, honest and of a good reputation, married and had a family of seven children. His wife ran away with a man by the name of Bonaventure, leaving the petitioner with the seven children, the youngest being a baby of ten months of age. The petitioner had his children taken care of in various places by different families and institutions as best he could, but the baby died a few months after its desertion by the mother. The petitioner obtained a divorce from his wife in order that he might be able to sell the home which he had acquired. Later the proposition was made that the wife would return to her former husband provided he would pay the bills contracted by her and Bonaventure, and an agreement was made to this effect. Bonaventure later repudiated this agreement and early one morning in a sudden attack struck the applicant with a chair while the applicant was trying to get out the kitchen door which was locked. His wife appeared on the scene and joined Bonaventure in the attack upon the petitioner. The applicant seized a stick of stove wood and struck each one of his assailants to the ground causing their death.

The reasons assigned for the applicant are that under all the circumstances the sentence was severe, that the petitioner has been sufficiently punished and that his children are very much in need of his support and protection.

The District Attorney writes that the applicant bore a splendid reputation as a citizen, employe, husband and father and that his chief consideration before and since his imprisonment was the care and maintenance of his children, that the controlling purpose for the imposition of the sentence was its effect on the public in deterring crime and that this effect has been sufficiently accomplished, and that the applicant, if released, will use every effort to provide a proper home for his children and that he will rear a family of good citizens.

These facts have impelled the Board of Pardons to the conclusion that the applicant should be released.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Joseph Leonetti.

Sir: At Nos. 96 and 97 October Sessions, 1917, and at No. 170 September Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Allegheny County, William Longabaugh was convicted of felonious assault and battery, robbery and of unlawful wounding, and on December 18, 1919, was sentenced for felonious assault and battery to pay a fine of six and one-quarter cents, costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than two and one-half years nor more than three years. Sentence was suspended on the other two charges.

The applicant is twenty-eight years of age, an American, a skilled electrician and a railroad brakeman and at the time of his arrest was employed as a railroad brakeman at the Pitcairn yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

In September of 1917 the applicant was charged with rifling a freight car of merchandise and it was alleged that at the arrest the applicant shot the officer who attempted to take him in charge. The story of the applicant was that he had nothing to do with the crime and that an officer came up to him and accused him with it and of having shot another officer. The prisoner had no revolver or any stolen goods in his possession, either at the time of his arrest or afterwards. Neither the prosecutor or defendant had any corroboration of their stories. The indictment for this offense was returned in October, 1817, and the defendant not having been called for sentence was allowed to enter the service of the United States in the Great War and was sent overseas attached to the Thirty-seventh Engineers of United States of America. He served twelve months in France and was honorably discharged April 4, 1919. After his discharge from the Army he was employed by the Humane Society as a Special Officer and by virtue of his office carried a pistol.

On June 24, 1919, he became involved in a fight with one, John McClafferty, which resulted in his indictment at No. 170 September Sessions, 1919, for felonious assault and battery and when the applicant was brought to trial to face this charge the old charges were revived and all disposed of at the same time. It is alleged that the applicant had accused McClafferty of cheating and robbing a foreigner of some money and a controversy followed in which McClafferty and some of his friends assaulted the applicant and during the fight that followed McClafferty was shot.

The Trial Judge and the Trial District Attorney write the Board that they are inclined to think this case has merit.

The applicant has served twenty months of his sentence, he comes from a reputable family and there is reason to believe that if discharged he will become a law abiding citizen, and, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William Longabaugh.

Sir: At No. 3 September Sessions, 1918, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Erie County, Christian Didion pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and larceny, and on October 27, 1919, was sentenced to pay a fine of $25.00, costs and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than three years and six months nor more than four years.

In April, 1918, a freight car was broken open and a quantity of cigarettes stolen. The applicant and two others were indicated and all entered pleas of guilty. The actual breaking and entering was done by Joseph Takach. The applicant received none of the cigarettes and immediately volunteered to assist the railroad detectives in prosecuting the case and did assist them by informing them where the stolen goods were located so that they were recovered. In consideration of this action sentence was suspended upon him.

In the summer of 1919 he was arrested charged with complicity in the theft of an automobile, and although never convicted of this charge the Court called him in upon the case on which sentence had been suspended and sentenced him as above set forth.

The District Attorney of Erie County writes that he has investigated the charges as to the theft of the automobile and finds that the applicant had no part therein, that the real thief had pleaded guilty and has been sentenced, and he, therefore, recommends this pardon.

For these reasons, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Christian Didion.

Sir: At Nos. 25, 260 and 262 January Sessions, 1917, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, Karl Schwarz pleaded guilty to the crimes of robbery, receiving stolen goods, carrying concealed weapons and conspiracy, and on January 13, 1917, was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of eighteen and three-fourth cents, costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than seven nor more than ten years.

The applicant on the sixth day of January, 1917, assisted in the assault and robbery of an Adams Express Company messenger. It is admitted that the applicant received no money, and in the commission of the crime was influenced largely by his companion. Prior to this charge the applicant had never been in any trouble with the law, and had borne a good reputation. He has been in the Penitentiary for a considerable period, and during his imprisonment has lost the property which he had earned. His wife is in destitute circumstances, and she as well as his aged parents require his support.

The District Attorney is not opposed to the pardon.

Under these circumstances we have come to the conclusion that the applicant has been sufficiently punished and that the ends of justice have been met. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Karl Schwarz.

Sir: At No. 27 June Term, 1907, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Fayette County, Pennsylvania, William L. Cate was twice convicted of murder in the first degree, and on January 20, 1909, the sentence of death by hanging was commuted to life imprisonment.

Cate was a policeman in the Borough of Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania, until a few months before he shot Thomas L. Guess in May of 1907. The applicant had resigned his position as policeman, and Guess was appointed in his place upon the recommendation of the applicant. Guess was arresting the applicant for intoxication and disorderly conduct, and as he was putting the prisoner into the cell in the lockup, the prisoner pulled his revolver and shot him to death. He has been in prison for upwards of fourteen years. There was no motive for the crime, and, as the Trial Judge says in his letter, it might well have been a very serious question whether a verdict of second degree was not more in accordance with a close analysis of the evidence.

The applicant has served a longer term than is usually imposed for second degree murder.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William L. Cate.

Sir: At No. 4 February Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Clearfield County, Pennsylvania, James Williamson pleaded guilty to the crime of burglary, and on February 2, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of One Dollar ($1.00) and costs and to undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years nor more than four years.

The applicant is thirty-eight years of age, American born, and a miner by occupation, and at the time of his arrest his residence was in the village of Medera, Clearfield County, Pennsylvania. He is a married man, with five children who are dependent upon him for support. He has never been charged with any crime prior to his arrest in this case.

On December 13, 1920, the applicant had been drinking Jamaica ginger in the store of the prosecutor, one Omoto. He became intoxicated, desired to purchase more, and was refused. He then threatened that he would return and get more if he had to steal. While under the influence of the Jamaica ginger he did return about one A. M., Took out a pane of glass, and got into the store, when he was fired upon by the prosecutor and seriously injured. After remaining in jail for some time, and being without the services of an attorney, he entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced.

The Trial Judge and the District Attorney are not opposed to his pardon.

Under these circumstances we are of the opinion that the ends of justice have been met by the punishment already incurred, and we therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said James Williamson.

Sir: At No. 61 June Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Lycoming, Pennsylvania, Carmelo Ripepi was convicted of robbery, and on September 15, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00), costs of prosecution, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years nor more than three years.

The applicant is thirty-three years of age, an Italian who enlisted in the Army of the United States in the late War. He was never before charged with, or convicted of crime, and was a resident of Williamsport, Pennsylvania, where he has a wife and two children. The applicant engaged in a drinking bout with one Frank Updegraff, and Updegraff charged that the applicant robbed him of a sum of money. The testimony upon which he was convicted was not conclusive as to guilt.

Honorable H. W. Whitehead, the Trial Judge, writes:

"After careful consideration of the above case, and especially after reading the testimony, transcribed since sentence was imposed, I am of the opinion that under all of the circumstances the ends of justice have been fully subserved and therefore I have no objection to the granting of a pardon to him."

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Carmelo Ripepi.

Sir: At No. 10 June Term, 1901, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Fayette County, Pennsylvania, William Fairfax was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on January 8, 1902, the sentence of death by hanging was commuted. The applicant has, therefore, served a prison sentence of more than twenty years.

The petitioner and his wife were jointly indicted for the killing of William Moore, a yard foreman of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Connellsville, on May 18, 1901. Moore made some coarse jests about the condition of the applicant's wife, and she picked up a stone or other missile and pursued Moore, who ran away. The petitioner did not join in the pursuit, but it was alleged that in the chase Moore ran against a fence and broke his neck. The petitioner was convicted upon the theory that he was chasing Moore with the intent of robbery.

The Judge who tried the case states:

"The evidence in support of the crime of murder in the first degree, of which William Fairfax was twice found guilty, was most unsatisfactory. My impression of its weakness and insufficiency has increased with the lapse of time. I do not believe that there was any robbery or any attempt to perpetrate a robbery, as a result of which the deceased lost his life. In no homicide case that I ever tried where a similar conclusion was reached by the jury have I had so great misgiving as to the justice of the verdict. In my judgment this man has already suffered a greater punishment than he deserved for any crime which he may have committed. I very earnestly hope you may see your way clear to grant his application for pardon."

The evidence at the most did not warrant a conviction of more than murder in the second degree, and the applicant has already served a longer term than the maximum penalty for that offense.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William Fairfax.

Sir: At Nos. 7 and 8 April Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of York County, Pennsylvania, Plummer L. Diehl was convicted of the crime of adultery, and pleaded guilty to the crime of assault and battery and was sentenced for assault and battery, to pay costs, a fine of $500 and undergo imprisonment in the County Jail for a period of four months to commence March 7, 1921, and for adultery to pay the costs, a fine of $500 and to undergo imprisonment in the County jail for a period of four months to commence at the expiration of previous sentence.

This case was heard on June 15th, 1921, at which time it was held under advisement in order to give opportunity to carefully study the testimony. The evidence, in the opinion of the Board, does not overcome the presumption of innocence. It chiefly consisted of the testimony of neighbors who saw the applicant enter a house of respectable family, often several times a week, over a considerable period. There was no evidence whatever placing the daughter of the family, with whom it was charged the crime was committed, in the house or in the company of the petitioner upon the occasion of these visits. The visits were explained by the testimony of the petitioner and others as business visits with the mother of the family, for whom the applicant was buying and selling houses. There was some slight testimony as to alleged admissions on the part of the accused, which were not in themselves sufficient to warrant a conviction.

The petitioner was a successful real estate agent in the City of York, and previous to these charges had the reputation of being energetic, straightforward and honest in his business dealings, and of being a man of good character. He has a wife and four children, and the charges against him were brought by his wife, from whom he had been separated.

In view of these circumstances, we have concluded that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Plummer L. Diehl for adultery.

Sir: At No. 44 January Sessions, 1917, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for Mercer County, Pennsylvania, Joe Vanivich alias Joe Yovanovich was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on July 18, 1921, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

The applicant is a Servian, about twenty-eight years of age, and at the time of his arrest was employed as a laborer at the Ella Furnace, West Middlesex, Pa. Prior to this conviction he had always had a good reputation.

At about six o'clock in the morning of December 13, 1916, William Snyder, at West Middlesex, Mercer County, Pa., was murdered by being hit on the head with a pick. The applicant was found guilty of the murder upon circumstantial evidence largely, but one witness, an Austrian by the name of Belich, testified that the applicant acknowledged the crime to him, and it was chiefly upon this testimony the conviction was had. The facts surrounding Belich's testimony are such as to throw great doubt upon its truth, and it may be that Belich in fastening the crime on the applicant did so for the purpose of protecting some one else. There was testimony that Belich had threatened the life of Snyder in 1915.

While in jail in Mercer County the applicant was instrumental in preventing a breaking out of jail by other prisoners and saved the life of a Deputy Sheriff. In this conflict the applicant was stabbed by a negro prisoner so that his heart was exposed. He was told by a physician that he would surely die. He then made a supposed dying statement in which he maintained his innocence of the crime for which he has been convicted.

We are of the opinion that a jury with the facts as they can now be shown would not convict him. His conduct in connection with the mutiny at the jail entitles him to special consideration and is a strong argument that he is innocent of the crime of which he had been convicted. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Joe Vanivich alias Joe Yovanovich.

Sir: At Nos. 15 and 16 May Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Monroe, Pennsylvania, Arthur Strunk pleaded guilty to the crimes of felonious entering and breaking, felonious entry, felonious taking and stealing a motor vehicle, and receiving stolen motor vehicle, and on May 11, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), costs of prosecution, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of two terms, to run concurrently, of not less than three years nor more than five years.

The applicant is twenty-seven years of age and a resident of the State of Pennsylvania. He is a graduate of the Nicholson High School, and was a student of the Wyoming Seminary when the War broke out. He enlisted in the United States Marine Corps and became a sergeant. In June, 1919, because of the blindness of his father, he was released from active service in the Marine Corps and placed on inactive duty, and became the sole support of his father and mother. At the time of his arrest he was conducting a grocery store at Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania. Prior to this case he had never been arrested for any crime nor was he ever charged with the commission of any crime.

On the night of April 29, 1920, Fraelich and Strunk broke into a garage in Stroudsburg with the intention of stealing an automobile. While carrying out their intention they were frightened away. On the same night they entered another garage and there stole an automobile. They drove the machine until daylight, arriving at Peckville. They then returned to Stroudsburg, and Strunk, on seeing his parents, broke down and confessed the crime. His parents advised him to go to the police and make a statement of the whole affair, and Strunk secured Fraelich to accompany him. Together they went to the police and confessed the crime. A trial followed, they pleaded guilty, and Strunk was sentenced, as stated.

The explanation given of his crime was that he was in a weakened physical condition because of his Army service, his grocery business was unsuccessful, and in a moment of weakness he stole.

A large number of letters have been sent to the Board from reliable people who urge that he has been sufficiently punished, and if pardoned he will in all likelihood become a useful citizen.

We have concluded that the ends of justice have been met by the sentence already served, and therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Arthur Strunk.

Sir: At the Nos. 67, 68 and 69 December Term, 1916, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Northampton County, Pennsylvania, Morris Segal pleaded non vult contendere to the crimes of subornation of perjury and conspiracy, and on April 9, 1917, sentence was suspended upon payment of costs.

The applicant was a merchant, and at the time of the commission of the offense was conducting a general merchandise business in the Borough of Northampton, Pennsylvania. Sometime in the summer of 1916 he purchased a bill of merchandise in Philadelphia, and when the cases arrived in the freight car at Northampton, and before they were unloaded, it is alleged robbers broke into the freight car, opened the cases, and extracted some of the goods. The applicant notified the shippers to send him the bill of lading so that the goods could be checked up to see what was missing. One of the firm who sold him the goods called upon the applicant, and at his suggestion the quantity of goods purchased was increased on the bill of lading and a false bill of lading was made, so that the larger quantity of goods could be claimed from the Railroad Company. Upon the refusal of the Railroad Company to pay for the claim, the applicant brought suit and testified that he had purchased the goods mentioned in the bill of sale, and both of the firm who sold him the goods also testified to the same effect. Shortly thereafter the members of the firm confessed to the detective employed by the Railroad Company that the bill of goods was changed by them and that a false claim had been made before the Railroad Company. The whole amount involved was Thirty-five Dollars ($35.00).

The purpose of the present application is to restore the applicant to his civil rights and to remove the disqualification caused by his plea of guilty.

The applicant, aside from this offense, has never been charged with, or convicted of, any crime, and has borne a good reputation.

We have concluded that the application should be granted, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Morris Segal.

Sir: At No. 9 August Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace for the County of York, Pennsylvania, William J. Jones pleaded guilty to the crimes of larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on August 30, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of One Dollar ($1.00), costs of prosecution, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years nor more than five years.

The applicant is an American twenty-five years of age. His occupation was that of electrical crane operator, and he last worked at the Bethlehem Iron Company, Hanover, Pennsylvania, his residence being at Hanover. He is married and has one child one year old living in Hanover. He had never been charged nor convicted of any crime prior to this offense.

With Ralph Troxel the applicant, when under the influence of drink called "vino," took an automobile in York, Pennsylvania, and drove it to Baltimore. At Baltimore they were taken in custody because of suspicious conduct on their part, consisting in reckless operation of the automobile. They waived requisition and pleaded guilty. Troxel has already been pardoned for his share in the offense.

We are of the opinion that Executive clemency should be exercised in this case, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William J. Jones.

Sir: At No. 12 January Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace, in and for the County of York, Pennsylvania, Roy George pleaded guilty to the crime of larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on June 21, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1.00, costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than three and one-half years, nor more than ten years. The applicant is thirty-three years of age, a resident of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, is an American, and an actor by profession. He alleges that with one Russel Webb he loaned $150. taking a Ford car as security, and that while he was away from home Webb, learning that the car which they had as security for the loan had been stolen, took it out in the country and abandoned it. Webb was arrested and found guilty. The applicant now states that because of Webb's conviction, and because he could see no way in which he could be acquitted on the evidence, on the advice of his friends he pleaded guilty. The applicant is now suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis, as shown by the physician's certificate in this case. He is growing weaker under confinement and is losing his voice. The applicant had a previous good reputation. Russel Webb, the co-defendant with the applicant in this case has been out on parole for some time.

In view of these circumstances, the Board, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Roy George.

Sir: At No. 213 April Sessions, 1915, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, Pennsylvania, Brice Moore pleaded guilty to the charge of rape, aggravated assault and battery, and an attempt to rape, and on March 19, 1915, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000.00, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from nine years to fifteen years. The applicant at the time of the crime was seventeen years of age and was employed in a colliery and was the oldest of a family of eight children. His mother and his brothers and sisters now require his help and support. On March 12, 1915, it being pay day, the applicant, accompanied by a much older man, on receiving their pay went to a near-by saloon and drank some intoxicating liquor. They then returned to Luzerne and along the road they met a girl named Wilcox, who was then thirteen years of age. The applicant's companion attacked and ravished the girl, and with the applicant was arrested by State troopers. At the trial the applicant was without counsel or friends, and plead guilty. District Attorney Arthur H. James writes the Board as follows:

"Your letter of recent date in regard, to application of Brice Moore for pardon received, and in answer beg leave to state that although the offense committed was a serious one and of an aggravated nature I feel that his serving the sentence of six years and eight months upon his original sentence is sufficient punishment. He is still at an age when he may be able to redeem himself and I do not believe the interests of justice would be impaired if the young man were pardoned."

Because of the youth of the applicant, the need of his family for his support, and the length of imprisonment already served by him, the Board has concluded that this is a proper case for Executive clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Brice Moore.

Sir: At No. 136 September Term, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace, in and for the County of Montgomery, Pennsylvania, Charles Silvers pleaded guilty to the crime of gambling, and on September 23, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100.00 and costs, and undergo imprisonment in the Montgomery County Jail for a period of six months. The applicant is fifty-five years of age and is a naturalized American citizen and has a wife and seven children. He was never before charged or convicted of any crime. The applicant was a doorkeeper of the Wheel Pump Hotel, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, which was raided as a gambling house by the State Police. The applicant was arrested along with many others, all being in the hotel at the time of the arrest. All of those arrested pleaded guilty and were discharged upon paying the fine, except the Proprietor of the hotel and the applicant. The Proprietor paid his fine and was sentenced to an imprisonment of three months. The applicant, following the example of the others, pleaded guilty, paid his fine and costs, amounting to $140.00, and was sentenced to six months imprisonment.

Because of the disparity between the sentence of the Proprietor of the hotel and the applicant, who was a mere employe, the Board has determined to recommend clemency in this case, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Charles Silvers.

Sir: At Nos. 194 and 195 January Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Benjamin Levin pleaded guilty to the charges of carrying concealed deadly weapons and robbery, and on July 1, 1920, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than five years nor more than eight years.

The applicant is twenty-four years of age, an American by birth, his occupation was that of a salesman and he was employed by the Rite Tailoring Company of 1021 Walnut Street, Philadelphia. The applicant on December 24, 1919, held up James O. Boylan and obtained from him a gold watch and watch chain, a diamond scarf pin and about fifteen dollars in money. The applicant was immediately arrested and the property stolen was returned to Mr. Boylan.

The applicant prior to his arrest in this case had never been charged with a crime, and had borne a good reputation. The prosecutor, Mr. Boylan, writes the Board that in his opinion the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and in view of the fact that he is the sole support of his mother and previously had a good record he adds his plea to the others that a pardon shall be granted. A number of influential citizens of the City of Philadelphia join in the request for clemency, and certify that in their opinion the applicant has learned his lesson and if pardoned will become a reputable citizen.

For these reasons the Board has determined to give the applicant an opportunity to lead a correct life, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Benjamin Levin.

Sir: At No. 65 April Term, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and Quarter Sessions of the Peace, in and for the County of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, Roy H. Zepp pleaded nolle contendere to the crime of receiving stolen goods, and on April 18, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100.00, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Lancaster County Prison for a period of one year. The applicant is twenty-four years of age, an American by birth, was a mechanic by occupation, and has a wife and one child. His wife is about to become the mother of another child and his family require his help and support. An American Railway Express employe by the name of Sunday had been taking articles from his employer for a considerable time. He came in contact with the applicant and persuaded him to go to a certain crossing of the public highway of the Pennsylvania Railroad and there gather articles which Sunday would throw from the express car. This the defendant did, gathering up the goods thrown off at the crossing and took them to his home. The articles picked up by him have been returned to the Express Company.

Because of the need of his family for his support and giving proper consideration to the fact that the applicant had a previous good record, the Board, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Roy H. Zepp.

Sir: At No. 27 December Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Fayette County, Pennsylvania, Charles R. Lakel pleaded guilty to a charge of felonious assault and battery, and on the same day of Court paroled the applicant for a period of four years on certain terms and conditions, one of them being that he refrain from drinking. On July 29, 1920, by reason of the petitioner having broken the condition of his parole that he shall abstain from the use of intoxicating liquor, he was brought into Court and sentenced to pay a fine of six cents, costs of prosecution and imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years nor more than three years. The applicant was a physician residing in Fayette City, where he had a large practice. He was married and had two children. His wife had left him and with the children had gone to the home of her parents. The applicant went to this home in order to get possession of his children. He was thrown out of the house by his wife's father and an epithet applied to him. He had been drinking and in his rage he drew a revolver and fired through the door of the house, hitting his sister-in-law and causing a very serious wound, but not fatal. In restitution of this offense he paid his sister-in-law the sum of $11,000. Upon his parole by the Court he resumed his practice and was a useful citizen performing work. The Court being informed that he had commenced to drink, sent for him and imposed a sentence as above set forth. He has now served sixteen months of that sentence. The Board has been assured, if pardoned, that the applicant will resume his place in the community and will support his family.

Under these circumstances, the Board has come to the conclusion that the ends of justice have been met by the imprisonment already suffered, and we therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Charles R. Lakel.

Sir: At No. 411 May Term, 1910, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, Thomas Connolly was convicted of the crime of forgery, and on May 24, 1910, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years, six months nor more than ten years.

Since that time he has committed several crimes in other jurisdiction, has served time therefore, and on April 20, 1917, he was returned to the Eastern State Penitentiary for violating his parole from that Institution, and since that time has been there confined. The crime for which he was convicted was the taking of forged orders to different supply houses in the City of Philadelphia and obtaining the materials called for in said orders.

The certificates of the physician are to the effect that the applicant is in an advanced stage of tuberculosis, that he is growing weaker under confinement, and that further confinement may cause his death. The District Attorney agrees that a pardon is proper in this case.

In view of these circumstances, "after full hearing upon due notice and in open sessions," we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Thomas Connolly.

Sir: At December Sessions, 1912, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for Bucks County, Pennsylvania, James Smith alias James Wallace alias James Adams was convicted of murder in the second degree, and on July 7, 1913, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than fifteen years nor more than twenty years.

The applicant and his brother were convicted of causing the death of one William Doyle, of Bristol, Pa., on November 17, 1912. Doyle brought a young woman to the home of the Smiths and stated they were man and wife. Later the Smiths found they were not married and ordered them out. The Doyles refused to go, and the Smiths attempted to put them out, during which James Smith was cut. Doyle went to his room and climbed out of the second story window on a porch roof, and James Smith went on the street with a shot gun and fired, hitting Doyle in the legs and back. Doyle was taken to a Trenton Hospital and died on December 10, 1912, gangrene, which ensued because of Doyle's refusal to receive proper treatment.

Under these facts it would seem that the greatest crime which the applicant had committed was that of voluntary manslaughter. Judge Ryan, the trial Judge, writes the Board, inter alia, as follows:

"The wound inflicted by Smith was not necessarily fatal, but death was caused by some unfavorable development. The jury, of course, had before them the facts in the case and convicted of murder in the second degree rather than voluntary manslaughter, although I think another jury might have rendered a verdict of guilty of the second offense. There was, however, evidence that sustained the conviction. I have no knowledge of facts that I feel warrant me in recommending the application to your favorable consideration, nevertheless I have no objection to urge against clemency, under all the circumstances."

The applicant has served almost nine years of imprisonment, which we have concluded is sufficient punishment for the crime committed. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said James Smith alias James Wallace, alias James Adams.

Sir: At No. 35 January Term, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and Quarter Sessions of Allegheny County, Anton Weber was convicted of the crime of murder in the first degree, and on February 17, 1921, was sentenced to be electrocuted. The applicant killed his paramour by cutting her throat in a rooming house in the City of Pittsburgh, where they had been living as husband and wife. She had repeatedly ordered him to leave and on the night of November 11, 1918, they had a quarrel. In his confession he admitted that he hit her over the head with a hammer and later cut her throat. He covered her with a sheet and remained in the house until he thought he heard the police coming, when he cut his own throat. The following morning the two were found in the room, the woman being dead. He was taken to the hospital, where his wounds were treated and he recovered. Honorable Stephen Stone, the Trial Judge, writes the Board as follows:

"I tried Anton Weber on the charge of murder. He was defended very ably by Ralph Davis, Esq., of our Bar, but his crime was such an atrocious one that the jury did not hesitate, as I remember it, to return a verdict finding him guilty of murder in the first degree. He has been through the Supreme court, resulting in the sentence being affirmed. He killed his paramour and then attempted to kill himself. His mentality is subnormal; not insane or really what I would call a dangerous man at all.

"I have been asked my fair judgment about the matter. He is poor; in fact we had to appoint a lawyer to defend him and that appointee seems to be the only one interested in his behalf. I do not think the ends of justice, in reality, require his life.

I therefore, join in the application for commutation of sentence to life imprisonment."

S. H. Gardner, Trial Assistant District Attorney, concurs in the above letter.

In view of the recommendation of the Trial Judge, and "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," we recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon the said Anton Weber be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At Nos. 77 and 78 March Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Delaware, Sydney A. Rhyne was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on May 25, 1920, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

The applicant was convicted of the murder of one Vincent Popiel, jitney driver of the city of Chester, Delaware County, Pennsylvania. There is no question in the minds of the Board as to the guilt of the applicant. He is now totally paralyzed from the neck down. The date of his execution has been postponed a number of times because of his physical condition. He cannot possibly live more than a short time. For this reason only the Board has decided to commute his sentence.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that the sentence of death imposed on the said Sydney A. Rhyne be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 14 October Term, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Lackawanna County, David Jones was convicted of murder in the first degree and on March 16, 1921 was sentenced to death by electrocution.

The applicant, a man nearly sixty years of age, was convicted of killing his wife, from whom he had been separated. He had been living alone and was weak from a recent illness. On the day of the crime he came out on the porch of his house and seeing his wife in a house across the street, armed himself with a revolver and went over to induce her to return to his home. She resisted and he grabbed her by the neck and forced her out on the street, when a neighbor woman intervened and attempted to take his revolver from him. After a short scuffle the applicant again seized his wife by the neck or collar and pointing his revolver at her demanded that she return with him and in a moment of time the revolver was discharged and the wife was killed.

The application is for the commutation of his sentence and is based entirely upon the present physical condition of the applicant. It is alleged that he is out of his mind, and is bedridden with sickness, with death impending. In order to learn the actual facts, the Board caused an examination of the applicant to be made by Dr. H. W. Mitchell of the Warren State Hospital. Dr. Mitchell makes a very full report of the present condition of the applicant in which he states inter alia he is in the State Hospital in Scranton, under guard, having been removed there by the prison authorities on December 5, 1921.

"In conversation, the man was unable to speak above a low husky whisper. He was unable to answer questions intelligently, or to carry on any rational conversation. He had no idea where he was or how long he had been in his present location. He could not recall how long he had been in the room where the examination took place, though he had been moved in, some ten minutes prior to my seeing him first. He could answer a few questions concerning the remote past and give relevant replies, though this effort was a great task.

"His condition of December 13th was, undoubtedly, one of semi-delirious mental confusion and bewilderment. Whether this mental state was due entirely to the acute illness from which he was suffering, or was simply the development of a dementia which might well have occurred in the case of a man with his history and nine months of prison life, undergoing the privations of such existence, coupled with the knowledge that he was facing a death penalty, is an open question that cannot well be determined by one who has no more intimate knowledge of his past than that possessed by the examiner. In any event, his condition on December 13th, 1921, was one of almost complete mental incapacity."

Being of the opinion that it is inhuman to send to death a man who is practically unconscious of his present surroundings and whose sickness will probably cause an early death, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", we recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon the said David Jones be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 522 October Sessions, 1909, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for Philadelphia County, Walter Russell pleaded guilty of entering with intent to steal, and on November 10, 1919, was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than six years no more than seven years. The applicant is twenty-nine years of age, an American, and a native of Philadelphia, and was employed as an Auditor by the Lester Piano Company and as a clerk in the Hog Island Shipping Yards. Prior to this offense his reputation has been good and he had never been arrested. Together with one Edgar Ruthman he was apprehended in an attempt to enter the Prudential Insurance Office at Broad Street and Fairmount Avenue before they had an opportunity to commit larceny or burglary. His accomplice was a man of bad reputation and the record shows that it was through his solicitation that the applicant entered upon the unlawful enterprise. Judge Joseph P. Rogers, the Trial Judge, writes the Board as follows:

"I have been advised of application for pardon for Walter Russell, who was sentenced by me in November of 1919, to a term of not less than six or more than seven years, in the Eastern State Penitentiary.

I am reliably advised that this young man has not been before engaged in any criminal act, that prior to the offense for which he was sentenced, his record was good, and that this crime was the result of bad association.

I am further advised that if released the young man will return to his home, will be immediately employed under his brother, who is engaged with the Clyde Steamship Company, and will be assured of permanent employment.

In view of the past good character of the young man, and assurance of his permanent employment, I submit the matter to the Board for its consideration, without any objection and feel free to express the thought that the young man has fully atoned for the offense committed by him."

For the reasons advanced by Judge Rogers, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Walter Russell.

Sir: At No. 409 October Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for Philadelphia County, Louis Koff pleaded nolle contendere to the crime of larceny and on June 16, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than one year nor more than thirteen months.

The applicant and one, Bernard Brown, who were salesmen in the employ of B. B. Abrahams of 507 Market Street, Philadelphia, stole from their employer certain goods, wearing apparel and merchandise for the purpose of using them to go into business. Upon their arrest the applicant confessed, induced his accomplice to do likewise and assisted in restoring most of the articles stolen.

The applicant was sentenced as above and his accomplice finally received a sentence of six months in the House of Correction. Prior to this arrest the applicant had never been in trouble of this sort and had a good reputation. He is twenty-six years old, married and has two children who are dependent upon him for support.

There is no apparent reason for giving one offender a year in the penitentiary and the other six months in the House of Correction. So as far as the record discloses they are equally guilty.

We have concluded that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Louis Koff.

At Nos. 15, 17 and 20 December Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Bucks, Charles H. Lee pleaded guilty to the crimes of receiving stolen goods on Bill No. 15, of receiving stolen goods on Bill No. 17 and of receiving a stolen motor vehicle on Bill No. 20, and was sentenced on December 10, 1919 in the aggregate to pay a fine of $3.00, costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than seven years nor more than twelve years.

The applicant is an American, twenty-seven years of age, and was born in Philadelphia. His occupation is that of an automobile mechanic. He is married and has three children, three, five and six years of age respectively. At the time of his arrest he was living and working on a small farm in Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

He had never before been charged with or convicted of any crime in this State or elsewhere and prior to the present cases had always enjoyed a good reputation.

In the fall of 1919 several cars were missed by residents of Bucks County. Upon investigation by detectives and State policemen a number of cars were found in the possession of the applicant and when charged with having received stolen goods he admitted his guilt but denied he had sold or otherwise disposed of any of the cars which he had received. Although there had been some attempt of mutilation, the owners of the cars were able to identify their property and obtained possession thereof. No testimony was given implicating Lee with having stolen any of the cars, but it was clear that he was guilty of receiving stolen goods.

The Board has been given a large number of letters from responsible business men of the City of Philadelphia, who state that they had known the applicant for a considerable time, that he never had been in trouble prior to the offenses to which he pleaded guilty, that in their belief he has learned his lesson and if released will make a good citizen and will adequately provide for his wife and three small children, to whom he has always been devoted.

The Trial Judge does not oppose the pardon.

The District Attorney writes the Board as follows:

"In reference to the application of Charles Lee, I wish to say that I have given the matter my consideration since the previous application and I have had interviews with the defendant. I am of the opinion that Lee fully realizes the seriousness of his offense and that he is thoroughly penitent, and, if released, he will prove himself worthy of the consideration thus given to him."

Considering all of these facts, the previous good character of the applicant, the recommendation of the District Attorney, the term of imprisonment already suffered, the need of his family for his support, and the fact the applicant has a position awaiting him with an opportunity to take a reputable place in the community, the Board is constrained to the belief that the ends of justice have been met and that no good can be accomplished by the further imprisonment of the applicant.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Charles H. Lee.

Sir: No. 21, December Term, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Columbia County, Curtis Heimbach was convicted of issuing and passing a worthless check, forging, etc., and on December 8, 1920 was sentenced to pay a fine $200.00, costs of prosecution and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than two and one-half years nor more than five years. The applicant is twenty-two years of age and was born in the Township of Montour, Columbia County, of English speaking parents.

He resided with his parents upon the farm all his life until the last year when he was employed as a laborer at Bloomsburg, Pa. He was never arrested before or charged with the commission of any crime, and previous to the present charge had a good reputation.

On the morning of November 20, 1920 a man with a leather rain coat on went into the store of B. W. Krause in Bloomsburg, bought a sweater for $7.50 and gave the clerk in payment thereof a check for $35.00 on the First National Bank of Danville, Pa., payable to Morris Good and purporting to have been signed by one, Frank Diehl. The check was endorsed by Morris Good. The Clerk accepted the check and gave the change of $27.50 to the customer. Soon thereafter he ascertained that the check was worthless, no such account being on the books of the bank. The clerk then went out on the street and meeting a friend of the applicant's asked him if he had seen the man with the leather rain coat on. He was told that Curtis Heimbach was going down Market Street with such a coat on. A warrant was immediately issued for the arrest of Heimbach who was arrested at his work in a mill, taken to the offices of the Justice of the Peace without any prior notice of his arrest and was held for court. There was no money approximating $27.50 found in his possession, but only a small amount of change. The suggestion was made that if he would settle for the check the prosecution would be dropped. He refused to settle and earnestly denied his guilt. He was convicted on the testimony of the clerk who positively identified him as the man who gave the check, although the clerk had no prior acquaintanceship with Heimbach, and as far as it is shown had not seen him before his identification. The applicant who was an industrious young man with a good reputation, still maintains his innocence and we think there is a reasonable doubt of his guilt.

The District Attorney writes the Board as follows:

"The above defendant, fairly convicted, but who has always contended that he was innocent, comes from a good family and had a good reputation, so far as I know.

Very respectfully,
W. S. SHARPLESS."

We are constrained to the belief that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, by reason of the probable innocence of the applicant, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Curtis Heimbach.

Sir: At Nos. 77 and 78, April Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Mercer County, Pennsylvania, Lawrence Canale was convicted of the crimes of larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on May 2, 1921, was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of two dollars, costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than four years nor more than ten years.

A team of horses was taken from Samuel Baker, who lives in Hickory Township, Mercer County, Pennsylvania, not far from Sharpsville, and a buggy from John Rockwell, a near neighbor, on the night of March 13, 1921, and on the morning of March 14th the horses, buggy and harness were found in the possession of the applicant, and one Frank Valentine, near Portersville, Lawrence County, Pennsylvania. The applicant, together with Frank Valentine, was arrested, tried, and convicted of larceny and receiving stolen goods.

The defense of the applicant was that he had been hired to drive the horses from Sharon to Pittsburgh, to an auction market; that he had nothing whatever to do with the stealing of the horses and buggy, and that he and Frank Valentine had each paid twenty dollars for the said employment and had no knowledge of the horses and buggy being stolen property. There was evidence by two witnesses to this effect, and also two witnesses swore that they saw the applicant and Frank Valentine on the street-car on the morning of March 14th, leaving Sharpsville at about five o'clock, and that they rode with them on the street-car from Sharpsville to Sharon, which is a distance of about four miles, and that they got off of the car at Sharon, Pennsylvania. If this testimony is true, it would have been impossible for the applicant to have stolen the horses and buggy, as charged.

The applicant is a young man about twenty-one years of age, is married, and has always had a good reputation in the community in which he lived as an honest, hard-working man. Frank Valentine, who was arrested with the applicant, is a man about forty-five years of age, and does not have a good reputation. There was sufficient evidence in the case, which, if believed, would have freed the defendant at the trial.

The youth of the applicant and his previous good record have influenced the Board to give him the benefit of any doubt there may have been as to his guilt, and to afford him an opportunity hereafter to lead a correct life and to profit by the punishment which he has suffered.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Lawrence Canale.

Sir: At No. 48 December Sessions, 1918, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Bucks, Pietro Lanipani was convicted of the crime of robbery, and was sentenced on March 14, 1919 to pay a fine of $1.00, costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than four years nor more than five years.

There were no notes of testimony in this case and no statement of facts filed. The indictment charges that the applicant and one, Buenono, being armed with a revolver, assaulted one, Pondalf, on December 3, 1918, in Bristol, Pennsylvania, and robbed him of the sum of $211.00.

The applicant is an Italian by birth, thirty-two years of age, a barber by occupation, is married and resided in New York City several years prior to his arrest. He came to Bristol, Pennsylvania, to work in the shipyards. He has never before been arrested and prior to this arrest had an excellent reputation for honesty and industry, as is certified to by his former Pastor.

The District Attorney, Hiram H. Keller, wired the Board as follows:

"Confirming my letter December twentieth to Pardon Board sent care Harry A. James, Attorney, you are respectfully advised that the District Attorney's Office no longer opposes the granting of pardon Chas. Lee and Pietro Lanti Paine. On the contrary from information received from reliable sources, as of opinion that they have been sufficiently punished. Have had assurance that positions awaiting them."

Honorable William C. Ryan, the Trial Judge, writes as follows with respect to this application:

"I am notified that Pietro Lanipani who is undergoing a sentence for robbery imposed by me on March 14, 1919, of not less than four nor more than five years in the Eastern State Penitentiary has made an application for pardon. I neither recommend nor oppose it. Lanipani was convicted with one, Valerio Buenono of robbing a man in Bristol. It was during the period of the shipyard activities there and, I believed, Lanipani had come to the place to work in the yard. I recall the Chief of Police informed me that while he knew Buenono he had no knowledge of Lanipani. He has served a substantial part of his sentence and I am informed if he is released he will go to New York where he has a wife and children. I recall no aggravating circumstance connected with the commission of the crime. My impression of the man himself when I saw him upon the stand was not an unfavorable one."

The Board is impelled by the statements of the Trial Judge and the District Attorney to the belief that the applicant has been in prison since December 1918, has been sufficiently punished, and, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Pietro Lanipani.

Sir: At No. 47 June Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Cambria County, Emil Krouse pleaded guilty of entering a building, larceny, etc., and on June 17, 1921, was sentenced to imprisonment in the Huntingdon Reformatory. The applicant, a boy of seventeen years of age, was charged with stealing ice cream cones to the value of $3.00. The applicant alleged that he had nothing to do with the theft, but he was arrested when in company with an older boy who was said to have stolen the cones. He was taken from Johnstown to Ebensburg without being able to communicate with his father. He states that never having been in court and being without counsel, he was frightened and entered a plea without comprehending its real meaning. His youth, the necessities of his parents who need his support and his previous good conduct and reputation are given as reasons for his release.

The Trial District Attorney writes the Board as follows:

"In the Matter of the Application of Emil Krouse for Pardon. Dear Sir:

I desire to state to the Board of Pardons that I had an investigation made of the facts in the above stated case. This was done at the instance of the Attorney for the applicant, and for the reason that at the time of the arrest a plea of guilty was entered and no further investigation made. From the report of the County Detective to me it appears that this boy has been exemplary in his conduct, has always been a help to his family, and has the respect of all of his neighbors, and if their estimate of his character and worth can have any bearing on this application, it would seem that the boy should have some relief.

Yours very truly,
D. P. WEIMER."

After careful consideration we have determined that this is a proper case for Executive clemency, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Emil Krouse.

Sir: At No. 312 January Term, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for Philadelphia County, Fleming Jordan was convicted of rape. On February 11, 1919, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $1.00, costs, and imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than four years nor more than four years and three months. The applicant was convicted for rape upon a woman of immoral character upon her unsupported testimony. However, the reason which moves the Board to recommend his pardon is the fact that he is suffering from an advanced stage of tuberculosis and has but a short time to live. The District Attorney of Philadelphia is not opposed to the granting of this application. The sister of the applicant, Mrs. Matilda Benning, of Cleveland, Ohio, will furnish him with transportation to her home and will give him the necessary care and attention.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Fleming Jordan.

Sir: At No. 587 September Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Barney Garragan was found guilty of the crime of robbery, and on October 16, 1919, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than five years nor more than eight years.

The applicant was captured by Officer Casey, in Philadelphia, in the act of holding up and robbing one Glackin, and was identified by Glackin as the man who had caught him under the chin while the other accomplices were going through his pockets and robbing him of a watch and chain of the value of Twenty-eight dollars.

The Board is moved to recommend the pardon of this applicant solely because of his present physical condition. He is suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis with laryngeal complications, and his death is imminent. Judge Gorman has interested himself in the applicant and states that he will provide a home for him for the rest of his life where he will receive necessary care and attention.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Barney Garragan.

Sir: At No. 390 May Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for Philadelphia County, Luigi N. Montani was convicted of assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery, and assault and battery with intent to kill, and on September 7, 1920, was sentenced to pay the costs and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than eighteen months nor more than three years. The applicant was engaged in a card game with one Vitale which ended in a quarrel. They left the house and the evidence shows that Vitale drew a knife and threatened the applicant. The applicant walked up the street and Vitale followed. Vitale continued his threats and the applicant turned and shot at the legs of his pursuer, hitting him in the hip. The applicant is unmarried and had always had a good reputation prior to this offense. The District Attorney does not oppose the application, and the Board is in receipt of the following letter from Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company, of Philadelphia, Penna.:

"We are advised that the petition of pardon for Luigi Montani will come before you.

For your consideration of the case we are glad to state that in the event of Montani's pardon we will be able to place him at work and feel satisfied that he will do his part in becoming a law abiding citizen, respecting the laws of his State and Country."

After careful consideration we have come to the conclusion that the ends of justice have been met by the sentence already served by the applicant, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Luigi N. Montani.

Sir: At No. 5 March Sessions, 1916, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery for the County of Cambria, Duke Dorman alias C. P. H. Downer was convicted of robbery and receiving stolen goods, and on March 17, 1916 was sentenced to pay a fine of $50.00 and costs and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than six years nor more than seven years. There were no notes of testimony or statement of facts, but the indictment shows that the applicant was charged with making an assault by beating and striking with his clenched fists and with robbing one, Vikosky, of the sum of $11.50 and two pairs of men's pants of the value of $7.00.

The applicant is thirty-six years of age, an American by birth and a laborer by occupation. At the time of his arrest he was employed as an attendant to a brick mason at Elton, Pennsylvania. He has a family of a wife and four children, a mother and sister. His wife divorced him since he has been in prison and has remarried taking with her two of the children, leaving the two youngest, of the ages of eight and nine years respectively, with his old mother.

The trial Judge writes the Board in reference to this case as follows:

"In re-application for pardon by Duke Dorman, alias C. P. H. Downer, No. 9017, now confined in Rockview Penitentiary.

In the matter of the above application for pardon, I desire to say to you that from the information that I now have concerning this petitioner, I believe that the ends of justice would be fully met, if he were granted an absolute pardon at this time. I do this after some correspondence and after making some inquiry as to the applicant and his home surroundings.

Very respectfully,
MARLIN B. STEPHENS,
President Judge,
Trial Judge."

The Trial District Attorney writes as follows:

"I have no objection to offer to the application of Duke Dorman for pardon. I believe the facts stated in his application to be substantially correct.

Respectfully,

The applicant has served all but three months of his sentence. The Board has determined in view of the recommendations of the Trial Judge and Trial District Attorney that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted Duke Dorman, alias C. P. H. Downer.

Sir: At No. 504 September Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Schuylkill, George M. Smeck was convicted of the crimes of larceny and carrying concealed deadly weapons. On September 15, 1920, he was sentenced in the aggregate to one hundred and twenty days in the County Prison. Thereafter, September 23, 1920, upon representations of the Parole Officer of the Eastern State Penitentiary, the above sentence was suspended and the applicant was turned over to the custody of the Eastern State Penitentiary, where he has since remained. The applicant is a native of Reading, Pennsylvania, is forty-one years of age, and is a machinist by trade. He had attended a wedding the night previous to the crime and there became intoxicated. On the following day while walking down the street he entered a building in process of construction and in a dazed and stupid condition of mind he picked up an old carpenter's saw and walked down the street with it, when he was arrested. A small twenty-two calibre revolver was found upon him, and for these offenses he was convicted. At the time of this offense he was on parole from the Eastern State Penitentiary, where he had been sentenced to a term of not less than two years and six months nor more than ten years for the crime of assault with intent to rob.

The sole reason for the pardon of this offense is to give him an opportunity of parole upon the large sentence he is now serving in the Eastern State Penitentiary so that he may be under the surveillance of the proper authorities.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said George M. Smeck.

Sir: At No. 1, September Sessions, 1915, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Erie County, Pennsylvania, Earl Mack pleaded guilty to the crime of robbery, and on July 12, 1915, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than seven years nor more than ten years.

The applicant is twenty-eight years of age, unmarried, an American by birth, and by occupation a farmer. He has never been charged with, or convicted of any other crime.

On or about June 2, 1915, Earl Mack and Emery Eaton went to the home of an uncle of the applicant, by name Richard Mack, who lives near the village of Waterford, Erie County, Pennsylvania, where they became very drunk on hard cider. In the morning when Richard Mack went to the barn to look after his cattle he was struck upon the head with a piece of board in the hands of the applicant, and was also wounded by a revolver shot. Mack and Eaton took from Richard Mack a pocketbook containing twelve dollars in money, and being apprehended within a day or two after this made full confession and pleaded guilty to the charge of robbery. Eaton has served his full sentence. Mack has served the greater part of his sentence, as the minimum sentence will expire on July 12th, next. Prior to this trouble his reputation was of the best, and it is alleged that but for his intoxication he would not have committed the crime. His parents are needy and require his support.

Justice Walling of the Supreme Court, who sentenced the applicant in this case, writes the Board as follows:

"As Earl Mack has been in prison over six years for the offense of which he was convicted and has a good home where he is badly needed, I respectfully recommend that he be granted a pardon."

The trial District Attorney also writes the Board:

"Replying to your letter in the above matter I will state that I was district attorney at the time that Mr. Mack was sentenced. He has already served about six and one-half years sentence.

In view of that fact and of the circumstances of his family, I think that this is a case in which it might be well to temper justice with mercy."

The present District Attorney, C. Arthur Blass writes as follows:

Replying to your inquiry in regard to the above application for pardon. We have communicated with J. Orin Wait, Esq., who was the District Attorney at the time the conviction was obtained, and he states that he has no objection to a pardon being granted.

"We find that the facts set forth in the application for a re-hearing, with relation to the commission of the offense, are correct.

"Under the circumstances, the District Attorney sees fit to make no objection to the granting of the pardon, if in their good judgment, the Board sees fit to grant the same."

Because of the recommendation of the Trial Judge, and the facts set forth in the letters of the District Attorneys, we have given favorable consideration to this application, and we, therefore, after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Earl Mack.

Sir: At No. 377, October Term, 1909, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Sabatino Demasi was, on February 11, 1911, convicted of murder, and on June 7, 1911, was sentenced to be hanged. On October 16, 1912, the sentence of death was commuted to that of imprisonment for life.

The applicant is Italian by birth, thirty-seven years of age, and married. He is a stone mason by occupation, and resided in Philadelphia from 1901 to 1904, and again for some months prior to his arrest.

The crime of which the applicant was convicted was the murder of James F. Quinn and Henry Saylor on the night of September 27, 1909. Quinn was a barkeeper in his father's saloon on Old York Road and Lycoming Street in the city of Philadelphia. At about 10:40 o'clock P. M. a masked man entered the saloon while two customers were there and demanded money from the barkeeper. Upon refusal of the money the intruder shot the barkeeper, Quinn, which caused his death that night, and then fired at the other two men, Cassidy and Saylor. Saylor was fatally wounded, and Cassidy was shot through the leg, which did not prove fatal. The murderer rifled the cash register and escaped.

For several weeks the police authorities hunted for the murderer without success. Some two or three weeks after the murder an Italian by the name of Comporto made some casual remark which aroused suspicion that Comporto was connected with the crime. He was arrested, and confessed that on the night of the twenty-seventh of September he and the applicant were in the neighborhood of the Quinn saloon, and that the applicant went into the place for the purpose of securing some money, while Comporto waited on the other side of the street; that after the shots were fired the applicant rejoined him, and said he had secured thirty dollars, and had killed one man and wounded another. Upon this confession Comporto was held for murder, and DeMasi was arrested and charged with murder. Comporto was first tried and convicted. The applicant was convicted largely upon the testimony of Comporto, although there was some other testimony but not of a strong character. Comporto is now in the Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Fairview.

The applicant has always maintained that the story of Comporto was false, and that he was not present with Comporto on the evening of the murder, and had no part whatever in the crime. There was also some testimony to establish an alibi.

Influential friends of the applicant have been tireless in their effort to establish his innocence, and they have succeeded in showing that at different times Comporto has told four different stories, each conflicting, as to the details of the crime. In one of his stories he places the applicant at Towanda, Pennsylvania, at a time it is clearly shown that the applicant was performing service in the Italian Army in Italy as a soldier.

The Board of Pardons, in granting the commutation on October 16, 1912, stated:

"The affidavits referred to, together with the certificates of DeMasi's military service have been made part of our record, and they support the reason given. If the facts established through them had been available at the time of the trial the Commonwealth manifested could not have secured a verdict of guilty. Viewing the case with the aid of the information thus supplied, and seeing that the conviction of DeMasi was procured largely, if not entirely, on the testimony of Comporto, whose mental soundness, it may be here remarked, is open to doubt, and who, it is alleged had some grievance against DeMasi, and therefore falsely accused him, we are prepared to say that, in our judgment, the ends of justice call for the relief of this applicant from the severity of the sentence under which he now rests."

The applicant had never before been convicted of any crime whatsoever, and had a good reputation as a law-abiding, industrious man. The testimony upon which he was convicted having been shown to be utterly unreliable and unworthy of any credence, it becomes our duty to recommend his release from the Penitentiary.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Sabatino Demasi.

Sir: At No. 24, January Term, 1916, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, D. Frank Kline was convicted of the crime of abortion, and on September 14, 1916, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than five years nor more than six years.

The applicant was a practicing physician in the City of Lancaster, and had practiced since 1899. He is now about fifty-nine years of age. His imprisonment under the sentence in this case began on March 8, 1917, and would expire, if he served out his sentence, on March 8, 1922.

There is no question as to his guilt of the crime of which he was convicted, nor was the sentence imposed upon him excessive. Unless he is pardoned before the expiration of his term he will be unable to resume the practice of his profession upon his being released from the Penitentiary. The Medical Society has not yet moved to take away his license as a practicing physician.

The Board is assured, so far as assurance can be given, that the term of imprisonment which the applicant has suffered will be an adequate lesson, teaching him to refrain in the future from the unlawful practices of which he was convicted.

At the present there is no expressed objection to the granting of this pardon.

In order to permit the applicant upon his release to resume the practice of his profession, and afford an opportunity to earn an honorable living, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said D. Frank Kline.

Sir: At No. 572 October Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Joseph Holstein was convicted of receiving stolen goods, and on July 7, 1920, he was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years and six months nor more than three years.

The question of the guilt of this applicant depends entirely on whether he had guilty knowledge that property left in his custody had been stolen. The stepfather of the applicant, who lived in New York, was engaged, or at least supposed by the applicant to be engaged, in the trucking business, and making occasional trips to Philadelphia in that capacity.

He brought to the applicant's home, in Philadelphia a trunk supposed to have been brought over by him from New York in the course of his business as a truckman, and, according to the applicant, he stated that he was unable to locate the consignee and asked permission to leave it temporarily in the applicant's apartment, which permission was granted, and a few days later left a box in the applicant's custody with a somewhat similar explanation. The box and trunk, being very much in the way in the small apartment and objected to by the applicant's wife, were turned over to an employe of the applicant who had a cellar, and stored there. Neither the trunk nor the box were opened, and there is no intimation that the applicant had any knowledge of their contents.

In fact the trunk and box contained stolen furs and silks worth something like $25,000, and a confession having been obtained in New York, where they were stolen, detectives came to the applicant's home demanding the property. We find nothing in the testimony to indicate that the applicant sought to evade the demand when he understood what property was referred to, or acted in any manner indicating guilt, and he promptly took the officers to the place where the trunk and box were stored and turned them over. The New York detective who came over to Philadelphia in search of the property made a statement in the Court of General Sessions of the City of New York on May 5th of the present year in which he said: "Q. Could you have gotten any of the proceeds of the New York burglaries without the information Holstein gave you? A. No, sir, I could not. Q. At any time did he conceal from you the information that you have just given? A. No, sir, he gave me every assistance. Without him it would have been impossible to recover it, because I didn't know anything about the man by the name of Kopkove. Q. Were you surprised at the result of the criminal proceedings against Holstein in Philadelphia? A. I was. * * * There is nothing I can say except that he was the greatest help in recovering the property. Without him it would have been impossible to recover it."

On the trial of the applicant for receiving stolen goods one Kaufman, who had been connected with the transportation of the property to Philadelphia, gave testimony inconsistent with the applicant's account of the delivery of the property to him, and evidently the testimony of this witness was largely responsible for the conviction of the applicant. When testifying in New York in April, 1920, in the case of The People vs. Meyer, growing out of theft of the property involved in the case against the applicant, Kaufman told a materially different story of the delivery of the goods in Philadelphia, thus discrediting the testimony he had given against the applicant.

The illness of the stepfather (who was attacked by the sleeping sickness) seems to have prevented testimony upon his part.

The only theory upon which the applicant's conviction could be based was that he must have thought it peculiar and suspicious to have the property delivered to him in the manner described. There is no evidence that he had ever known his stepfather to be engaged in any wrong doing, and he had been his stepfather since he was six years of age. He says no suspicion of wrong occurred to him "because he was my father". It would be different in the case of a stranger, but we see no improbability in the applicant having sufficient confidence in his stepfather to prevent his suspicions being aroused. This and the subsequent discrediting of the main testimony against him cause us to have great doubt of the guilt of the applicant. Moreover, he has served the greater portion of his minimum term of imprisonment and is impoverished. Especially in view of our doubt of his guilt, we think he should not be punished further.

For these reasons, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Joseph Holstein.

Sir: At No. 11 April Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Bedford County, George Zoeller was convicted of the crime of forgery and on January 17, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100.00, costs and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than one year nor more than eighteen months.

The applicant is fifty-six years of age and a citizen of the United States, and was employed as a clerk and bookkeeper at the blast furnaces at Everett, Pa., by Joseph E. Thropp. He had entire charge of his employer's financial matters in the operation of the blast furnace at Everett, limestone quarries, bituminous coal mines, iron ore mines, and numerous farms and timber operations owned by his employer. In these operations it was the practice of the employer from time to time to sign and deliver to the applicant blank checks payable to the order of George Zoeller, Chief Clerk, and to sign notes in blank, and he placed upon the applicant a large volume of work. There was also given to him to control of a fund known as petty cash from which he made payments at his discretion and for which no receipts were required to be taken. The accounts became confused and an auditor was put on them. An apparent shortage was discovered and the charges of forgery was brought against the applicant with the result above indicated. The District Attorney of Bedford County has written the Board as follows:

"George Zoeller had never before been in trouble that I can learn. He has held a number of responsible positions. He was one of the most popular men in Everett, and at the time of his trial, had the sympathy and confidence of almost every person in Everett, including bankers, merchants and business men. This confidence he still holds, and the general public at Everett is not yet convinced that Mr. Zoeller was guilty of any criminal offense.

"Mr. Zoeller is getting pretty well up in years, and has been accustomed to a refined life and has a good education. Under the circumstances, the matter of his pardon, I feel is one for you to decide, but I feel the imprisonment already undergone has been sufficient punishment.

Very respectfully yours,
HARRY C. JAMES,
District Attorney."

The Associate Judges of Bedford County also state that they believe that in the interests of justice clemency ought to be shown to the applicant, and they join in the application for the pardon. The applicant has served the minimum sentence imposed upon him.

We refused an application in this case several months ago, at which time it was strongly opposed by the prosecutor, Mr. Thropp. Now we are advised by counsel for the prosecutor that this opposition is withdrawn and that if this pardon is granted the prosecutor will give employment to the applicant.

Because of his previous good record and giving him the benefit of any doubt that there may have been as to the justice of the verdict convicting him, and because of the punishment already incurred, we have determined that he is entitled to Executive clemency, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice, and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said George Zoellers.

Sir: At No. 339 June Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Edward O'Neill pleaded guilty to the crime of assault to kill, and on February 25, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for the term of not less than six years nor more than seven years. The applicant is a single man about twenty-five years of age. He served in the World War, was badly gassed, and at that time of the alleged crime was suffering from a mental condition known as psychic epilepsy. About June 9, 1920, the applicant went to the home of Anna May Smith in the City of Philadelphia and from the back yard fired a revolver through the dining room window, but fortunately no one was wounded. He then walked out of the yard and took two children with him around the corner to an ice cream saloon where he bought them a plate of ice cream. After that he went to a drug store and called Anna May Smith on the telephone and asked her to go to a moving picture show. He had no recollection of what he had done and was greatly surprised when he was told that he had shot through the dining room window. He was arrested, brought before Judge Johnson and by him sent to the United States Public Health Service Hospital at Philadelphia, Pa., for observation and treatment. The physicians who examined him certify that "the history of his case, particularly since his return from France suggests a mental condition known as psychic epilepsy (a convulsion equivalent), during which there would be an amnesia or loss of memory for his actions at the time. The man is likely to have a recurrence of this condition, is dangerous, and should be confined for observation and treatment." At the time the plea of guilty was entered in this case, the applicant was not accompanied by his father, any of his friends, nor had he the benefit of legal advice, and there is considerable doubt whether at the time the plea was entered he was fully advised of the consequences of his act. The Board has received the following letter from the United States Veterans Bureau of Philadelphia:

"United States Veterans Bureau,
Office of District Manager,
District No. 3.
Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 24, 1921.

President of the Pardon Board,
Harrisburg, Penna.

Gentlemen: I wish to advise you that in the event of Edward I. O'Neill now serving a sentence of 7 years in the Penitentiary, Philadelphia, Pa., being pardoned, this Bureau will have him immediately hospitalized for observation and treatment and keep him hospitalized until such time as the Medical Officers are of the opinion that no further hospitalization is indicated in this case.

Respectfully,
L. B. ROGERS,
District Manager.
By W. J. Bott
WM. J. BOTT,
District Medical Officer,

The Board is of the opinion that the applicant should be given the benefit of the custodial care and treatment offered by the United States Veterans Bureau, and relying upon the assurance that the applicant will be hospitalized until such time as the Medical Officers are of the opinion that no further hospitalization is indicated, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Edward O'Neil.

Sir: At No. 288 September Term, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Allegheny, Sophia Witsch was convicted of the crime of abortion the jury recommending the defendant to the extreme leniency of the Court, and on October 29, 1921 was sentenced to pay a fine of six and one-quarter cents, costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than one year nor more than eighteen months.

The applicant is a native of Austria-Hungary, a citizen of the United States, fifty-seven years of age, and lived with her husband at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, for a number of years prior to the conviction in this case.

The applicant had been a midwife for thirty-two years. Mrs. Witsch and her husband were joint-owners of several houses and the family was a prosperous one, having a good reputation in the community in which they lived.

The applicant was convicted of attempting to perform an operation, so as to procure a miscarriage, upon Mrs. Anna Gillis, a married woman of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, who had been sent to the applicant for treatment by a physician. The applicant denies that any attempt was made, the defense being that she made a number of examinations but that no instrument was used or medicine of any kind administered with the intention of causing a miscarriage. The baby was afterwards born and was a healthy child.

In view of the recommendation of the jury, the previous good character of the applicant, her standing in the community in which she lived, the allegation of innocence and the fact that an abortion was not actually performed, the Board has concluded to give this application favorable consideration, and, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Sophia Witsch.

Sir: At No. 135 January Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery and Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lehigh, Floyd Bachelor pleaded guilty to the crime of larceny by bailee and on April 24, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than one year and six months nor more than three years.

The applicant is an American citizen, thirty-one years of age and at the time of his arrest was employed by the Lehigh Valley Shoe Company at Allentown, Pennsylvania, as a foreman shoemaker. It was part of his duty to see that scrap leather was sold to junk dealers who handled scrap leather. The scrap leather was sold in carload lots and the contract of the company with the junk men provided that the junk dealers would sack the scrap themselves. He accepted a gift of money from one of the dealers and the junk dealers then started to take good leather along with the scrap. It was this act which brought the applicant before the court on the charges of larceny by bailee. The applicant alleges that he pleaded guilty to the crime with the understanding that he would be let off, and with this understanding he gave testimony to convict the junk dealers, Cohen and Theodore. One of these was convicted and sentenced to thirty days in the County Jail and the other one did not receive any sentence.

Mr. F. O. Brown, one of the owners of the Lehigh Valley Shoe Company, writes the Board as follows:

"As one of the injured parties, I would also like to add an appeal along with his sisters' and mothers. I am still of the same opinion that Floyd Bachelor is a victim and not a criminal and to substantiate my thorough belief that he has been a victim, I am willing to re-employ him and give him a responsible position in the factory.

"It strikes me that he has been sufficiently punished. One man that disposed of quite a quantity of our leather was released without any punishment at all and another man that gave Bachelor the first money which allowed him to take out of the factory, in bags, more than he paid for, got thirty days only and it strikes me that Bachelor, after serving several months has fully paid for his false steps."

In view of these facts we have determined that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Floyd Bachelor.

Sir: At No. 67 April Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lehigh, William J. Beidler with two other defendants, pleaded non vult to the crimes of breaking and entering and larceny, and on April 11, 1921 was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Huntingdon Reformatory.

The applicant is twenty-one years of age, a native of the United States, a sheet metal worker by trade, and was a citizen of Allentown. Prior to this trouble he had never been arrested and always had a good reputation. He enlisted in the United States Army during the World War from which he obtained his honorable discharge in 1918.

On the night of March 22nd he met the two other defendants and was asked to accompany them, and without previous knowledge of their designs, went with them to the place of business of Neubling Sporting Goods Store in Allentown, where he was told they proposed "pulling off a job." He stood watch while the other defendants broke into the store from the rear and stole several revolvers, hunting goods, knife, search lights, cameras, sweaters and other articles. The applicant did not actively participate in the taking of any of the goods stolen, but immediately upon his arrest acknowledged that he had stood watch in front of the building. The reputation of the other two boys was bad.

The applicant would be paroled in four months if he remained in the Huntingdon Reformatory. His mother has heart trouble, is in a serious condition because of the worry over the absence of her son in the Huntingdon Reformatory and she is the real petitioner. There is a good position waiting for the applicant upon his release, and it is the belief of those best acquainted with him that if the application is given favorable consideration the young man will profit by the lesson he has learned and will lead an upright life.

In consideration of these circumstances, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William J. Beidler.

Sir: At No. 488 July Sessions, 1914, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Philadelphia, Hezekiah Strothers (Hazikiah Strothers) pleaded guilty to the crime of murder which the Trial Judge fixed as second degree murder, and on November 19, 1914, was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than ten years nor more than fifteen years.

The applicant is unmarried, is now thirty years of age and was a chauffeur by trade. His parents are living in Virginia, are respectable citizens and have a comfortable home to which they will take their son and secure permanent occupation for him if he is released. Prior to this trouble he was never convicted nor accused of any crime and had a good reputation for being a quite, peaceful and industrious citizen. On the night of the crime in going down the street after being in a saloon where he had been drinking, he passed the house of his wash woman. He asked for his clean clothes and was told that the clothes were almost ready and he was requested to go into the house and wait for them, which he did. The deceased, a married man, was present in the house, and while he was waiting the deceased made an insulting remark to the applicant. The men came to blows and in the struggle which followed the applicant retreated from the kitchen in which they were sitting, into the dining room where the deceased and the applicant became engaged in a struggle. The applicant had a pocket knife in his hand and struck the deceased a glancing blow upon the head inflicting a slight scalp wound. The deceased was in bad physical condition at the time and died from blood poisoning in about two weeks. The facts of the case brought the crime very close to that of voluntary manslaughter, and if the crime was voluntary manslaughter the sentence he has served is more than adequate.

We are of the opinion that having undergone imprisonment for more than seven years the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and, we therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice, and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Hezekiah Strothers (Hazikiah Strothers).

At No. 33 November Sessions, 1911 in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia Francis Cahill pleaded guilty to the larceny of one bicycle of the value of $12.00, and on November 27, 1911 was sentenced to the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon from which he was discharged on January 25, 1914. The applicant has been out of the Reformatory a great many years and this application is made for the purpose of clearing his record of the stain of the Reformatory sentence. The District Attorney has looked up his record since his discharge from the Reformatory, finds it excellent and joins in this application. H. Eugene Heine, Esq., Assistant City Solicitor, writes the Board as follows:

"Speaking as counsel for the Bureau of Police I want to say to you that I have personally gone into this matter with Cahill and with others and I find that he has lived a very law-abiding and exemplary life since his discharge from the Huntingdon Reformatory and during part of that time gave splendid service to his country in the Army. I see no reason whatsoever from the standpoint of the Bureau of Police why Cahill should not be pardoned. His clean life and flawless record during this long period of time which has elapsed since his discharge from Huntingdon commends itself highly as a reason why the pardon should be granted, in my judgment."

We are of the opinion that the purpose of the application is a worthy one and that the application should be granted, and we therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Francis Cahill.

At No. 184 January Sessions, 1915, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Schuylkill, Lewis Trovoto was convicted of the crime of voluntary manslaughter and on May 15, 1915 was sentenced to pay a fine of $10.00, costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from seven years to twelve years.

The applicant is an Italian citizen twenty-seven years of age, and at the time of his arrest was employed as a butcher. On the night of December 28, 1914, the applicant with six or seven others visited the hotel of one, Caro, in Kelayres, Schuylkill County, among those present being one, Pingatore. While in the hotel the applicant saw Pingatore take a bottle of wine belonging to the hotel, and upon their leaving and going outside the applicant told Pingatore to return the bottle of wine he had stolen. Pingatore became engaged and with the bottle of wine uplifted came toward the applicant as though to strike him, and another of those present who assisted Pingatore to steal the bottle of wine also came toward the applicant in a threatening manner. The applicant, thinking he was justified, took out his knife and stabbed Pingatore once, causing his death. The sentence for seven years dating from May 15, 1915. The applicant has been in jail for four and one-half months prior to that time, and counting his prior term in jail served the minimum sentence.

Hon. R. H. Koch, the Trial Judge, has written the Board as follows in regard to this case:

"The application to your Board for the pardon of Lewis Trovato has been called to my attention, and regard thereto, I feel, that inasmuch as this young man has now been imprisoned over seven years, which was the minimum term of his sentence, the case is one for your favorable consideration.

Respectfully submitted,
R. H. KOCH."

The District Attorney and the Assistant District Attorney also write and state that it is their belief that the applicant having served the equivalent of the minimum sentence, it is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency. In view of these facts we have concluded that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice, and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Lewis Trovoto.

Sir: At No. 70 August Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for York County, John H. Tome was convicted of the crime of statutory rape and on December 27, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than one year nor more than five years.

The applicant was born in Lower Windsor Township, York County, where he lived with his parents until about January 1, 1921, when he went to York and was there employed as a laborer. In York he boarded with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Olewiler who had formerly lived near his home in Lower Windsor Township. He had become infatuated with a daughter of the Olewilers, a girl of about fifteen years of age, and while living with her parents he was given a room with her, it being understood that he intended to marry her at some future time. On May 26, 1921, he was arrested and charged with statutory rape, and was released a few days later on bail. With the consent of the parents of Margie Olewiler he obtained a marriage license in Maryland and was married to Margie Olewiler. Upon their return to York his wife was taken from him by the agent for the Society to Protect Children in a proceeding charging the wife with being a delinquent child. Subsequently at a hearing before Hon. N. Sargent Ross the wife was released by order of the Court and was returned to her husband and lived with him until December 27, 1921, when he was sentenced to the Penitentiary as above stated.

There is no question that there was a violation of the statute and that the applicant was guilty as charged. However, the condition of affairs which have arisen since the commission of the crime, namely, the marriage of the applicant to the girl; their living together for months as husband and wife; the return of the wife to her husband by order of the Court, and all the circumstances surrounding the case have convinced the Board that the welfare of the wife and the future of the family demand the release of the applicant at the present time.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice, and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said John H. Tome.

Sir: At No. 262 January Sessions 1919, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Alonzo G. Owens was convicted of the crime of assault and battery with intent to kill, and on April 30, 1919, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1.00, costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than five years nor more than five years and six months.

The applicant is a negro, a native citizen of the United States, and at the time of his conviction and sentence was nineteen years of age. He is a machinists' helper by trade, is unmarried and had been steadily employed at Midvale Steel Works, Philadelphia. He had never been arrested before or convicted of any crime and always had a good reputation among those with whom he lived for industry, sobriety, honesty, peace and good order. The applicant was attacked by one, Curiton, who got the better of the fight. The applicant then ran away, was pursued by his assailant and knocked down and kicked three times in the face. He then went to his home, there procured a revolver and took what he supposed to be a backway to the station house in order to report the assault upon him, when he was again pursued by his former assailant. The applicant, believing himself in danger of his life drew his revolver fired two bullets, both hitting Curiton. Subsequent to the shooting of Curiton he went to the station house and gave himself up. The District Attorney does not oppose the application inasmuch as the prosecutor was the aggressor and the applicant had made an effort to flee from his assailant. The applicant has been in the Penitentiary since April 30, 1919. We believe he has been sufficiently punished for the offence he committed, and therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions", recommended that a pardon be now granted to the said Alonzo G. Owens.

Sir: At No. 252 February Sessions, 1919, and at No. 353 June Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Charles Glaser was convicted of the crime of perjury and on July 10, 1919, was sentenced in the aggregate to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than twenty-two months nor more than twenty-four months.

The applicant had served the minimum sentence which expired on May 10, 1921, and was released on parole by the Board of Inspectors for the Eastern Penitentiary for the balance of the term, the maximum of which was twenty-four months, and which expired on July 10, 1921. The application is made so as to relieve the applicant of the stigma which is attached to him by reason of this conviction, and so that he may be able to obtain employment which is now denied him because of such conviction. Since his release from the Penitentiary he has led an exemplary life and no harm can accrue by reason of a favorable consideration of this application. The District Attorney now states that no opposition can be urged against the application.

The crime for which he was convicted was a false statement made by him in an affidavit to a bail bond, wherein he swore that he was the owner of four properties. It is true that at some time prior to the transaction he did have or own an interest in such properties, but all title or interest therein had been divested prior to the time he signed the bail bond.

The circumstances of the case compel the conclusion that this is a worthy application, and, we therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Charles Glaser.

Sir: At No. 525 August Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Henry D. Whittingham on January 3, 1922, pleaded guilty to the crime of murder, which the Court after hearing adjudged to be murder in the first degree, and on the same day he was sentenced to be electrocuted.

The applicant is a colored man, about forty years of age, who in the fall of 1920 came from Jamaica and settled in Philadelphia. He became engaged to marry one Dorcas Miller, a colored woman of about thirty years of age. He gave her money to buy household goods, which she spent upon herself, and she also received attentions from other men. The applicant learned of these facts, and on June 28, 1921, called upon the woman and attempted to have her fix a time for the wedding. After some talk they went out upon the street where the woman told Whittingham that the wedding would be postponed until fall, and finally after further talk she said she would never marry him and that she had another fellow. The applicant then drew a revolver, and while holding her with one arm fired three shots into her head causing death. Whittingham was arrested early the next morning at Prospect Park, Delaware County, and brought back to Philadelphia where he has been in prison since June 29, 1921.

At the hearing the applicant made a voluntary written statement to the Court giving the facts as herein set forth, and there were other witnesses heard to enable the Court to fix the degree of the crime.

Honorable John M. Patterson, the Trial Judge, writes to the Board as follows:

"While the above mentioned case rises higher than second degree, yet, in my opinion, it is not one where the death penalty should be imposed. The defendant entered a general plea of 'guilty' to the charge of 'murder'. After hearing the testimony, I felt it my duty to adjudge him guilty in the 'First Degree'. Of course I then had to sentence him to undergo the only penalty prescribed by law.

"This is undoubtedly the kind of case which the creators of the Board of Pardons contemplated when they authorized the commutation of death sentences. I sincerely trust that the Board will look upon the petition of commutation with favor."

Because the Judge who heard the case and whose duty it was to fix the degree of the crime has stated that the case rises higher than second degree, yet it is one where the death penalty should not be imposed, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", we recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon the said Henry D. Whittingham be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 611 September Sessions, 1918, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Louis Engle was convicted of the crime of arson, and on October 30, 1918, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for a period of four years.

The crime alleged to have been committed was setting fire to a building at 1427 Catherine Street, Philadelphia, Pa., at about eight o'clock P. M. of August 29, 1918. The building was what is known as a loft building, and a representative of the Fire Marshal's office happened to be across the street watching the building in question when he saw the petitioner go in, turn on the light on the top floor and shortly afterwards saw flames spring up on the same floor. Evidence was offered to connect the petitioner as a partner in the business of his brother who occupied part of the loft building. The petitioner has always maintained his innocence. He has served the full term for which he was committed, and now asks a pardon that his record may be cleared of the stain of conviction.

This application was heard at the November meeting of the Board, and was then continued so that the District Attorney could make an investigation as to the conduct of the petitioner since his release from prison. The District Attorney at the present meeting of the Board stated that he has made a careful investigation of the facts, and has found that the applicant has lived an exemplary life in all respects, and that, therefore, he does not now oppose the granting of the application.

We have concluded that the purpose of the application is a worthy one, and that it should be granted. We therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommended that a pardon be now granted to the said Louis Engle.

Sir: At No. 1 March Sessions, 1912, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia Gregorio Vinci was convicted of murder in the first degree and on June 26, 1912, was sentenced to be hanged. On May 24, 1915, the sentence of death was commuted to life imprisonment.

The applicant is now thirty-one years of age, a single man, an Italian citizen, and lived at 1339 Titan Street, Philadelphia. Prior to his arrest in this case he had never been charged with nor convicted of any crime. An application for a pardon was made on June 2, 1920, which on June 17, 1920, was refused.

The applicant killed the wife of his cousin, Nicholas Vinci in a dispute over $40.00. The applicant had loaned Nicholas Vinci that sum and made several attempts to collect it in which he called at the house of his cousin and found him out, and on these occasions talked with his cousin's wife, Marie Vinci.

It is alleged that the woman told the applicant her husband was going to kill him and that he had better not ask for the money. She took a gun out of the drawer and showed it to the applicant saying that her husband was going to use it, and the applicant upon seeing this pulled a gun from his own pocket saying "I also have a gun", and his revolver was discharged, the bullet entering Mrs. Vinci causing her death. Immediately upon the body of Mrs. Vinci falling to the floor the applicant placed the revolver to his head and fired three times.

The principal reason for allowing the plea for mercy in this case is that the applicant has suffered from lockjaw during the nine years he has been in the Penitentiary necessitating his being fed through a tube, and that it is shown beyond doubt that if he remains in the Penitentiary in this condition he will become insane and will be a charge upon the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the Institution for the care of the criminal insane. It is stated that if released the applicant will be given medical attention which may relieve the lockjaw and free him from impending insanity, and will be taken to his home in Italy, arrangements having been made with the Italian Consul for his return.

The Board because of the physical condition of the applicant, in order to allow him to secure proper medical attention which cannot be supplied in the Penitentiary, and to prevent the approaching insanity, has determined to recommend Executive clemency.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Gregorio Vinci.

Sir: At No. 132 December Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace for the County of Philadelphia Albert Levitt was convicted of assault and battery, and on January 26, 1922, was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County prison for a period of four months.

The applicant is twenty-one years of age, a citizen of the United States and was employed as a commission merchant by his brother who was a member of the firm of Levitt and Woorman, 345 South Front Street, Philadelphia. He is unmarried, has never been charged with any crime and has a good reputation as a law-abiding citizen.

Dr. Raymond A. Devlin, a meat and cattle inspector connected with the Department of Health, was examining rabbits at the place of business of the brother of the applicant, where he found several rabbits which he condemned as unfit for sale or consumption. There was a controversy between the brother of the applicant and the inspector during which the brother of the applicant attempted to take the rabbit away from the inspector, when the applicant came between his brother and the inspector and struck the inspector one blow on the cheek with his fist. No special injury was done and the prosecutor did not fall to the ground, nor did he require medical treatment.

The Board has concluded that the term already served by the applicant is sufficient punishment for the assault he committed.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Albert Levitt.

Sir: At Nos. 66 and 67 February Sessions, 1903, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Cumberland, Samuel Dent, alias Samuel Rosenbury, was convicted on two indictments charging burglary and felonious assault, and on February 7, 1903, was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of $400, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of nine years and six months.

The crime for which the applicant was convicted was the breaking into a house in Cumberland County and stealing property of the value of about $800. No notes of testimony were taken and the details of the crime are not shown in the papers presented to the Board.

The applicant is now about 62 years of age, a laborer, divorced, with one son, John Dent, age 39, living at McKeesport, Pennsylvania.

He was discharged on parole on March 22, 1909, for the offenses committed in this case and during his parole he committed burglary for which he was sentenced on November 8, 1909, to a term of 30 years. The purpose of this application is to allow the applicant to be discharged on the thirty year term under parole, if the Parole Board sees fit to grant him commutation.

The Trial Judge, the District Attorney who tried the case, and the present District Attorney of Cumberland County, do not oppose the application.

We deem the application under these circumstances to be a worthy one and in order to permit the possibility of paroling, upon the thirty years sentence, a man of his advanced years, who has already served almost nineteen years in the penitentiary, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Samuel Dent, alias Samuel Rosenbury.

Sir: At No. 605 May Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions in and for the County of Philadelphia, Vincent Fusci was convicted of unlawful possession of drugs, and on February 28, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for a period of five years.

The applicant is twenty-five years of age, of Italian descent, a citizen of the United States, a barber by trade, and at the time of his arrest was conducting a barber-shop at 1009 South Sixth Street in the City of Philadelphia. He is unmarried and is the sole support of his aged father and mother, and a widowed sister who has two children. He had never before been charged or convicted of any crime in this State or elsewhere.

The petitioner lived with his parents and at the time of his arrest there lived in his home one Vincent Sevoca, who was paying attention to Mary Fusci, the sister of the petitioner. At the time of the arrest no drugs were found in the actual possession of your petitioner, although heroin was found in the pocket of a woman's coat which it is alleged belonged to his sister Mary. After the arrest Mary Fusci eloped with Sevoca, and Sevoca and Mary Fusci were not present at the trial of the applicant, and their present whereabouts are unknown.

A member of the Vice Squad of Philadelphia purchased some heroin from Sevoca outside of the barber-shop of the applicant. A marked two dollar bill was given in payment, which was afterwards found in the barber-shop and heroin was also discovered in the shop in the pocket of a woman's coat. On this testimony the petitioner was convicted, although he vigorously maintained he was innocent and still so claims.

The Board is in receipt of a large number of letters from prominent citizens of Philadelphia urging favorable consideration of this application, setting forth the fact that prior to this offense he had always been a reputable citizen, and expressing confidence of his leading a correct life if released from prison. Among them is a letter from Hon. C. C. A. Baldi, Jr., who writes the Board as follows:

"I am pleased to certify that I have known Vincent Fusci for five years, during which time I have always found him to be a reputable citizen. He is the main support of his father and mother, a widowed sister and her two children, and trust his application when presented to your Board will receive consideration, which may help your Honorable Board to look with favor upon his pardon."

In the hope that the applicant may have profited by the lesson which his imprisonment should teach him, and giving some consideration to the fact that he alleges he is innocent of the crime, we have determined to favorably treat this application. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Vincent Fusci.

Sir: At No. 10 September Term, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for Bedford County, Russell Walls pleaded guilty to the crime of robbery, and on September 3, 1919, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than four years nor more than six years.

The applicant is twenty-nine years of age, a citizen of the United States, a coal miner, and at the time of his arrest was employed in a coal mine in Broad Top Township, Bedford County, Pennsylvania.

On the evening of August 19, 1919, he became very much intoxicated and was in the company of one Samuel Ritchey, and in Broad Top Township they met one Howard Akers. A quarrel ensued between the applicant, Ritchey and Akers, during which an assault and battery was committed, and Ritchey took a sum of money from Akers. The applicant had never before been charged with or convicted of any crime, and it is alleged he was ignorant of what he was doing. An application for his pardon was refused on May 18, 1921.

The Board has received letters with the present application from the Trial Judge, The Trial District Attorney and the two Associate Judges of Bedford County urging the pardon.

Honorable Thomas F. Bailey, Trial Judge, writes as follows:

"I have given this case very careful consideration and believe the ends of justice will not be provoked by extending a pardon to this man, Russell Walls. I believe that he has seen his terrible mistake and is resolved to lead a life in obedience to the laws of the land."

Honorable S. Albert Cessna and Honorable A. Samuel, Associate Judges, also write the Board:

"As we are lead to believe that this young man, (being somewhat intoxicated at the time) was to some extent unduly influenced to join in committing the above crime, and this being his first appearance in Court, and because of his good behavior or conduct since his confinement, we are therefore of the opinion, that his punishment has been sufficient, and we do most heartily recommend his parole."

The letter from Harry C. James, District Attorney, is as follows:

"This defendant was indicted jointly with one Plummer Ritchey who had been in the criminal Courts prior to this occasion, and from the facts of the case, I am convinced that the crime was planned by Ritchey and that everything that was done was in accordance with his suggestions, his being the dominating mind. Ritchey and Walls had been drinking together, and Walls was intoxicated at the time he committed the crime.

"I was District Attorney at the time that this man was sentenced, and am thoroughly conversant with the facts of the case. The parents of Russell Walls are very estimable people, and Walls himself enjoyed an excellent reputation prior to this indictment.

"I believe that the ends of justice have been attained in this matter, and that no good can result from keeping this man longer in confinement. I am informed that he has been a model prisoner, and the good people of his community, along with myself, believe that a pardon should be granted to him."

We have concluded from the representations made in these letters that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, and, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Russell Walls.

Sir: At No. 2 November Term, 1907, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Venango, James N. Strail was convicted of murder in the first degree and on December 30, 1907, was sentenced to be hanged. On November 24, 1908, the sentence of hanging was commuted to life imprisonment.

The applicant and his wife lived at Rouseville, a small town about three miles from Oil City, Pennsylvania, and at the time of the crime he was employed at Oleopolis, a station about seven miles distant from Rouseville. The applicant was then a man of about 34 years of age and his wife was of the same age. He had been an industrious, hard-working man who lived a respectable life, took good care of his family and had a good standing in the community in which he lived. He learned that his wife was leading an immoral life and he made unusual efforts to persuade her to desist from these practices. She left his home, took away the furniture and belongings and the defendant discovered her living with another man. He then made a final effort to have her return to him and get possession of the little boy. He was unsuccessful in these efforts, and meeting her on the street of Oil City, he besought her again to come with him and leave the man who had taken her away. She spurned his appeal and made some insulting and aggravating remark, when in the stress of his excitement and mental agony he drew a revolver and shot her, from the effect of which she died a few days afterward.

The applicant, together with one, Ivy deFoster, were certified to the Board by John M. Egan, Parole Officer, as having rendered great assistance to the authorities of the Western Penitentiary in subduing and restraining a mutiny which broke out in that institution on July 18, 1921, and which mutiny had attained serious proportions. Mr. Egan writes of the applicant as follows:

"James Strail, No. A-6395 who was committed to the Penitentiary for life imprisonment by Governor Edwin S. Stewart, on November 24th, 1908, protected the Laundry Department from the violence of the rioters and also dissuaded a number of prisoners from engaging in the disorder. Strail has been a valuable worker in the Laundry, since he was received at the institution about thirteen years ago, and has never been reported for violation of the rules. His conduct has been exemplary.

"On July 18th, while many prisoners were violent and damaging property in the institution, Strail stood at the doorway of the Laundry Building with a long piece of iron piping and warned the rioters that he would protect the Laundry equipment and twenty-four prisoners within, at any cost. The prisoners who approached the Laundry, were bent upon destroying property. They passed by the Laundry Building and did not molest it.

"Strail is a white man, 48 years old. In the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery of Franklin, at November Sessions, 1907, he was tried upon an indictment charging him with the crime of murder. On September 4th, 1907, he was found guilty of murder in the first degree and on December 30th, 1907, he was sentenced by the said Court to be hanged. After James Strail's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, he was received at the Penitentiary on November 28th, 1908.

"Strail gave the following reason for protecting the Laundry Building: 'I wanted to keep them from destroying it because I think as much of it as if it were my own.'"

The Board is of the opinion that this conduct merits a reward and that the release of the applicant for this cause will be an incentive to good conduct upon the part of the other convicts in the institution and will rebound to the public interest. A prisoner who not only submitted himself to the discipline of the prison, but rendered great assistance in restoring a state of discipline among other prisoners, at the time of a dangerous revolt, performed a meritorious act which in the opinion of the Board may appropriately be recognized by giving him his freedom.

For these reasons "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said James U. Strail.

Sir: At No. 141 December Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Berks, Daniel M. Knittle was convicted of involuntary manslaughter and on December 12, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of $25.00, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Berks County Prison for a period of one year.

The applicant is 21 years of age, a citizen of the United States and at the time of his arrest was an employee of the Keystone Shoe Manufacturing Company at Kutztown, Pennsylvania, and resided with his father on a farm near Kutztown. He is married and has one child, born November 14, 1921, and the wife and child are now living with the applicant's parents.

On Sunday evening, August 22, 1920, at a little after ten o'clock, Monroe S. Schultz was found dead on the William Penn Highway about two squares from Kutztown and the body bore marks showing that he had been run down by a motor vehicle. The applicant alleges that it was not his car that caused the death of Mr. Schultz. The car had blood upon the rear wheel and there was some injury to the front of the car, and from these facts and the fact that the stenographer who took the testimony at the coroner's inquest swore that Knittle had admitted before the Coroner that it was his car that struck Schultz, the Jury found him guilty. The blood on the rear wheel might be explained by the supposition that the car preceding the applicant's had caused the death and that the applicant's car in passing the point may have run over the body or struck a pool of blood. The injury to the front of the car was explained by the applicant that in driving into the wagon shed at his home he ran into a hay bed, stripping off the water cap, bending the radiator rim and buckling the hood. It was shown by the evidence of those who examined the machine that the damage to the front of the car must have occurred after it was put in the shed, because the car could not have been run in the condition in which it was found and the water cap was found in the dust in the shed. It is clearly shown that the applicant was driving at a lawful rate of speed at the place where the accident occurred.

The conviction was had largely because the stenographer who took the testimony at the coroner's inquest testified that Knittle had admitted that it was his car which caused the death of Mr. Schultz. Mr. Knittle denied this testimony and several members of the coroner's jury corroborated his testimony.

The applicant has the best of character and more than 1500 residents of Kutztown have signed a petition to the Board setting forth that the applicant had always enjoyed the highest reputation as a law-abiding man and that his character and that of his family has always been the best and that in the opinion of the petitioners there is grave doubt as to his guilt.

The Board is in receipt of a large number of letters from prominent people in Kutztown and vicinity urging Executive clemency. John B. Stevens, Attorney-at-Law of Reading, who was private Counsel for the prosecutor in this case, writes the Board as follows:

"At the trial, in my opinion, the evidence most damaging to the defendant consisted of his testimony at the Coroner's inquest, which so far as the defendant was concerned was carried on in Pennsylvania German, and translated by the Stenographer as she took it down, and also the testimony relative to the marks on the radiator and hood of the defendant's automobile.

"Subsequently when the defendant was about to be sentenced, in order to satisfy my doubts about the matter, I examined the defendant's automobile and in my opinion the marks thereon bore out his theory that they had been made not by striking a man but by running into some pointed, sharp object, when the automobile had been placed in the wagon shed or barn after the accident. These marks were a sharp indentation near the top of the radiator rim and the crumpled hood as though the blow on the rim pushed back the hood in waves. There was no mark on the hood indicating that a body had come in contact with it or had fallen on or been thrown upon it. If I had known these facts I could not have argued at all that these marks were caused by striking the man, which probably would have caused a different result.

"I discussed my views as to the case with the District Attorney, and, when the defendant was called for sentence, stated to the Court that we had our doubts as to whether the defendant was the one who had actually first struck the man who was killed.

"It seems to me that the evidence that militated strongly against Knittle was his failure to stop immediately and render assistance. He said he did go to his home a short distance away and returned with his mother, his father having retired, and his explanation that he did not stop at once, because he feared that the object in the road had been placed there as part of a hold-up plan, was not incredible in view of other actual happenings on the same road. From what I have learned Knittle has always borne a splendid reputation in his community, being held in high regard by his neighbors and fellow townsmen. His parents are very reputable folks. So far as I know he has never been in prison or charged with any crime and in my opinion further imprisonment will serve no good purpose so far as either he or the public is concerned. "I therefore respectfully recommend the exercise of clemency towards him."

Because of the doubt as to the guilt of the applicant and his undoubted good character and standing in the community in which he lived, we have concluded that the public interest does not require the further incarceration of the petitioner, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Daniel M. Knittle.

Sir: At Nos. 4 and 5, March Sessions, 1913, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for Allegheny County, John McBriar was convicted of the crimes of sodomy and buggery and felonious rape, and on May 24, 1913, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than five years nor more than twelve years.

The applicant has served five years and seven months in the Western Penitentiary upon his sentence and on December 24, 1918, was paroled by the Prison Board of the Western Penitentiary and is now at liberty under parole.

The applicant is 52 years of age, unmarried, a native of Ireland, and became a naturalized citizen of the United States in the year 1892 at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. At the time of his arrest he was a bartender in Pittsburgh and lived at the home of a family by the name of Provence. It is alleged that he was guilty of felonious rape by having carnal knowledge of Emma Provence, a minor child under the age of 14, and that he was guilty of sodomy and buggery with the said Emma Provence. He was convicted upon the unsupported testimony of the child who it is alleged was influenced by her parents in telling the story she did.

The applicant has always maintained his innocence of the charge and his record, except in this case, is clear of any offenses of this character so far as is known.

Mr. Berne H. Evans, who was the Assistant District Attorney who tried the case, writes the Board as follows:

"On May 19, 1913, as Assistant District Attorney of Allegheny County, I prosecuted the case of Commonwealth vs. John McBriar, which was tried before Judge Umbel, sitting specially, and which resulted in a conviction and a sentence of not less than five years or more than twelve years in the Western Penitentiary.

"I have today approved for the attorney representing the defendant, a statement of facts to be used in connection with his application for a pardon, and in my opinion, this defendant is a fit subject for the exercise of executive clemency. As I recall the trial of the case, the testimony of the main witness for the prosecution, in fact, the only important testimony for the prosecution, was such that if I had been a member of the jury, I would have refused to convict. The case against the defendant was strengthened by the fact that he asserted that he had a witness who could substantiate his defense, but who was not present and whose absence was not accounted for in a very satisfactory way. In view of the importance of this witness' testimony, the trial might well have been postponed to afford the defendant an opportunity to secure the witness, but this was not done.

"Under all the circumstances, and considering the possibility that the little girl was influenced by her mother to tell her story in order to prevent a row between father and mother, I feel that I can fairly recommend the pardon in this case."

The present District Attorney, Harry H. Rowand, in view of Mr. Evans' position, states that he does not oppose clemency.

In consideration of the good record of the applicant, the blameless life he has led since his release from the penitentiary on parole and because of the doubt as to his guilt, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said John McBriar.

Sir: At No. 235 February Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Allegheny, Ivy deFoster pleaded guilty to the crime of larceny and on March 19, 1920, was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years, nor more than two years and six months.

And at No. 10 December Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Centre, Ivy deFoster was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years, nor more than two years and six months, for escaping from the new Western Penitentiary at Rockview, Pennsylvania.

The minimum sentence for the above offenses will expire October 4, 1924 and the maximum sentence April 4, 1925.

The applicant pleaded guilty in Allegheny County to having taken the sum of $346 in cash, one watch of the value of $40, one chain of the value of $2.50 and one locket of the value of $10.00, from the desk of one, Robert R. Moody, located in the Pershing Theatre, Collins Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He was sent to Rockview from the Western Penitentiary and while in Rockview he escaped from prison. He was apprehended and sentenced as above stated for the escape from prison.

The applicant and James N. Strail, convicts in the Western Penitentiary, have been certified to the Board of Pardons by Mr. John M. Egan, Parole Officer, as having rendered great assistance in the quelling of a mutiny which broke out in the Western Penitentiary on July 18, 1921. Mr. Egan in his letter to the Board speaks of the applicant as follows:

"Ivy De Foster, No. A-11025, colored, age 39, who was sentenced at No. 235, February Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Allegheny County, to undergo an imprisonment of not less than two years nor more than two years and six months and subsequently was sentenced at No. 10 December Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Centre County, to serve not less than two years nor more than two years and six months for escaping from the New Western Penitentiary, at Rockview, Centre County, while undergoing a sentence imposed at No. 235, February Sessions, 1920, Court of Quarter Sessions of Allegheny County, also rendered valuable aid to the Prison Management during the disturbance in July.

"De Foster was employed as a stoker in the Boiler House. While the Prison Shops were ablaze, a gang of inmates ran along the street towards the boiler house, one of them shouting, 'Burn the shed,' meaning a large wooden shed, containing lumber, barrels and boxes. The shed in question is in close proximity to the Hospital, where there were contained at the time, about thirty-five invalids. Ivy De Foster stepped in front of the crowd with a large hammer in his hand and shouted, 'Remember the Hospital, this will make it hard on all of us. If you want to do anything, go down below, but keep away from the Hospital.' The rioting prisoners turned back and later they were driven into the cell block. Upon the arrival of the Pittsburgh Fire Department, De Foster voluntarily wheeled coal to the fire engines and helped the firemen to adjust the hose.

"De Foster's minimum sentence will terminate October 4th, 1924 and his maximum sentence, April 4th, 1925."

The Board is of the opinion that the prisoner who submits himself to proper discipline and rendered assistance with probable danger to himself in quelling the disorder of the other prisoners, should be given especial consideration and in this case should be rewarded by his freedom, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Ivy DeFoster from the above recited sentences of imprisonment.

Board of Pardons.

Harrisburg, Pa., February 21, 1922.

Sir: At No. 1 September Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions in and for the County of Lancaster, Howard B. Morris and Lloyd W. Gillette pleaded guilty to the crime of robbery, and on May 1, 1920, were sentenced each to pay a fine of $100, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Lancaster County Prison for a period of three years.

Morris is twenty-eight years of age and Gillette is twenty-six years of age. They are married and each has several children. Prior to their arrest in this case there was no criminal record of any character, but each one had a reputation of being somewhat addicted to the use of intoxicants.

In April, 1920, the petitioners had been drinking all day, and when night came they were very much intoxicated. On their way home they stopped under an awning and took several drinks from a bottle of whiskey, which they had with them, and while there a man by the name of Stahl came to where they were and the three had a number of drinks together. After that petitioners have no recollection of anything that took place until about twelve o'clock, when they remember being in a restaurant and talking to a Constable. During that night it is alleged that the three of them held up a man by the name of Howard Purple, and that Stahl took a pocket-book from Purple. Neither of the applicants can remember this event, nor did either one of them receive any of the money which was stolen. They later learned that Stahl had implicated them as being at the holdup, and they then gave themselves up, but denied any active participation in the crime. At the trial when it appeared that Stahl implicated them in the crime they entered a plea of guilty.

The Board is in receipt of a large number of letters from citizens of Columbia, Pa., urging clemency in this case, among them being a letter from Chief of Police H. F. Hartman as follows:

"This is to certify that the undersigned has known Howard Morris and Lloyd Gillette, both of Columbia, Lancaster County, Pa., for ten years and over.

"I am of firm mind that these young men were under the influence of liquor when committing the act for which they are now paying the penalty.

"The families of both are in dire need,—precarious conditions and do need the help of their fathers. They both have an opportunity to resume their trades with former employer and I therefore pray Your Honorable Body to grant pardons to these young men."

Samuel McCracken, Justice of the Peace, writes the Board as follows:

"Howard Morris and Lloyd Gillette who are now serving time in the Lancaster County Prison I understand are about to ask to be pardoned. These boys were committed for trial by the writer who has known them many years. In the past they had been wild but not criminally inclined and I do not believe they would have attempted to do what they did had they not been under the influence of drink and led by others. They are both married men with small children and in a measure are being cared for by Welfare and other Associations and individuals.

"I personally believe they have been sufficiently punished and would ask that they be given liberty in order that they might get out and help themselves and their families."

Clyde Stahl, the co-defendant, makes an affidavit that the applicants went with him to the place where Purple was assaulted, but that the petitioners were so drunk that they did not know what was going on.

The Columbia Malleable Castings Company, Inc., writes the Board as follows:

"I am informed that Howard Morris and Lloyd Gillette are about to apply for a pardon. I have known these boys for about five or six years and have employed them both. They have been honest and industrious, and if granted a pardon I am ready to give them both work so that they can again support themselves and their families. I believe that the difficulty they got into was brought about by drink and not through any criminal inclinations. I further believe that they have been sufficiently punished and all the terms of justice have been met and would earnestly ask that a pardon be granted them."

We have determined that under the circumstances of this case the petitioners have been sufficiently punished for whatever wrong they committed, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Howard B. Morris and Lloyd W. Gillette.

Sir: At No. 36 July Sessions, 1916, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia Eugene Reuter was convicted of larceny and on November 3, 1916, sentence was suspended and the defendant placed on probation for one year.

The applicant at the time of the arrest was eighteen years of age, and the charge was that he, with two other boys, stole a Ford car. Testimony showed that it was really a case of joy-riding and not of stealing.

Since his discharge, the applicant has lived an exemplary life and the District Attorney states that he has investigated his record, that it is a splendid one, and he recommends that the application be granted. The applicant is now on the eligible list for appointment to the Philadelphia Fire Department, and is prevented from receiving the appointment by reason of his conviction in this case.

The application is made to clear his record of the conviction so that he may receive the appointment. We have determined that the application is meritorious and should receive favorable consideration, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Eugene Reuter.

Sir: At No. 9 February Sessions, 1912, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for Lackawanna County, Peter Slozzoka pleaded guilty to the crime of murder, which was adjudged by the Court to be murder in the second degree, and on April 10, 1912, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from eighteen years and six months to twenty years.

The applicant with three other companions from Old Forge, Pennsylvania, were in a saloon at Austin Heights, in the Borough of Old Forge, where they met three men from Scranton, Pa. The seven men were drinking heavily and a quarrel ensued. When the three men from Scranton left the saloon they were met with a fusillade of stone and bottles, and in the melee which followed Felix Slazinski, of Scranton, was struck on the head with a bottle and killed. The applicant with his three companions were arrested for the crime, and the applicant, being unable to speak English and without Counsel, pleaded guilty. There is, therefore, no testimony showing what participation, if any, the applicant had in the fatality.

Mr. M. A. Rafter, of Scranton, County Detective at the time of the trial, states that he investigated the case for District Attorney Reedy, and "that I never was fully convinced as to who actually killed Slazinski, the deceased. * * * In my own judgment, I think Slozzoka has been sufficiently punished, and that the ends of justice have been met with. I was always more firmly convinced of the guilt of Frank Gradecki in this case. I think he started the trouble, and that he was more largely responsible for the murder which resulted."

David J. Reedy, Esq., of Scranton, writes the Board in regard to this case as follows:

"Slozzoka was not the actual perpetrator of the crime, but was present at that time.

"From investigation made since, I have learned that the petitioner always bore a good reputation and was, so far as I was able to learn, never charged with or convicted of crime.

"I have read the petition filed with your Honorable body asking or a pardon for Slozzoka, and I believe that he has been sufficiently punished. I come to this conclusion both because of the Act of May 10, 1909, which provides: that the minimum sentence should not exceed one-fourth of the maximum time, which has been repealed less than a year before the petitioner, Slozzoka, was sentenced, and further that the sentence he received was somewhat heavy in view of the defendant having pleaded guilty, and saved the county the costs of trial and that he was not the perpetrator of the crime.

"I, therefore, recommend a pardon for the said petitioner."

T. A. Donahoe, Esq., former Assistant District Attorney also writes the Board as follows:

"In this case, at the time it was tried in Lackawanna County, it appeared that Peter Slozzoka was present and apparently acting in concert in the commission of the crime, but it was shown clearly that he was not the perpetrator of the crime, the actual killing having been done, it appeared from the evidence, by another person.

"Slozzoka entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced under the acts in force prior to the Indeterminate Sentence Acts.

"Up to the time of the crime, he was a man of good reputation, peaceful and law-abiding. It would seem, under all of the circumstances of the case, that this man is now entitled to clemency at the hands of your Board.

"The case was tried during the incumbency of the undersigned in the District Attorney's Office of Lackawanna County."

Reviewing all the facts in the case, we have determined that the applicant has been adequately punished by the nine years and eleven months imprisonment he has served, and therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Peter Slozzoka.

Sir: At No. 32 June Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Lehigh, Frank Emmett was convicted of the crime of arson, and on November 1, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000, costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than six years nor more than nine years.

The applicant is thirty-eight years of age, by birth an Italian but now an American citizen by naturalization. His occupation was that of manager and lessee of a moving picture theatre in Allentown, Pa. Prior to this offense he had never been charged with any crime and had an estimable reputation in the community in which he lived. On May 13, 1916, the applicant was the lessee of the Lyceum Theatre, a wooden structure, in the city of Allentown, and after the closing of the theatre, between 10:30 and 11:00 o'clock P. M., fire destroyed the entire theatre building, together with the contents thereof.

Three years after the fire the applicant together with Roy W. Middlecamp and Frank E. Wernett were arrested upon the charge of having maliciously set fire to the said building, a proceeding which finally resulted in the conviction and sentence of the applicant. The conviction was had solely upon the testimony of Frank E. Wernett, who with Middlecamp were employees of the applicant. Wernett has told four different stories of the alleged crime, and since his imprisonment he confessed to a fellow inmate of the Penitentiary and gave him a written statement stating that he perjured himself at the trial and that his statement that Emmett had employed him to set fire to the building was untrue. Since the release of Wernett from the Penitentiary has made an affidavit in which he says that he never made the aforesaid confession. The effect of all these different stories is that Frank E. Wernett has shown himself to be an unreliable witness, and that a conviction upon his testimony was, to say the least, not based upon testimony which was beyond reasonable doubt.

Roy W. Middlecamp, one of the defendants in this case, stoutly maintained the innocence of himself and Emmett, until about the time that he was confined as an insane ward of the Commonwealth, when he made a confession implicating Emmett and himself. In view of the proximity in time of this confession with his confinement as an insane person we attach no importance to the confession.

Because of the great doubt as to the guilt of the applicant, and because of the fact that he was convicted upon the testimony of a witness who has told conflicting stories to the extent that his testimony is not entitled to any credence, we have determined that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Frank Emmett.

Sir: At No. 67 May Term, 1921 in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Northumberland Louis Pisani and Frank Pisani were convicted of assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery and assault and battery with intent to kill, and on May 19, 1921, were sentenced to pay fine of $100, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years nor more than four years.

The applicants are naturalized American citizens of the age of twenty-seven years and thirty-three years respectively, and were employed about the mines near Shamokin, Pennsylvania. Each of the applicants prior to this offense had a good reputation and had never before been charged with nor convicted of any crime.

The offense for which they were convicted was shooting Nick Verano. The applicants, with Verano, had been at a hotel in Shamokin and left the hotel together, and proceeded to the corner of Chestnut and Franklin Streets, about three-quarters of a square from the hotel, at which point the Pisani brothers fired two shots into Nick Verano and left him lying on the ground, supposing him to be dead. Verano was taken to the Hospital, afterwards recovered his strength and it was largely upon his testimony that the applicants were convicted. It was alleged before the Board that Verano was a leader of the Black Hand Society; that he demanded money of the Pisani brothers and that they knew they must furnish the money or be in danger of their lives; that the altercation followed as a result of this demand, and that in reality the shooting was done in self defense.

Honorable Fred B. Moser, the Trial Judge, writes the Board in regard to this case as follows:

"Since the trial of the cases of Louis Pisani and Frank Pisani, in which I sat as Trial Judge, I have learned that the prosecutor, Nick Verano, is quite a desperate character and it is strongly represented there were mitigating circumstances which would palliate the seriousness of the offense.

"I am advised there has been an application for a pardon for both these defendants and it is my opinion that the ends of justice would in no way be betrayed if the pardons were granted and the defendants permitted to return to their usual vocations in civil life."

Because of these facts we have determined that the ends of justice have been met by the terms of imprisonment already suffered by the applicants, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that pardons be now granted to the said Louis Pisani and Frank Pisani.

Sir: At Nos. 14, 15, 16 and 17, April Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of York Tash C. Cooper pleaded guilty to four indictments for larceny, and on April 19, 1920, was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of $200., costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than three years nor more than five years.

The applicant is forty-four years of age, an American citizen, a salesman and accountant clerk by profession, and at the time of his arrest was not employed. He is a married man with a son seventeen years of age. Prior to his arrest in this case he had never been charged with nor convicted of any crime, and had a good reputation in the community in which he lived.

The offense to which he pleaded guilty were the stealing of four automobiles. Upon his arrest he gave information which resulted in the recovery of three of the cars, one in Florida, one in New Jersey, and one in Philadelphia. He and his wife have made restitution for the stolen property. His wife since his imprisonment supported the family until her health broke down, and she and her son are now in need of the care and support of the applicant.

The Board is in receipt of letters from the present Chief of Police and the former Chief of Police of York in which they urge the exercise of clemency and say that they believe the ends of justice have been met by the imprisonment already incurred. C. W. Alber Rochow, Esq., the District Attorney of York County who prosecuted the applicant, writes the Board that he does not oppose this application.

The Board is in receipt of a letter from Honorable E. S. Hugentugler, Mayor of the City of York, as follows:

"I have received notice that Tash C. Cooper, sentenced to three years in the Eastern Penitentiary, charged with the larceny of automobiles, has again applied for pardon.

"I know the facts in this case, and believe that it is a proper case for a pardon to be granted, and I therefore recommend such action to your Board."

After careful review of the facts, we have concluded that the applicant has been sufficiently punished for the crime he committed, and that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Tash C. Cooper.

Sir: At Nos. 56 and 57 November Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, Lloyd Ibach was convicted of adultery, and on January 14, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Lancaster County Prison for a period of ten months.

The applicant is an American citizen by birth, thirty-two years of age, a resident of Reading, Pennsylvania, a public accountant and musician by trade, with a wife thirty-four years of age and has a child ten years of age. The petitioner has lived separate and apart from his family for the past four years, but during all that time has been their sole support, and it is alleged that his family is now in need of his support.

The applicant was the Conductor of an orchestra in Reading, Pennsylvania, and the orchestra frequently furnished music for dances in the City of Lancaster. After some of the dances in Lancaster were over the orchestra, composed of seven or eight men, and accompanied by a married woman by the name of Anno Dragoo, who was an employe of the orchestra, traveled from Lancaster to Reading via Denver, Pennsylvania, and a number of times stopped at a hotel in Denver which was kept by Mr. and Mrs. Sweigart.

The conviction in this case was based principally upon the testimony of Daisy Sweigart, wife of the proprietor of the Hotel, who swore that the applicant and Mrs. Dragoo occupied the same room in the Hotel on certain of these trips. There is very little, if any, corroboration of Mrs. Sweigart's testimony, and it is alleged that at the hearing before the Magistrate she told a different story than at the trial. A number of prominent citizens of Denver, Pennsylvania, have written to the Board substantially to the effect that they were acquainted with the reputation of Mrs. Sweigart in Denver, Pennsylvania, for veracity, that it was bad, that her reputation generally was very bad, and that a conviction based upon her testimony should not stand.

Prior to the conviction in this case the reputation of the petitioner for chastity and generally was good, and he had never before been charged with or convicted of any crime.

Because of these facts and because of the doubt of the guilt of the applicant and need of his family for the support which he will furnish, we have determined this to be a meritorious case, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Lloyd Ibach.

Sir: At No. 9 February Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for Crawford County, Pennsylvania, Albert Toms was convicted of the crime of murder in the first degree and on March 7, 1922, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

The applicant is 21 years of age, was born in Honesdale, Pennsylvania, his parents died early in his life and he has been a wanderer, going from place to place earning his livelihood as a laborer. He was working as a laborer for one of the contractors of a State highway near the City of Meadville, and on the night of November 7, 1921, he and one, Phillip Propst, had been drinking moonshine whiskey. They were on their way from Meadville to the construction camp, where they both lived, and the deceased, Propst, was so under the influence of liquor that he walked with difficulty and on several occasions fell down. They engaged in a controversy and Toms beat Propst on the head with a club and cut his throat with a pocket knife, causing his death. After the crime Toms continued to the construction camp, went to sleep and was arrested on the following day. He confessed at the trial and it was largely upon his confession that a conviction was obtained. It is reliably stated that Toms is of a weak mind, bordering on imbecility, although not legally insane.

Honorable Thomas J. Prather, President Judge, who presided at the trial of Toms, writes the Board as follows:

"As trial judge in the above entitled case wherein the said Albert Toms was convicted of murder in the first degree before a jury, I feel it my duty to set forth some of my observations concerning the defendant during and since said trial.

"The defendant did not seem to have a friend in this part of the State at the time of the trial. There was no hue and cry against him, neither was there a voice in favor of him other than his counsel. During the trial and every proceeding thereafter he seemed totally indifferent to the testimony presented, to the verdict rendered, and to the sentence pronounced. He not only seemed indifferent but he did not appear capable of enjoying or suffering ordinary emotions. In view of all the facts and circumstances and his appearance I am convinced that the condition described is due to abnormal stupidity. I do not believe he knows enough to successfully play the role of incompetency.

"The question of his legal responsibility perhaps would not avail to exonerate him from the self-confessed crime. His counsel apparently recognized this and did not raise it as a legal barrier against his conviction. It therefore became my duty as trial judge to impose the penalty prescribed by law, but it seems equally my duty to respectfully submit to your consideration my conviction that he is such a defective that the sentence imposed ought not to be carried out but commuted to life imprisonment."

The Board was also furnished a letter from Honorable Alonzo T. Searle, Honesdale, Pennsylvania, President Judge of the Twenty-second Judicial District, as follows:

"We have noticed in Honesdale that a young man, twenty years old, named Albert Toms, has been sentenced by you to be electrocuted.

"Though a few of his friends and relatives here knew he was in trouble and to be tried, none of them ever received any notice of the date for trial or any facts concerning it. Volumes of testimony could have been obtained here to show his mental condition and none of his relatives supposed that a jury of twelve men could possibly convict him of murder in the first degree, as his mental condition was such that it did not seem there could be any such result.

"I have known this young man since he was a small child. On July 8, 1912, his father, Warren Toms, presented to me a petition to have this boy committed to either a home for feeble-minded or some institution for the incorrigible. The record of these proceedings appears in the Quarter Sessions of Wayne County, No. 15 June Sessions 1912. After hearing in this case, we committed Albert Toms to the care and custody of Mrs. Wm. F. Pearce, his aunt, a most estimable woman of this place. He stayed with her about seven years, when he outgrew her care and she was unable to do anything with him. During the time he was with Mrs. Pearce, he attended school but learned little. At times, his mind appeared to be almost a blank. From Mrs. Pearce's, he went to his uncle's, Thos. H. Quinney, another very good citizen. There he stayed about two weeks, when he ran away, and he has been a wanderer and his whereabouts have practically been unknown since.

"His mother died about thirteen years ago. His father, Warren Toms, has also left Wayne County and his whereabouts are unknown. He was a shiftless and irresponsible character and did not support his children.

"A brother of Albert, two years older, I committed to Glen Mills, as incorrigible. He has turned out very well as he had some brain capacity. Albert, however, has always been looked upon here, by his teachers in school and everyone who knew him, as being deficient in intellect and mental control.

"A very large petition could be obtained here, asking that his sentence be changed or commuted to life imprisonment. His relatives here think he should be placed where he can do no harm for the rest of his life.

"Please let me know the situation and who has charge of the matter for the young man. I suppose you assigned some person to defend him, and it would look to me as if the matter should properly be presented to the Board of Pardons, because it certainly would be a blot upon our criminal jurisprudence of Pennsylvania to electrocute a man of his mental condition.

"If you can suggest any course to me to be taken in this matter, we will gladly follow it."

The Trial District Attorney at the argument of this case, before the Board of Pardons, stated that the representations of Judge Prather that Toms is such a defective that his sentence should be commuted, was exactly right.

The Board has determined to recommend a commutation in this case with the express understanding, however, that Toms shall spend his life in prison and that no future application for pardon may be predicated upon this action.

Therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", we recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon the said Albert Toms be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 13, November Term, 1918, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Allegheny, Pennsylvania, Steve Perko was convicted of murder in the first degree. A new trial was ordered and the applicant was on June 6, 1921 again convicted of murder in the first degree and on January 12, 1922, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

The applicant is 28 years of age, a white man, a laborer, and was employed as a window cleaner at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, where he resided. On August 26, 1918, in company with one, George Elias, he went to Willock, Pennsylvania, for the purpose of robbing the store of one, Max Brass. Both Perko and Elias were armed with loaded revolvers. They entered the store about 10:20 P. M. with handkerchiefs over their faces and revolvers in their hands. At this time the proprietor, Max Brass, was about to close for the night. With him in the store room were his daughter, his son, and a neighbor boy. His wife, Mrs. Rachel Brass, was in the kitchen at the side of the store room, the kitchen being reached by a door in the rear of the store. The applicant told the occupants of the store to throw up their hands and move back and all of them ran from the store room into the kitchen, except Max Brass. It is alleged that the applicant fired two shots through the kitchen door and that one of them struck Mrs. Brass who was standing inside, causing her death at the hospital two days later.

The offenders were arrested shortly after leaving the store and in their pockets were found the handkerchiefs with the knots still in them and papers taken from the cash register. Elias was acquitted for his part in the robbery and is now at large. All of the members of the jury have signed a petition to the Board recommending that the sentence of death be commuted to life imprisonment. It was stated by the attorney who represented the applicant at the first trial and who secured from the Supreme Court the order for the second trial, that he had made arrangements with the District Attorney for an entry of plea of second degree murder, but in the meantime another attorney came into the case who defended the applicant at the second trial with the above stated result.

It is the opinion of the Board that the applicant should serve a life imprisonment and that there are no facts or circumstances in the case which might warrant a pardon at a later time.

Giving due consideration to the recommendation of the second jury, who have asked that commutation be granted, we have determined that mercy should be extended, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon the said Steve Perko be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 405 June Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, John Capper was convicted of assault and battery, and on January 27, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of $5.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for a period of ten months. The applicant is twenty-three years of age, unmarried, a mechanic by occupation, and has lived all his life with his parents in Philadelphia. He has never been previously convicted of or charged with any crime. The assault and battery occurred on December 21, 1920, when Capper attempted to board a trolley car in West Philadelphia, the car being what is known as a student car, on which a motor employee was instructing a student motorman and the car was not open for passengers. The applicant attempted to board it, was refused admittance and a fight resulted, during which the applicant suffered severe injuries which confined him in the hospital for some three weeks. After discharged from the hospital the applicant was arrested, given a hearing before a magistrate and was discharged upon his signing a release of damages to the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company. He was rearrested some four of five months later on a warrant sworn out by one of the operators of the car. It appeared that this man had attempted to obtain compensation from the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company for the injuries which he claimed to have suffered from the fight with the applicant, and upon his not obtaining the compensation which he desired he swore out the warrant against the applicant.

In view of the circumstances, we have concluded that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said John Capper.

Board of Pardons.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 25, 1922.

Sir: At No. 9 February Term, 1912, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for Lackawanna County, Edward Poppish was convicted of the crime of murder, which the Court adjudged to be murder in the second degree, and on April 10, 1912, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than eighteen years and six months nor more than twenty years.

The applicant with three other companions from Old Forge, Pa., were in a saloon at Austin Heights, in the Borough of Old Forge, where they met three men from Scranton, Pa. All of these men were drinking heavily and when the men from Scranton left the saloon to go home a fight followed during which stones and bottles were thrown at the men from Scranton, one of them being struck on the head with a bottle and killed. The applicant with his three companions were arrested for the crime, and, being unable to speak English and without Counsel, pleaded guilty. There is no testimony to show exactly what participation the applicant had in the fight, but the best opinion is that one of his companions threw the bottle which resulted in the fatality.

Peter Slozoka, one of the defendants, was pardoned at the last Session of the Board. The other two companions are dead.

The applicant was born in Russia, was about twenty-seven years of age at the time of his trial, was a coal miner, had lived a sober and industrious life and had never before been accused or convicted of any crime.

In view of these circumstances, we have determined that the applicant has been sufficiently punished for his participation in the offense which was committed, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Edward Poppish.

Sir: At No. 698 December Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Harry Ford was convicted of robbery, and on January 14, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than eight years nor more than ten years. The applicant is twenty-nine years of age, an American citizen, was a horseshoer by trade, was a soldier during the late war, was injured, and at the time of his arrest was taking vocational training under the Government and was learning the trade of shoemaking. He is unmarried and lived with his sister in Philadelphia. He had never before been charged with or convicted of any crime other than being arrested on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. The applicant was convicted of the robbery of a colored man at Seventeenth Street and Ridge Avenue, Philadelphia, at six o'clock at night. It is extremely improbable that the robbery occurred. The District Attorney of Philadelphia stated to the Board at the argument that the prosecutor had told conflicting stories to the police officers in Philadelphia, and that in his account of the alleged crime he was unquestionably lying and that at the most, if any crime was committed Ford had assaulted the prosecutor and that no robbery could have occurred at Seventeenth Street and Ridge Avenue, Philadelphia, at six o'clock at night, as alleged by the prosecutor, and that on reading the testimony the District Attorney was puzzled to know how the conviction was obtained. The Board has been furnished with a petition signed by the neighbors of Harry Ford who certify that they are certain that a mistake was made in this conviction and urge that a pardon be granted.

In view of the doubt as to the guilt of the applicant and because of his previous good record, we deem this a meritorious case, and "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Harry Ford.

Sir: At No. 4 May Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Huntingdon, Pennsylvania, Peter Brown was convicted of the crime of pandering and on June 28, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than three years nor more than five years.

The applicant is thirty-two years old, a native of Greece, a naturalized citizen of the United States, by occupation a cook, and at the time of his arrest was conducting a restaurant in Mount Union, Huntingdon County, Pa. He was married and without children. The applicant has never before this offense been charged with or convicted of any crime.

In his restaurant he employed four or five girls and it was on the testimony of one of these, Mabel Ryan, a girl of bad reputation, that he was convicted. She alleged that he sent her out to act as a prostitute and profited by her immoral practices. The other girls employed by him testified in his behalf.

The District Attorney, Chester D. Fetterhoof, of Huntingdon, Pennsylvania, who tried the case, writes to the Board as follows:

"Peter Brown was convicted of pandering on the testimony of Mabel Ryan, a notorious character of Mount Union, who testified that on two occasions he had sent her out with men and had received from her a portion of her earnings from the men with whom she testified she had had sexual intercourse. Peter Brown was a restaurant keeper and had several girls in his employ. Each of the other girls denied that they had paid Peter Brown any money and one testified that she had had sexual intercourse herself with Brown. Brown stated that the money he had received from Mabel Ryan had been in his safe-keeping and had been delivered to him by her to prevent its theft by other girls, and that all the money had been returned to her. The testimony on which he was convicted was weak and the Commonwealth would have had no just cause of complaint if he had been acquitted. Brown had a brother whose reputation was not good and who was known to some members of the Jury and the reputation of the girls employed by Brown was extremely bad. Brown's reputation as a man was certainly as good as of Mabel Ryan as a woman and the story he told on the witness stand was quite as likely to have been true as the story she told. Under all the circumstances I am of the belief that he has been more than sufficiently punished, and I certainly do not oppose his pardon."

In view of the statements of the District Attorney and because of the character of the girl on whose testimony the applicant was convicted, we have determined that this is a proper case for clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Peter Brown.

Sir: At No. 213½ November Sessions, 1918, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery and Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, Pennsylvania, Luigi Pitex alias Lewey Pittex was convicted of discharging fire arms with intent to kill, and on November 19, 1918, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than five years nor more than seven years. The applicant is thirty-seven years of age, an Italian by birth, a naturalized citizen of the United States, a coal miner by trade, unmarried, and prior to this offense had never been arrested for or convicted of any crime. The applicant was convicted of trying to commit a robbery and shooting at his employer, one Leonardi. The applicant is dying of tuberculosis. His physical examination shows an almost total collapse of the left lung. Notice has been sent to his family and he has been visited by a priest, who administered the last rites of the church. A sister and brother will take care of him upon his release.

Because of his physical condition we have determined that he should be discharged from prison, and "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Luigi Petex, alias Lewey Pittex.

Sir: At No. 543 September Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, James Priest was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on April 28, 1921, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

The applicant at the time of the trial was thirty-one years of age, an Italian, was employed at the Baldwin Locomotive Works continuously for twelve years and for two years at Hog Island, Philadelphia. He had a wife and three children, was the owner of the property they lived in, and prior to this case has never been arrested for or charged with any crime. He was convicted of the murder of his wife, who had left him and gone to the home of Ercolanis and had taken the youngest child, a small baby with her. The applicant made some effort to have his wife return to him and was greatly disturbed by her refusal to do so. On the day of the shooting he went to the Ercolanis home and the door being open he went into the entry-way and into the kitchen and shot his wife as she sat at the table in the kitchen. Honorable Joseph McCullen, the Trial Judge, writes the Board as follows:

"There has been served upon me a copy of the application presented to your Honorable Board by James Priest, who, on a trial had before me as presiding judge, was convicted January 13th, 1921 of murder of the first degree, in the killing of his wife, Annie Priest, on April 13th, 1920. His application is for commutation to life imprisonment of the death sentence imposed by the Court under the requirements of the statute.

I respectfully recommend favorable action upon this application, for the following reasons:

1. The defendant is not of the criminal class. He has been a sober, industrious, hard working and thrifty man, owning his little home, which was bought through the aid of a building association, of which he was a member. Prior to his present trouble he had been employed continuously for twelve years in the Baldwin Locomotive Works,—he had borne an excellent reputation and was highly esteemed by his neighbors and acquaintances.

At his trial an impressive feature was the number and character of the witnesses who appeared to testify to his good reputation, and the earnestness and sincerity with which they presented themselves in the desire to be heard.

2. At the time of the commission of the crime, the defendant was laboring under great mental strain and had met with some provocation, which, whilst not justifying his crime, may with propriety be considered as a mitigating circumstance in the case.

Defendant's wife was the mother of three children, one a baby, seven months old, the others aged 3 years and 6 years, respectively. Shortly before her death she left her home during the defendant's absence, abandoning him and the two older children, taking the baby with her. She went to the home of a family named Ercolanis. Her husband, the defendant, found her there a few days later. He asked her to return to her home and children. She refused to do so and said she would remain where she was, and that one of the Ercolanis family was the father of her baby, which she had with her. This statement made by her to her husband preyed upon the latter's mind. Later, on April 13th, 1920, he called at the Ercolanis house and there shot and killed her.

3. Whatever troubles came into the married life of the defendant and his unfortunate wife, the sympathies of the family of the latter appear to have been with the husband, and both her parents, her mother and her father, together with her brothers and her sister, all testified on behalf of the defendant at his trial.

4. The defendant has already suffered much. On the night of the commission of his crime, he was shot through the body and his skull was fractured in two places, in a beating given him by the Ercolanis. These physical injuries were almost fatal to him.

5. Had the jury possessed the power to have fixed the punishment as well as the degree of the crime, I am sure they would have fixed life imprisonment rather than death. This is indicated by the fact that eight of the jurors who sat at the trial now join in recommending favorable action upon the present application. Had any alternative been given to me under the statute, I would, as the trial judge, have imposed a sentence of life imprisonment rather than one of death, believing that under all the circumstances of this case the cause of justice would thereby best be served.

For these reasons I respectfully recommend favorable action by your Honorable Body upon the application now before you, and beg to remain, with great respect,

Your obedient servant,

JOSEPH McCULLEN."

Honorable Horace Stern and Honorable William C. Ferguson, Judges of the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia also write the Board:

"In regard to the application presented to your Honorable Board by James Priest, this case was tried before Honorable Joseph P. McCullen. The only official knowledge which I have of the case is that received by reason of the fact that I sat on the Court en banc together with Joseph P. McCullen and William C. Ferguson, JJ., on a motion for a new trial. I concurred with the other two judges in the opinion that there were no errors in the record, and therefore that the rule for a new trial should be discharged, which action was accordingly taken by the court.

"However, I at the time read all the testimony in the case, and from such reading and from the argument presented to the court, I received the impression, which I still hold, that a commutation of the defendant's sentence to life imprisonment would be just and proper under all the circumstances of the case. I have read the letter of Honorable Joseph P. McCullen to your Honorable Board dated March 25th, 1922, and concur in all the statements and recommendations therein made."

"I also concur.

WM. C. FERGUSON."

The District Attorney stated to the Board that he does not oppose the granting of his application, and all of the family of the deceased wife recommend that the sentence be commuted.

In view of the recommendation of the Judges of Philadelphia County, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", we recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon said James Priest be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 805 August Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Carl W. Reed pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter, and on September 27, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs and undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for a period of eighteen months from the date of commitment, July 8, 1921.

The facts in the case are the same as in the application of Thomas Divan recommended for a pardon by the Board at the December Sessions, 1921. The applicant is a good boy with a good record, and it was shown that he knew nothing of mechanical appliances. He was a carpenter's helper, and while playing with the hose containing compressed air in the hold of a vessel at Cramp's Shipyard accidentally the hose was applied to one of the other workmen so that the compressed air penetrated his lower bowel and later caused his death.

There is grave doubt whether any unlawful act was committed by the applicant or by Thomas Divan. The danger was not fully foreseen by the applicant, and there is nothing to show that he had any thought or warning that injury might result from the use of the compressed-air hose. It has been a common practice for workmen to use the hose in a playful way for sometime previous to the fatality. The applicant pleaded guilty under the direction of his Attorney for the reason that he had been a strike-breaker at Cramp's, and it was feared that this fact might prejudice him in a trial of the case. He has been imprisoned since last July, and he has a wife who needs his care and support.

We have determined that he has been fully punished for whatever blame, if any, may be attached to him because of the unfortunate death of his fellow workman. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Carl W. Reed.

Sir: At No. 805 August Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Thomas Divan pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter, and on September 27, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for a period of eighteen months.

The applicant is an American, married and was a carpenter in Cramp's Shipyards in Philadelphia. In July last with a number of workmen during a rain storm he took refuge in a room or compartment of an unfinished war vessel in which was a compressed-air machine, being a hose and nozzle ready for use. The men were accustomed to use this compressed air to cool themselves, brush their clothes and in indiscriminate play. On the day in question the deceased, Ebinger, first took the pipe and dusted his clothes off with it in a playful way. Subsequent to that there was more horse-play, in the course of which either Divan or Carl Reed got hold of the pipe while the other was wrestling with the deceased, Ebinger. There does not seem to have been any concerted action between the applicant and Reed, but some how or other not fully explained the pipe, carrying a pressure of seventy or eighty pounds, came in contact with the dead man, Ebinger, so that the pressure penetrated into the lower bowel, from the effects of which he died six days after the occurrence.

The evidence established there had been no quarrel of any kind between the applicant, Reed and the dead man, or among any others at this time, and that the whole spirit of those present was to while away time in a pleasant and jovial manner when work was out of the question because of the rain.

The applicant was a hard working-man of good repute. He was a strike-breaker, and there had been a strike of serious consequences at Cramp's. His Attorney, fearing that he might be prejudiced in a trial by the fact that he was a strike-breaker, insisted upon his entering a plea of guilty to involuntary manslaughter, and the applicant very unwillingly consented to such a plea. He has been in jail since July last. There is no question but that the death was an accident, with no element indicating an intention upon the part of the applicant to inflict an injury.

We are driven to the conclusion that the applicant has been fully punished for the carelessness displayed by him and others involved, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Thomas Divan.

Sir: At No. 50 September Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for Delaware County, Arthur Stanley was convicted of violation of the Automobile Act of 1919, and on November 7, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100., the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for one year. The applicant is a colored man thirty-one years of age and was employed as a chauffeur by Mr. Victor Lee Emerson, of 6381 Overbrook Avenue, Philadelphia, for a period of about four years prior to his conviction in this case. Before this offense he had a good reputation and had never been charged with or convicted of any crime, nor did he have the reputation of being a reckless driver. In July 1921, about 9:30 P. M. going east on Lancaster Avenue opposite St. Davids Golf Club, it was alleged that the applicant while driving a Pierce Arrow Limousine belonging to his employer passed a Ford Sedan and in doing so struck the Sedan a blow upon the hub of the front wheel, causing it to swerve slightly off the crown of the road and breaking the glass thereof so as to cause some injury to one of the occupants of the Ford car. The applicant denied that he was present at the place of the accident at the time it occurred and there were no marks found upon the car driven by him and only a slight mark upon the Ford car.

The District Attorney stated to the Board that he does not oppose this application and that under all of the circumstances of the case Stanley, if guilty, has been sufficiently punished. We concur in this opinion, and therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Arthur Stanley.

At No. 50 April Sessions, 1897, in the Court of Quarter Sessions, Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Maxwell Lehrman was convicted of larceny, and on July 1, 1897, was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for twenty days.

The applicant at the time of his conviction was twelve years of age, and the crime alleged was that of stealing some newspapers. He served his term in jail and for a number of years has been a detective of the Department of Public Safety in Philadelphia, and his record has been of the best. The Civil Service Commission of Philadelphia has been informed through an anonymous letter that the applicant had a criminal record, and that under the Act of Assembly must be discharged from his position unless he is cleared from the stigma of his boyish offense. His exemplary life and good record and his usefulness as a member of the Police Force are sufficient reasons for the granting of this pardon.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Maxwell Lehrman.

Sir: At No. 641, November Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia Philip Pourron was convicted of involuntary manslaughter, and on January 27, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County prison for a period of one year.

The applicant was a police officer of the City of Philadelphia. One morning, about 2 o'clock, with another officer he was patrolling his beat on the Parkway and was informed by a citizen that some men down the street had attempted to hold him up, pointing to a group of men near by. The officer approached what he thought was this group and commanded them to move. Some of the party attempted to run away. The officer fired one shot in the air, and in some way, while in pursuit a second shot was discharged, resulting in the killing of Francis V. McCabe.

The Department of Public Safety, by Honorable James D. Cortelyou, Director, Certified that the applicant has not only been a good officer, but is a truthful man, and that is the belief of the Department that the shooting was accidental resulting from the officer tripping over the rough ground in the Parkway District while pursuing the man whom he shot. Honorable George S. Tempest, Assistant Director of the Department, also certifies to the same facts and joins in the request that a pardon be granted. The District Attorney does not oppose the pardon. A position awaits the applicant in the Department of Public Safety, Philadelphia, upon his release from prison.

We have concluded that this is a meritorious case, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Philip Pourron.

Sir: At No. 495, February Sessions, 1914, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Louis Andrews was convicted of murder in the second degree, and on April 30, 1914, was sentenced to pay the costs and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than ten years nor more than twenty years.

The applicant is forty-three years of age, a citizen of the United States; his occupation was that of a common laborer, and at the time of his arrest he was employed as a scaler at League Island Navy Yard, Philadelphia. He is married, and when arrested was living with his wife and two children, who were entirely dependent upon him for support. Prior to this case he had never before been charged with or convicted of any crime and had a good reputation.

The crime committed was the killing of one William Beasley in a saloon at Eighteenth and South Streets, Philadelphia, and on the evening of January 8, 1914. The applicant and Beasley had been in a crap game on the night before the fatality, during which a fight ensued, and Beasley, a very much larger man than the applicant, is alleged to have badly beaten Andrews. On the day of the fatality the applicant went to the saloon in question and asked the name of Beasley in order to swear out a warrant for his arrest. While he was talking Beasley came into the saloon and threatened to assault him. The applicant, in fear of his life, pulled a revolver from his coat pocket, and Beasley, jumping about, took hold of another man and forced him towards Andrews. The applicant discharged his revolver at Beasley and a fight ensued, during which Beasley obtained possession of the revolver and pulled the trigger to shoot the applicant, but the revolver did not fire, all of the bullets having been discharged. The fight continued, and the applicant was severely beaten. Beasley was taken to the hospital, suffering from three or four shot wounds, from which he afterwards died.

At the trial, the Judge made no charge to the jury as to voluntary manslaughter. The facts, as disclosed to the Board, indicate that the crime did not rise higher than voluntary manslaughter. The District Attorney stated to the Board that it is a very serious proposition whether or not the crime committed was greater than that of voluntary manslaughter. The term of imprisonment already served by the applicant is sufficient punishment for voluntary manslaughter.

We, therefore, have determined that this is a proper case for the exercise of clemency, and, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Louis Andrews.

Sir: At No. 206, November Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Edward Kane pleaded guilty to the crime of larceny, and on November 17, 1921, was sentenced to the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon.

The applicant is eighteen years of age, a mechanic's helper by occupation, was an employe of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, and has lived all his life with his parents in Philadelphia.

The crime consisted of the stealing of a rug and some other goods which were all returned to the owner before the trial of this case. Prior to this crime the applicant had an unusually good reputation, and it is believed that by the punishment already incurred he has learned a valuable and salutary lesson. Upon his release he can immediately obtain employment with the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

The District Attorney stated to the Board of Pardons that he had investigated this case, that the applicant is absolutely worthy, and that he joins in the request for favorable treatment.

In view of these facts, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Edward Kane.

Sir: At No. 211, May Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Humphrey Donahue was convicted of robbery, and on May 15, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for a period of eight years.

The applicant and two companions were accused of robbing one Carlton Becker of property to the value of $6.95 by pointing a gun at him, ordering him to hold up his hands, and taking the property from his person.

After the sentence in this case the Court remitted the sentence and discharged the prisoner on parole, and it is stated to the Board of Pardons that the reason for this action was that the Court was not satisfied with the evidence of the prosecutor, upon whose testimony the conviction was had, and that he had doubt as to the guilt of the applicant.

The real purpose of the application is to free the applicant from the necessity of serving out a former sentence of not less than five years nor more than seven years, which was imposed upon him for aggravated assault and battery. He had served five years of this sentence when he was discharged on parole, but upon his being sentenced in the present case of robbery he was recommitted to the penitentiary to serve out the aggravated assault and battery sentence.

The District Attorney does not oppose the application.

We have determined that this is a proper case for the exercise of clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Humphrey Donahue.

Sir: At No. 18 May Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, in and for the County of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Antonio Esposito was convicted of attempting to burn a dwelling house with intent of defrauding insurance companies, and on September 22, 1920, was sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of from ten to twelve years. The applicant is now thirty-eight years of age, an Italian citizen; and his occupation was that of a butcher and grocer at the time of his arrest. He conducted his own business, his residence being at Berwick, Pennsylvania. He is married and is the father of five minor children. Previous to this arrest he was never charged with or convicted of any crime and had a good reputation in the community in which he lived. A fire broke out about four o'clock in the morning in the cellar of the grocery store conducted by the applicant, his family occupying the upper rooms of the store building as a residence and were in the house when the fire broke out. The testimony upon which he was convicted was to the effect that a quantity of boxes and other materials were in three piles in the cellar and soaked with oil and that the fire seemed to have originated in this rubbish. There is no testimony as to who placed the oil upon the rubbish, or as to whether or not the applicant applied the fire thereto, and the conviction was had upon certain circumstantial evidence. The insurance upon the contents of the building was approximately $1800. The evidence as to the motive for the crime was very slight. It was stated to the Board that the reason for the severe sentence imposed in this case was that the applicant was placed under bail by the Court and that he put up $2500 in cash as bail for his appearance for sentence. After this, the applicant being without counsel and believing that the cash was in lieu of sentence, so it is alleged, ran away to New York City. He was apprehended and brought home upon a requisition and the sentence above stated was thereupon given him. We have determined that there is some doubt as to whether the applicant attempted to fire the house with his family living therein, as disclosed by the evidence, and under all the circumstances sufficient punishment has been incurred in this case. We therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Antonio Esposito.

At No. 175 August Term, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, Harry Lessner was convicted of murder in the first degree; a new trial was granted; at the second trial he was again convicted of murder in the first degree, and on February 3, 1922, was sentenced to be electrocuted. The applicant is eighteen years of age, an American by birth, unmarried, and has lived all his life with his parents in Philadelphia.

At about four o'clock on the afternoon of June 28, 1921, the applicant and one George Jackel, a man of thirty-one years of age, with a criminal record, entered the jewelry store of S. Bugay at 2327 South Seventh Street, Philadelphia and asked to see some rings. Mrs. Bugay, who was in charge of the store turned to get the rings and she again faced Jackel and the applicant these men each pointed a revolver at her head and ordered "hands". She placed her hands upon the top of her head and at the same time screamed for help. A neighbor, Abe Greenspan, appeared at the doorway and the would-be robbers placed their revolvers in their pocket and started for the street when they were blocked by Greenspan and other bystanders. They again drew their revolvers, forced their way out when Jackel ran south on Seventh Street and Lessner north. The applicant was soon hemmed in by a crowd of pursuers, and one Abraham Lincoln struck Lessner a blow in the face which drove him back against the house wall and Lessner then fired the shot which killed Isadore Rovinowitz, who was standing about fifty feet away.

The killing was done in the commitment of a felony, and there is no doubt that under the law Jackel and the applicant were guilty of murder in the first degree.

Jackel was tried and convicted of murder in the first degree; a new trial was granted and on the second trial he was convicted of murder in the second degree and was sentenced to the Penitentiary for a minimum term of twelve years and a maximum of twenty years. Jackel was the master mind, had a criminal record and it was a miscarriage of justice that he was not convicted of murder in the first degree.

While the miscarriage of justice in the Jackel case is not a reason for the commutation of Lessner's sentence, we have determined because of the youth of the applicant, his previous good record, the fact that he was led astray by an older man, and the other circumstances, that this is a proper case for the exercise of mercy. Therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", we recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon the said Harry Lessner be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 505 February Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia Jacob Zimelaski pleaded guilty to the possession of drugs, and on February 5, 1921, was sentenced to pay the cost of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County jail for a period of five years.

The applicant is thirty-one years of age, a salesman by trade, unmarried, has resided in New York and Philadelphia practically all his life, and has not previously been convicted of any criminal offense. In the latter part of January the applicant and a young woman were arrested in a room in which they found a quantity of narcotic drugs. Zimelaski was committed by a Magistrate to the County prison in default of bail, and pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with the illegal possession of narcotic drugs. This case came on for hearing at the April meeting of the Board of Pardons and the District Attorney of Philadelphia then stated to the Board that he would cause an investigation to be made to determine whether the applicant was an addict to the use of drugs or whether he was engaged in the sale thereof. The District Attorney reported at the May Session of the Board of Pardons that he had ascertained the fact that the applicant was an addict to the use of drugs and that the imprisonment he has already undergone equals the amount of punishment usually imposed for crimes of this character.

We conclude that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Jacob Zimelaski.

Sir: At No. 15-2 February Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Montgomery, Pennsylvania, Charles L. Evans was convicted of disobeying rules of the Railroad Company and on March 20, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Montgomery County Prison for a period of nine months.

The applicant was a conductor in the employ of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company and was in charge of train No. 151, which came into collision with train No. 156, causing what is known as the Bryn Athyn wreck which resulted in the death of twenty-six persons and the injury of many more. The applicant disregarded the train order, No. 31, which directed him to place his passenger train, No.

151 moving eastward, on the siding at Bryn Athyn and to await the passage of train No. 156 moving in an opposite direction. Instead of obeying this order, as was his clear duty, he saw No. 154 passing at Bryn Athyn and evidently being confused as to the train order, entered the block through which No. 156 had to pass; there was a head on collision with the tragic result above stated.

The applicant is forty-six years of age, an American citizen, and had been in the employ of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company since 1900. Prior to his negligence in this case his record as a railroad employee, and otherwise, was exceptionally good.

The General Solicitor of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company appeared before the board and supported the application. He has since written to the Board a letter in reply to an inquiry which he was not able to answer at the hearing. In this letter he now informs the Board if a pardon is granted to the applicant the Company will endeavor to provide the applicant with employment not connected with the operation of trains. The Board has received a petition, signed by more than thirty thousand people, requesting that this application shall be granted.

We have determined that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, but it should be clearly understood that this recommendation is not to be taken as any failure to appreciate the very serious nature of any departure from orders in the operation of trains, but rather should be considered as an act of pure clemency in view of the fine record of the applicant, his present broken condition, the needs of his family and the fact that in or out of prison he will probably continue to endure severe punishment for the remainder of his days because of the serious consequences of his negligence.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Charles L. Evans.

Sir: At No. 15-1 February Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Montgomery, Pennsylvania, Walter Yeakel was convicted of disobeying rules of the Railroad Company and on March 20, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Montgomery County Prison for a period of six months.

The applicant was engineer of train No. 151 of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company. Charles Evans, whose pardon is also recommended at this time, was the conductor of that train. These men were responsible for the wreck at Bryn Athyn, Pennsylvania, which caused the death of twenty-six persons and the serious injury to a large number of people. The applicant received at Bryn Athyn train order No. 31, which directed his train to remain on the Bryn Athyn siding until train No. 156, moving in an opposite direction on a single track railroad, should pass. Instead of obeying this order the applicant watched No. 154 pass his train on the siding and then pulled out of the siding and ran head-on to train No. 156 with the tragic result stated.

The applicant is forty-two years of age, an American citizen and has been an employee of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company for many years. In 1904 he was made an engineer by that company and his record of service as a railroad employee, and otherwise, is without a blemish.

The Board has received a petition signed by more than 30,000 people requesting that these applications be granted. At the hearing before the Board the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company was represented by its General Solicitor who stated to the Board that the company does not oppose this applicant. Inquiry was made of him as to whether or not if a pardon was granted the company would re-employ the applicant. Since the hearing the Board has received a letter from the General Solicitor stating that upon application of the applicant, if a pardon is granted, the company will endeavor to provide employment for the applicant in some other capacity than in the operation of trains.

The Board wishes it clearly understood that the serious nature of any departure from railway orders in the operation of trains is fully appreciated. We have determined to recommend the granting of this application as an act of pure clemency, the governing reasons being the present feeble physical condition of the applicant, the needs of his family for his support and the fact that he has suffered and will continue to suffer for the remainder of his days severe punishment in the realization of the serious consequences of his negligence.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Walter Yeakel.

Sir: At No. 9 January Sessions, 1914, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Lackawanna, Peter Musinski pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter, and on April 6, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500.00 and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a minimum term of eleven years and six months and a maximum term of twelve years.

The applicant is forty-eight years of age, a native of Poland, by occupation a miner, and at the time of his arrest was a resident of Archbald, Pennsylvania. He has a wife and a family of four small children who are in poor and needy circumstances. Prior to this offense he had never been charged with or convicted of any crime.

The Board is in receipt of a letter from Harold A. Scragg, Esq., District Attorney of Lackawanna County, which recites the facts as follows:

"Peter Musinski, the above named applicant, shot and killed Michael Durkin, a bartender at the Coyne House, Scranton, Pa., at 9:25 P. M., Wednesday evening, November 26, 1913. The homicide occurred in the bar-room of the hotel. Musinski at the time was 35 years of age and was residing at Eynon, Pa., a place about ten miles north of the City of Scranton. He was somewhat intoxicated at the time he entered the Coyne House on the evening of the homicide. He had in his possession at that time a cage with a canary bird in it. He put the cage on a steam radiator and then bought some drinks for himself and went out. Subsequently he returned to the bar-room and could not find the bird cage which he had left there. Musinski bought some drinks and after some time demanded that he be given the bird cage and the canary which he had left in the hotel. An argument followed in which Durkin, the deceased, ordered Musinski to leave the hotel. Musinski did leave and later returned with a revolver and fired at Durkin across the bar, as the result of which Durkin died.

"Our records in this case show that Musinski had been taunted by the people in the bar-room and because of this he became very angry. He complained to a police officer on the corner outside the hotel that the people in the bar-room had teased him and tried to make trouble. However, Durkin was in no way responsible for this.

"At the time of the trial the defendant entered a plea to manslaughter. It was a proper plea under the circumstances. This was a clear case of voluntary manslaughter and nothing more.

"The case attracted considerable public attention. Every one felt the greatest sympathy for the family of the deceased and deplored the death of a very much respected man. On the other hand, there was very deep sympathy for Musinski. Many felt that intoxicating liquor and the laws of the state which permit the unrestricted sale of deadly weapons to any one that has the price to pay for them were equal partners with Musinski in the commission of the crime. If Musinski had not been drunk he would not have shot Durkin. If the revolver had not been sold to a drunken man this homicide would not have occurred. Musinski had no murder in his heart when he first entered the bar-room. Those bystanders in the bar-room who for the sake of what they considered fun refused to tell Musinski where his packages were must share in the moral responsibility for this crime.

"Musinski, the applicant, was sentenced by the Court of Lackawanna County to a term of not less than 11 years and 6 months. He has at this time served the greater part of his sentence. Since his incarceration his wife and children have been dependent upon the charitable organizations of Lackawanna County for their maintenance. Their condition is a pitiful one and it is my feeling in this matter that in view of the fact that Musinski has served such a considerable part of his sentence, if he is ever to amount to anything and be able to take care of his family he will have learned his lesson by this time and no good would be accomplished by compelling him to serve out the remainder of his sentence. Further, in view of the extreme condition of his wife and children and their dependence upon charity, I feel that Musinski if pardoned could and would support them.

"In view of all the above facts, especially bearing in mind that if Musinski is ever to be reformed and become a good citizen his incarceration for the period of time up to date will have made him one, I would not oppose the granting of a pardon in this case and would rather think that it is a proper case in which the Board of Pardons could show mercy and clemency."

We have concluded that the ends of justice have been served by the punishment already inflicted in this case, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Peter Musinski.

Sir: At No. 181 August Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Washington, Arsel Chome was convicted on one indictment and entered a plea of nol contendere upon another indictment charging robbery, and on August 26, 1921, and December 22, 1921, was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of two dollars, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years nor more than twenty-years.

The applicant with two other young men were accused of holding up and threatening two persons on a country road in the northern part of Washington County and taking money from them and allowing them to go without further injury. The two companions of the applicant entered pleas of guilty in both cases and they were used as witnesses to secure the conviction of the applicant. The applicant from the first had maintained his innocence and it is alleged that his plea of nol contendere was entered because his friends advised him that under all the circumstances it was the best thing to do.

The Board is in receipt of a letter from Honorable Erwin Cummins, Judge of Washington County, as follows:

"In the matter of the application of Arsel Chome for a pardon, I wish to present the following facts to the attention of the gentlemen of the Board of Pardons.

"At the time Arsel Chome was tried on one charge, and when he entered a plea of nol contendere to a second charge, both charges being 'Robbery, being armed with offensive weapons'. I was District Attorney and prosecuted the case for the Commonwealth.

"I am thoroughly familiar with the facts leading up to the arrest and conviction of the said Arsel Chome. I am acquainted with his family and to the best of my judgment the said Arsel Chome has undergone a sufficient amount of punishment for the crimes with which he is charged, and I believe that further punishment will not serve any public interest, and

I, therefore, as the District Attorney who tried this case and now as Judge of the Twenty-seventh Judicial District, wish to state to the gentlemen of the Board that I would be pleased to see favorable action taken on this application for pardon.

Respectfully,
ERWIN CUMMINS."

Relying upon the recommendation of Judge Cummins, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Arsel Chome.

At No. 12 January Sessions, 1918, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Jefferson, Joseph Ucak was convicted of aggravated assault and battery, and on March 30, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of $250.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years and three months nor more than two years and nine months.

The applicant is thirty-four years of age, of Polish nationality, was a miner by occupation, and his residence was at Sykesville, Pennsylvania. He is married and his wife, twenty-eight years of age, reached this country a short time after her husband was sentenced in this case. There are no children. His wife is living with friends in the City of Buffalo, is in destitute circumstances and an object of charity. Prior to this offense the defendant had never been charged with or convicted of any crime and had a good reputation as a peaceable law-abiding citizen.

The applicant went to a Polish dance at which there was considerable drinking and which terminated in a fight. They left the dance hall and John Delack, a very much larger man than the applicant, attacked the applicant and in the struggle which followed, the applicant drew a pocket knife and cut the prosecutor three times on the left arm and hand.

Jacob L. Fisher who acted as private counsel for the Commonwealth in the prosecution, writes to the Board in regard to this case as follows:

"The attorney for applicant in the case of the application for pardon of Joe Ucak has served me with a complete copy of the application itself. I was engaged as private counsel for the Commonwealth in the prosecution by John Delack, the injured party.

"I have always felt that the sentence of the Court was too severe under the circumstances. The cutting occurred in a drunken fight and it is rather uncertain as to just how the fight actually began. Some of the testimony impressed me as if Joe Ucak may have acted in self defense. The parties lived in a mining village where there existed a great foreign population and it appeared that the sentence was made as an example to other wrongdoers.

"The defendant has been imprisoned since March, 1921, and personally it appeals to me that he has suffered sufficient punishment. As a matter of duty I beg to join in the petition for pardon for the reasons above set forth."

The Board was also furnished with the following letter from John Francies, Warden of the Western Penitentiary:

"I am in receipt of your letter of the 12th inst. requesting the prison record of Joe Ucak.

"By reason of good deportment, Joe Ucak was transferred to the New Western Penitentiary at Rockview on May 23, 1921. His deportment record is perfectly clear."

We have determined that the applicant has been sufficiently punished for the crime committed, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Joseph Ucak.

Sir: At No. 196 May Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Schuylkill, Rusario Micuso was convicted of manslaughter, and on October 31, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Schuylkill County Prison for a period of ten (10) years.

The applicant is twenty-four years of age, an Italian by birth, a naturalized citizen of the United States, and at the time of his arrest was the owner and keeper of a small country hotel in Schuylkill County, Pennsylvania. He is a veteran of the World War, volunteering for service, and received his honorable discharge with a character mark of "excellent". The applicant prior to this offense had never been charged or connected with any crime or breach of the law, and enjoyed a good reputation.

The applicant was in a hotel in Girardville with some other Italians and while there these Italians started a fight and one of them killed a cousin of the applicant by the name of Borelli. The slayer of Borelli, one Bronzo, then fled and the applicant took the gun belonging to his cousin with the intention of pursuing and arresting the murderer. He called upon the fleeing criminal to stop and on pursuit being continued fired at Bronzo's legs and Bronzo fell and later died. There were two bullet wounds on the body of Bronzo of different calibre and there was testimony to show that the one which caused his death could not have been fired from the pistol held by the applicant, which belonged to Borelli. The applicant was in no way connected with the affray which happened in the hotel, and the offense, if any, consisted in his mistaken notion that it was his duty to apprehend the murderer.

In view of these circumstances we have concluded that a pardon should be granted in this case, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Rusario Micuso.

Sir: At Nos. 137 and 138, March Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Berks, Herbert Schaeffer, Raymond Epting and Wert Brown were convicted of burglary, aggravated assault and battery with intent to kill, and larceny, and on March 1, 1919, Herbert Schaeffer was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary from five to eight years, and Raymond Epting and Wert Brown were each sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary from four to eight years.

The above applicants, in company with Lester Snyder and Paul Keller, threw a blanket upon the highway leading from Reading to Kutztown, and by means of it stopped an automobile and at the point of a revolver took money to the value of $33.00, a watch and a chain, and a stick-pin from the occupants of the automobile. The victims were directed to drive off, which they did. No shots were fired by the applicants, and complete restitution has been made of the amount stolen.

On the following night the applicants went to the home of James Saul for the purpose of stealing the money which they knew he had taken in that day as a huckster at a public sale in the vicinity, and, being refused admittance, they broke down the door and entered. Schaeffer was armed, and upon entering fired two or three shots into the ceiling. They went upstairs where they found Mr. Saul with a gun. Schaeffer took the gun from him and hit him with his fist. Saul then gave them the money, which amounted to $16.05. Restitution has also been made, of the amount stolen on this occasion.

Wilson S. Rothermel, Esq., who was Acting District Attorney at the time of the trial, writes to the Board in regard to this case as follows:

"At the time of the sentence of the applicants above referred to, I was District Attorney, and knew most of the boys personally, and I am free to say that their reputations in the neighborhood in which they live were good up to the time of the commission of the crimes.

"When the boys were sentenced, my assistants were under the impression that the sentence was too severe and I directed the first assistant to see the Court to have the sentence changed within the term. The Court said that the matter could be remedied later. I know of no way of remedying this, except through your Honorable Board. I made it my business to inquire from Hon. John McKenty as to the conduct of the boys since they were under his charge and he has written me a letter in which he says that they were well-behaved and that after their release, he believes they will become law-abiding citizens.

"I therefore endorse the recommendation for a pardon."

The Board is in receipt of petitions, numerously signed, certifying to the fact that previous to their arrest in this case the applicants had good reputations and were industrious, law-abiding citizens; that the crimes were not premeditated but were the result of drunken impulses, and that in the opinion of the petitioners the applicants have regretted their wrong-doing, are anxious to lead good lives and to live down the stigma they have brought upon themselves and their families. It is further urged that the punishment already endured has been severe enough to act as a corrective influence upon the applicants, and to be an example to the community in which they lived such as to tend to prevent further commissions of acts of this sort.

This application was refused by the Board on November 2, 1921. At the present session of the Board, however, we have concluded that the facts cited warrant a favorable recommendation, and "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Herbert Schaeffer, Raymond Epting and Wert Brown.

Sir: At No. 105 April Sessions, 1917, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of York, Jacob Parr pleaded guilty to larceny and on June 18, 1917, was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than one year nor more than two years.

The applicant is seventy years of age, a native of York, Pennsylvania, by occupation a laborer, is a widower and his residence is in York.

The applicant had served his minimum term of one year in the above case and on June 18, 1918, was released on parole. He lived in York for a short time thereafter and then went to Maryland, where he got into trouble for stealing chickens. On November 18, 1919, he was committed to the Maryland Penitentiary for a maximum term of five years. His minimum term will expire January 22, 1923.

Because of his conviction for this crime in Maryland while on parole, the parole laws of Pennsylvania will require his return to Pennsylvania to complete his unexpired maximum term in this State. The applicant is aged, mentally deficient, and will not be able to support himself by work. If he should be brought back to Pennsylvania for the completion of the sentence in this case, it would be necessary, upon his release, to send him to the poorhouse. Under these circumstances it does not seem that any good purpose can be served by further incarceration of the applicant in Pennsylvania.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be granted to the said Jacob Parr.

Sir: At Nos. 134 and 135, March Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Dauphin, Daniel A. Rowe pleaded guilty to felonious entry and larceny, and on March 1, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of five dollars, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Dauphin County Jail for a period of eleven months.

The applicant is an American citizen, twenty-two years of age, a miner by occupation, and is married. He has two babies, one two years and the other three months old. The applicant entered the garage of George C. Adams in Gratz, Dauphin County, Pennsylvania, stealing a number of auto accessories therefrom. He also entered the store of Charles Hoff in Lykens, Pennsylvania, removing fishing tackle, rods, and several other articles. He was suspected, his premises were searched, the goods were discovered, and he immediately made restitution of the goods taken.

The reasons assigned for the granting of this application are the youth of the applicant, the fact that it is his first offense, his willingness and promptness in making restitution, and that his wife and babies are a public charge.

In the hope that the sentences already incurred may be a sufficient lesson to the applicant, and in order to allow him to take care of his family, which is sorely in need of his support, we have concluded that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Daniel A. Sir: At No. 23, May Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Centre, Fred Bohn appeared in open Court and waived finding of true bill by Grand Jury on indictment filed charging rape, and on August 23, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than three nor more than five years.

The applicant is at the present time twenty years of age and unmarried, and previous to his sentence in this case was employed in the mines in the village of Snow Shoe, Centre County, Pennsylvania. He had never before been accused or convicted of the commission of any crime, and his reputation theretofore had been good. The applicant was without counsel at the time of entering the plea of guilty, and it is alleged that he did not fully comprehend the effect of what he was then doing. Since the trial it has been learned that the girl upon whom he was charged with committing the crime of rape was a girl of unchaste reputation. At the time of the arrest this girl stated that she was of the age of thirteen years, but the records of the St. Mary's Church in Snow Shoe show that she was almost sixteen years of age at that time.

Honorable Henry C. Quigley, the Trial Judge, writes the Board in regard to this case as follows:

"I am informed that a petition will be presented to you on the 21st instant for the pardon of Fred Bohn who was sentenced by me on the 23rd of August, 1920, to the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than three nor more than five years for the crime of rape. I have investigated this matter and find that the facts set forth in his petition are correct and am of the opinion that the ends of justice have been met and that the petitioner is entitled to a pardon at this time if it meets with your approval."

Because of the facts herein stated, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Fred Bohn.

Sir: At No. 28, September Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Erie, Walter G. Gray was convicted of larceny, and on September 27, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years nor more than three years.

The applicant is twenty-five years of age, of Polish nationality, and at the time of his arrest was in the real estate business in the City of Erie. He was convicted of stealing some lumber which was stored in the garage of Isaac Silver.

The Board is in receipt of a letter from Honorable William E. Hirt, President Judge of Erie County, Pennsylvania, as follows:

"About two years ago I sentenced Walter G. Gray to a minimum term of two years and ten months and a maximum of three years in the Western Penitentiary. I understand that application for his pardon is pending before your Board. In fairness to this defendant I am impelled to say that the sentence imposed was perhaps excessive and I believe that the ends of justice will be met if he be pardoned at this time.

"The offense on which I sentenced this prisoner was not serious; in sentencing him, however, I took into consideration the fact that he had some connection with another case before the Court in which a mortgage was given through misrepresentations, far in excess of the value of the property. Restitution, however, was made in that case and the other defendants were paroled."

Because of the representations of Judge Hirt, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Walter G. Gray.

Sir: At No. 173, September Sessions, 1914, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Dauphin, Robert F. Scott was convicted of murder in the second degree, and on February 8, 1915, was sentenced to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than twelve years nor more than twenty years.

At the time of the conviction in 1915 the applicant was thirty-six years of age, an American citizen, and a member of the Police Force of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. He is now forty-three years of age, having served seven years and three months in the Eastern Penitentiary and six months in the Dauphin County Prison awaiting his trial. He is married and has two children, aged fourteen and twelve years, respectively, who are now living at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Prior to his arrest in this case the applicant had never before been charged with or convicted of any crime, and his reputation in the community and as a Police Officer was good. Notes of the testimony were not taken at the trial, but it appears from the facts available that the applicant shot to death one Nathan Banks at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, in a part of the City which is known for its lawlessness and disorder. It is alleged that the applicant, in attempting to arrest Banks, met with opposition and was also threatened and intimidated by the on-lookers. He fired his revolver, ostensibly to shoot in the air, but by accident shot and killed the deceased.

An application for pardon in this case was refused on May 15, 1918, and again on October 20, 1920. Michael E. Stroup, Esq., who was District Attorney at the time of the trial in this case, writes to the Board as follows:

"While District Attorney of Dauphin County I prosecuted Robert F. Scott indicted for the murder of one Nathan Banks, and who upon trial was convicted of murder of the second degree.

"Subsequently I filed a protest with the Board of Pardons against an application made for his pardon. It was because of the frequent shootings and homicides committed in Harrisburg and vicinity at that time that I felt it my duty to make a strenuous objection to the application at that time.

"Since then I have been advised from very reliable sources that Robert F. Scott was really a man of excellent reputation and character and that probably some of the testimony offered by the Commonwealth came from witnesses who did not bear the best reputation for truthfulness and veracity.

"Under these circumstances I hereby ask leave to withdraw my former protest and let the matter rest in your hands for such action as you may deem best."

The Board is also in receipt of the following letter from Joseph P. Thompson, Chief of Police of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"I have been connected with the police department of Harrisburg for a period of seventeen years, having served as Captain of Police in 1914, when Officer Robert F. Scott shot Nathan Banks in this city. I am at the present time Chief of Police.

"Sibletown, where this affair took place, was at that time without a doubt the worst district of Harrisburg for lawlessness and disorder. Crimes were being committed almost daily there, and shooting affrays were not uncommon. On account of this condition, policemen who served in this part of the city were considered practically enemies by the inhabitants, and they often suffered insults and even attacks from some of these people. It was not unusual for them to fabricate testimony in order to incriminate an enemy.

"On the night of this shooting, I believe that a large crowd of the inhabitants of this section of the city gathered around Scott and Banks while they were arguing; no doubt intimidating the former and causing him to accidentally shoot Banks when he merely attempted to shoot in the air to disperse the crowd. I shall never believe that Officer Scott premeditated killing Banks. I might add that Nathan Banks was a bad and desperate character, causing no end of trouble in that community and had served several times in prison.

"I trust that you Honorable Board will favorably consider Robert F. Scott's application for a pardon."

Eight members of the Jury who convicted him request that a pardon be now granted, and allege that in their verdict they recommended Scott to the mercy of the Court. The Board is petitioned by some of the leading citizens of Harrisburg to recommend clemency.

We believe "this to be a meritorious case, and "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the Said Robert F. Scott.

Sir: At No. 1 April Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Northampton, John J. Jones pleaded guilty to the crime of arson and on May 2, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, the cost of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Northampton County Prison for a period of five years.

The applicant is an American citizen, about thirty-four years of age and was employed by the Bethlehem Steel Company as an ammunition worker at Bethlehem. He enlisted in the World War and saw considerable service in France. On May 21, 1919, he was honorably discharged with a certificate of character as "Excellent", and after his discharge was employed as a plumber's helper in Bethlehem. In Bethlehem he boarded at the Central Hotel and while drunk, in some manner not clearly shown, he set fire to a storeroom of the Central Hotel causing a loss of about fifty dollars. He was arrested, brought before the Court, and being in a hazy mental condition, without counsel and not conscious of the consequences of his action, he pleaded guilty and received the sentence stated.

For the purpose of showing his mental condition at the time of the plea in this case, Richard F. Pascoe, Warden of the Northampton County Prison, furnishes the Board with the following statement:

"I am warden of the Northampton County Prison and have occupied that position for a number of years. I saw and conversed with John J. Jones when he was brought to prison in April, 1921, and have observed him almost daily ever since. When he was first committed, he seemed to be in a dazed or confused state of mind. It was difficult to get him to converse in a connected or coherent way. He has at all times been a model prisoner and he is now vastly improved mentally. In fact, he is quite a different sort of man than he was when first brought to prison and I would say that he has fully recovered his mental health. From his demeanor and deportment since he has come under my care and observation, it is my opinion that he is not of a criminal tendency."

There was no motive shown for the crime and there were absolutely no facts indicating that the applicant maliciously caused the fire. Therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said John J. Jones.

Sir: At No. 2 September Sessions, 1915, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Lebanon, John A. Miller pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree, and on March 8, 1916, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than twelve years nor more than twenty years.

The applicant was a mechanic of unusual skill and prior to this offense had a good reputation, except for the past he was given to periodical sprees. He had been on a debauch for sometime prior to the commission of the crime and returned to his home in Lebanon and was lying on his bed when he heard a door slam downstairs in his house. This little noise drove him utterly crazy and he grabbed a revolver from the bureau, hastened down the stairs, called out "Who slammed that door?", and without further parley began shooting wildly, firing three shots, one of which hit his son, nineteen years of age, in the neck and inflicted a fatal wound. The family fled to the yard and sometime before the officers came into the house the applicant shot himself, not realizing what he was doing. At this time the applicant was in an alcoholic dementia. He was taken to the hospital and on the day following was told that he had killed his son, the first time that he realized what he had done.

Paul G. Adams, Esq., District Attorney of Lebanon County at the time of the trial, writes to the Board in regard to this case:

"I know the facts and circumstances of the case, having been District Attorney of Lebanon County at the time the crime was committed. There is no doubt of the fact that the applicant was on a prolonged spree, at and before the time of the shooting, and it has always been very questionable as to whether he had sufficient mental capacity in view of his alcoholic condition to distinguish the difference between right and wrong or to appreciate the nature and consequence of his act.

"As I recollect the circumstances, the Commonwealth would not have been able to show any antecedent hostility or threat, and the incoherent speech of the applicant at the time of the shooting and thereafter indicated a mentality greatly affected by drink.

"I am inclined to believe, in view of what I am informed has been the conduct of the applicant since his incarceration, and in view also of his non-criminal record up to the time of the shooting, and the other circumstances of the case, that probably the ends of justice have been met by the six years' imprisonment already served, and that a pardon, in the discretion of your Honorable Board, would be justified."

We are of the belief that the applicant has suffered mental torture from the fact that he killed his son and that this suffering and the imprisonment he has undergone make further restraint of his liberty unnecessary. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said John A. Miller.

Sir: At No. 29 September Term, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Monroe, Andrew J. Brady was convicted of felonious entry and taking a motor vehicle, and on December '6, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of two hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than seven years nor more than ten years.

The applicant is an American citizen, thirty-two years of age, by trade a pneumatic tire builder, was a resident of Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, and has a wife and two children. Prior to this offense he was never before charged with or convicted of crime and he had a good reputation.

The applicant was convicted on testimony to the effect that he took Thomas Burns and David McCaw, strangers to him, in his car and drove them to the garage where the applicant kept his car, that he delivered a key to this garage to Burns and McCaw and Burns and McCaw stole an automobile and took it to Philadelphia where they were arrested and in their testimony stated these facts, and that they stole the car at the instance of the applicant. Later they recanted their statements and alleged that their testimony as to the applicant's guilt was false. It is very strongly insisted that the applicant is entirely innocent of the offense for which he was convicted, that he had a prosperous business, was not in financial distress and bore a good reputation and that his conviction upon the testimony of the two automobile thieves was unjust.

His application was refused in the October, 1921, Sessions of the Board, but on further consideration, we have determined that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Andrew J. Brady.

Sir: At No. 447 August Sessions, 1919, in the Municipal Court of Philadelphia, Samuel Burton was convicted of larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on April 14, 1920, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than five years nor more than six years.

The applicant is thirty-eight years of age, a colored man, is married and there are no children; by trade he is an automobile mechanic, and at the time of his arrest he was working for himself at his garage in Philadelphia. Prior to his arrest in this case he had never been arrested for nor charged with the commission of any crime.

In his business of buying, selling and repairing second-hand automobiles, some four or five months prior to his arrest he sold a Chandler and a Willys-Knight automobile. The City Detectives came to his place of business and inquired if he had sold the cars. He informed them that he had and gave them the name of the person to whom the cars were sold; viz, one Stevens. He also gave them the name, as well as he could, of the person from whom he had purchased them. Receipts and bills of sale were given for these cars in his own name, and in these papers his proper address was given. There was no attempt at concealment, and apparently the whole transaction was open and regular. The cars were not defaced or changed in any way, and one car, at the time of the arrest, still bore the initials of the original owner. The applicant was taken to City Hall and he there identified the cars which he had sold. Stevens was brought into Court at the trial of the applicant, and also stated that he had purchased these cars from the applicant. The Court then said to Stevens, "You are as guilty as Burton", and directed the issuance of a bench warrant for Stevens and held him under twenty-five hundred dollars bail. Stevens was tried and acquitted.

There are no notes of testimony in this case. The applicant strenuously insists that he was innocent of the crime and his good character is certified to by a large number of reputable people who state they have known him for years and that his record is of the best.

Because of these facts we have determined to give the applicant the benefit of any doubt there may be as to his guilt. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Samuel Burton.

Sir: At No. 593 November Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Philadelphia, Joseph L. Evans pleaded guilty to robbery and on December 23, 1919, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than three years nor more than six years.

The applicant is twenty-nine years of age, single and a mechanic. He is a graduate of the School of Mines at Golden, Colorado, which is his home State. He served two years in the Australian Army during the war and two years and five months in the American Army in France. As a result he is blind in one eye, has a bullet shell in his head and a silver plate in his skull. He comes from a reputable family in Colorado, and if released will return to that State where he is assured employment.

Upon his return from France he was for a short time in Philadelphia in company with Allen Bridges. He entered a store in Philadelphia, held up the proprietor and other inmates thereof and got $250.00. He was pursued and with Bridges was captured after several shots were fired. Both men were penniless and unable to find work. Each received the same sentence, but the sentence of Bridges was remitted to imprisonment in the County prison, and on May 14, 1920, Bridges was paroled and returned to his home in Alabama.

Hon. Charles B. McMichael, the Trial Judge, writes to the Board as follows:

"I have had a thorough investigation made through the Probation Department, and have also had personal contact in the Eastern Penitentiary with the prisoner Evans, who is an applicant for pardon.

"The investigation shows that the young man Evans had a good record prior to his conviction, and has been a model prisoner during his period of confinement.

"I therefore feel that he has received ample punishment, and if your Honorable Board sees fit to grant him a pardon and return him to his home in the West, I feel that the ends of justice will be fully complied with.

"I am, with great respect,

Yours very truly,

CHARLES B. McMICHAEL."

In view of these circumstances and the recommendation of Judge McMichael, we have concluded that this is a proper case for clemency, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Joseph L. Evans.

Sir: At Nos. 731 to 737, both inclusive, November Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, John Conway pleaded guilty to larceny, forgery and false pretense, and on December 2, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than twelve months nor more than fifteen months.

The applicant is thirty-two years of age, was born in Mahanoy City, Pennsylvania, and was a bookkeeper in Philadelphia for two years prior to his arrest. In the course of his employment he came into possession of checks signed by his employers to the order of customers who had purchased jewelry and desired to return the same. Between Labor Day, 1921, and October 8, 1921, the applicant was living in a disorderly house in Philadelphia and during this period was drinking heavily and otherwise misbehaving himself in this house. He cashed checks to the amount of $882.50 with the keeper of this house and the proceeds of these checks practically all the wages earned by this applicant during that period were spent in the aforesaid house, so that the keeper thereof, to all intents and purposes, lost nothing. On recovering from his debauch the applicant went to Pittsburgh and while there he determined to return to Philadelphia and make atonement for his wrongdoing. He accordingly surrendered himself to the police in Pittsburgh and in due course the charges against him were disposed of as hereinbefore recited.

The applicant is now in serious physical condition because of the fact that his back was broken when he was a child, and it is now necessary to have three ribs removed on his left side an operation must be performed, and the same can only be properly performed in a hospital. A responsible position is assured the applicant if he is released from prison and the operation is successful, by the Buck Run Coal Company of Minersville, Pennsylvania.

Because of the previous good record of the applicant and his present physical condition, we have determined that he has been sufficiently punished, and therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said John Conway.

Sir: At No. 8 May Term, 1916, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Washington Pietro Mancini pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree, and on May 29, 1916, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than nine years nor more than twenty years.

The applicant is twenty-eight years of age, an Italian citizen, by trade a coal miner, is married, his wife and two children living in Italy, and at the time of his arrest was employed at the coal mines in Washington County.

The applicant was a boarder at the house of Mrs. Fabyian. A controversy arising between him and some of the other boarders, the applicant was thrown out into the street. He had been choked and beaten and after he landed outside the house he pulled a revolver and shot at random toward the house. The door of the house had been closed and one of the bullets fired by the applicant went through the door and struck Michael Dolen, causing his death. Dolen had got into the house a few minutes previously and had no part in the quarrel. The other shots fired by the applicant missed the house entirely.

The facts show no premeditation, no hardness of heart or intention to kill, but careless and reckless use of a deadly weapon.

The District Attorney of Washington County stated at the hearing of this application that he is favorable to a recommendation of clemency.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Pietro Mancini.

Sir: At No. 24 September Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Beaver, Frank Poff was convicted of murder in the second degree and on November 19, 1920, was sentenced to undergo imprisonment for a term of not less than two years and six months nor more than three years.

The applicant is twenty-six years of age, by Nationality an Italian, his trade or occupation was that of an electric crane-man and at the time of his arrest was employed by the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel Company at Midland, Pa. Prior to this offense the applicant had never been charged with nor convicted of any crime and his reputation had been good. Poff was a steady worker, missing only an occasional day. One day he came to his home and found his wife in a struggle with one, Facci, who was a boarder at the house, and who, it is alleged was making an adulterous attack upon the applicant's wife, begging her to desert her home and family and go away with him, and declaring he would make her rich. He threatened to kill her husband and children if she refused to go. During the struggle the wife had seized a base-ball bat, and when the applicant realized the situation he seized the bat from his wife and struck Facci two blows on the head, which caused his death about a month after the attack.

Honorable John A. Berkley, Trial Judge, writes the Board as follows:

"I respectfully submit that I presided at the trial of the above named applicant for pardon. The verdict rendered by the jury was 'guilty of murder of the second degree', but in my judgment the evidence warranted only manslaughter; and while I refused a new trial, I took the view of the case in consideration in the imposition of sentence. The testimony revealed disputed questions of fact which the jury passed upon under direction of the court, but there was enough in the testimony of the case to create in the mind of a reasonable man a strong suspicion that the homicide resulted from the belief on the part of the defendant that the deceased was seeking illicit relations with the defendant's wife by force, the defendant, her husband, coming upon the scene while the altercation was in progress. Under these circumstances, and the further fact that the defendant's wife and children are without support save the earnings of the wife, I believe this to be a case in which the pardoning power might properly be extended to the defendant.

Very respectfully submitted,

JOHN A. BERKEY, P. J.,
16th Jud. Dist., May 16, 1922."

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Frank Poff.

Sir: At Nos. 13 and 14 October Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, John McKinney pleaded guilty to bigamy and adultery and on October 6, 1920, was sentenced in the aggregate to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Jail for the term of two years.

The applicant was a World War Veteran and upon his return married a girl in New York City. After he had lived with her for a time he alleges she told him that she had been previously married to another and had not secured a divorce. Thereafter he came to Philadelphia and there married and cohabitated with one Helen Weiglein, and he was arrested for bigamy and adultery with the result above stated. Since his imprisonment his wife in New York City has obtained a divorce from him and he is now single.

The applicant is forty-two years of age, a citizen of the United States by birth and allegiance, and at the time of his arrest was employed as a packer in the warehouse of the Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia. Prior to this offense he had never before been accused of a crime in this State or elsewhere. The applicant is now suffering from physical disability as a result of a wound received while a member of the military forces of the United States in France. He is anxious to draw the benefits of the vocational training which is offered by the United States Government, and unless released in the near future he will lose this privilege.

Because of these facts we have determined that the interests of justice have been served by the punishment already incurred, and therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said John McKinney.

Sir: At No. 9 March Term, 1917, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Beaver, Pennsylvania, James Pentland pleaded guilty to breaking and entering, and on April 24, 1919, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $1.00, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a term of not less than five years nor more than ten years.

The applicant is forty years of age, was born in Leesville, Ohio, by occupation was an electrician and craneman, and at the time of his arrest was employed by the Treadwell Construction Company at Midland, Pennsylvania. He has a wife and three children, the oldest being thirteen years of age. Prior to this offense he had never before been charged with or convicted of any crime in this State or elsewhere. Some time before the offense in this case the applicant had been drinking heavily and had been consorting with some Italian friends, among them being a family by the name of Reich. Constable E. E. Etter had arrested the Reichs on the charge of selling liquor without a license and for which they underwent sentences. On or about the 30th of April, 1917, while Pentland was in an irresponsible condition because of drink, being supplied with liquor by the Reichs and others, Pentland bought some dynamite, signed his own name in full and gave his proper address in Midland, returned to Midland and delivered the dynamite to Reich. While in a drunken condition, in consideration of money paid him by Reich, he placed the dynamite under the porch of the residence of Constable Etter, laid a stone over it and lit the fuse, striking the matches to make the light and causing so much light that passers-by saw and recognized him. The explosion injured no one and did not do a great deal of damage. He did not attempt to run away, and on the next morning was arrested with the results above stated.

We have concluded that the punishment already incurred by the applicant should be a sufficient lesson to restrain him from further lawless acts and is a sufficient warning to others to refrain from similar misdeeds.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said James Pentland.

Sir: At No. 543 December Sessions, 1918, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Jesse Yost pleaded guilty to forgery, and on December 19, 1918, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for the term of one year. On December 23, 1918, the sentence was reconsidered and the applicant discharged on probation for the period of one year. On January 17, 1919, the order of probation was rescinded and the sentence of one year reimposed. On January 27, 1919, the defendant was discharged on parole.

The petitioner is thirty-seven years of age, is married and has a wife and one child living in Philadelphia.

The applicant pleaded guilty to passing a forged check drawn on the Belmont Trust Company in the amount of $117.34, payable to cash, with the signature of John H. Howgate, Jr., as maker, this signature proving to be false. The applicant made full restitution to the Bank for the loss the Bank had incurred. Since his release on parole he has conducted himself in an exemplary manner. Honorable John M. Patterson, the trial Judge, writes the Board in regard to this case, as follows:

"I herewith join in recommending the pardoning of Jesse Yost. On January 27, 1919, I placed Mr. Yost on parole for a term of one year. He has ever since then conducted himself in a most worthy manner. At the present time he is employed as a private watchman for three blocks of houses between Market and Walnut and 48th to 51st Streets, this city. The reason that he is asking for this pardon is that all disabilities may be removed, I regard his case as a most worthy one."

The District Attorney of Philadelphia stated to the Board at the hearing that he has investigated the conduct of the applicant since his release upon parole and has found that he has behaved himself in a commendable way, and that he joins in the request for favorable consideration of this application.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Jesse Yost.

Sir: At No. 8 October Sessions, 1914, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Allegheny, Pennsylvania, Antonio Arcocchi was convicted of murder in the second degree, and on January 29, 1915, was sentenced to pay a fine of six and a quarter cents to the Commonwealth, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo an imprisonment of not less than nineteen years nor more than twenty years in the Western Penitentiary.

The applicant is an Italian, thirty-three years of age, was a laborer, is unmarried, and at the time of his arrest lived at West Park, Allegheny County, with his brother.

In a fight between three or four Americans and four or five Italians at the Norwood Hotel at McKees Rocks, Pennsylvania, July 27, 1914, one David Bell was killed by being stabbed with a knife. The applicant was present at this fight and with others was ejected from the hotel. After their ejection from the hotel the fight continued in the street and it was there that Bell was killed. It is alleged that the stab wounds were inflicted by one Romeo, but at any rate, after the casualty Romeo and the applicant fled and were later captured. There was no direct evidence that the applicant was the inflicter of the fatal wounds.

Prior to this case the applicant had a good character and had never before been accused of any offense.

The District Attorney, Harry H. Rowand, has forwarded to the Board a letter of Peter M. Cancelliere, who was the Assistant District Attorney who tried the case. The letter of Mr. Cancelliere is as follows:

"In reply to your favor of the 13th inst. with reference to the application for pardon of one, Antonio Arecchi, convicted of murder in the second degree at O. & T. No. 8 October Sessions, 1914, will say that I recall that I was the trial assistant in the case.

The theory on which the prosecution was conducted, which resulted in his conviction, was that he was present aiding and abetting the co-defendant, who perpetrated the actual killing. The facts, as I recall them, are briefly as follows:

A general fight over the possession of a chair occurred between one, David Alexander Bell, the deceased, Thomas Adair, and other Americans on one side and the two defendants and other Italians on the other side. This was on the evening of July 27, 1914, and occurred in the Norwood Hotel, McKees Rocks, Pa.

The great bulk of the testimony conclusively established that there was a general fight, a great deal of excitement and that Romeo, the co-defendant, stabbed David Alexander Bell, resulting in the latter's death. There was a general melee inside of the saloon followed by a minor altercation out on the street.

As to Arecchi, the applicant in question, my recollection is that none of the Commonwealth witnesses were able to say that he had a knife in his hand or was seen using the same in the altercation in the saloon, excepting one witness, Andrew Linner, whose testimony was to the effect that he saw the said Arecchi with a knife outside the saloon on the street. This phase of the testimony, together with the circumstance of his flight from the scene of the fight with the co-defendant, Romeo, and his subsequent arrest, being found at or near the place where Romeo was apprehended, took the case to the Jury upon which his conviction was found.

There was a great effort made at the time by counsel for defendant, Arecchi, to show the unreliability of the testimony given by Andrew Linner, by attempting to show his mental condition. As a matter of fact, I am bound to say at this late date, that my recollection of Andrew Linner is that he was not a strong minded man and did not impress me at the time as being altogether mentally normal. It seems that this man had sustained an injury to his head, which resulted in the witness suffering lapses of memory and trouble with his head.

While I was satisfied with the verdict as rendered, I must frankly state that I was not overly impressed with the source of the evidence which was presented against Antonio Arecchi, concerning the actual participation in the stabbing, which resulted in the death of D. A. Bell. Thomas Adair was wounded in the fight at or near the door of the saloon, as the crowd rushed towards the swinging doors of the saloon entrance to reach the outside. It is also clear to my mind that Arecchi and Romeo did not know each other well on the evening of this quarrel and that the stabbing was not the result of any prearrangement between them, but sprung out of a fight merely over the possession of a chair and the conduct of the deceased was very provoking, at the time, although it did not justify Romeo perpetrating the act.

I have written a brief letter to the Board of Pardon to the same effect and have had notice served upon me by Counsel for applicant.

To you, as District Attorney of Allegheny County, I say frankly, as I view this case at the present time and looking back over the evidence, having just looked over the testimony, that for my part I am satisfied whatever action you take in the matter and give you my opinion that I believe that Antonio Arecchi's participation in this affair was such that I believe he has been sufficiently punished and for that reason would not oppose his release on a pardon."

Because of these facts, and "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Antonio Arecchi.

Sir: At No. 22 September Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Erie, Edward Rodgers was convicted of arson and on April 16, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than five years nor more than ten years. On December 31, 1919, he was paroled by the Court and placed on probation until further order of the Court. On April 16, 1920, the order for parole was revoked and sentence was imposed as stated.

The applicant is thirty-four years of age, a Portuguese and at the time of his arrest was in the grocery and confectionery business in the City of Erie. Prior to this offense he had never been charged with or convicted of any crime. The crime for which he was convicted was the soliciting and engaging one Thomas Kameran to set fire to the grocery and confectionery store owned by the applicant. The conviction was had upon the confession and testimony of the accomplice, Kameran. The credibility of Kameran's story was doubted and because of the good reputation of the applicant in the community, the sentence was suspended.

Honorable William E. Hirt, Trial Judge, writes the Board in regard to this case:

"Edward Rodgers was convicted by a jury in September, 1919, of the crime of arson before Judge E. L. Whittelsey, now deceased, and on December 31, 1919, was paroled to Frank H. Watson, then County Detective. On April 16, 1920, this defendant was accused by a merchant in the City of Erie of having negotiated a bogus check in his store; no information was made against the defendant on account of this check. Both the merchant and the defendant appeared before me and though the defendant maintained the merchant was mistaken in his identification, I was satisfied that the defendant was guilty of passing this check, whereupon I revoked the parole and sentenced him to a minimum of five years in the Western Penitentiary.

"A number of respected citizens of Erie have become interested in behalf of the defendant and I believe that this interest will continue in the event of his release. The defendant has served two years of the sentence imposed and I am inclined to think that the ends of justice have been met in his case, and that he might now be pardoned with safety to himself and the community."

Because of the facts stated in Judge Hirt's letter, we have decided that this application should be granted, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Edward Rodgers.

Sir: At No. 1 April Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Elk, Gregorio Monea was convicted of murder in the first degree and on April 12, 1922, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

The applicant is sixty-one years of age, is a citizen of Italy and has been in the United States since March 1906. By occupation he was a common laborer and at the time of his arrest was employed by the Elk Tanning Company at Ridgway, Pennsylvania, which was the place of his residence. He is married, has two sons in this country and it is reported that he has a wife and family in Italy. Prior to his conviction in this case he had not been convicted of any crime in the United States, but it is alleged that he was convicted and served imprisonment in Italy for the stabbing of his cousin.

The crime was the killing of Edward Dill at Johnsonburg, Pennsylvania. The applicant and his two sons on the day of the crime went from Ridgway to Johnsonburg and at Johnsonburg in a band hall engaged in a controversy with one Frank Chirillo. Some revolver shots were fired and Edward Dill, a young man who was having his shoes shined in the band hall and who had no part whatever in the controversy, was killed by a .32 calibre revolver shot. The two sons of the applicant who were with him at this time pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree and were duly sentenced therefor.

The Grand Jury and every member of the Jury which convicted him have written recommending that the sentence of death be commuted.

Honorable Eugene H. Baird, President Judge, who presided at the trial of the applicant, writes to the Board quite fully in regard to this case as follows:

"The applicant was indicted jointly with his two sons, Frank and Lorenzo, for the murder of Edward Dill. He was tried separately and convicted of murder in the first degree. The theory of the Commonwealth was that the applicant and his sons had planned the death of Frank Cherillo, but that in the attempt to carry out their purpose Edward Dill, an innocent bystander, was accidentally or incidentally killed. There was evidence in the case which, if believed, warranted the verdict, but the testimony on the part of the Commonwealth was not entirely consistent and was seriously tainted by what appears to have been deliberate falsehood on the part of Frank Cherillo himself. The affray took place in front of an Italian band hall in Johnsonburg. The front room of this band hall was used as a shoe shine parlor. Immediately prior to the shooting Edward Dill was in this shoe shine parlor having his shoes shined. While he was there the Moneas and Frank Cherillo, the latter accompanied by several of his friends, met on the sidewalk in front of the hall. Other friends of Cherillo were inside. An altercation ensued between Cherillo and the Moneas and two or more shots were fired. Frank Cherillo testified that the applicant fired two shots just as one Redman and Edward Dill were going out the front door of the band hall, although he does not say that he fired the shot that killed. Domenico Cherillo testified that Edward Dill was right by the door trying to go out when the first shot was fired and that he was shot by the applicant, but he explained that his reason for saying so was that he saw no one else have a revolver. Joe Morasco testified that at the time the first shot was fired he was just inside the door and that Dill was then on the bench at one side of the room which would have been out of range of the shot if fired from in front towards the door as testified by other witnesses. This witness testified that the applicant fired the first shot, but does not pretend to say who fired the second and third shots. Louis Notarianna testified that the applicant shot Dill as he came out of the door; that a second and a third shot was fired, but by whom he does not say as he walked or ran away from the band hall when the first shot was fired. It will thus be seen that the testimony of Morasco and Notarianni was not entirely consistent and some doubt has been thrown on the testimony of the latter owing to the fact that he either did not so testify before the Coroner's Inquest, or, if he did, his testimony was not given full credence by the Coroner's Jury for the return made by them was in the alternative, that is, that Edward Dill came to his death as result of shot fired by one or another of the Moneas, naming them all. Unfortunately no notes were taken of the testimony given at the Coroner's Inquest except by a newspaper reporter and they are indefinite as to the exact words of Notarianni and the members of the Coroner's Jury differ in their recollection of his testimony. He is the only witness who undertook upon the trial to say positively that the applicant fired the fatal shot.

"The testimony of the applicant and his two sons, if believed, not only exonerated them from all blame, but tended to show that the shot which killed Dill may have been fired by Frank Cherillo himself. That a fight or scuffle took place between Frank Cherillo and Frank Monea is shown both by the testimony of the Commonwealth and of the defendant. The applicant testified that Frank Cherillo began the affray by shooting him on the wrist after some conversation between them concerning a job for one of the sons of the applicant; that his sons, who followed him to the band hall, came to his rescue and endeavored to get him away, when Frank Cherillo turned upon his son Frank Monea and shot him in the shoulder that a scuffle then ensued between Frank Cherillo and Frank Monea and that the latter grabbed the hand of the former in which was held the revolver and turned it away from himself and up and back over Cherillo's shoulder towards the band hall and that Cherillo continued firing while holding the revolver in that position. All of the Moneas denied having had a revolver until after the subsidence of the affray at the band hall when the applicant admitted having obtained one which he gave to his son Frank and which was later found near the scene of the latter's arrest. This was a 32 calibre revolver. The bullet extracted from Dill's body was a 32 calibre bullet. At first Frank Cherillo denied having had a revolver at the band hall at the time of this occurrence, or that he had given one to Chief of Police O'Donnel or that the Chief had taken one from him a few minutes later, but afterwards upon being recalled said that after the shooting he had gone home and obtained a 38 calibre revolver which he subsequently gave to O'Donnel. The evidence clearly established that the revolver which the Chief of Police obtained or took from Cherillo at the band hall a very few minutes after the shooting was a 32-calibre one. It is therefore apparent that he testified falsely at least in regard to the calibre of the revolver which he gave to or which the Chief of Police took from him. The incident is significant in view of the fact that the bullet extracted from Dill's body was a 32 calibre bullet and corresponded as well with the revolver found in the possession of Cherillo as with the revolver picked up at the scene of Frank Monea's arrest. At the time of the arrest of the applicant and his two sons they all had wounds which they claimed to have received at the hands of Frank Cherillo and his friends. The Commonwealth's contention was that their wounds had been self inflicted, or in the case of Frank Monea that his wound was received at the time of his arrest.

"As we said in the beginning there was evidence which, if believed, warranted the verdict, but there was also evidence from which the jury might reasonably have inferred that the shooting of Dill was the result of a sudden quarrel in which both sides participated. We felt at the conclusion of the trial and feel now that there was enough in the case to have raised a reasonable doubt in the minds of the jury concerning at least the degree of the applicant's guilt. At the conclusion of their father's trial the sons offered and the Commonwealth accepted their plea of guilty to murder in the second degree and they were accordingly sentenced, one to not less than ten nor more than twelve years and the other to not less than twelve nor more than fifteen years in the Western Penitentiary.

"Under all of the circumstances we think the ends of justice would be fully satisfied if the applicant's sentence were commuted to life imprisonment and we unhesitatingly so recommend."

The Board is constrained to accede to the request of the Trial Judge that mercy be extended in this case, and accordingly, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," we recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon the said Gregorio Monea be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 736 October Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Charles Hickman was convicted of murder in the first degree and on January 12, 1922, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

The applicant is forty-two years of age, an American of African descent, and was a street cleaner for the City of Philadelphia, with his residence at 508 South Juniper Street, Philadelphia. He was a married man with no children. He had a good reputation and had not been charged with crime prior to this offense. The applicant and his wife did not live in harmonious relations. The difficulty seemed to have arisen from the fact that the wife had been previously married, had a grown son and two daughters and these children visited the home and were taken care of by the mother to some extent out of the earnings of the applicant. This practice led to many quarrels and disputes between Hickman and his wife. On Sunday, November 27, 1921, a quarrel of particularly violent character broke out. Hickman, according to his confession and the evidence in the case, left the house, bought a revolver, a box of cartridges and a half-pint of gin, returned to his home and continued the quarrel with his wife. Subsequently they both drank the gin and the wife is alleged to have attempted to strike Hickman and he shot her two or three times with a small calibre revolver. She left the house and walked to the Polyclinic hospital some six squares away and there died during the day. Hickman took the pistol with him, walked to the station house at Twelfth and Pine Streets and informed the sergeant that he had shot his wife, delivered the pistol to the officer, confessed his crime and in due course was convicted.

The reasons submitted for the commutation are the facts that the applicant is of weak mentality, subject to epileptic fits and at times becoming entirely irrational. The jury at the time of the trial, undoubtedly impressed with the mental weakness of the prisoner, accompanied their verdict with a recommendation to the mercy of the Court.

Honorable John M. Patterson, the Trial Judge in this case, writes to the Board as follows:

"Understanding that the case of Commonwealth vs. Charles Hickman, Court of Oyer and Terminer, October Sessions 1921, No. 736-737, is coming before you for commutation to life imprisonment in place of capital punishment, I desire to say that I favor the same. There was evidence of drunkenness on the part of the defendant at the time of the commission of the crime. Under the circumstances I feel that the ends of justice will be well served if the sentence of the defendant be commuted to imprisonment for life."

We have determined that justice will be served in this case if the sentence of electrocution is commuted to life imprisonment. We accordingly, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon the said Charles Hickman be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 2 December Term, 1904, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Fayette, James Ezell was convicted of murder in the first degree and on February 27, 1905, was sentenced to be hanged. On November 15, 1905, the sentence of death was commuted to life imprisonment.

The applicant is now forty-two years of age and has been in the penitentiary for the offense which he committed for almost eighteen years. Prior to the commission of the crime he had a good reputation as a law-abiding citizen and was a telegraph operator with steady employment and was regular in the performance of his duties. For nearly a month prior to the tenth of December, 1914, he had been employed by the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company as a telegraph operator at Newell, Pennsylvania. William G. Porter, the deceased, was the Assistant Yard Master of said Railroad Company at Newell.

Ezell worked the night turn and on Friday night, September ninth, had been drinking heavily so that late in the night he slept while on duty. When Ezrell's condition became known, the day operator took his place and on the following morning Ezell, with another employe, went to Pittsburgh where he attended a ball game and continued his drinking so that he returned to Newell that evening under the effects of liquor. He went to the operator's room, which was used by the telegraph operator and the Assistant Yard Master, where he found the day operator Coyne, still on duty. Ezell started to go to work and at that time Porter came in and told him he would not be allowed to work. A discussion arose in which Ezell denied Porter's authority to suspend or discharge him. The applicant insisted upon his right to work whereupon Porter, who was a much larger man, put him out of the office and in doing so a scuffle took place during which the applicant was somewhat injured. Ezell then went to his boarding house about eighty feet distant and returned to the office, taking with him his razor, as he said, for the purpose of defending himself. Upon his return Porter came to him in the office and asked what he was doing there and said that he thought he had put him out once, whereupon the applicant waved him back with his hand stating that he was talking to the Chief Despatcher about the matter. Later Porter is alleged to have gone to the telephone and called up the Yard Master in regard to Ezell's working and at this time a scuffle again ensued during which the applicant struck Porter a blow with a razor, cutting the jugular vein and carotid artery and causing the death of Porter. Ezell then left Fayette County finally arriving in Buena Vista, Virginia, where he was arrested. He returned to this State without requisition, was tried and convicted as above recited.

The reason assigned by the applicant for the granting of a pardon is that he believed he was unlawfully ejected from his office by Porter and that in the excitement which occurred in the resistance of this unlawful action, without prior design or malice aforethought, but in an attempt to protect himself in the position he held, he committed the fatal act. The conduct of the applicant during his imprisonment has been good and it is believed that if released he can resume his life with a mature mind and a sound body and with every probability of his becoming a useful citizen. There is a position awaiting him as a telegraph operator on the Paducah and Evansville Districts of the Kentucky Division of the Illinois Central Railroad Company.

An application for a pardon in this case was refused on April 18, 1917. The Board is moved to recommend a pardon at the present time because of the youth of the applicant at the time the crime was committed, his previous good record, his good behavior in the penitentiary during the long sentence he has served, and because the circumstances of the case indicate it was improbable that the killing was the result of malicious intent to kill, but was rather the result of an encounter in which hot blood was suddenly aroused.

In this view of the case the punishment already endured should meet the requirements of justice. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said James Ezell.

Sir: At No. 71 June Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Quarter Sessions of the Peace and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Lehigh, Roy Middlecamp was convicted of arson and on September 25, 1919, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Lehigh County Jail for a period of four years.

On October 29, 1919, upon petition of the President of the Board of Inspectors of the Lehigh County Prison, the applicant was removed by order of the Court from the Lehigh County Prison to the Homeopathic State Hospital at Rittersville, Pennsylvania, and is now confined in that institution.

The applicant is twenty-eight years of age, unmarried, a mechanic by trade and was a resident of Allentown, Pennsylvania, for about one year prior to his arrest. Together with Frank Emmett, whose pardon has recently been granted, he was convicted of burning a moving picture theatre in Allentown, Pennsylvania. The conviction was obtained largely upon the testimony of Frank Wernett who later recanted his testimony and stated that he swore falsely. The applicant became mentally unsound shortly after his conviction.

The Board is in receipt of the following letter from Dr. Henry I. Klopp, Superintendent of the Homeopathic State Hospital at Rittersville, Pennsylvania:

"In re: Roy Middlecamp

"In answer to your letter of June 23rd relative to the above named, a patient under care and treatment in this hospital, would say that he was admitted October 30, 1919, upon Court Order as a transfer from the Lehigh County Jail to this institution. A copy of the said order is herewith enclosed.

"At the time of his admission he showed definite mental symptoms, gave evidence of false hearing with imaginary ideas as the thought that his food was poisoned. He was resistive, at times would stand in one place and position for a long time. He refused to co-operate, and made all replies in a whisper. His case was diagnosed Dementia Praecox, Catatonic Type.

"During his entire hospital residence the character of his mental symptoms and general attitude has been praecox. For a long time he was unstable, and it was impossible to get him to co-operate, with it showing evidence of false hearing. Irritability has also been a prominent symptom with short periods of excitement. Since the beginning of 1921 he has been more stable, at which time his record states that he was co-operating fairly well, and it was possible to get him to occupy himself. In August, 1921, he co-operated well; at that time he willingly assisted with whatever work was given him to do. He also took up typewriting and shorthand, instructions being given by the Educational Director of the Board for Vocational Training, then under the U. S. Public Health Service. He continues to take an interest in these studies. In addition he assists with work in our Occupational Therapy department.

"The chief feature within this year has been periods of irritability, and he is inclined to want his own way. These periods however are of a transitory character. At such times he has stated that he felt nervous and restless. Whenever interviewed, he makes a good impression, and talks about matters of interest. Since the beginning of 1921 there has been no record of his having manifested evidence of false hearing. Physically he is in good condition, present weight being 125 lbs."

The reasons for the recommendation in this case are the doubt as to the guilt of the applicant, and the fact that Frank Emmett, an alleged principal with the applicant, has been pardoned for the crime of which he and Middlecamp were convicted.

The Board has been informed that the applicant upon his release will be cared for by a sister who resides in Hagerstown, Maryland, and who is ready to furnish a home and whatever medical care may be needed by him.

We, therefore "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Roy Middlecamp.

Sir: At No. 138 September Sessions, 1909, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Dauphin, Wells W. Detweiler was convicted of murder in the first degree and on May 19, 1910, was sentenced to be hanged. On April 25, 1911, the death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and the applicant has, therefore, been a prisoner since September 12, 1909.

The applicant is fifty-four years of age, a citizen of the United States, with his residence in Harrisburg, and is unmarried. For about a week prior to the crime of which he was convicted Detweiler had been excessively smoking and using opium and on the evening before the crime took an opium pill about the size of a pea and soon thereafter went to the Owls Club at the Corner of Market and Fifth Streets in the City of Harrisburg, where he spent the night drinking steadily up until midnight. At that time Thomas Dwyer, the deceased, joined in the conversation in which Detweiler was engaged and also drank with him. Detweiler and the deceased played cards and other games of chance for money all through the night, during all this time drinking steadily. At about seven in the morning they engaged in a controversy over who should have the money for which they were gambling. Detweiler got up to leave the club and in walking fell flat on his back and was unable to arise without assistance. Upon being assisted to arise he went down stairs, proceeded to a pawn shop nearby where he purchased a revolver, had it loaded, put it in his coat pocket, went back to the Owls Club room, entered the bathroom where Dwyer was sitting with his head bent down and forward and fired two shots in close succession into Dwyer's body causing almost immediate death. Detweiler then went to an adjoining room and went to sleep and shortly thereafter was placed under arrest.

There was no motive shown for the killing, the relations between the deceased and applicant having been quite friendly.

For many years prior to the fatality, the applicant was addicted to the use of morphine and opium and while under the influence of such drugs was totally irresponsible and after reason returned he had no recollection of what had occurred at such times. At the time of the commission of the offense the applicant undoubtedly was in such a state of mind, due to the use of opium and alcohol, so as to be unable to reason or to discern right from wrong or to form a malicious intent to kill.

Lieutenant Governor Beidleman, who was one of the attorneys for Detweiler at his trial in the Dauphin County Court, did not sit with the Board in the hearing of the application, had no part in the determination of the use and does not sign the recommendation for the pardon.

The Board has been furnished with a petition signed by a number of the most reputable citizens of the City of Harrisburg reciting the facts as above stated and alleging that in the belief of the petitioners the ends of justice have been met and that sufficient punishment has been endured.

The Board is constrained to favorably recommend a pardon in this case because of the probability that the crime committed did not rise higher than murder in the second degree, which crime has been expiated by the punishment already endured, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Wells W. Detweiler.

Sir: At No. 13 September Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Monroe, Steve Leposki pleaded guilty to robbery and larceny and in September 25, 1910, was sentenced to pay a fine of $600, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than nine years no more than ten years.

The applicant is twenty-six years of age, a native and citizen of Poland, and came to this country with his mother and father when he was at the age of ten years. He resided at Ashley, Luzerne County, until a short time before his arrest and was the sole support of his parents for some six years prior thereto.

By occupation he was a miner until five weeks before his arrest when he left to take a job on a merchant vessel and during this period he roamed around doing odd jobs until he committed the crime of which he pleaded guilty. Prior to this offense he had a good reputation and had never been convicted of crime.

On September 20, 1919, in the afternoon he walked into the store of N. W. Warner at Reeders, Monroe County, Pennsylvania, flourished a revolver and took from the cash drawer a sum of money amounting to sixty or seventy dollars and made his escape to the mountains. There were present in the store at this time the wife of the proprietor and two men. He was pursued by a posse, overtaken and arrested on the following day.

The reasons alleged for the pardon are the severity of the sentence, considering the age of the offender, the previous good conduct and the belief that the imprisonment already suffered has had a corrective influence and will deter him from committing similar offenses in the future. This application was refused on June 15, 1921, for the reason that it was believed that the prisoner had not at that time sufficiently expiated his crime.

The Board is in receipt of numerous letters, one from his Pastor and one from Frank McQuown, Burgess of Ashley, Pennsylvania, who states that Leposki is a man of good family, steady habits and was conscientious and honest in the performance of his duty until the present offense and that his mother is in great need of his support.

The District Attorney does not oppose the pardon and Honorable Samuel E. Shull, President Judge of Monroe County, writes inter alia:

"As far as I am concerned I will be entirely satisfied with any action which the Board of Pardons may feel circumstances in this case warrant."

We have determined that this is a proper case for the exercise of Executive clemency, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Steve Leposki.

Sir: At Nos. 714, 715 and 716, April Term, 1917, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery and Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Frank Smith, alias Jesse Murphy, Frank Brown, Charles M. Stanton, Joe Black, Frank Ryan, Frank Connors, Jesse Bunker, was convicted of assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery with intent to kill, carrying concealed deadly weapons and robbery, and on May 2, 1917 was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of $3.00 and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a minimum period of twelve years and a maximum period of thirteen years.

The applicant is thirty-six years of age and an American citizen, being a native of the State of Massachusetts. He has served approximately five years and three months of his sentence. This application is made by John W. McKenty, Parole Officer of the Eastern Penitentiary, and attached to the application are two copies of bills of indictment charging the said Frank Smith with the commission of the murder of Edward T. Foley on February 17, 1917, and with the murder of Ordway R. Hall on February 21, 1917, in the State of Massachusetts. Both of the murdered men were managers of Atlantic and Pacific Tea Stores in Boston and their deaths were caused by shooting during the commission of the crime of robbery.

Honorable Thomas C. O'Brien, District Attorney, Suffolk District of Boston, Massachusetts, writes that both of the murders were wanton and cold blooded, and that the evidence in the possession of the Commonwealth against Smith is convincing and conclusive as to his guilt. It is the intention to place Smith on trial as soon as can be, consistent with justice, after his return to Massachusetts. The sole reason for recommending this pardon is to allow his return to Massachusetts for trial upon the more serious charge of murder.

The pardon should be attached to the requisition and delivered to the officer who is to take Smith to Massachusetts for trial there.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Frank Smith.

Sir: At No. 959, October Term, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Charles Moore was convicted of assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery, and on June 6, 1922, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for a period of ten months.

The applicant is forty-eight years of age, a citizen of the United States, and at the time of his arrest was a patrolman on the police force of the City of Philadelphia. He is married and has two children. Prior to his arrest he had been on the police force of Philadelphia for thirteen years and before that he was in the service of the United States army for twelve years.

The offense for which he was convicted was hitting one Joseph Bower over the head with his club in attempting to make an arrest. It is alleged that Bower was drunk and had made derogatory and insulting comments and had threatened to take away the applicant's club, and that Bower had resisted arrest and in the struggle the applicant struck him several times with the club.

The health of the applicant at the present time is not good and further incarceration may have a bad effect upon him. Because of his previous good record and the fact that this is his first offense we have concluded that this is a meritorious case.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Charles Moore.

Sir: At Nos. 652 and 653, April Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Samuel Kramer was convicted of receiving stolen goods, and on June 7, 1922, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for a period of six months.

The Petitioner is forty years of age, a citizen of the United States, and has been in the wholesale junk business for a period of fourteen years. He is a married man and is the father of five children, whose ages are from two to fourteen years. He has never before been charged with crime.

A large quantity of burlap bags had been stolen from a warehouse by Andrew Tepper. Tepper sold some of these bags to the applicant and some to a man by the name of Kanefsky. The applicant and Kanefsky were tried together on the charge of receiving stolen goods. The District Attorney stated to the Board that it is doubtful whether Kramer would have been convicted if he had been tried alone. His character has been of the best up to the charge in this case. The District Attorney further stated that the applicant was negligent in purchasing anything from a man like Tepper, but that the case against Kramer was not a strong one.

In consideration of the previous character of the applicant and of the statement of the District Attorney, we have concluded that he has been sufficiently punished for any crime which he may have committed.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Samuel Kramer.

Sir: At Nos. 370 and 371, December Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Harry Lang was convicted of larceny and with assault and battery with intent to kill, and was sentenced in the aggregate to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than five years nor more than seven years.

The applicant is twenty-eight years of age, a mechanic by occupation and has lived in Philadelphia all of his life.

In company with another he was arrested by a police officer in the City of Philadelphia on December 1, 1918, and charged with larceny of goods from a freight car on the Pennsylvania Railroad and with shooting at the officer who made the arrest. The applicant and his companion at the time of the arrest attempted to flee and the officer shot the applicant twice and also wounded his companion Greene so that he is still a cripple. Green was discharged from the hospital and has never been prosecuted for the alleged offense. Lang was convicted practically on the testimony of the officer who made the arrest. This officer has been convicted of perjury in Philadelphia within the past year, and is now under bail awaiting trial upon a second charge of perjury. The applicant insists that he is innocent of the crime for which he was convicted. Employment awaits him upon his release.

Because of the apparent unreliability of the testimony upon which the conviction was had, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Harry Lang.

Sir: At No. 18, September Term, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, in and for the County of Somerset, George Nestranski was convicted of assault and battery with intent to kill and on September 12, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of one dollar and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than two years and not more than two years six months.

The applicant is an Austrian citizen, twenty-five years of age, a coal miner by occupation and lived at Berlin, Pennsylvania.

On July 4, 1921, near Berlin the applicant was drinking in a bar room with a number of others, and it is alleged that one, Priatka, hit the applicant, whereupon, Priatka and his companions were ejected from the Hotel by the Proprietor. A few minutes later the applicant left the Hotel, was assaulted by Priatka and in the fight which followed the applicant stabbed Priatka with his knife. The District Attorney, W. Curtis Truxal, writes to the Board:

"In the matter of the application of George Nestranski for pardon I have no objections to the granting of the pardon."

Priatka, the prosecutor, is now a fugitive from justice and it is alleged that he is a general trouble maker, and that he was the originator of the fight in which he was stabbed.

We have determined that the punishment already endured should be sufficient to teach the applicant the lesson that he must refrain from brawls of this character.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said George Nestranski.

Sir: At Nos. 77 and 78 April Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Mercer, Frank Valentina was convicted of larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on October 29, 1921, was sentenced in the aggregate to pay a fine of $50.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than five years nor more than six years.

The applicant is thirty years of age, an Italian by birth, of American allegiance, a laborer, unmarried and at the time of his arrest lived at Sharpsville, Mercer County, Pennsylvania. Prior to this offense he had not been charged with any crime.

A team of horses and harness were stolen from Samuel Baker and a buggy from John Rockwell in Mercer County, Pennsylvania, and later recovered in the possession of Lawrence Canale and the applicant near Portersville, Lawrence County, Pennsylvania. After the arrest the prisoners stated that they had been hired to drive the horses from Sharon to Pittsburgh to an auction market.

The applicant has been confined in the Western Penitentiary since October 29, 1921, and prior to that had been a prisoner in the Mercer County Jail since July 1, 1921.

Samuel Baker, the owner of the horses, makes a statement to the Board as follows:

"The undersigned, Samuel Baker, is the person from whom the horses were taken on March 12th, 1921. I had a slight acquaintance with Frank Valentina, before the horses were taken. I do not believe that Frank Valentina was the person who took the horses or was instrumental in having the horses taken.

"I would, therefore, recommend that the said Frank Valentina be pardoned.

August 29, 1922.

SAM H. BAKER."

Because of the fact that Canale has been pardoned for this offense and in view of the doubt as to the guilt of the applicant, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Frank Valentina.

Sir: At No. 2 February Term, 1917, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Northumberland, Stanley Rujinski was convicted of murder in the second degree, and on September 24, 1917, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for from eight to twelve years.

The petitioner is now twenty-three years of age, being eighteen years old at the time of his sentence, was born in Shamokin, Pennsylvania, was a silk mill worker by trade and was so employed at the time of his arrest. He had never before been arrested or charged with any crime.

On Thanksgiving night in 1916 the applicant, at the invitation of his friend Tuleskie, the man who was killed, with two other boys went to a resort in Shamokin known as the "The Hundred and Eight Ranch". A fight started between four men from Shenandoah and Tuleskie, the deceased. Tuleskie had a revolver in his hip pocket and it is alleged that the applicant, in an effort to protect his friend, took the revolver, and later the fight growing more furious attempted to stop it by firing the revolver through the ceiling, and some three shots were fired, one of them accidentally hitting his friend and killing him. Two of the other participants in the fight were convicted of voluntary manslaughter and have been at liberty for some time.

The applicant is afflicted with pulmonary tuberculosis and it is believed that if given his liberty he can better fight the ravages of the disease.

C. K. Morganroth, District Attorney of Northumberland County, writes in regard to this case as follows:

"In re your notice of application for pardon for Stanley Rujinski, I am informed that this was a fight in the dark, and that it was a close case. I am further informed that this boy is not a real bad fellow, and I would suggest further confinement in this case will work no good. The boy comes from good Polish stock."

We have concluded that the ends of Justice will not be served by further imprisonment of the applicant, and, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Stanley Rujinski.

Sir: At No. 326, May Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Frank L. Hagerty was convicted of operating an automobile without the consent of the owner, and on January 24, 1922, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for the term of nine months.

The applicant is twenty-eight years of age, a resident of Philadelphia, citizen of the United States and at the time of his arrest was not employed, but was undergoing treatment at the United States Veteran's Bureau at Philadelphia for pulmonary tuberculosis and other diseases contracted while in the service of the United States army in France during the world war. He is unmarried and at the time of his arrest was living with his father in Philadelphia.

On April 19, 1921, two men took a taxicab at Nineteenth and Christian Streets, Philadelphia, and drove it to Twentieth and Federal Streets and back several times over the same route, and finally had a collision with a trolley car at Nineteenth and Catherine Streets. After the accident the occupants of the taxi fled, but the applicant, Hagerty, and one James Devlin were standing nearby and were arrested and charged with larceny of the automobile and with using the automobile without the permission of the owner. They were tried together and acquitted as to the crime of larceny, but found guilty with using the automobile without the permission of the owner. The Court sentenced Devlin to three months and the applicant to nine months in the Philadelphia County Prison.

The reasons for recommending the pardon are:

That the applicant is a World War Veteran, with a record of being under fire for upwards of seventy-two hours.

That he is suffering from disease of a serious nature incurred while in the service of his country.

That he is entitled to treatment by the Government and will receive such upon his release; and

That he has almost completed his sentence, having served eight months of the nine months thereof.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Frank L. Hagerty.

Sir: At No. 841, January Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, William Painter pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny of an automobile, and on January 30, 1922 was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than twelve months nor more than thirteen months.

The prisoner is not quite seventeen years of age, and lived with his father and mother in Philadelphia where he had a comfortable home. It is alleged that he took the automobile in this case for the purpose of taking a ride. Honorable John M. Patterson, the trial judge, writes as follows:

"I am advised that William Painter has made application through his father, for executive clemency. William Painter was sentenced by me to a term of one year in the Eastern Penitentiary on January 30, 1922. He was charged with stealing an automobile.

"He had a few days previous pleaded guilty to stealing another automobile, and I had discharged him on probation.

"I sentenced him to the Eastern State Penitentiary, believing that that Institution would have its corrective force, and did not want to commit him indefinitely to a Reformatory Institution. His excuse at the time of trial, being that he took the machine not for sale purposes, but merely for the purpose of having a ride. His parents are very respectable people, have assured me that he will be returned to their home if relieved and become part of the family and would be given steady employment.

"I join in the application made on behalf of the father, and would request that clemency be extended him. I feel satisfied that the confinement he has suffered to the present time has had sufficient corrective influence."

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William Painter.

Sir: At No. 21, December Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Beaver, W. A. Hoffman was convicted of furnishing intoxicating liquors contrary to law and on June 26, 1922 was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $2500.00 and to undergo imprisonment in the Allegheny work house for four months.

The applicant is 45 years of age, a citizen of the United States, occupation, a druggist, and is owner and manager of a drug store at Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania. The offense for which he was convicted was treating some of his friends to intoxicating liquor in a room back of his drug store which was connected with his residence by a stairway. After a hearing in this case the Board made the following statement:

"It seems plain that in this case the Court based its sentence not on the offenses of which the applicant had been convicted but on a belief concerning charges on which he had not been tried or on which he had not been convicted. This we cannot sustain. It is not consistent with the rights secured to every citizen.

"For the offenses of which the applicant was convicted, which he frankly admits and which are the first of which he has been shown to be guilty, a fine of $500.00 would be considered severe. It would be much heavier, in proportion to the offense than other sentences in liquor cases in the same court, brought to our attention at the argument. On two occasions he treated a few of his friends to drinks of liquor in a room in the rear of his drug store in the house in which he lived. To have treated bona fide guests in the part of the house occupied as his home with liquor there lawfully possessed instead of in a room connected with his drug business would not have been an offense at all. It is permitted both by State and Federal law.

"If the applicant will pay the costs of prosecution and $500.00 on account of the fine imposed by the Court, we will then recommend his pardon on the ground that he has been adequately punished."

The Board has been furnished with a receipt for $695.94 signed by C. A. Moore, Probation Officer of Beaver County, to the effect that the applicant has paid the sum of $695.94 in full of the costs of prosecution at No. 21, December Term, 1921, and $500.00 on account of the fine imposed in the said case.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice, and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said W. A. Hoffman.

Sir: At No. 712 August Term, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Frederick A. Bourque pleaded guilty to the larceny of an automobile and on August 26, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than eighteen months nor more than two years.

The applicant is twenty-five years of age, a native of Springfield, Massachusetts, an automobile mechanic by trade and at the time of his arrest was in business for himself at Germantown, Philadelphia. He is married and has two children, one girl three years of age and a boy eight months old.

While he was employed in making repairs on an automobile belonging to Abraham Polis, he took the same and left the city going to Danvers, Massachusetts, where he had lived the greater part of his life.

It appears that this man bears an excellent reputation and that he is not an automobile thief, that this crime in this case was induced by the financial difficulties in which he then found himself. His family are destitute and a position awaits him upon his discharge.

Abraham Polis, from whom the automobile was taken, writes to the Board as follows:

"I understand Frederick A. Bourque now confined in the Eastern State Penitentiary under a sentence of eighteen months, and not more than two years for larceny of my automobile is making an application for a pardon.

"While this young man has done injury to me yet I think that he has been sufficiently punished for his action, and in view of the destitute condition of his wife and children I would urge upon you that this young man be granted leniency when this case comes before you."

The Board is of the opinion that the applicant has served a sufficient term of imprisonment for his first offense and in view of his previous good record and in order to give him an opportunity to lead a correct life and support his family, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Frederick A. Sir: At No. 4 April Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Jefferson, Fred Burgoon pleaded guilty to entering a railroad caboose, with intent to commit a felony, and with larceny, and on April 3, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years nor more than four years.

The applicant is twenty-five years of age, an American citizen, by occupation a laborer, and was a resident of Brookville, Pennsylvania. He is unmarried and lived with his aged mother who makes this application.

The prisoner in January, 1922, on his way home from work passed a work train of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The caboose was open and, being hungry, he entered the caboose and ate the lunches of two of the employees of the work crew, and seeing annual passes of two of the railroad employees, the prisoner took them, but later returned them to the rightful owners.

The mother of the prisoner sets forth as reasons for the pardon that the sentence is unreasonably severe in view of the nature of the crime committed, and that six months imprisonment already endured is adequate punishment.

The Board is in receipt of a telegram from Walter E. Morris, District Attorney, as follows:

"Regarding petition of Fred Burgoon have interviewed Judge Corbett and we have no objections to pardon because of his aged mother."

Upon consideration of these facts, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Fred Burgoon.

Sir: At No. 37, February Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Centre, Charles Hemmis was convicted of attempted highway robbery, and on March 2, 1922, was sentenced to be confined in the Huntingdon Reformatory.

The applicant is nineteen years of age, unmarried, and prior to his sentence was employed in the mines near Philipsburg, Pennsylvania. Excluding this offense he has not been accused or convicted of the commission of any crime, and he has an excellent reputation where he is known.

On the evening of January 30, 1922, Roth, the proprietor of a moving picture theatre in Philipsburg, was proceeding to his home after the closing of the theatre, when he was confronted by two young men, one of whom jumped upon his back and the other demanded his money. Roth raised an outcry and his assailants became frightened and ran away. No money or other valuable things were secured by the lawbreakers, and Roth was not harmed physically. Information was obtained by the police that Charles Hemmis was one of the group who attempted the hold-up. It was not shown that he took any active part in the proceeding, and it appears that he was led into the affair rather than that he was an originator or instigator of the crime.

The District Attorney has written to the Board as follows:

"In the matter of the application for pardon by Charles Hemmis of Philipsburg now confined in the Huntingdon Reformatory, would say that this case came into the Court of Quarter Sessions of Centre County from Philipsburg which is on the extreme North Western boundary of the County. The case came on regularly to be tried and the boy, with others, was convicted and subsequently sentenced.

"Personally I know nothing of the boy before the commission of this crime except what I can hear from the local authorities in Philipsburg, and in the light of the declarations made by them that the boy has never been troublesome to the authorities nor has been implicated in any crime prior to this conviction and further that he is needed at home to help support the family and in their belief he has suffered sufficient punishment for one who was rather led into the crime than a planner of the crime, I will make no objection as District Attorney to the granting of a pardon if the reasons set forth appeal to your Honors as sufficient ground for a pardon in this case."

Honorable Henry Quigley, the Trial Judge, adds to this letter a notation as follows:

"I am of opinion that this young man has been sufficiently punished."

Because of these representations we "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Charles Hemmis.

Sir: At No. 54 June Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Allegheny, Pennsylvania, Eugene Early was convicted of voluntary manslaughter, and on January 30, 1920, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than five years or more than seven years. The applicant is now thirty-five years and eleven months of age, a native of the United States, is a colored man, and at the time of his arrest had been working as a laborer for the Arctic Ice Company, Duquesne, Pa. Previous to that he had worked for seven years at his trade as a cigar-maker.

On the night prior to the shooting for which the applicant was convicted, one Charles Jenkins is alleged to have forced the applicant into a quarrel concerning the disappearance of a $5.00 note, and at the conclusion of the quarrel told the applicant that he was going away that night for a gun and would return and shoot him the next morning. Early the next morning the applicant sought to go away from Wilson, where this quarrel and threat occurred, and as he was going down street to get his laundry prior to leaving, the deceased, Jenkins, appeared before him and said, "we are going to have it out this morning." "Have what," said the applicant, "a battle", was the answer, and thereupon Jenkins pulled a revolver and was reversing it so as to point the barrel at the applicant who, believing that he was about to be shot by Jenkins, quickly drew his gun and shot Jenkins to save himself. The reason for the application is that the shooting was done in self defense. S. H. Gardner, the Assistant District Attorney who tried the case, writes the Board as follows:

"In answer to your communication of the 5th inst. relative to the application for pardon of Eugene Early, beg to advise that the District Attorney has turned the reply over to me, the assistant in charge of the trial.

"This case as a whole presented a very strong case of self-defense and I would not have been surprised had the jury rendered a verdict of 'not guilty'. It is the practice of our office for the assistant who tried a murder case to prepare, after the trial, a short history of the case, together with his views thereon, including his views as to whether or not the sentence was severe or otherwise under the circumstances. This book is kept in our office for the purpose of refreshing our recollection of cases long after they have been tried. In referring to the notes made by me at that time in this book it is only fair to state that I find the following notation: 'The sentence was probably a little more severe than ordinarily given under the same set of facts'. That was my impression at the time and upon recalling the facts and reading over the testimony it is still my impression."

In view of these facts, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session," we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Eugene Early.

Sir: At No. 54 September Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Armstrong, Pennsylvania, Angelo Ferra was convicted of conspiracy to commit larceny and conspiracy to break and enter, and on November 5, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary of Pennsylvania for not less than two years and three months or more than three years. The applicant is twenty-two years of age, his occupation was that of a moulder. He is a married man with a child one year of age, the child being born after his term of imprisonment had commenced. His wife and child are wholly dependent upon him for maintenance and support.

On the night of May 30, 1920, the general store of the Shawmut Commercial Company at Chickasaw, Armstrong County, Pa., was broken into and a large amount of property consisting of $500.00 in cash, War Saving Stamps valued at $97.00, a revolver, a flobert rifle, etc. was stolen therefrom. Entrance was had by breaking a panel in the door, and the safe was opened by manipulating the combination. The combination was obtained by one Bert Jordan, an Italian, who had been employed for some time in the store and Ferra was a visitor at his home, at which time Ferra, the applicant, made a copy of the combination of the safe, which he retained in his possession. It was agreed between Jordan and Ferra that they should rob the store together, but Jordan did not see Ferra until after the crime had been committed, and he was not an actual participant in the commission thereof. After his arrest the applicant made a confession in which he named his five accomplices. The applicant and one other entered the building and rifled the safe, while the others stood watch.

The Board has received a letter from Hon. J. W. King, Trial Judge, as follows:

"Inasmuch, as by the 20th of Sept, the Petitioner will have served more than one half the period of imprisonment imposed by the sentence of the Court, and upon consideration of the further fact that he voluntarily agreed to tell the whole truth and to testify against his alleged accomplices (altho they were acquitted), I feel that some leniency is due him and therefore I suggest favorable consideration by your Honorable Board of his application at this time."

And also a letter from Clarence O. Morris, Trial District Attorney, as follows:

"I am advised that a rehearing has been granted to one Angelo Ferro, sentenced from this (Armstrong) county, upon his application for a pardon.

"At the time of Ferra's trial I was the District Attorney of this county, and conducted the case for the Commonwealth, hence I am quite familiar with it. Subsequently to Ferra's sentence and incarceration, other members alleged to have been implicated with him were arrested and brought to trial, although one of them entered a plea of guilty. I conducted that proceeding also for the Commonwealth, and in it, Ferra voluntarily appeared as a witness for the Commonwealth.

"If I may do so with propriety, I may express to the Board of Pardons my sincere belief that Ferra has been sufficiently punished for his participation in this crime, and that it would now be an act of mercy, entirely compatible with the circumstances of the case, should the Board see its way clear to recommend Ferra to executive clemency."

In view of these recommendations, we have concluded that sufficient punishment has been endured, and we therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Angelo Ferra.

Sir: At No. 2, December Term, 1912, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Indiana, Dominick Angelo was convicted of manslaughter, the jury recommending him to the leniency and mercy of the Court, and on March 27, 1916, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of five hundred dollars, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than ten years and not more than twelve years.

The applicant is thirty-seven years of age, an Italian, by trade a barber, and at the time of the arrest was employed as Company barber and special watchman at the coal mines at Lucerne, Pennsylvania. Mike Fasco, the deceased, had been for some time before his death in the employ of the Coal Company as a watchman. He was a large man of great strength, overbearing and quarrelsome in disposition, and generally spoken of by the miners as "The Bulldog," and many of them not his equal physically were in fear and dread of him. The applicant was the physical inferior of the deceased. On November 20, 1912, the day of the killing, the applicant and Fasco, with four other men, were gambling, and Fasco was the loser. He insisted that Angelo pay his losses, which Angelo refused to do, and Fasco then in rage grabbed him by the throat and threatened to kill him. The applicant broke away and went to his shop nearby. Shortly afterward Angelo started to his house to get some towels, and as he approached the house Fasco, who was still there, saw him and started towards him, saying he would kill him. Fasco had something in his hand which Angelo took to be a knife. He was about to turn and go back to his shop when he was seized by another man who held him until Fasco came close. The applicant, seeing the near approach of Fasco, and in fear of his life, drew a gun and ordered Fasco to stop. Fasco did not heed this order and the applicant fired a shot, thinking that it would stop the nearer approach of his assailant. This was not the case and the applicant, at close range, when Fasco was about to strike or fall upon him, fired another shot which caused death. The applicant then fled and was out of the jurisdiction for some time. He was apprehended in Boston, Massachusetts, where he gave himself up to the authorities.

Honorable J. N. Langham, Trial Judge, writes in regard to this case as follows:

"Dominick Angelo was convicted of Voluntary Manslaughter in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Indiana County, at No. 2, December Term, 1912, and on March 27, 1916, was sentenced to the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than 10 years nor more than 12 years. He is now making application to your Honorable Board for pardon, of which application I have received due legal notice as the trial Judge.

"I feel inclined to state for your information that at the trial of this case there was presented abundant evidence of the quarrelsome, malignant, dangerous character of Mike Fasco (alias Mike Meno) who was killed by the defendant. It may be that at the time the fatal shot was fired Dominick Angelo was impelled by an overwhelming fear of impending death or great bodily harm at the hands of Fasco, whose dangerous character was known to Angelo and many others.

"I am giving you this information with a view not of recommending a pardon nor of opposing it. Angelo has been imprisoned in jail and in the Penitentiary since January 4, 1916.

"If in the judgment of your Honorable Board this applicant has been sufficiently punished, we will be content with your decision."

After careful consideration we have concluded that the punishment already endured is adequate for the crime which was committed, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Dominick Angelo.

Sir: At No. 112, September Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Allegheny, Ben Schwartz (Benjamin Daniel Schwartz) was convicted of larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on November 26, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of 6¼ cents, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo an imprisonment of not less than two years and six months nor more than three years in the Western Penitentiary.

The applicant is a citizen of the United States thirty-six years of age, a machinist by trade, and for six years immediately prior to his conviction was engaged in the hauling business, which he conducted for himself. His residence was in the City of Pittsburgh. He is married and has a family of four children, the oldest being about eleven years of age and the youngest one year.

Some time prior to June 22, 1921, packages of wines and liquors were taken from the basement of a store occupied by Lottie E. McCrory in Pittsburgh, which were the property of one Hirsch. The applicant was in no manner concerned in nor connected with the stealing of the said wines and liquors. About June 21, 1921, one of the other defendants indicted with him in this case called the applicant by telephone at his home and offered to employ him to haul certain packages. He refused the employment because it was impossible for him to do the work that evening. Later he was again called and asked to do the work, to which he finally agreed. During the evening he went to the rear of the before mentioned store where he found the wines and liquors in packages ready to be loaded and hauled. They were not in the cellar of the building and the applicant did not enter the building to get them. He loaded the packages and hauled them to a wholesale liquor store on Fifth Avenue in Pittsburgh where he delivered the same. He alleges that at the time he hauled and delivered them he did not know they had been stolen. On the next day he was called on the telephone by the proprietor of the store to which the packages had been delivered, who told him there was a misunderstanding as to the quality of the goods and the quantity of the packages. The applicant went to the liquor store and after some argument a sum of money was paid to one of the other defendants who then paid the applicant for the hauling. He alleges that at this time he had no intimidation or knowledge that the goods had been stolen. About a month later certain of the other defendants were arrested on the charge of having stolen the goods in question. When the applicant learned of this arrest he went to the Police Station, explained his connection with the transaction and submitted himself to arrest. At the trial he was convicted along with the other defendants. The applicant received the heaviest sentence of any of the defendants convicted.

Because of his dependent family and the other circumstances of the case herein recited, we have determined it is proper that Executive clemency should be exercised, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Ben Schwartz.

Sir: At No. 44, June Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Indiana, Sam Gray was convicted of attempting to blow up a storeroom, and on October 11, 1920, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of one hundred dollars, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than twenty months nor more than three years.

The applicant is an Italian citizen who has declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States. With his family he had lived at Dixonville, Pennsylvania, for nine years prior to his conviction. For two or three years prior to December 24, 1919, the applicant was engaged in the grocery and fruit business at Dixonville, Pennsylvania, and during the day his wife attended the store and he worked as a minor in the coal mines. Across the street was a store kept by one Profugi, and early on the morning of December 24, 1919, an explosion occurred at or near the storeroom of Profugi, causing considerable damage to the store and building, the explosion having been caused by the use of dynamite. The applicant was convicted of attempting to blow up this store upon the theory that it was his desire to get rid of a competitor. His defense was an alibi, and he alleged that on the evening in question he had gone to Punxsutawney and did not return to his home in Dixonville until after the explosion.

He continued to live at Dixonville and no information was made against him until seven months had elapsed. Prior to this offense he had a good reputation and had never been accused of crime. The conviction was had upon testimony that a conversation was overheard between the applicant and others in which the crime was planned, and upon the testimony of the mother-in-law of the applicant as to the presence of dynamite fuse in the house of the applicant a few days before the explosion and of its being missing after the explosion.

The Board has been furnished with a deposition of the County Detective to the effect that the testimony as to the conversation was perjured, and that the mother-in-law was very hostile to the applicant and had told several conflicting stories. Wilmer H. Wood, District Attorney of Indiana County, writes as follows:

"In re: Application for Pardon for Sam Gray.

"The above case was tried during my term as District Attorney. The defense was an alibi. This was so complete as to Sam Gray in person that we were all satisfied that he could only have blown up Sam Profugi's store, if at all, by employing agents. The theory of the Commonwealth was that he employed, as agents, two strangers, whose appearance at the Sam Gray home was testified to by Veneziana Nibolo, the mother-in-law of the defendant. These men came to Sam Gray's home in the afternoon of December 23rd; they left about two o'clock, P. M.; about three o'clock, P. M., Sam Gray left Dixonville for Punxsutawney by way of Marlon Center, and accounted for his movements and business. He did not return to Dixonville until the next day, December 24th, and during the night of the 23rd the dynamiting was done. The testimony of Veneziana Nibolo, as showing agency, and Vasil Drevicky, as showing preparation, was very important in the case. On the point of agency the case was a very close one and a different jury might conceivably, have reached a different verdict.

"I attended the taking of defendant's depositions for use in the present application. The character of the evidence therein given is such as to lead me to believe that had such testimony been produced at the trial, the defendant might have been acquitted. Sam Gray was never in trouble before.

"In view of the attending circumstances of the case and the fact that Sam Gray will have already been in prison when this application shall be heard about thirteen months of his minimum sentence of twenty months, I am of the opinion that the ends of justice would be met if clemency is shown to him by your Honorable Board at this time."

Because of the doubt of the guilt and the length of imprisonment already served, we have concluded that the applicant should be released, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Sam Gray.

Sir: At No. 48 June Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Mercer, J. H. Moody, was convicted of conspiracy to commit extortion and conspiracy to defraud, and on February 21, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Allegheny Workhouse for nine months.

The applicant is forty-three years of age, an American by birth, and at the time of his trial was Burgess of the Borough of Farrell, Pennsylvania, and was a Justice of the Peace. He is married and has a family of two children.

On or about the third day of December, 1920, Joe Lunich and Joe Yankovith made a charge against Spiro Yanich, stating that they had purchased liquor from him and that he sold liquor without a license. Spiro Yanich was bound over for Court by the applicant and gave bail for his appearance at the next term of Court. The charge was made later that money was extorted from Spiro Yanich to secure the settlement of this prosecution, and that in the course of the transaction one of the alleged conspirators turned over to the applicant a sum of money and that the applicant subsequently, upon the information being withdrawn, discharged the case and returned to Spiro Yanich the bail bond which he had given. Mr. Moody's statement was that the prosecution was withdrawn with the explanation that the prosecutors had been mistaken in their charge, which would not be remarkable, and if that were true we see nothing significant in the return of the bail bond.

The evidence against the applicant was given by confessed lawbreakers, and to our minds it is incredible. After the trial of the case and after the argument of the appeal to the Superior Court, one of the witnesses against the applicant, unsolicited, made a statement in which he completely exonerated the applicant from any part of the conspiracy, saying that he had nothing to do with the conspiracy and with the settlement of the case in any way. The reputation of the applicant in the community had been of the best, as is shown by a number of letters received by the Board from prominent citizens of Mercer County, among them being one from O. J. H. Hartsuff, General Superintendent of the Carnegie Steel Company in which he says, inter alia, that he has known the applicant for a number of years, found him upright and honest in all dealings, of every kind, and that he has the same high opinion of him as a strictly honest and conscientious business man that he always had. He further says:

"I doubt if any more worthy case has ever come to the attention of your honorable body than the case of Burgess J. H. Moody, and to my mind the power of pardon given by law to your body was intended for precisely such cases of miscarriage of justice as has occurred in this regrettable instance.

"During the late war Mr. Moody was prominent and of effectual assistance in all the patriotic campaigns. During the internal labor strife of 1919, when a determined effort was made by radicals, backed by Russian capital, to create Bolshevism and discord in America, Mr. Moody exhibited the same patriotism, courage, and efficiency, in the discharge of his duties as a guardian of the public peace, and his activities and staunch support of the principles of our national Constitution and State laws, very materially aided in saving his district from temporary anarchy.

"These activities naturally created for Mr. Moody a number of enemies. Some of the witnesses against him in the recent trials, I am informed, carried red flags in parades during the period of disorder. The credibility of other witnesses against Mr. Moody has been utterly destroyed by the reports that have come to me, but the presentation of these matters I shall leave to the friends of Mr. Moody more intimately in touch with the guilty men concerned.

"There is no doubt that Mr. J. H. Moody is the unfortunate victim of conspiracy and of political feuds, his activities in politics having naturally gotten for him strong revengeful enemies, from time to time."

Honorable Benj. Jarett, writes to the Board in regard to this case as follows:

"I have known Mr. J. H. Moody for fifteen years. He served as Burgess and Justice of the Peace of our Borough for two terms, serving in both offices at the same time. I have been in close touch with the affairs in Borough during his term of service and feel that I understand the situation here thoroughly.

"From my thorough knowledge of the affairs in this community and my close knowledge of Mr. Moody's connection therewith, I will say that I have always found him absolutely honest and straightforward in the administration of the affairs of his office; I have always had faith in him as being an honest straightforward office holder and that faith remains unshaken notwithstanding the fact that he has been found guilty of conspiracy to extort. I make this statement, having full respect for the verdict of the jury. There are matters which were not before the jury and which could not be lawfully brought before it, which, I am sure, if they could have been brought before the jury, that the verdict would have been 'not guilty'. To-wit, Mr. Moody has been very active in politics in Farrell and by this he made some bitter enemies, and then, in 1919 during the strike he took such a firm stand for law and order that he made many enemies out of the Bolsheviks who were behind that strike. These two factions were the main prosecutors. No doubt, his attorneys will explain this to your Board.

"I am firmly convinced that Mr. Moody is absolutely innocent of the charge of which he has been convicted and that he is a victim of this combination. I feel that an absolute pardon would be correcting an injustice which was the outcome of political hatred, the effects of Bolshevism against one who really did his duty. I feel today Mr. Moody has double the number of friends that he had at any time before, and I feel that his absolute pardon would meet the general approval of all unbiased and fair-minded people."

To the same effect are a number of letters from influential people who have knowledge of the applicant and of the circumstances of this case.

This case appears to the Board to be a meritorious one; we do not believe the defendant is guilty of the crime for which he is suffering imprisonment; and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said J. H. Moody.

Sir: At No. 1060 September Term, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Schuylkill, Pennsylvania, Stiney Daynarowicz was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on February 13, 1922, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

The applicant is thirty-five years of age, of Polish nationality, and by allegiance is an American citizen, and his occupation was that of a miner and saloon-keeper. At the time of his arrest he was engaged in the saloon business at Shenandoah, Pa. He is a widower with one son eleven years of age. There lived with him at his residence in which he kept the saloon, Peter Hutchinas and his wife Anna, their two children and three boarders, who paid their board to Mrs. Hutchinas. One of these boarders was a man by the name of Konopko, who had been a boarder there for about five weeks prior to his death at the hands of the applicant. On the morning of September 16, 1921, the applicant alleged that he placed a sum of money on the bar beside his cash register and that he had a certain amount of money in the cash register which was in the bar room. Shortly after noon he laid down on a couch in a room immediately behind the bar room and as he was reclining there he said that Konopko passed through the room and entered the bar-room. The applicant claims that he heard the bell on the cash register ring and immediately jumped up and entered the bar room, where he found Konopko behind the bar and the drawer of the cash register open and the money which the applicant had placed on the bar gone. As he went behind the bar Konopko leaped over the bar and the applicant then seized a shotgun which stood on the counter behind the bar next to the cash register, placed the gun on the bar with his right hand on the trigger and told Konopko to return his money. It is alleged that Konopko said that he would return the money and started toward the applicant and that when he came close Konopko grabbed the gun, which was resting on the bar and jerked it, causing the trigger to be pulled and the gun discharged, resulting in the death of Konopko later that afternoon. When the officer who heard the shot came into the bar room from the street the applicant said that he had shot Konopko, gave himself up for arrest and later surrendered his gun to the Chief Burgess of Shenandoah, who had been summoned to the scene.

This is the story of the applicant in this case. There was some testimony to the contrary, and upon this testimony a conviction was had and a new trial was refused by the Trial Judge, which was affirmed upon appeal to the Supreme Court.

The applicant and deceased were friends and no ill will or malice had been shown upon the part of the applicant toward Konopko. While there was evidence to justify the verdict which was rendered, as is demonstrated by the opinion of the court below and of the Supreme Court, we have determined that this is a case which may properly be commuted, and therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon the said Stiney Daynarowicz be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At Nos. 16 and 16½, August Sessions, 1915, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Jefferson, Antonio Arnone was charged with murder and assault and battery with intent to kill, respectively, and on August 13, 1915, pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree and to assault and battery with intent to kill, and on August 13, 1915, was sentenced to pay a fine of 6¼ cents, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for an aggregate term of not less than fifteen years nor more than nineteen years.

The applicant is forty-one years of age. He was a miner, is married, and was living with his wife and children at Delancey, Pennsylvania. His wife and children are now living in Illinois where they are objects of charity, the wife being an invalid and unable to perform any work. There are five children, the oldest being seventeen years of age and the youngest six and one-half years of age. The applicant is an Italian citizen but has declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States. Prior to this offense he had never been convicted of any crime and had a good reputation as a peaceable and law-abiding citizen.

On June 12, 1914, the applicant went to the Company Store to get the statement of the amount of wages due him, and there engaged in a verbal controversy with one Baglia, who claimed that the sum of $2.50 belonging to him, Baglia, had been credited on the statement of the applicant, and the same amount on the statement of the applicant's father-in-law. In this dispute Baglia told the applicant that if he was not given the $5.00 he was going to kill Arnone and cut him to pieces, and invited Arnone to go to the woods. Baglia was swearing and calling Arnone a dishonest man and a thief. The applicant started for his home when Baglia stopped him and said, "I will do here what I intended to do," and grabbed Arnone by the throat with one hand and struck him with the other, saying, "I am going to kill you now." A scuffle occurred, in which Baglia, overbalanced, fell with his knees to the ground. He then drew from his right hip-pocket a knife, which he opened, and began to approach Arnone. Arnone stepped back. The deceased told him not to move, and as he approached Arnone the applicant drew a revolver and fired one shot in the air. The advances of Baglia were continued, with the knife exposed, and the applicant, in danger of receiving bodily harm, fired a shot in the forehead of Baglia, causing his death.

A nephew of the deceased then approached the applicant in a hostile manner, and Arnone shot at him, the bullet taking effect in the hip. From this wound there was a complete recovery.

Depositions have been furnished to the Board indicating that if the prisoner had stood trial, under the facts, the jury likely would have returned a verdict of acquittal.

The District Attorney, Walter E. Morris, writes to the Board as follows:

"IN RE: Application for pardon of Antonio (Gaetano) Arnone, charged with murder, second degree, Assault and Battery with intent to kill.

"From what I can get regarding the facts concerning this case, I find that they are substantially, as set forth in the petition, and having read the letters of J. C. Long, Esq., the trial District Attorney, who was in office at the time the case was heard, and also letter of Jacob L. Fisher, Esq., employed to assist the District Attorney to prosecute the defendant, as well as the remarks of Hon. J. W. Bouton, the Trial Judge in the case, and from what I have learned from other parties, would say that the application is a meritorious one and deserving of consideration, and any action taken by your Honorable Board will meet with my approval."

Honorable J. W. Bouton, Trial Judge, in acknowledging receipt of notice of the application in this case, makes the following note thereon:

"After reading affidavits in this case I am of opinion that the affiants evidence, had the defendant stood trial, would have justified the jury in finding the defendant guilty of no greater offense than voluntary manslaughter, with a possible chance of acquittal. Any action by the Board will meet with my approval."

These facts indicate clearly that this is a meritorious case. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Antonio Arnone.

Sir: At No. 48, August Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, James Erwin Keel was convicted of practicing medicine without a certificate of licensure, and on June 10, 1921, sentence was suspended.

Since that time applicant has refrained from practicing as a Chiropractor. The applicant is fifty-eight years of age, was born near Norristown, Pennsylvania, and is a resident of Philadelphia. He graduated from the Universal Chiropractor College, Davenport, Iowa, in 1913, and has taken a Post-graduate course at the Universal Chiropractor College at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

He accepted the advice of what he presumed was competent authority that he could engage in the giving of Chiropractic treatment without a certificate of licensure, but on being shown his mistake he has refrained from further practice.

The purpose of this application is to clear his record from the stain of the conviction, so that he may be admitted to practice in one of the twenty states which license chiropractors. We regard this application as meritorious.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said James Erwin Keel.

Harrisburg, Pa., October, 24, 1922.

Sir: At Nos. 864 and 865, January Term, 1917, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, William Esterman was convicted of entering with intent to steal, larceny, receiving stolen goods and carrying concealed deadly weapons, and was sentenced on the same day to a term of imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary of not less than two years nor more than four years, to run concurrently with a sentence which was imposed upon him on March 9, 1910, by the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, which sentence was a term of imprisonment of not less than three years nor more than thirteen years. The applicant had served five years of the Delaware County sentence when he was paroled.

While he was on parole and after he had behaved himself for two years he became intoxicated and got into the trouble involved in this case. On the night of January 22, 1917, he purchased a revolver and went into a store and took three shirts, some silk socks, a pair of cuff buttons and a scarf pin of the total value of $3.85. Upon coming out of the store he scattered the stolen property over the street and was stopped by an officer. He asked the officer to have a drink, pulled a revolver and shot twice, but did not injure the officer. With the assistance of another officer and two civilians the applicant was locked up and taken to the Hahneman Hospital for treatment for the injuries which he had received from the officers while he was resisting arrest.

The applicant is now forty-two years of age and was a baker by trade. He came to this country from Germany in 1902, and has taken out his first papers to become a citizen. He is unmarried and has no relatives except two brothers who live in Chicago. He has served the minimum sentence imposed in Philadelphia on December 17, 1917. The purpose of this application is to clear the record of the conviction in Philadelphia so that the parole officers may have jurisdiction of his case upon his conviction in Delaware County, and if in their judgment circumstances warrant he may be paroled for that offense.

It seems to us that this application should receive favorable consideration, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William Esterman.

Sir: At No. 1, January Sessions, 1918, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of York, Allen Shermeyer was convicted of sodomy, assault with intent to commit sodomy, solicitations to commit sodomy, and assault and battery with intent to ravish, and on April 17, 1918, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than three years nor more than ten years.

The applicant was born in York County, Pennsylvania, and is twenty-six years of age. By occupation he was a farmer and at the time of his arrest was employed in such capacity by Horace Smyser in York County, Pennsylvania. He was married but during his imprisonment his wife secured a divorce. The applicant has served the minimum sentence and is now out on parole and is living near Moorestown, New Jersey.

The crime of which he was convicted was committed upon a little girl twelve years of age in a woods in York County. The applicant was identified by the girl but some of the marks which she alleged her assailant had, such a scar on the hand and wearing of khaki clothes were not found upon the applicant. He always maintained his innocence of this offense.

The Board has received letters from William W. Wyman and Mrs. John C. Belton, Sr., of Moorestown, New Jersey, to the effect that Shermeyer has recently been employed by them and that he is prompt and trustworthy and a steady workman. The purpose of the application is to clear his name from the stigma of the crime which he expiated by the imprisonment he has undergone.

We have concluded to give this case favorable consideration, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Allen Shermeyer.

Sir: At No. 599 September Sessions, 1917, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Lewis E. Smith was convicted of assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery, assault and battery to ravish and rape, and on November 29, 1917, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than seven years nor more than eight years.

The applicant is forty-five years of age, an American citizen born in the City of Reading, Pennsylvania, and at the time of his arrest was engaged in the retail oyster business at Twelfth and Jefferson Streets, Philadelphia. He is married and has four children, aged eighteen years, fifteen years, twelve years and nine years, respectively. He was convicted of intimacy with a weak-minded child fourteen years of age, to whom a baby was born. It was upon her testimony largely that the conviction was had. Smith has always maintained his innocence.

Honorable Joseph P. Rogers writes to the Board in regard to this case and, inter alia, says:

"I recall the case very well. The man kept an oyster saloon at 12th and Jefferson Streets in Philadelphia, and the jury found him guilty of rape upon a girl named Sarah Mooney, who was a feeble minded child

"I observe that he had promised the Board to remove from the State with his family, if pardoned, and that the family is now in destitute circumstances. He has served from the date of his sentence, November 2nd, 1917, and as far as the Court is concerned, we feel that there would be no miscarriage of justice if he were to be pardoned."

In view of the recommendation of the Trial Judge and taking into consideration the fact that Smith has been imprisoned for approximately five years, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Lewis E. Smith.

Sir: At No. 17, October Sessions, 1909, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Mercer, Velka Ankarich was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on January 3, 1912, was sentenced to be hanged. On April 17, 1912, this sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

The applicant is a citizen of Austria, who came to this country in 1909, and at the time of the crime, July 6, 1909, was seeking employment. He was requested by a friend of his by the name of Kosovac to come along to see him whip one Marcukitz. The applicant accompanied Kosovac and was present when he assaulted the deceased. A struggle ensued between Kosovac and Marcukitz in which Kosovac stabbed Marcukitz causing his death. The applicant took no part whatever in the assault, had no ill-feeling for the deceased man, but after the tragedy went to Chicago where he was apprehended.

Since his incarceration he has become a victim of tuberculosis and has severe hemorrhages and his life has been despaired of a number of times.

In June, 1912, Kosovac returned to Mercer County and admitted he was guilty of the crime. At the trial his crime was fixed at murder in the second degree and he was sentenced to not less than ten years nor more than fifteen years and is now confined, but will probably soon be released.

The trial judge is of the opinion that mercy should be extended.

In view of the nonparticipation of the applicant in the actual killing, the lack of motive, the imprisonment already endured and the very serious physical condition of the applicant we have concluded this is a case in which mercy should be extended, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Velka Ankarich.

Sir: At No. 359, September Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Allegheny, Eva Dyminski was convicted of felonious assault and battery, and on March 4, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of six and one-quarter cents, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment of not less than thirteen months nor more than fifteen months in the Western Penitentiary.

Mrs. Dyminski is a married woman of about fifty-five years of age and lived in McKeesport, Pennsylvania, with her husband and one daughter, Mrs. McCreery, who is the petitioner in this case. The crime for which Mrs. Dyminski was convicted of throwing acid in the face of one, Mrs. Florence. At the trial there was positive evidence on each side, the Commonwealth proving by eye witnesses that Mrs. Dyminski threw the acid, and the defense by a number of witnesses, some of them disinterested, proving an alibi. An appeal was taken to the Superior Court, which appeal was dismissed and imprisonment began on July 29, 1922.

The daughter, Mrs. Marie McCreery, has recently made an affidavit to the effect that it was she who threw the acid and not the mother, and she is corroborated in this by affidavits made by three reputable witnesses. Mrs. McCreery has waived indictment for her offense, entered a plea of guilty and has been sentenced to the penitentiary by the Court of Quarter Sessions of Allegheny County. It is evident from these facts that an innocent woman is now serving imprisonment.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Eva Dyminski.

Sir: At No. 3, September Sessions, 1910, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lawrence, Dominic Panaro was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on March 16, 1911, was sentenced to be hanged. On June 12, 1911, this sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

At the time of the crime the applicant was eighteen years of age, unmarried, a laborer by occupation and resided at New Castle, Pennsylvania.

Panaro, who is about five feet tall and weighed one hundred and twenty-five pounds, with a man by the name of Toskins and his wife, boarded the street car running from Hubbard, Ohio, to New Castle. Panaro paid the fares, and later Toskins, who was employed by the traction company as a laborer, requested the conductor, Maguire, a man six feet tall and weighing about one hundred and seventy-five pounds, to accept the employes' tickets which he had and to return the fares which Panaro had paid. The conductor refused this request and an altercation ensued between Toskins and the conductor, Panaro taking no part in it. Finally, the applicant attempted to intercede between Toskins and the conductor. The conductor then stopped the car, took hold of Panaro, hit him in the eye, on the nose, kicked him in the stomach and chest and put him off the car. The conductor then grabbed hold of Toskins and a struggle followed during which they both fell off the car, the conductor falling on top. The applicant fearing for the safety of his friend, Toskins, pulled a revolver and shot the conductor causing his death.

Honorable William E. Porter, the trial Judge writes to the Board as follows:

"I have received a copy of the application for pardon by Dominic Panaro. I presided as Judge in the trial of the case of the Commonwealth against him at No. 3, September Sessions, 1910.

"I desire to say to you that I feel now that I can recommend a favorable consideration of his petition. The facts surrounding the killing were of such a character as that the defendant may have believed that he was acting in self-defense and while the testimony was sufficient to warrant the conviction, the Pardon Board commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

"The defendant having served a number of years in prison and his physical condition being bad, I believe that the ends of justice would be met by granting his request for pardon."

The Board is also in receipt of a letter from Honorable S. Plummer Emery, the present Judge of Lawrence County, who defended Panaro at his trial and who presented the petition for the commutation of his sentence. Judge Emery states that a proper verdict would have been not higher than second degree murder and urges that a favorable recommendation will be not only an act of mercy, but an act of justice.

To the same effect is a letter from Thomas W. Dickey, Esquire, the District Attorney, who tried the case and who joins in the request that the case be favorably considered.

We have concluded that this case should receive favorable treatment, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Dominic Panaro.

Sir: At No. 150 January Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Eugene Deeley and John Collins were convicted of robbery, and on February 4, 1921, were sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than four years nor more than five years.

Eugene Deeley is twenty-five years of age, white, a clerk by occupation, unmarried and has always resided in Philadelphia. John Collins is twenty-four years of age, white, a clerk by occupation, unmarried and lived in the City of Philadelphia. Prior to this offense neither of the defendants had ever been charged with any crime whatsoever.

Deeley and Collins were standing at Ridge and Columbia Avenues, Philadelphia, on New Year's night, where a former schoolmate of theirs, Edward F. McLaughlin, met them. It is alleged McLaughlin was intoxicated. The three men walked out Columbia Avenue to Thirty-second Street. Deeley and Collins were convicted of robbing McLaughlin of a stick pin. The defense was an alibi, both defendants testifying that they were not in that locality at that time.

The Board is in receipt of a letter from Honorable Joseph P. McCullen, Trial Judge, in which he says, inter alia:

"Beyond defendants' own testimony there was no evidence to sustain defendants' alibi, but it was shown that the defendants had never been charged with any former crime, and it was shown that their prior reputation was good, all of which was taken into consideration when sentence was imposed.

"It is said that since their imprisonment, the defendants have been of good deportment, the evidence as to their prior excellent reputation has been reinforced and their former school teacher (one of the Christian Brothers) has strongly interested himself in the efforts to secure their pardon.

"The action to be taken upon the application for pardon would, I assume, depend largely upon the reasons urged in its support.

"If the defendants, in a contrite spirit, indicate the firm purpose to become again and to remain the good citizens they once were, if the purpose of their sentence to imprisonment has been already accomplished, their application might well be considered with favor by your Honorable Board."

These young men have been in prison since February 4, 1921, and because of their previous good record, their youth and in order to give them an opportunity to lead a correct life in the future we have concluded that the sentence which they have already served is sufficient punishment and meets the ends of justice and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Eugene Deeley and John Collins.

Sir: At October Sessions, 1913, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, William Evans pleaded guilty to the crime of murder in the second degree and on January 23, 1914, was sentenced to pay a fine of Five hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not more than twenty years or less than fourteen years.

The petitioner is a colored man, thirty-eight years of age, a citizen of the United States and, at the time of his arrest was employed as a laborer by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at Downingtown, Pennsylvania.

The applicant with two other colored men became quite drunk on the night of the crime, and during the night these three went to the house where the applicant boarded with his cousin, Mrs. Styer. Sometime during the night Styer was shot by Evans with Styer's pistol, as a result of which he died, and the next morning Evans was found in a drunken stupor on the trap door leading into the Styer house. There was no testimony to show the exact manner in which the killing occurred. No notes of testimony were taken and the full details of what happened are not available.

The Board has received a letter from Harris L. Sproat, Esquire, in regard to this application as follows:

"I have received the copy of the application of William Evans for a pardon, which will come before your Board at its next meeting on October 18th, having served in the District Attorney's Office in Chester County at the time of the Commission of this crime. On account of the fact that this application always bore a good reputation previous to the commission of this crime and the fact that the circumstances immediately preceding and attending the killing were never clearly established and the fact that both the defendant and the man who was shot had been drinking heavily together with other persons on the night of the shooting, the defendant found still in a drunken stupor the next morning after the shooting, and the fact that the defendant has already suffered nine years imprisonment, these facts coupled with the information that I have received to the effect that the applicant is at the present time in a poor state of health and likely to go into permanent decline if confined longer, lead me to believe that the defendant, under all the facts and circumstances has already been punished sufficient to meet the end of public justice and I think that a favorable recommendation in his case would be the proper action, I beg to remain."

The applicant has an unusually good prison record. Some of the Members of the Board of Prison Inspectors and the Warden of the Eastern Penitentiary are personally interested in this case. It is believed that if he is incarcerated for a longer period that he will not survive for the reason that he develops colds in winter time which probably will have a fatal result.

We have concluded that this is a meritorious case, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William Evans.

Sir: At No. 67, September Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Clearfield, Edward Davis waived the finding of true bill and pleaded guilty to the felonious use of dynamite to buildings, and on February 18, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of One dollar, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than three years and not more than six years.

The applicant is a married man with thirteen children. He is now seventy-one years of age, and up until 1919 had an excellent reputation. He was a sober and industrious man working as a coal miner.

About the time of the crime it is alleged that his mind became temporarily unbalanced. He was seized with the idea that his wife was unfaithful to him. He dynamited his home, as well as that of his son-in-law. In this he severely injured himself.

John C. Arnold, Esquire, District Attorney of Clearfield County, writes to the Board as follows:

"Edward Davis is a coal miner by occupation. On the 14th day of July, 1919, he placed and set off a quantity of dynamite under or near the house of Alexander Muirhead, his son-in-law, and also under his own residence, in Morris Township, Clearfield County, Pa. In the explosion he himself was severely injured, which was not due to any negligence on his part but due to his not caring whether or not he himself was killed. He was arrested, waived the finding of a Grand Jury and entered a plea of guilty to assault with intent to murder Muirhead with the felonious use of dynamite. Upon the latter charge he was sentenced on February 18th, 1920, inter alia, to imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a minimum of three years and a maximum of six years.

"Davis claimed, and it was substantiated, by the parties assaulted as well that he was jealous of his wife with whom he had not been getting along well. That his fancied wrongs preyed upon his mind so that the result followed.

"The question of Davis' mental capacity was gone into with a great deal of care both at the time of his arrest and the time of his sentence, and an Inquest in lunacy held. The Inquest of Lunacy held at the instigation of the District Attorney. The Inquest in lunacy held him to be legally of sound mind. There was no question but that he was abnormal, but it did not amount to legal insanity. The Court and District Attorney and the injured parties all had sympathy for Davis. The injured felt there was no other way open except that he be committed either to the Insane Asylum or the Penitentiary, and in this view both the Court and District Attorney concurred. We were all, however, sensible to the fact that this was not the usual result of offenses of this character.

"Before the pardon application was filed representations were made to this office by Mrs. Kane that Davis would be taken to her home in Centre County if this pardon could be obtained. Mrs. Kane is an estimable woman. We then stated to Mrs. Kane that if the parties who were injured or who had reason to fear Davis, concurred in the application for the pardon that this office would not oppose that application. This view met with the entire concurrence of Judge Bell, who authorized me to make this statement to you.

"Because of the advanced age and feeble health of this convict we felt that it would be a mistake to oppose this application, especially when his sentence will expire in four months.

"The statement of the parties that Davis bore an excellent reputation before the crime is entirely correct. Both he and all the members of his family are most reputable people.

"The pardon application states the age of the convict as now being seventy-one and that he was sixty-nine at the time of his admittance. Davis' then information to me was that he was sixty-five at the time of the sentence."

We have concluded that these facts indicate the application is a worthy one, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Edward Davis.

Sir: At No. 34, September Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace and Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Luzerne, William F. Miller was convicted of rape, and on October 1, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of Two hundred and fifty dollars, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than ten years or more than fifteen years.

The applicant is fifty-four years of age, a citizen of the United States, a lumberman by trade and is married. Mr. and Mrs. Miller took to live with them a child, fourteen years of age, by the name of Leah Sims, and a baby was born to her on July 12, 1920. She alleged that Miller had lived in illicit intercourse with her for about a year and a half. She told conflicting stories as to the cause of her pregnancy and in her first interview she stated that the father of the child was a camper, who lived at Lily Lake, whose name she would not give.

Later she was taken to the United Charities. Within two weeks after Miller's conviction a man named Stewart, who boarded with the Millers, asserted that he is the father of the child of Miss Sims and made an affidavit to that effect. Notwithstanding this the Court refused to grant a new trial.

Since the trial it has come to light that Miller was physically incompetent to have intercourse with a woman. A physical examination was made of Miller at the Eastern Penitentiary, and Dr. Martin Costello after reciting the condition which he found, stated that "these facts together with the man's age lead me to believe that it is extremely improbable that he would be able to have sexual intercourse and impossible for him to be the father of children."

These facts indicate very strongly that Mr. Miller is entirely innocent of the crime for which he was convicted.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William F. Miller.

Sir: At No. 17 December Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Fayette, Elmer Miller was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on May 31, 1922, was sentenced to be electrocuted.

The applicant is fifty-seven years of age and was a resident of Franklin Township near the village of Vanderbilt, where he worked as a farmer. He was married in 1888 and there are seven children living, four of them of age, and three young children, namely, Jacob, fourteen years of age, Eunice, twelve years of age, and Robert, nine years of age. The applicant was successful in his business and owned a thirty acre improved farm. During his residence in the township he had served as a road boss, was elected a road supervisor, and also elected a constable of the Township and later was appointed Game Warden.

On December 1, 1921, Elmer Miller shot and killed his wife while she stood in their residence near the mantel whereon there were two or three loaded revolvers. He says that he shot her while she was pointing one of the revolvers at him with the apparent intention of shooting him. There was no one present at the time of the tragedy except the applicant and his wife.

While there is no doubt that Miller killed his wife, the conviction of first degree murder was secured largely upon the testimony of the three younger children whose ages have been given, supplemented by the testimony of the daughter, Anne Livingston, and the son Ewing Miller. The testimony of the younger children was to the effect that the father had threatened the life of the mother and had been abusive in his treatment of her. Since the trial these children have made affidavits to the effect that their testimony at the trial was not true, and later these affidavits were denied. It was again affirmed by them, and a final denial of their sworn testimony has been made. Recently the younger children have written requesting that commutation be granted. Ewing Miller, of mature age, who was very bitter against his father at the time of the trial, writes the Governor as follows:

"Dear Governor Sproul:

"I am the son of Elmer Miller, Ewing Miller. I was against my father during the trial because I was forced to do so by other people and during the trial there was some very serious lies against him in the case and the half of the testimony was impossible to be true for it was a few people from Vanderbilt that forced the family to do so. I am a son of Elmer Miller and what made me do these lies was that I was forced to do so, for I told the stuff that was not true. Please do not send him to the chair.

"Very truly
"Yours,
"EWING MILLER."

One of the married daughters has written requesting that the father be electrocuted.

We hesitate to refrain from recommending mercy to a man when his own daughter requests that he be sent to the electric chair. The Board is constrained to favorably consider this application because of the applicant's previous good character and the uncertainty which exists as to the testimony of some of his children.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon the said Elmer Miller be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At Nos. 10 and 157, May Term, 1916, in the Court of Quarter Sessions and Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Washington, Thomas H. Talbot was convicted of felonious entry, robbery, larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on June 1, 1916, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of one hundred dollars and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a maximum period of ten years and a minimum period of eight years.

The applicant is thirty-seven years of age, a citizen of the United States, by occupation at the time of his arrest a farmer, and he resided at Russelton, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania. He has a family of two children—Ethel, aged thirteen, and Mildred, aged six. The applicant is the sole support of his two children and is also partially supporting his mother, his wife being now deceased. The applicant's health at the present time is in a serious condition. He is suffering from tuberculosis of the bowels, and while an inmate of the Penitentiary has undergone several operations.

The crime for which he was convicted was the robbery of the First National Bank at Houston of approximately $16,000. He owned his farm and on it was found approximately $1,600, which was identified by the Bank as being part of the money which had been stolen. He was identified as being one of the robbers of the Bank although he denied any knowledge of the crime and both he and his wife testified that the money which had been found on the farm had been left there by James Dillon. It was the disclosures of the wife which helped to locate the money on the farm.

The reasons submitted for the favorable recommendation of this application are that the identification of the defendant was meager and that the alibi presented by the defendant and by disinterested witnesses indicated that the defendant was not guilty; that the term of imprisonment already served had satisfied the ends of justice; that the behavior of the prisoner in the prison has been exemplary, especially during the riot which occurred at the Western Penitentiary, at which time, we are informed by the Superintendent of the Prison Labor Commission, he was one of a small group who saved much valuable property of the Commission and also saved the life of the Superintendent, as he believes. His health also is bad.

These reasons appeal to the Board as being worthy of serious consideration, and we have concluded that the application should be granted. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Thomas H. Talbot.

Harrisburg, Pa., November 28, 1922.

Sir: At No. 44, February Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Luzerne, Salvatore Delbarto pleaded guilty to manslaughter, and on June 11, 1919, was sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than eight nor more than ten years.

The applicant is twenty-six years of age, an Italian citizen, by occupation a miner, and resided at Pittston, Pennsylvania.

On November 14, 1919, at the home of Mrs. Consargo, in Pittston, Pennsylvania, there were present the applicant and a number of other people, among them being Baruzzo. Baruzzo made an indecent proposal to Mrs. Consargo and threatened to cut her throat, and she then pleaded to the applicant to go for her husband. When Delbarto started for Mrs. Consargo's husband, he was attacked by Baruzzo with a knife and fork and slashed about the head and face. Delbarto seized a gun from a shelf nearby, told his assailant to keep away from him, backed up against the wall, and Baruzzo still attacking him with the knife, Delbarto then shot. After the shooting Delbarto went to the home of his brother, about a mile and a half away, where he remained until he recovered from his wounds, and then surrendered himself to the Pittston police, in the meantime having heard of the death of Baruzzo.

The reasons alleged for clemency in this case are that Delbarto acted in self-defense; that he has served three years and ten months of his sentence, which is sufficient punishment for the crime that was committed; the known bad character of the dead man, who had a record of killing a number of people; the voluntary surrender of the applicant three weeks after the commission of the crime, and that there was no malice nor premeditation.

These facts compel the conclusion that the applicant has expiated the crime for which he was convicted, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Salvatore Delbarto.

Sir: At No. 32, March Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Allegheny, Antonio Rupich pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter, and on June 18, 1919, was sentenced to pay a fine of six and one-quarter cents, the cost of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary, for not less than eight years or more than ten years.

The applicant is twenty-eight years of age, a single man, and resided at Clairton, Allegheny County, prior to his arrest, for six years, where he was employed by the Carnegie Steel Company.

The applicant and Mr. Nacich, the deceased man, were cousins and good friends. On December 20, 1918, they, with some others, were in the house where Rupich boarded, which is next door to Nacich's home. They had been drinking and were sitting around the table talking when Rupich slapped Nacich and told him it was time for old married men to go home. Something of a struggle followed when Rupich picked a glass pitcher off the table and struck Nacich over the head, the blow causing his death the next morning. The blow was not sufficiently hard to break the pitcher.

The Board is in receipt of letters from the employers of the applicant, who set forth that he had a good reputation among his fellow workmen, that he was a peaceful, law abiding citizen, that employment awaits him if he can be released, and that it was their opinion that Rupich did not intend to kill or seriously injure the deceased man, but that the fatality was an unexpected misadventure.

S. H. Gardner, Esquire, Assistant District Attorney of Allegheny County, who tried the case, writes, that he considers the sentence unusually severe, and that the case approaches very closely the crime of involuntary manslaughter, as the killing was done rather as the result of a playful prank than otherwise.

Accepting this view of the case it appears that the punishment has been sufficient to meet the requirements of justice.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Antonio Rupich.

Sir: At No. 1 June Term, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Warren, Leslie Durlin was convicted of statutory rape and bastardy and on July 19, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution, to pay the mother of the child twenty-five dollars and also pay her eight dollars per month, each calendar month, and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than four years nor more than five years.

The applicant is a citizen of the United States, thirty-eight years of age, by occupation a factory worker, and at the time of his arrest was employed by C. C. Johnson as a woodsman. He resided in Pittsfield Township, Warren County, Pennsylvania, was married and had six children, all daughters, the oldest being eighteen years of age and the youngest seven years of age.

Velma May Messenger lived with her father in Freehold Township, Warren County, Pennsylvania. She stated that while she was in her father's home alone on February 16, 1919, when she was less than fifteen years of age, Leslie Durlin, the applicant, at about 10:30 or 11:00 A. M. drove up to the house, hitched his horse, came into the house and made some threats and committed the offenses charged against him. A child was born to her on November 12, 1919. The applicant has always maintained his innocence and denied that he was in the vicinity at the time. Since the trial he has learned that his brother, who was about the same size and build, did know the Messenger family, that he had a horse and buggy and was in the vicinity at the time of the alleged crime, and was seen by some children who swore that they saw the applicant. There was considerable other after discovered testimony which tended to show that the applicant may be innocent of the crime for which he was convicted.

Velma Messenger has married Fred L. Sliter and as the result of this union a baby was born. There are affidavits to the effect that the baby born from this wedlock and the baby born previously are very similar in appearance. Fred L. Sliter was a boarder in the Messenger home and worked for the girl's father when the girl became pregnant the first time. There is also an affidavit of Mrs. Frank Studd to the effect that the father of Velma Messenger had told her a wrong had been done Leslie Durlin and at the time of the trial he believed his daughter's statements that Durlin was the father of the child, but since that time he had made up his mind that the charge against Durlin was not true and he believed that his daughter misinformed him as to who was the father of the child.

Because of the after discovered testimony and the doubt as to the guilt of the applicant and taking into consideration the term of imprisonment which the applicant has undergone, we have concluded that this is a proper case for the exercise of clemency and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Leslie Durlin.

Sir: At No. 566 January Sessions, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Ernest Ursomano pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter and on April 26, 1922, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than three years nor more than four years.

Ursomano is twenty-four years of age, unmarried, a laborer by occupation, was born in Italy and came to Philadelphia when he was fourteen years of age. On December 17, 1915, Ursomano got into a quarrel with one, Raniszewski, who was an Austrian, Ursomano being an Italian, and their countries at that time being at war. Ursomano was then seventeen years of age and the Austrian was a grown man of strong physique and much larger than Ursomano. Both men were employed in the Lamp Globe Works of the Gilbert Glass Works of Frankford, and were engaged in night work. Frequent discussions occurred between them upon the war and on the morning of December 17, 1915, the deceased man picked a fight with the Italian boy and it wound up by their throwing lamp globes at each other. The Austrian threatened to get Ursomano when they stopped work and left the building. The men stopped work about 4 o'clock A. M. and the deceased was waiting for Ursomano outside. Immediately he started the attack and both men were seen in a clinch. It is alleged that Ursomano was overpowered and finally shot his assailant in order to save himself. After the shooting Ursomano went to the home of his brother in the Southern part of Philadelphia and shortly thereafter sailed for Italy. He enlisted in the Italian Army and served until the finish of the war with bravery and distinction. At the conclusion of the war he returned to his brother's home in Philadelphia under a passport with no attempt at concealment of his name and was arrested with the result above stated.

Honorable Horace Stern, the Trial Judge, writes to the Board as follows:

"Ernest Ursomano pleaded guilty before me on April 22, 1922, to voluntary manslaughter, and was sentenced to not less than three nor more than four years in the Eastern Penitentiary from that date. Because of the nature of the offense, it seemed to me necessary to impose the sentence above referred to. I realized at the time that there were extenuating circumstances in the case, but they appeared to me to be of such a nature that they should more properly be presented to a Board of Pardons than to the sitting Judge.

Yours respectfully,
HORACE STERN."

The Board is in receipt of a large number of letters to the effect that Ursomano was at all times a young man of good character, industrious, sober, peaceable and law abiding, which request favorable treatment in this case.

In the opinion of the Board this is a meritorious case and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Ernest Ursomano.

Sir: At No. 367, September Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, Donato Musato pleaded guilty to forgery, and on September 22, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than six years nor more than eight years.

The applicant at the time of his conviction was twenty-two years of age, a laborer by occupation, married, and was a resident of the borough of Nanticoke. The crime consisted in the forging of his father's name to orders on the First National Bank of Nanticoke, withdrawing the savings account of his father. It seems that the young man was in love with a young woman whom he married, and that he lavished on her the money which he obtained by forging his father's name. Upon his arrest a large part of the money so obtained was restored to the Bank, and his father made complete restoration, so that no loss was sustained.

Arthur H. James, the District Attorney of Luzerne County, writes in regard to this case as follows:

"In re: Application of Donato Musato

"The above named defendant plead guilty with forging his father's name to withdrawals from the account of his father in the First National Bank of Nanticoke, and was sentenced on the 27th day of September, 1920, to the Eastern Penitentiary. "From my investigation it appears that this young man has served in the American Army and had an excellent record; that he married a young woman from Scranton, Penna., and used the money which he obtained from the Bank to lavish upon this young woman.

"Upon his arrest restitution was made of the funds still in his hands, and the father made good to the First National Bank of Nanticoke. I further understand that his father is very anxious to have the boy released, and I believe the boy has been sufficiently punished, and that his experience will justify my belief that he will become a worthy citizen."

Charles A. Shea, of Wilkes-Barre, who appeared for the Commonwealth as a representative of the First National Bank of Nanticoke, writes, stating that he joins in the application and believes that the young man has been sufficiently punished.

Because of these facts, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Donato Musato.

Sir: At No. 33 June Sessions, 1917, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Luzerne, Joseph Washko was convicted of manslaughter, the jury recommending him to the mercy of the Court, and on June 21, 1917, was sentenced to pay a fine of one thousand dollars, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than eleven years and eleven months and not more than twelve years.

The applicant is a citizen of the United States, at the time of the killing was twenty-nine years of age, married and without children. He resided near the village of Eckley, Pennsylvania. The fatality was the culmination of two days and two nights of drinking on the part of the applicant and his half-brother, Mike Washko. On the way home from a saloon they got into a dispute, and the applicant went into his house, endeavoring, as he claimed, to avoid trouble. In the house Mike Washko became aggressive and in a bad temper, and a fight ensued, during which Joseph ordered Mike from the house. Mike refused, and Joseph went upstairs for a shotgun, and, upon returning, followed Mike out into the yard and there fired the fatal shot.

Joseph Washko has always contended that he did not get the gun with the intention of shooting, but only for the purpose of frightening his half-brother off the premises, and that the gun was accidentally discharged. The jury deliberated nearly two days and finally returned a verdict of "manslaughter". The Court imposed the maximum sentence for manslaughter, and the applicant has now served more than five years of this sentence.

Ten members of the jury who convicted him, being all of the jury that could be found, joined in a petition in which they state that they would not have convicted him of manslaughter if they had not felt that a much less penalty would have been given, and that, in their opinion, the punishment already endured has been adequate, especially since there was an honest and substantial doubt of the defendant's guilt of the crime.

Frank P. Slattery, Esq., of Wilkes-Barre, was the District Attorney at the time this case was tried. He writes that he was much impressed by the previous good character of the defendant, and felt a good deal of compassion for him, as the evidence plainly showed that the killing was the result of drink. He joins in the request that the pardon be granted.

To a similar effect are letters from John Shigo, a banker of Freeland, Pennsylvania, M. S. Depierro, First Assistant District Attorney, E. C. Reese, Postmaster, and a number of other influential and reputable citizens.

In the opinion of the Board the applicant has been sufficiently punished by the term of imprisonment which he has served. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Joseph Washko.

Sir: At No. 20, March Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions in and for the County of Lawrence, Steve Broom was convicted of felonious assault and battery, and on June 19, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than three years nor more than six years.

The applicant is an Italian by birth, twenty-eight years of age, lived at Hillsville, Lawrence County, Pennsylvania, and was employed by the Carbon Lime Stone Company.

On November 5, 1919, the applicant and one Burik were in a house at Hillsville until about ten o'clock, when Burik left for home, and on his way home he claims that the applicant jumped from behind a house or tree and slashed him in the face with a pocket-knife, inflicting a wound that required the attention of a doctor. The prosecutor claimed to have recognized the applicant although it was quiet dark and there were no street lights near.

The applicant admitted that he was at the house in question, but claims that he left there about ten o'clock, went to a store near-by to purchase some groceries and then to his boarding-house; that he went to work the next morning and remained at his work and at his usual residence until he was arrested on December 12, 1919; that he did not see the prosecutor from the time he left the boarding-house where they had met until after he was arrested some six weeks later.

Honorable G. G. Sloan, the Trial Judge, writes the Board in regard to this as follows:

"Three years ago I was assigned to specially preside in the Courts of Lawrence County. Steve Broom was indicted on an indictment containing several counts—felonious assault, aggravated assault and battery and simple assault and battery. The jury returned a verdict of guilty in manner and form as indicated. I sentenced him to the penitentiary for a period of not less than three years and not more than six years.

"The case was close on the facts and at that time I had serious doubts in my mind whether there was sufficient evidence to justify a conviction. A motion was made for a new trial but never pressed. My recollection of the testimony is that he was convicted almost entirely on the evidence of the prosecutor, who swore the defendant had attacked him in the dark and inflicted the injury. The defendant offered proof of his whereabouts, that he was at home in bed at the time of the alleged assault, and by disinterested and apparently worthy witnesses.

"Since the matter of pardon was considered I have taken some trouble to inform myself in regard to the case. I was a stranger in the city and had no knowledge except what I could derive from others. The general opinion is that he was not guilty. Some of the very best people in New Castle entertained that idea.

"If the motion for a new trial had been followed I feel very certain I would have granted it, at least giving him another chance. I am certain he was not guilty of anything higher than aggravated assault and battery at the best. I am satisfied that my sentence was too severe.

"If you can see your way clear, without doing injustice to any one, I would very earnestly ask that you pardon this defendant. He has already served two and one-half years, which I think is sufficient for all the injury that was alleged to have been inflicted, even conceding he was guilty."

Thomas W. Dickey, Esq., Attorney at Law, of Newcastle, Pennsylvania, writes that he assisted in the prosecution of this case, and that in his opinion the crime, if any, did not rise higher than aggravated assault and battery, for which the maximum penalty is three years. He expresses his belief that the man has been adequately punished, and that he should now be pardoned.

These circumstances impel the Board to the conclusion that clemency should now be exercised. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Steve Broom.

Sir: At No. 1, June Term, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lawrence, Pete Christean, alias Pete Christy, was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on December 5, 1921, was sentenced to be electrocuted. On Wednesday, May 1, 1918, four men attempted to rob a house in the City of New Castle. James Cucian, a policeman of the City of New Castle, went into the house and was killed in a pistol duel which then occurred. One of the four men was found dead sometime later in a vacant lot nearby. The other three criminals forced a taxicab driver, by the name of Harper, to take them to Youngstown, where Harper reported the matter to the police. The police discovered the men, attempted to make an arrest and a running fight ensued during which Captain Jenkins, one of the policemen, was seriously wounded. Three of the men apparently escaped, but one of them was found dead close by on the following morning.

Pete Christean was arrested in Cincinnati, extradited, tried and convicted in Lawrence County as one of the culprits.

Christean maintains that he has never been in New Castle, that the identification of him as one of the murderers was a mistaken identification, and that there are two Pete Christeans, the real offender now being at large.

The affidavits of five different individuals have been furnished to the Board, who saw the murderers at sometime prior or subsequent to the commission of the crime, and who state, under oath, that the applicant was not one of them. In addition to this the prosecutor in the case, N. J. Young who was County Detective and who assisted in preparing the evidence at the trial, writes to the Board, inter alia.

"I have no hesitancy in saying to the Board of Pardons that this man's sentence ought to be commuted. It may be possible that in the future some evidence may be found that the witnesses were mistaken in their identification of the applicant."

While there was ample evidence at the trial to convict the applicant, there is a possibility of this being a case of mistaken identity. It seems proper to refrain from making it impossible for the applicant to show by adequate proof at some future time that this is the case, and for this reason we have concluded that the sentence of death should now be commuted.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon Pete Christean, alias Pete Christy, be commuted to life imprisonment.

Sir: At No. 301 March Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Abraham Spear was convicted of larceny and on November 10, 1920, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County prison for three months. On November 19, 1920, this sentence was reconsidered and the defendant discharged on probation for the period of six months.

The petitioner is thirty-seven years of age, a native citizen of the United States, white, married, the father of six children and he resides in Philadelphia where he has been engaged in the automobile business for the past fifteen years. Spear and Applebaum were partners in the automobile and garage business. Dispute arose over a debt of $350.00 which Spear claimed Applebaum owed him, and as a result the partnership was dissolved. A nephew of Applebaum's was employed in the garage and upon his leaving the employment he claimed the ownership of some tools which were refused him by Spear who claimed they were bought and paid for by him. A warrant was issued and Spear was arrested and tried with the result above stated.

Spear makes this application now to clear his record of the stain of what he says is an unjust conviction, and because the conviction has been a detriment to his success in the business world and his standing among his friends and acquaintances. His record before and since conviction is good.

We deem the application a meritorious one and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Abraham Spear.

Sir: At No. 16, October Term, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Chester, Leroy A. Austin, was indicted for larceny and was convicted of attempt at larceny, and on November 1, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not more than ten years or not less than two and one-half years.

The applicant is twenty-three years of age, a citizen of the United States, by occupation a stockman and farmer, and at the time of his arrest was employed by the West Chester Dairy as a helper in the creamery. Prior to that his home had been in North Carolina.

The applicant bought two halters and went to the field of one Samuel Johnson and placed a halter on two of the horses but did not remove the horses from the field in which they were located. The result of this act was to contribute two halters to the farmer. On his arrest he admitted that he had haltered the horses, but before attempting to take them out of the field, realized that it was wrong to do so, and changed his mind and went on into West Chester. For this act he received the sentence indicated, which is clearly an excessive sentence. Many Judges under similar circumstances would have suspended sentence. No harm was done the farmer and no crime of any serious consequence was committed. The applicant has the best of reputations in the penitentiary and had a good record prior to this case and should be a useful citizen. He has served more than two years of his sentence. In our opinion, the interests of justice require that he shall be immediately released.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Leroy A. Austin.

Sir: At No. 58 December Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions in and for the County of Lycoming, D. W. Longwell was convicted of administering a drug with intent to procure miscarriage, and on January 16, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than eighteen months, nor more than two years.

The applicant is forty-four years of age, a citizen of the United States and at the time of his arrest was engaged in practicing medicine in South Williamsport, Pennsylvania. The applicant was indicted on two counts, the second being that of unlawful and feloniously using certain instruments with intent to procure a miscarriage. He was acquitted on the second count and the offense for which he was convicted was the giving a pregnant woman pink pills. There is no adequate testimony that the pink pills which he gave her would produce a miscarriage nor is it sufficiently clear that a miscarriage resulted from the taking of these pills. The applicant comes from a good family, is a practitioner of considerable experience and ability and had never before this time been mixed up with any similar trouble, and the Board is assured that if leniency is now exercised the applicant will become a useful citizen and will not resort to the practice for which he was convicted.

We have concluded that these facts indicate that a favorable treatment of this case should be given, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said D. W. Longwell.

Sir: At No. 12, September Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Bradford, Miles Holcombe pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods, and on February 13, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars to the Commonwealth, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two years and nine months or more than three years.

The applicant is twenty-seven years of age, a citizen of the United States, by trade a barber, at the time of the crime was running an automobile garage at Sayre, Penna., and is unmarried. During the year 1921 there were considerable goods stolen from cars of the Lehigh Valley Railroad and of the Erie Railroad. A search was made of the garage run by the applicant and some of these goods were found therein. The applicant upon his arrest told the officers of his connection with the matter, rendered valuable assistance to the officials in the recovery of other goods and in the apprehension of others who had been guilty of the actual stealing. The stolen goods with which the applicant had any connection, directly or indirectly, were restored to the owners and full compensation and settlement was made to the injured parties.

Honorable William Maxwell, the Trial Judge, writes that the defendant never was in Court before, charged with crime, and in view of his having restored the property to the owners, or paid the value thereof, prior to the sentence, we were "unconsciously severe in the sentence that we imposed upon this defendant". Judge Maxwell further says that upon the return of the defendant if he does not lead the life of an honest and upright man, and he again commits any crime, he can be brought into Court and sentenced on the two indictments upon which sentence was suspended.

The District Attorney, William G. Schrier, also writes to the Board recommending that clemency shall now be shown.

In view of the statements of the Trial Judge and the District Attorney, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Miles Holcomb.

Sir: At No. 605-607 June Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Theodore Lusta was convicted of entering to steal, larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on June 28, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two years nor more than three years.

The applicant is white, thirty-two years of age, unmarried, a waiter by occupation and lived at Philadelphia two years prior to his conviction. He was convicted of the larceny of forty dollars from a dwelling house in Philadelphia. It is alleged that the applicant would rent a room in a rooming house and in the early morning would rob the house of whatever cash was available and then leave and go to another house and rent a room and perpetrate the same act, in each case receiving about thirty dollars.

Honorable James M. Barnett, President Judge of the Forty-first Judicial District writes the Board as follows:

"On June 28th, 1921, Theodore Lusta was convicted before me, while specially presiding in Court of Quarter Sessions, No. 1, of Philadelphia County, of entering with intent to steal, and was sentenced to not less than two nor more than three years in the Eastern Penitentiary. I am advised that he is now applying for a pardon, after having served nearly three-fourths of the minimum term, and that relatives are anxious to have him freed, intending to start him in honest employment. The sentence was perhaps unduly severe under the circumstances, and if it shall seem proper to the Board of Pardons to grant the desired relief, their action will have my full approval."

In view of the representations of the Trial Judge we have determined that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Theodore Lusta.

Sir: At Nos. 975 and 976, June Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Allegheny Ralph B. Montgomery pleaded guilty to entering a building, larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on August 19, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of six and one-quarter cents, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than eighteen months or more than two years.

The applicant is thirty-two years of age, a citizen of the United States, by trade a fireman on the Pennsylvania Railroad, but at the time of his arrest was out of work and his residence was at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He is married and has two children, two and one-half years and fourteen months of age, respectively.

The applicant for sometime prior to his arrest had disagreements with his wife. During this period he engaged in frequent drinking parties at the home of Mrs. Mahler, one of the prosecutors, who charged him with the larceny of certain wearing apparel. Just before his arrest he was at Mrs. Mahler's home, and in leaving he and John Morton took with them several articles of wearing apparel. The goods were restored to the owner the next day. John Morton the other participant in the offense has been paroled and is now at liberty. H. H. Rowand, the District Attorney of Allegheny County writes, that this office has no objections to a favorable consideration of the application. The prosecutor also writes requesting that leniency be now shown to the applicant.

The applicant comes from a respectable family, and his wife is a woman of fine character, who stands loyally by her husband. A complete reconciliation has been effected and it is believed that the applicant upon his release will lead a correct life and support his wife and little children in a proper manner. It would seem to us that the ends of justice have been met by the imprisonment incurred and that it is fitting that the applicant should now be released from prison.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Ralph B. Montgomery.

Sir: At No. 205, February Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Allegheny, Earl McKinney pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods and, on March 25, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of six and one-quarter cents, the costs of prosecution and to undergo an imprisonment of not less than two years or more than three years in the Western Penitentiary.

The applicant is twenty-six years of age, a citizen of the United States, a machinist by trade, having worked for a number of years at his trade in West Homestead, Pennsylvania, and a married man with two children, who owned his own home. This is the first offense of which he has been convicted, and his reputation prior to this case has been good.

The offense committed was the robbery by William Hughes and LeRoy Lockes, of a tailor shop and the carrying away of goods. The applicant drove these men to the tailor shop in his automobile and waited in the machine while they went into the tailor shop and took some cloth. The three men afterwards drove away with the cloth and it was sold. The applicant helped recover the stolen goods and pleaded guilty to the charge of receiving stolen goods. He testified on behalf of the Commonwealth at the trial against the men involved and assisted in securing their conviction and sentence. Harry H. Rowand, District Attorney of Allegheny County, writes the following letter:

"Answering your communication of November 4th, 1922, relative to the application of Earl McKinney for pardon, we beg to advise that we have read the petition for pardon, to which the history of the case is attached, and that the facts set forth in the said history are substantially the facts as appeared before the Court at the time of hearing.

"This case was prosecuted by our County Detective Bureau and I am advised by the Officer having charge of this prosecution that the application for pardon is in his estimation a meritorious one.

"This office has no objection to a favorable consideration of this application."

Because of the previous good record, the fact that this is a first offense and the conduct of the applicant in assisting the Commonwealth in bringing the others to justice, and believing the imprisonment, which he has incurred will tend to prevent him from committing further crimes of this character, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Earl McKinney.

Sir: At No. 1, August Sessions, 1906, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Adams, William Eyler was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on January 7, 1907, was sentenced to be hanged. On October 16, 1907, this sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

The applicant is a citizen of the United States, by occupation a farmer, at which he was employed at the time of his arrest. He had a wife at the time of his arrest, who has since been divorced and has remarried; and he has a father eighty-two years of age and a mother seventy-seven years of age, living on the home farm, who are in need of his care and support.

On May 30, 1906, with his wife, father, mother and other members of his family, he drove from his home in Maryland near the Adams County line, to Gettysburg. On the way to Gettysburg he drank several glasses of whiskey and beer, and during the day added to his potations. About four o'clock in the afternoon his brother-in-law, William Long, engaged in a fight in the bar-room of the Globe Hotel at Gettysburg with Howard Miller, the deceased, in which fight Long and his companions were worsted. The applicant was not present at this fight—had never before seen or heard of Miller, the deceased, but some one came out and told him that his brother-in-law had been whipped in a fight.

Eyler rushed into the hotel through a rear door, tore off the handle of an iron pump which stood in a rear room and went into the bar-room where Miller was standing and where a bystander pointed out Miller to Eyler. Eyler struck Miller on the head with the pump handle and departed from the hotel in the direction of Emmitsburg, where he was found several hours later lying in the public road.

The District Attorney who tried the case, John D. Leith, stated to the Board that at the most the crime committed was second degree murder, and that it was a great surprise to everyone that first degree murder was found. The imprisonment of approximately sixteen years which the applicant has served is adequate punishment for murder in the second degree.

Honorable S. McC. Swope, trial Judge, writes the Board in regard to this case, as follows:

"The case of Commonwealth vs William Eyler, on the charge of murder of Howard Miller, was tried before me as the then President Judge of the Courts of Adams County.

"I am entirely satisfied with any action your Board may take in relation to the present application for his pardon, and I believe that under all the circumstances of the case, his pardon at this time will meet the approval of the citizens of Adams County."

These facts indicate strongly that the applicant has been adequately punished for his crime. He has been a good prisoner and the prison officials assure the Board that if released he will become a good citizen.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William Eyler.

Harrisburg, Pa., December 5, 1922.

Sir: At No. 55, November Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Luzerne, Benjamin Robzin, John Callahan and Thomas Mullin (with two others) were convicted of entering a house and larceny, and on October 14, 1921, were sentenced as hereinafter recited.

This case presents some unusual features which require the statement, with more than usual detail, of the reasons leading to the recommendation made herein.

It is proper to state that the conclusion we have reached is not to be taken as an approval of the charges of unfairness made against the trial judge in the application. A careful examination of the testimony shows the rulings throughout the trial to have been impartial though some of the testimony went rather far afield. There are some expressions in the charge which we think tend to the detriment of the defendants though they do not constitute reversible error, and while we are impressed with the probability of their having operated to the prejudice of the defendants we cannot think they were so intended.

One passage which seems scarcely appropriate in a charge, was the following:

"You have heard rumor of thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars being made by the illicit trade in whiskey; and those things, therefore, show you that this case is highly important in what respects? * * * Fifth, to the good name of the kind people that the malefactors would belong to: If these three men, being Jewish, three of the five, were guilty of this crime, they brought disrepute upon one of the oldest and best religious faiths in the world, the one which we hark back to. If these other two men, being Christians—and Catholics, I believe, too, from their names—were guilty of this offense, they brought reproach upon one of the most general faiths in the world—hundreds of thousands, hundreds of millions of people belonging to that faith. And they bring reproach upon every one, they bring reproach upon their mothers that bore them, and their fathers that brought them up, if they are willing to violate the laws of the land and steal and bootleg and do those things for the sake of a few paltry dollars. You see it is not a proper appreciation of life and its responsibilities, of the government and its duties."

The language quoted sounds more like a prelude to a sentence than an aid to the jury in solving a simple question at fact. It is followed, of course, by the statement—

"But while that may be so, if they did this thing, nevertheless, it is for you to say as a fact, from the evidence in the case whether they did or not."

But we cannot feel confident that this would neutralize in the minds of the jury the very striking language by which it was preceded. We do not disagree with the Superior Court, but our field is broader than theirs.

Likewise, the sentence: "Have the defendants satisfied you that they were not present and that they were not guilty?" is used in connection with other language explaining that the jury must be satisfied of the guilty of the defendants beyond a reasonable doubt, but to the sometimes obtuse minds of the jurors it certainly is dangerous to suggest any duty on the part of the defendants to satisfy the jury "that they were not guilty."

Five men were convicted together,—Robzin, Mullin, and Callahan, who are the three applicants here, and David Chermin and William Pezzner. They were charged with entering (by daylight) a building occupied by the prosecutor, one Matulavicz, and stealing therefrom three barrels of liquor, which were loaded and taken away on a truck. It is quite apparent that the prosecutor Matulavicz, kept a speak-easy, and his testimony indicates that he was not a candid witness. Some of the defendants were identified by the prosecutor and some by his wife. His testimony was that two or three of the defendants came into his bar-room, that one pretended to be a deputy sheriff, that they told him he had purchased stolen liquor (it appeared that he had purchased it all since the passage of the Prohibition law, because he admitted this as to two barrels and said he had paid $18.00 a gallon for the third barrel) and while he was changing his clothes and going to see his Attorney the liquor was rolled out of his basement and loaded on a truck and when he returned the men and liquor had disappeared. His wife was not in the bar-room during this conversation with her husband, but testified she had seen one of the men in the house and had also watched the loading of the liquor on the truck. There was no identification except by this prosecutor and his wife. There was not a scrap of testimony by any other person who saw any of the defendants anywhere in the neighborhood on the date of the theft. Several neighbors were very close to the truck when the barrels of liquor were being placed thereon but could identify none of those engaged in loading it, and one neighbor, apparently an intelligent man, not knowing there was anything wrong, was requested to help put the liquor on the truck and did so. Called by the Commonwealth he testified that the men he helped were not in the court, though the wife of the prosecutor said they were two of the defendants. All the defendants denied any knowledge of the matter and each of them accounted for his whereabouts on the evening of the theft and each was corroborated by one or more independent witnesses.

Of the five thus convicted, there could not well be degrees of guilt. Each defendant was as guilty as any other defendant, or he was innocent. The jury returned a verdict of guilty as to all, but recommended Callahan and Chermin to the mercy of the Court. On what theory mercy could be recommended as to any one who was guilty, is not apparent. Chermin was sentenced to one year in jail and subsequently paroled, but the judicial mercy to Callahan was expressed in a minimum sentence of six years to the Eastern Penitentiary. Pezzner, Mullin and Robzin were each sentenced to a minimum of eleven years in the Eastern Penitentiary. Securing a retrial on technical grounds through the appeal taken by the defendants to the Superior Court, Pezzner was retried and acquitted.

We therefore have Mullin, Robzin and Callahan serving extremely severe sentences based upon the verdict of a jury which is adjudged to have been wrong in convicting Pezzner. We have Chermin at large, although the same jury found him guilty, and if guilty there is nothing in the testimony to indicate that he was less so than the present applicants.

All the applicants were young married men engaged in legitimate occupations. Mullin was a boiler-maker's helper aged twenty-six, Callahan a railroad brakeman aged thirty-three and Robzin a butcher and grocer aged twenty-four. It does not appear that either of them had ever been in any previous trouble of any kind whatever. The testimony took such a wide scope that if they had we may be sure it would have a wide mentioned.

Clearly the sentences of these applicants were excessive. The sentences of Mullin and Robzin are heavier than many sentences for murder, and Callahan's supposedly merciful sentence is quite up to the average voluntary manslaughter. The District Attorney frankly admitted at the argument, that the sentences were too severe, leaving it to the Board, however, to determine whether the period now served is adequate.

By the time a pardon could issue the applicants will have served a year and two months. If we were reasonably satisfied of their guilt we should scarcely be prepared to say that their imprisonment should terminate at this time. But in view of the situation as we have described it, we feel that their guilt is too doubtful to justify their further confinement.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Benjamin Robzin, John Callahan and Thomas Mullin.

Sir: At No. 699, August Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Philip H. Yoskin pleaded guilty to subordination of perjury and on November 1, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County prison for three years. The indictment to which he pleaded guilty was that the applicant persuaded a certain man, whose name is unknown, to falsely personate and assume the name of Harry E. Jordan, who was formerly an owner of real estate in Philadelphia, and in the name of Harry E. Jordan to enter bail and become surety before a Magistrate for the appearance of one Irving Haber, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace for trial on the charge of larceny.

The applicant is fifty-eight years of age, is married and has six children living, the children being between the ages of twelve and eighteen years of age. He is a builder by occupation and has lived in the City of Philadelphia for the past twenty-five years. Previous to this he had never been convicted of any criminal offense and he had a good reputation in the community in which he lived. The health of the applicant has been seriously affected by the imprisonment he has already suffered, and his family is in sore need of his support.

It was strongly urged to the Board by prominent citizens of Philadelphia, who are acquainted with the applicant, with his record and with his offense in this case, that clemency should be exercised. Among those who are of this opinion are S. Abrahams, Honorable A. Mitchell Palmer, Jacob Ginsburg, Israel Shifren, Clement Loyejoy, Joseph Wolf, and others. Honorable A. Mitchell Palmer says:

"I understand that an application for pardon on behalf of Philip Yoskin, of Philadelphia, will be made to the Board of Pardons on the 22nd inst. I have looked into the circumstances surrounding the offense for which Yoskin was convicted and also the situation with respect to his wife and children resulting from his incarceration. I have no hesitation in saying that in my judgment the ends of justice will be amply filled if he is now released. He has been sufficiently punished for a crime in which he was more sinned against than sinning. I am quite certain that he was a victim of other designing persons. His family has suffered greatly and they are very deserving people. I shall be very glad indeed if some relief can be given by the Pardon Board."

The Board has been moved to favorable consideration of this application because of the age and failing health of the applicant and the need of his family for his support and the belief that the substantial term of imprisonment he has already suffered, in connection with the impairment of his health, has been sufficient punishment to the applicant. The applicant's offense was a serious one, but the fact that he was apprehended and imprisoned will serve to deter others from committing similar crimes.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Philip H. Yoskin.

Sir: At No. 13, November Term, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Montgomery, Daniel Boyle and Edward Kerley were convicted of robbery and carrying concealed deadly weapons, and on November 19, 1921, were sentenced to pay a fine of twenty dollars, and costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Montgomery County Jail for a period of three years and six months, and at No. 25 November Term, 1921, Edward Kerley was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars, one-fourth the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Montgomery County Jail for a period of eighteen months, to be computed from the expiration of the sentence imposed on Bill No. 13, November Term, 1921.

Daniel Boyle is forty-two years of age, a citizen of the United States and was not employed at the time of his arrest. He is a widower with two children, aged five and nine years respectively, and lived in Norristown, Pennsylvania. He is a cripple having lost a foot in a railroad accident.

Edward Kerley is thirty-eight years of age, a citizen of the United States, by occupation a railroad conductor, and while not employed at the immediate time of his arrest he was for fifteen years prior thereto in the continuous employment of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company as a conductor. He is married with two children aged five, and nine years respectively, and lived in Norristown, Pennsylvania. Neither of these men had previous to this offense been charged with or convicted of any crime.

In September, 1921, Boyle, with one Charles Rotzell, a former hotel keeper, arranged to obtain three barrels of whiskey from the hotel owned by Rotzell's brother, in Philadelphia, transport it to Norristown and sell the same to some customer of Boyle's. In pursuance of this plan they obtained a truck and driver, left Norristown in the afternoon for Philadelphia, obtained the whiskey, and on the way home, about 6:00 P. M., September 21, 1921, they were met by Kerley and one or two men who demanded by what right Rotzell was transporting liquor. Rotzell and Boyle got down from the truck, Rotzell contends, at the point of a pistol in the hands of Kerley, which is strongly denied by Kerley and Boyle, and the driver of the truck then ran off with the whiskey. Kerley and those with him went away in an automobile, leaving Boyle and Rotzell on the roadway. Rotzell accused Boyle of being in conspiracy with Kerley and others to obtain the whiskey which Rotzell had paid for, although Boyle contended that he contributed $300.00 to the total sum of $2,500.00 which was paid for the whiskey. Rotzell hailed a passing automobile, went to Norristown, and issued warrants for the arrest of Boyle and Kerley, charging highway robbery, upon which they were convicted as stated. The driver of the truck and the other parties with Kerley were never apprehended.

After this arrest and release on bail Kerley was arrested upon the information of one Rodney Shaver, charging that eight months prior to that date he committed felonious entry and larceny, and along with seven others in that they entered the barn of one Thomas Dougherty and took therefrom eight barrels of whiskey to the value of $3,200.00. The facts in connection with this offense are that it was known in Norristown that someone had concealed the whiskey in the Dougherty barn, although the actual owner thereof was not known. Kerley and others did go to the barn and take whiskey, and the last day, when Kerley found out the real owner of the whiskey, he told him of the offense and advised him where he could recover the whiskey, and in consequence of that information the owner did recover five barrels of the whiskey. Kerley stated at that time to the owner that he did not know the real owner of the whiskey and that if he had he would not have participated in the offense. He advised the owner that he thought the whiskey was contraband in that it was being concealed from the authorities. The owner of the whiskey refused to prosecute, but a Justice of the Peace of Norristown, named Clark, who had aided the owner in securing the return of the whiskey, and because of Kerley's actions in the Botzell case, and eight months after the offense was committed, had a warrant issued charging Kerley and seven others with the Dougherty offense and returned the same to Court. In the Dougherty case all of the other people charged with participation with Kerley in the offense have been paroled and are now at liberty, except one. (Since been paroled).

The reasons assigned for the grant of the application are as follows:

1. The mother of Boyle is eighty years of age, in poor health, unable to support herself and liable to become a public charge.

2. His two small children are being cared for by strangers and the fund provided for their maintenance is nearly exhausted. The wife of Kerley works in a cigar factory and is supporting her two children.

3. It is urged that both applicants have been sufficiently punished in that they have served more than a year in jail; and that prior to this offense they have never been heretofore charged with or convicted of any offense. It is also urged that there is no letter of opposition from the trial Judge to the grant of the pardon and the letter from the District Attorney who tried the case submits the grant of clemency to the Board. The Board is in receipt of a numerously signed petition and letters from many people in Norristown to the effect that it is the belief of the petitioners that the punishment which has been endured by the applicants will have a corrective influence and that upon their release they will become useful and upright citizens.

We have concluded to heed the petition and letters and that the applicants should be given an opportunity to lead a proper life, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Daniel Boyle and Edward Kerley.

Sir: At No. 73, June Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Benjamin Ripley pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods and was convicted of entering with intent to steal and larceny, and on September 13, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than three years nor more than five years.

This application is made by Benjamin Ripley through John W. McKenty, Parole Officer of the Eastern Penitentiary, and the reason given is that the applicant is in a dying condition. The District Attorney does not resist the application.

The application was presented by Mr. McKenty after a resolution had been passed by the Board of Inspectors with the medical report of the Resident Physician approved by the Medical Director and by Dr. W. H. McKinney, a specialist on the consulting staff of the Institution.

Because of the physical condition of the applicant we have determined that clemency should now be exercised and we, therefore "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions", recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Benjamin Ripley.

Sir: At No. 31, July Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Lucius Ross pleaded guilty to the charge of murder, and on January 5, 1922, Honorable Singleton Bell, Presiding Judge, after examination of witnesses fixed the degree of crime as murder in the first degree, and on the same day Lucius Ross was sentenced to be electrocuted.

The applicant is twenty-seven years of age, a colored man, who resided in the City of Philadelphia. His wife had been intimate with one William Johnson, and there had been trouble between the two because of this unlawful intimacy.

Three or four days before the shooting Ross and his wife were taken before Magistrate O'Brien, she on the charge of adultery and he on the charge of disorderly conduct. She was discharged, and he was given a few days imprisonment, but after the payment of a fine he was also discharged. The officer who made the arrest states that Ross cried bitterly accusing his wife of unfaithfulness one minute and in the next minute imploring her to give up Johnson and to return to him, her husband. She told him she did not want him any more, that she had a man that she was going to get a divorce.

It is alleged that after this incident Ross found that Mrs. Ross and Johnson were living together at No. 1221 Lombard Street, Philadelphia, and as he was passing at this location he saw Johnson and Mrs. Ross in a room. The applicant entered, and he alleges Johnson was armed and fired the first shot. Ross drew his gun and the woman, who was infatuated with Johnson, jumped between them and was shot down. This is the applicant's story, and if true, the crime did not rise higher than that of manslaughter. The Court fixed the crime at murder in the first degree, chiefly on the testimony of William Johnson, who was the paramour of the wife, and who swore that he was not in the room at the time the shooting occurred.

There is no doubt that at the time of the shooting the applicant was in a highly nervous condition caused by the desertion and unfaithfulness of his wife and added to in all probability to the efforts he had made for some months prior to the shooting to induce her to leave her paramour and live with him.

Honorable Singleton Bell, Trial Judge, writes to the Board in alia, as follows:

"I beg to say that I remain of the opinion that the facts as shown indicated that the offense was murder of the first degree and that no other conclusion could properly have been reached by the court. At the same time it seemed to me that the evidence indicated a high degree of provocation and that this was the kind of case in which, measured by the rules of law, the offense was one which carried with it the death penalty, yet was the kind of case in which there were such circumstances as should properly be submitted to your Board for consideration and that your Board and not the Court should determine whether these circumstances were such as should relieve the defendant from the extreme penalty. I still remain of that opinion, and while unable to believe the story of the defendant that he had no intention to kill his wife I do believe the portion of it which indicates that she had practically abandoned her husband because of affection for William Johnson."

District Detective, Richard S. Anderson, makes an affidavit in which among other things he says:

"I have since ascertained and I believe it to be true beyond a doubt that Johnson was in the room with Mrs. Ross at the time Ross entered the room and that Johnson was armed and fired the first shot. That Ross then drew his gun; the woman who was infatuated with Johnson, jumped or got between them and was shot down. While I might not be able to legally prove these facts, I am absolutely satisfied that they are true and that the statements of Johnson and his friends, that he (Johnson) was not in the house at the time of the shooting, and that Johnson had no criminal intimacy with Mrs. Ross are unquestionably false."

The Board after careful consideration of these facts has come to the conclusion that this is a case in which life imprisonment should be incurred rather than the death penalty.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon Lucius Ross be commuted to life imprisonment.

Board of Pardons.

Harrisburg, Pa., December 22, 1922.

Sir: At No. 37, March Sessions, 1921, in the Municipal Court of Philadelphia, Leonard Toy was convicted on April 26, 1921, of being an accessory before the fact to robbery, and on January 6, 1922, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for the term of two years.

The applicant is twenty-five years of age, unmarried, a teamster by occupation and has resided in Philadelphia all his life. He has never before been charged with crime. The applicant went with the prosecutor on an automobile truck loaded with liquor to a garage in the southern section of Philadelphia. Before the truck entered the garage Toy left it and was not seen again. Shortly after the car was driven in the garage three or four men robbed the prosecutor and placed him in a waiting automobile and took him away. Some fifty cases of whiskey which were in the truck were stolen.

The District Attorney states that the case against the applicant was a matter of inference and deduction and not a matter of proof. After his conviction Judge Bonniwell, who presided at the trial, released him on five thousand dollars bail so that he might aid the authorities in locating the perpetrators of the crime.

There was a suggestion made to the Board of Pardons that if the applicant had paid to the prosecutor the price of the fifty cases of whiskey which were being unlawfully transported he would have been released. Whether or not this is the fact the Board has determined that the case against the applicant for the stealing of the whiskey was not clearly proven, this being admitted by the District Attorney.

We are in receipt of a number of letters from responsible people urging that clemency should be exercised and certifying that the young man, if released, will become a useful citizen. Among them the following letter is written by Mr.

Isaac R. Bonsall, Commander of the Lieutenant Thomas M. Golden Post No. 560, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

"In behalf of one of our Comrades (Leonard Toy) who is in the Philadelphia County Prison sentenced on January 6th, 1922.

"We ask your leniency in this case as this young man served twenty months overseas and bore a good reputation until this trouble.

"Comrade Toy has already served practically one year and the Post would appreciate if you can see your way clear to liberate him.

"Hoping to hear favorably from you, we beg to remain,"

We have concluded that the applicant has been adequately punished for his connection with the crime. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Leonard Toy.

Sir: At No. 238, June Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, Clayton J. Londenslager was convicted of assault and battery and with assault and battery to steal, and on November 22, 1920, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than four years and six months nor more than five years, which sentence on December 3, 1920, was reconsidered and the Defendant was sentenced to not less than three years and six months nor more than five years in the Eastern Penitentiary.

The applicant is thirty-five years of age, by occupation a wood finisher and showman, and has lived in Philadelphia all his life.

Philip Benz, owner of a store in Philadelphia, entered a taxicab about ten o'clock P. M. and arriving at his home at ten forty o'clock P. M. alighted and started to enter his house. As he walked up the steps to the porch he was hailed and as he turned around five men came up on the porch. He tried to get over the rail, but was caught. He called for help and his assailants fled. He had a large amount of valuables on him at the time. The Defendant was identified as one who attempted to rob Mr. Benz. He denied this and gave an explanation for being in the neighborhood at that time. Edward V. O'Hanlan writes to the Board inter alia as follows:

"He and his family have been known to me for many years and have always enjoyed the confidence of the people in the community where he lived.

"Prior to this occurrence he was considered an honest and law abiding citizen, and I feel confident that he has learned a lesson that when he gets out he will be a credit to the community where he takes up his abode.

"I feel such confidence in this fact that there is a job waiting for him to go to immediately upon his release.

"With regard to your favorable action at this time, I wish to say that he is the support of his wife and her mother and since he has been in prison his wife has been compelled to go out to furnish this support.

"I feel sure that the State will gain a good citizen and that favorable action by you at this time will prove an economic advantageous to the State and will be of benefit to him and his family."

Honorable Howard A. Davis, Trial Judge, has addressed to the Board the following communication:

"I have received notice of the application for pardon of Clayton J. Londenslager, convicted of attempted robbery and sentenced by me December 3rd, 1920, to the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not more than five years nor less than three years and six months.

"I have investigated the reasons for the pardon and believe the ends of justice served in the two years imprisonment the defendant has undergone. I therefore present no objection if in the opinion of your Board the defendant should be pardoned

In view of the recommendations of the Trial Judge we have determined that the applicant has sufficiently expiated the crime of which he was convicted by the term of imprisonment already endured.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Clayton J. Londenslager.

Sir: At No. 20, February Sessions, 1914, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Allegheny, Andrew Malinowsky was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on June 13, 1914, was sentenced to be electrocuted, which sentence was commuted on February 17, 1915, to life imprisonment.

The applicant is of Polish parentage. At the time of the crime he was about twenty-seven years of age, and a skilled workman in the employ of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company. He was married and is the father of two children.

The applicant, while working in Pittsburgh, was ordered to Gary, Indiana, where he and his wife had some misunderstanding growing out of the fact that his wife received attention from men friends, although there was no allegation of infidelity. As the result of this misunderstanding there was a separation, the wife keeping the two children in her custody. The applicant endeavored to induce his wife to return to him while in Gary, and when she persisted in remaining apart from him, returned to Pittsburgh and resumed his employment there. Shortly after he returned to Pittsburgh his wife also returned and went to live with her mother in the City of Pittsburgh, the applicant living about one square distant. The applicant made frequent unsuccessful efforts to induce his wife to return to him.

During the Christmas holidays of 1913, the applicant, who was an active member of a Polish society, was engaged as a member of a committee in charge of New Year's dance. He attended the dance on New Year's Eve and while there became very much intoxicated. His wife was at the dance also, and seeing her there he went to her mother's home later and pleaded with her to return, and he says that while there pleading with her he lost all recollection as to what happened. What occurred was that he had a revolver with him which he had bought in Gary, Indiana, for self-protection, and while at her mother's home he fired a number of shots from his revolver, some of which lodged in his wife's body, causing her death, and one of them, evidently intended for his own temple, passed through his cheek and the bridge of his nose. The applicant does not remember either shooting his wife or shooting himself.

The Board is in receipt of the following letter from Honorable Harry H. Rowand, former District Attorney of Allegheny County:

"In giving attention to yours of the 13th instant relative to the application of Andrew Malinowski for pardon, which you advised was held under advisement by the Board at their last meeting, would say since the receipt of your letter I made a further investigation of this man and find that he came to this Country when about three years of age. At the age of fourteen he entered the employment of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company, where he remained until the time of the killing. His employers advise he was a good workman and steadily advanced.

"Four or five years prior to the killing Malinowski married Helen Sarowski, and they had two children to them. I believe their ages now are twelve and fourteen years. His wife, as described by those who knew her, was a very pretty woman and consequently had many men admirers. It was the suggestion of his employers, the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company, that he go to Gary, Indiana, where they had a branch factory. It was there, apparently, that the relations between the husband and wife became estranged on account of men calling at their home. They separated there. Later he tried to induce his wife to go back to him but she refused. Finally he had his employers transfer him back to Pittsburgh. Later on the wife followed and lived within a very short distance from him.

"During the Christmas holidays of 1913, being a member of the Polish Falcons, he was in charge of the New Year's dance. On account of the festivities he drank a lot of liquor. He tried to have a dance with his wife at this dance, which she refused him. He drank considerable at the dance and it seems he later called upon his wife at her mother's home, where the shooting took place. He then shot himself in the temple, but fortunately for him, the bullet only crossed the bridge of his nose.

"I have had inquiry made from prominent residents of his district and they all speak in the highest terms of him, and feel that this unfortunate occurrence came through jealousy. Everybody believes that he loved his wife and kiddies dearly. "It appears that his former employers are now interested in his case, as Mr. Hosell, of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company, called me this morning and advised me that they are ready and willing to employ this man at any time."

The two children of the applicant, one fourteen years of age and one sixteen, are entirely dependent upon their own labor for support and stand in great need of the care and support of their father. The younger child is afflicted with tuberculosis, and the older child is also in feeble health.

There is no indication that the applicant had any intention of killing his wife, but the facts are rather that the shooting was due to his drunken condition, and that death came from a reckless use of firearms.

With this view of the case, taking into consideration the former good record of the applicant, the need of his family for his support, lack of premeditation, and the term of imprisonment already undergone, we have determined that Executive clemency should now be exercised, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Andrew Malinowsky.

Sir: At No. 449, June Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Abraham Cohen was convicted of false pretense, and on August 16, 1921, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for a term of four months from the day of his commitment.

The crime of which the applicant was convicted was obtaining from Greenbaum Brothers & Co., and others, a quantity of rags, aggregating in value $226.22, by representing that he was an employee of the firm of A. Cohen & Co., engaged in the wholesale rag business, and that he had been sent by that firm to obtain a quantity of rags, which representations were untrue.

The applicant is single, a carpenter by trade, and is now twenty-three years of age. He resided in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. On the date of his sentence in this case he had served all but four days of the four month term. Following his release from his imprisonment in this case he was returned to the Eastern State Penitentiary to finish his maximum term upon a prior conviction of the crime of breaking and entering, for which he was sentenced on January 19, 1918, to imprisonment in the Eastern State Penitentiary for not less than two nor more than four years.

The purpose of the application for pardon in this case is to allow him the opportunity of parole upon the former sentence. It seems to us this application deserves favorable treatment, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Abraham Cohen.

Sir: At No. 13, May Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Bradford, Ray L. Sheppy pleaded guilty to false pretenses, and on May 5, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of $400.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two years and eleven months nor more than three years.

The Board is in receipt of a letter from Honorable William Maxwell, Trial Judge, which is as follows:

In the matter of the Application for Pardon, of Roy L. Sheppy, it appears that this Defendant's correct name is Roy L. Sheppy. He was charged with obtaining goods under false pretenses, and the Defendant plead guilty. May 25th., 1921, the Court sentenced the Defendant to pay a fine of $400 to the Commonwealth, and costs of prosecution, and undergo imprisonment in the Penitentiary, for not less than two years and eleven months, and not to exceed three years.

"As we understand it, this young man's people, are residents of Buffalo, N. Y., and we join in the application for pardon, in this case, for the following reasons:

"(a) The father of the Defendant came from Buffalo, to see me, and I find, that he is a man of unusual ability and prominence, and has stated to me, that it has been a great source of worry, that his son was confined in the Penitentiary. That he is a young man reasonably well educated, and capable of making an honest and good living, and that the son has repented and has promised, faithfully, to lead an upright life.

"(b) The party from whom the goods were obtained by false pretense, has been settled with, and paid in full, as represented to me.

"(c) I do not know, whether I had knowledge that this young man had served in the Army, at the time he was sentenced, and therefore, I think that should be taken into consideration. He being a young man, there is still a chance and opportunity for him to make good, as an upright and honest citizen, and we think, that the cause of justice will not suffer, by giving this young man, another chance to make good.

"We, therefore, join in the Application for Pardon, for the above reasons.

"Whatever the Pardon Board may see fit to do, will be agreeable to the undersigned.

"Yours truly,
WM. MAXWELL,
P. J."

We are also in receipt of a letter from William G. Schrier, Esq., District Attorney of Bradford County, requesting favorable action.

Because of the recommendations of the Trial Judge and the District Attorney, we have determined that this is a proper case for the exercise of executive clemency, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Roy L. Sheppy.

Sir: At No. 261 June Sessions, 1894, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Berks William Webber was convicted of murder in the first degree and on January 14, 1895, was sentenced to be hanged. On October 16, 1895, the sentence of death was computed to life imprisonment.

The crime for which Webber was convicted occurred on the evening of Monday, June 11, 1894, between six and seven o'clock and consisted of the shooting of Justus Clemmer, the father-in-law of the applicant. The shooting took place in the dark in the cellar of the house of Walter Miller, a brother-in-law of the decedent who lived in the City of Reading. Prior to the fatality a controversy had arisen between Clemmer and Webber concerning the division of some furniture which was stored in the cellar. While the testimony is conflicting as to whether Miller and Clemmer attacked Webber when the fatal shot was fired, it was clear that Miller and Webber were struggling in the dark and Miller had hold of the hand of Webber which held the self-cocking revolver which inflicted the wound. There was nothing to show premeditation of the crime.

The applicant has served twenty-seven years in the Penitentiary and has served the longest term of any inmate now in the Eastern State Penitentiary. The Board is in receipt of a large number of letters and petitions urging that this pardon be granted. Among those who request that clemency be exercised are Honorable George Wharton Pepper, Honorable Emory A. Walling, Honorable Robert S. Frazer and Honorable Francis Shunk Brown; the Board of Inspectors of the Eastern Penitentiary, Robert McKenty, Warden, John W. McKenty, Parole Officer, and practically every officer of the Eastern State Penitentiary. Honorable Francis Shunk Brown, former Attorney General, states in a letter to the Board with regard to this case:

"While a member of the Board of Pardons, and since, I have been of the opinion that this man should be pardoned. I examined the record of his trial and conviction very carefully, and the offense in my judgement never was higher than murder in the second degree, and I had some doubt as to whether or not his father-in-law was not killed in self defense."

Because of the long long sentence served by the applicant, the lack of proof of premeditation, the model record he has made as a prisoner, and the other facts of the case we have concluded that the ends or justice will be subserved by his release at this time.

We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions" recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said William Weber.

Sir: At No. 42, September Sessions, 1921, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Bradford Harold J. Williams pleaded guilty of embezzlement and on February 13, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,461.03, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than four years nor more than five years.

The facts of this case are fully set forth in the letter of Honorable William Maxwell, the Trial Judge, as follows:

"In the matter of the application for pardon of Harold J. Williams, sentenced by the Court of Quarter Sessions of Bradford County, Pa., No. 42 Sept. Sessions 1921, it appears that the Defendant was a Tax Collector of Sayre Borough, Bradford County, Pa., and when he came to account, he was short, having used the taxpayers money. A prosecution was started, and he pleaded guilty, and was sentenced, on February 13th, 1922, to pay a fine of $1,461.03 to the Commonwealth, and costs of prosecution, and undergo an imprisonment by separate and solitary confinement at labor, in the Penitentiary at Philadelphia, for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, for the period of not less than four years, and not to exceed five years, and to stand committed until this sentence is complied with. We are inclined to join the Defendant in this Application, recommending a pardon, for the following reasons:

"(a) The Defendant has never been charged with, or convicted of any crime previous to this offense.

"(b) That all the parties who were interested in his defalcation have been settled with, and satisfied, as I am informed and believe.

"(c) That the Defendant belongs to a reputable family in this vicinity, who have always borne the very best reputation.

"(d) The Defendant has a splendid reputation, for services rendered in the World War, and for which he should be justly proud of, and should receive some consideration on that account.

"(e) My understanding is, that since he went to the Penitentiary, he has been a model young man so far as conduct and behavior are concerned, and that he promises to lead an upright and honest life, if pardoned, and I am inclined to believe that he is sincere in this statement.

"I feel under the circumstances, that the course of justice will be fully satisfied, in this particular case, by giving this young man another chance.

"Whatever conclusion your Honorable Board reaches in this matter will be satisfactory to the undersigned.

"Yours truly,
WILLIAM MAXWELL,
P. J."

William G. Schrier, Esq., District Attorney, also writes to the Board that the applicant prior to this offense had a good reputation, that he was a veteran of the World War and that the crime was partly due to his inexperience in business affairs; that the applicant did not put the Commonwealth to any unnecessary expense, but pleaded guilty, and that the Board may now properly recommend clemency.

Because of the recommendations of the Trial Judge and of the District Attorney we have concluded that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Harold J. Williams.

Sir: At No. 2, March Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Dauphin, Jennie Miller was convicted of larceny from the person and on March 20, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of Five hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution, to restore the property stolen and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than two years and six months nor more than three years.

The applicant is twenty-seven years of age, an Eskimo and was born in Yukon Territory, Canada. Her occupation was that of housekeeper, and she was so engaged at the time of her arrest in the house of Nan Johnson. Prior to this offense she had never been charged with any crime. As a man by the name of Helsly, who was much intoxicated at the time, was passing the house of Nan Johnson she enticed him into the house and there took from him the sum of Thirty-five dollars. Helsly at the trial testified that he thought the Johnson woman gave this money to the applicant. The applicant denies complicity in the crime and maintains that she had no part whatever in the transaction. The sum of Thirteen dollars and fifteen cents was found upon the applicant at the time of her arrest. The prosecutor has since the trial stated that the larceny was committed by Nan Johnson.

Because of the fact that this is the first offense of the applicant and the character of the crime committed, we have concluded that sufficient punishment has been endured and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Jennie Miller.

Sir: At No. 5, March Sessions, 1922, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Dauphin, Edwin Nessinger pleaded guilty to adultery and on March 28, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of Five hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Dauphin County Prison for eleven months and twenty-nine days.

The applicant was born in Lancaster County, is twenty-two years of age, by occupation he was a repairman on the Railroad at Harrisburg, where he was employed at the time of his arrest. He is married and has a wife and one child, who are now living at Ephrata, Pennsylvania. He has been separated from his wife for a period of more than three years.

After his arrest he was committed to jail for want of bail and has served since that commitment about eleven months. Prior to this offense he had never been charged with any crime. Because of this fact and taking into consideration the length of imprisonment already served, we have determined that he has sufficiently expiated his crime. We, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Edwin Nessinger.

Sir: At No. 65 January Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lehigh, Ferris Guhl pleaded non vult to perjury, and on January 7, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100.00, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of not less than two years nor more than four years, and forever disqualified as a witness in any matter of controversy.

The applicant is a married man and his wife and children lived at Lancaster, Pennsylvania. He was manager of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company at Allentown, Pennsylvania, the store being on the first floor. On the second floor lived a married woman who was separated from her husband. Guhl became intimate with this woman and in the divorce proceedings brought by her husband denied such intimacy. He subsequently admitted that his denial was false and that he had been unduly intimate with the woman, whereupon the Court directed the District Attorney to prosecute him for perjury. He served the minimum sentence and was discharged from the Eastern Penitentiary on January 7, 1922, on parole. Since his parole he has been leading a correct life and this application is to remove the disqualification of his sentence.

In view of the fact that the applicant has fully expiated his crime and that he is now leading an exemplary life, this case appeals to the Board as meritorious, and, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Ferris Guhl.

The larceny was of tobacco and cigarettes which were in the charge or custody of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and were of small value.

The applicant is seventeen years of age, and this is his first offense. His parents live in the Borough of Columbia and have employment for him upon his discharge. Prior to his sentence to the Reformatory he had been in the Lancaster County Jail from the date of his arrest, December 7, 1921.

In view of the youth of the applicant, the fact that this is his first offense, and the nature of the offense he committed, we have determined that the ends of justice have been met by the punishment already incurred and, therefore, "after full hearing upon public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said George Misel.

Sir: At Nos. 598 and 599 October Sessions, 1919, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, Nathan Steiger was convicted of attempted extortion, extortion and conspiracy and on May 13, 1921, was sentenced to imprisonment in the Philadelphia County prison for the term of three months. On June 20, 1921, the Court discharged Nathan Steiger on parole for the remainder of his sentence.

Steiger was convicted on the testimony of a man by the name of Skopp in a transaction which involved the sum of $50.00.

Honorable James E. Gorman, Trial Judge, writes to the Board with regard to Steiger as follows:

"Notice was served upon me that application is being made before your Honorable Board for the pardon of Nathan Steiger of Philadelphia County. I presided at the trial when Steiger was convicted, and sentenced him to an imprisonment of three months.

"After sentencing Steiger, I had an investigation made both of May Steiger and the principal witness for the prosecution, a man named Skopp, and found out that Skopp had a criminal record of long standing; that Mr. Steiger had always borne a good reputation both as a citizen and as a father, and was rearing a very respectable family.

"Upon the completion of my investigation I placed Steiger on parole, which parole has since expired.

"I heartily favor his application for a pardon and hope that your Board will see your way clear to grant the same. I think by so doing you will be benefiting a man whom I believe is a good and substantial citizen.

"Very truly yours,
"JAMES E. GORMAN."

The District Attorney states that since his release Mr. Steiger has been behaving himself splendidly and that undoubtedly this is a meritorious application, and we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Nathan Steiger.

Sir: At No. 179 February Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Luzerne, James Barille was convicted of manslaughter and the jury recommended him to the mercy of the Court, and on July 20, 1920, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than nine years nor more than twelve years.

The applicant is twenty-seven years of age, by nationality an Italian; but a citizen of the United States by naturalization, and at the time of his arrest was a hotelkeeper at Pittston, Pennsylvania. He is married and has a wife and a child about two years of age. In the evening of December 23, 1919, Peter Rizzio and Louis Balone became quarrelsome in the hotel of the applicant. During the evening they left the hotel and returned a number of times, each time becoming more quarrelsome and abusive. On their last call Rizzio engaged in a quarrel with Sam Barille, a brother of the applicant, in which Rizzio drew a revolver and attempted to shoot Sam Barille. Rizzio was then seized by Michael Barille, another brother of the applicant, and by a second person and pushed to the front of the barroom in an effort to disarm and eject him. Sam Barille grappled with Louis Balone and engaged in a scuffle, during which Balone discharged his revolver firing a shot into the floor, until they pushed each other into a room adjoining the barroom. In the meantime Rizzio fired a shot in the barroom. Balone freed himself from Sam Barille in the back room, rushed into the barroom, pointed a gun at those trying to disarm Rizzio and threatened to shoot. Rizzio dropped his revolver and called Balone to pick it up. Balone did so and with the two revolvers in his hand demanded that Mike Barille and the other man let Rizzio go. Mrs. Barille, mother of the applicant, was sleeping in a room over the barroom. Hearing the shots in the barroom she hurried downstairs to see Balone pointing the two revolvers at her son, Michael, who was holding Rizzio. She grabbed Balone and with the assistance of another son, Sam Barille, pushed him into the back room. While doing this one of Balone's revolvers was discharged and Mrs. Barille was badly wounded. The applicant hearing the shot fired by Balone and fearing for the safety of his mother and brother, rushed into the back room and found his mother lying wounded on the floor, and Balone on top of Sam Barille, while Sam Barille held Balone's wrist to prevent Balone from shooting him. The applicant tried to take the revolvers from Balone's hands and while all three were on the floor in the scuffle one of the revolvers held by Balone was accidentally discharged several times and Balone received wounds from which he died. These are the agreed upon facts in the case. They indicate that the applicant in shooting Balone was acting in defense of his family and that to some extent the shooting was justifiable. The Board is in receipt of a number of letters to the effect that the applicant is a man of good character and that in his record were no crimes of violence.

Under the circumstances, we have concluded that the applicant has been adequately punished for the crime of which he was convicted, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said James Barille.

Sir: At No. 68, February Term, 1921, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Lehigh, Stanley W. Lutz pleaded guilty to forgery and uttering a forged note, and on February 14, 1921, was sentenced to pay a fine of One hundred dollars, the costs of prosecution, to restore the property stolen, and to undergo imprisonment in the Northampton County Prison for a period of four years, to be computed from February 10, 1921.

This application was made at the instance of the Prison Board through James W. Fox, Esq., Attorney-at-law, who presented it without compensation.

The applicant is twenty-six years of age, an American citizen and at the time of his arrest was operating a stone crusher, as the owner thereof, his residence being at Nazareth, Pennsylvania. He is married and has a wife and a child four years of age. Prior to this offense he had never been charged with the commission of any crime.

The applicant started in business without capital and when he was eighteen years of age he borrowed some money from the bank with his father's endorsement. In 1918 he leased a farm, on which a quarry was located, from Judge Groman. In this year he made a contract for the delivery of 14,000 tons of crushed stone to be used on the State highway. He lost heavily on this contract and with difficulty met his pay rolls and material payments. While in this dilemma he became delinquent in his payment of royalty to the lessor of the property. A landlord's warrant was issued on the lease and property alleged to be worth $18,000 was sold for $50.00. In this situation the defendant was unable to pay the notes which he had unlawfully discounted in using his father's name as an endorser, the endorsement being a forgery.

Because of the previous good record of the applicant, the length of imprisonment already suffered, the unfortunate loss which he has undergone in his business and the other circumstances attending this case, we have determined that the application is a meritorious one, and, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said Stanley W. Lutz.

Board of Pardons.

Harrisburg, Pa., December 22, 1922.

Sir: At No. 34 August Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of York, E. Emory Spahr was convicted of carnally knowing and abusing a woman-child under the age of sixteen years, and on September 6, 1922, was sentenced to pay a fine of One dollar, the costs of prosecution and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not less than one and one-half years, nor more than five years.

The applicant is about fifty-five years of age and a laborer, doing day's work in Dover Township, York County Pennsylvania.

The applicant was living with his brother who is the prosecutor in this case, and during that time had some differences with his brother about money affairs of their parents, at the conclusion of which he took the aged parents to a home which he provided for them. The prosecutor alleges that the applicant had unlawful intercourse with his daughter four or five times, the daughter being thirteen years of age. The applicant denied such intercourse, but admitted that he laid hands upon her improperly.

Because of questions which arose as to the conduct of the trial, by Order of the Court the applicant has been held in the York County Jail and has served no time in the Eastern Penitentiary. The jail physician has certified that the applicant is suffering from an enlargement of the thyroid gland and that further confinement would be detrimental to his health.

Honorable Nevin M. Wanner, Trial Judge, writes to the Board as follows:

"I am inclined to concede that there are substantial grounds for the exercise of clemency in this case. At a time considerably prior to this application for pardon, the jail physician reported the bad physical condition of this prisoner and recommended his discharge, because of failing health. His former good character, and the fact that not much of his sentence remains to be served are also matters which I feel are entitled to due consideration at your hands."

Because of the recommendation of the Trial Judge, the physical condition of the applicant and the punishment already suffered, we have determined that clemency should be exercised in this case, and, we, therefore, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that a pardon be now granted to the said E. Emory Spahr.

Board of Pardons.

Harrisburg, Pa., December 22, 1922.

Sir: At Nos. 4 and 200, September Term, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in and for the County of Fayette, Ernest Lacey and John D. Yates were convicted of voluntary manslaughter and on December 6, 1920, were sentenced to pay a fine of six cents, the costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of not less than eight years nor more than twelve years.

The applicants had bought high-powered guns and were out shooting at a mark and while doing so accidentally shot a colored boy who was picking berries, and who was about nine hundred feet away from the place from where the shots were fired.

All of the jurors who convicted the applicants made the two following statements to the Court in regard to their verdict:

"We, the undersigned, who served as Jurors in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Ernest Lacey and John D. Yates came to the following verdict, 'that the Defendants were guilty of voluntary manslaughter, but recommended to the very extreme mercy of the Court'. We intended that the lightest punishment possible under the law should follow.' That was the finding we came to in the Jury room and the verdict was to be rendered in that way and the record of the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Fayette County, Pennsylvania, should show our verdict as such."

"We, the undersigned, who served as Jurors in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Ernest Lacey and John D. Yates, charged with murder, at No. 4 September Sessions, 1920, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Fayette County, Pennsylvania, hereby petition your Honorable Board to recommend a pardon to his Excellency, the Governor."

"At the time of rendering of the verdict in this case, the full verdict was not made a part of the records in Fayette County for the reason that the Foreman of the Jury did not make the oral announcement as agreed upon. The verdict as agreed upon being as follows, to-wit:

"That the defendants were guilty of voluntary manslaughter, but recommended to the very extreme mercy of the Court. We intended that the lightest punishment possible under the law should follow."

"The above is what we intended to appear on the record. We further represent that in our view, the Applicants for a pardon, have been sufficiently punished and more than we intended that they should have been."

"We, therefore, pray your Honorable Board to grant the prayer of their petition."

W. A. Miller, the District Attorney, writes in regard to this case as follows:

"In regard to the above case, I beg to advise that the defendants were found guilty of causing the death of a small colored boy, aged about twelve years, in August 1920."

"The boy was crossing a field, carrying an aluminum bucket, containing berries, on his shoulder. The two defendants had that day purchased two high-powered rifles, one a .305 Remington and the other a .250 Savage, together with a quantity of ammunition, and had gone to the vicinity of the killing sometime prior thereto and engaged in shooting at marks. The single eye witness placed the two defendants at a distance of nine hundred feet at the time the shots were fired from where the boy was struck, stating that both fired in the direction of the boy simultaneously. One bullet struck the bucket, passing through the boy's head and killing him almost instantly."

"The theory on which the Commonwealth conducted the prosecution was that the defendants recklessly fired either at the boy or in his direction, a bullet from one of the guns striking him and causing his death."

"There was no evidence that a specific intention to kill existed. It seems to have been a foolish careless act without express malice, and in my opinion, the unfortunate killing was the result of pure thoughtlessness."

"Taking into consideration the excellent character these two defendants bore prior to the occurrence, and the petition of the twelve jurors, who returned the verdict, I feel that it would be beyond my province to urge that the said defendants be further punished."

The weight of the testimony in this case indicates the crime was not higher than that of involuntary manslaughter for which the applicants have served full time. If a charge as to involuntary manslaughter had been given, in all probability that would have been the verdict.

Because of the facts set forth in the statements of the Jurors, the letter of the District Attorney and the fact that it is clear that the applicants have served sufficient imprisonment for involuntary manslaughter, we, "after full hearing upon due public notice and in open sessions," recommend that pardons be now granted to the said Ernest Lacey and John D. Yates.

REPORT OF THE LEHIGH COAL AND NAVIGATION COMPANY FOR THE YEAR 1921.

The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company,

437 Chestnut Street,
Philadelphia, Pa., December 28, 1921.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the General Assembly met:

In compliance with the requirements of the 19th Section of the Act of Assembly, passed March 20, 1918, entitled "An Act to Improve the Navigation of the River Lehigh," I would respectfully report that the tolls received on the Lehigh Navigation during the year 1921 amount to thirty-six thousand, five hundred twenty-seven dollars and thirty-four cents ($36,527.34) according to the returns made to this office.

Very truly yours,

HENRY H. PEASE,
Secretary.

State of Pennsylvania,
City of Philadelphia.

Before me, the subscriber, a Notary Public of the County of Philadelphia and State of Pennsylvania, personally appeared on this twenty-eighth day of December, A. D. 1921, Henry H. Pease, Secretary of The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, who being duly affirmed according to Law, did depose and say that the above statement is just and true to the best of his knowledge, information and belief.

HENRY H. PEASE.

Affirmed and subscribed before me the day and year aforesaid.

R. V. PIERCE,
Notary Public.

Commission expires, February 21, 1923.

REPORT OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL,

Harrisburg, Pa., January 11, 1923.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

As required by law, I have the honor to report concerning the business of this Department during the two years ending December 31, 1922.

Circumstances have caused an unusual number of changes in the personnel of the Department during this period. On the first of January, 1922, as reported in my last biennial report, the Deputy Attorneys General were the following: First Deputy Attorney General, Honorable Robert S. Gawthrop; Deputy Attorneys General, Honorable Emerson Collins, Honorable Bernard J. Myers, Honorable William I. Swoope, Honorable Frank M. Hunter and Honorable George Ross Hull, and Special Deputy Attorney General Edmund K. Trent. I appointed Honorable Frank M. Hunter as Attorney to the Public Service Commission and Honorable Sterling G. McNees was appointed to the vacancy thus created. Honorable Bernard J. Myers was appointed to the office of Secretary of the Commonwealth and Honorable Fred Taylor Pusey was appointed to the vacancy thus created. Honorable Robert S. Gawthrop was appointed a Judge of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania and Deputy Attorney General George Ross Hull was appointed First Deputy Attorney General to succeed Judge Gawthrop. Honorable Harlan A. Denney was appointed Deputy Attorney General to succeed Mr. Hull. Judge Denney died in office and Honorable J. W. Brown was appointed to the vacancy thus created. Honorable William I. Swoope, having been elected a Member of the Congress of the United States, resigned as Deputy Attorney General and Honorable Paul J. Sherwood was appointed to the vacancy thus created. Frank M. Eastman, Esq., has continued as Special Attorney in charge of the collection of escheatable moneys and property. George W. Coles, Esq., who was Special Attorney to the Bureau of Maintenance Collections on January 1, 1921, resigned upon being appointed United States District Attorney for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania and Harry J. Makiver, Esq., was appointed in his stead.

During the period covered by this report the business of the Department has been quite heavy. This has been caused partly by the fact that I have endeavored to have the legal work of the Commonwealth handled by the regular members of the Department, whenever practicable, so as to avoid the employment of special counsel and the incurring of the expenses incidental thereto. The Department has rendered two hundred and five formal opinions and in addition there have been written a very large number of letters of advice and innumerable oral conferences have been held with representatives of the various Departments, Commissions, Public Institutions, etc.

Among the matters with which this Department has been concerned, the following may be of special interest:

Department of Public Welfare.

This new Department was provided for by an Act of the Session of 1921 enacted upon the recommendation of the Governor. The Act was drafted in this Department and involved an extensive consideration of the law relating to public agencies which it was thought advisable to bring under the single jurisdiction thus provided. Since becoming effective it has given occasion for much attention here because of the many questions naturally arising in putting into operation its various provisions and organizing the machinery through which it operates.

Prohibition Enforcement.

During the Session of 1921 it fell to the lot of this Department to draft an Act for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. It was decided that it would be a backward step to permit the indiscriminate and unregulated sale of alcoholic liquors (containing less than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol) notwithstanding the fact that the sale of such liquors, by any one and to any one, at any time or place, is freely permitted by the Volstead Act. To this end it was deemed appropriate to preserve the machinery of the Brooks Law, applying this machinery, however, only to the licensing and regulation of the sale of liquor containing less than the intoxicating percentage of alcohol fixed by Congress, and by the same Act prohibiting the manufacture, sale, possession, transportation or furnishing of any intoxicating liquor. The Bill was so drafted and, after the House of Representatives had rejected an enforcement Bill known as the Martin Bill, which permitted the unrestricted sale of alcoholic liquor containing less than the percentage of alcohol fixed by the Volstead Act, it was introduced, passed and approved and is now known as the Woner Law.

In the hope of being able to eliminate future controversies before our Legislature on the question of the intoxicating percentage of alcohol, and confine controversies on that question to Congress, where they now more properly belong, we provided in our Act that the words "intoxicating liquor" (being that which the Act prohibits) shall mean anything which Congress, from time to time, shall find and determine to be intoxicating under the authority now vested in Congress by the Constitution of the United States. To all such "intoxicating liquor" our act would apply automatically. We had no precedent for such a provision, but it seemed clearly the logical and sensible one if it could be made to stand under our Constitution. This provision was attacked in the Courts on the ground that it is a delegation of legislative power, etc. Judges in several of our Counties held that the provision was unconstitutional and rendered the Act invalid. This view was also encouraged by an opinion by the Attorney General of Massachusetts and a decision of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts holding that the Legislature of the State could not thus adopt such standard as Congress may enact. Judges in several of our other Counties held the Act to be Constitutional. The question was raised in Crawford County in the case of Commonwealth vs. Alderman, wherein the Constitutionality of the Act and the conviction thereunder were sustained by the Court of that County. Upon sentence an appeal was taken to the Superior Court. By reason of the importance of the matter and at the request of the District Attorney of Crawford County, I prepared the brief and argued the case in the Superior Court, where the law was sustained: Commonwealth vs. Alderman, 79 Pa. Superior Ct. 277. Thereupon the case was appealed to the Supreme Court where I also argued it, during the month of October, 1922. On January 3d the Supreme Court affirmed the judgment of the Superior Court, the Chief Justice handing down an opinion fully sustaining the Constitutionality of the Act.

Very closely related to the matter just mentioned was the case of Commonwealth vs. Vigliotti, referred to in my last biennial report. At the date of that report the case was under consideration in the Superior Court where it had been argued October 11, 1920. It involved the question whether a conviction could be sustained under the Brooks Law for an offense committed after the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States and the passage of the Volstead Act. The Superior Court sustained the conviction, whereupon the Defendant appealed to the Supreme Court which also sustained the conviction in an opinion handed down in May, 1921. Subsequently an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of the United States. I assisted the District Attorney of Fayette County in that Court. The Court affirmed the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and held that the Brooks Law was an appropriate aid to the enforcement of National Prohibition: Vigliotti vs. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Advance Reports, May 15, 1922.

Conferences of District Attorneys.

In connection with matters relating to the enforcement of the prohibition laws or any other laws under which the State and Federal authorities might have concurrent jurisdiction, I invited the District Attorneys of Pennsylvania to a conference with the District Attorneys of the United States and other Federal Enforcement Officers located in Pennsylvania, which conference was held at the Capitol in March, 1922. At the close of that meeting I suggested to the Pennsylvania District Attorneys that they should arrange to keep in contact with each other for the interchange of views as well as for the purpose of giving the Legislature the benefit of their experience whenever changes are contemplated in the laws relating to crimes and criminal procedure. Such changes in the criminal laws are sometimes made at the instance of persons who view the questions from the standpoint of the accused and are lacking in knowledge of the problems of the officers of whom rests the responsibility for the enforcement of the laws. In pursuance of this suggestion a meeting of the Pennsylvania District Attorneys was held in November, 1922, at which time a permanent organization was formed. I think the creation of this organization is a matter of importance which should result in much good.

The Delaware River Bridge.

The Act providing for the construction of the bridge across the Delaware River between Philadelphia and Camden provides that counsel to the Commission shall be designated by the Attorneys General of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and also provides that condemnations of real estate, which become necessary on the part of the Pennsylvania Commission, shall be conducted through the Attorney General of Pennsylvania. I adopted the policy of designating one of the regular Deputies of this Department as counsel to the Commission without any extra compensation. The large amount of work growing out of the great number of condemnations of real estate led to the designation of two young attorneys to help in matters of detail, under the Deputy Attorney General, at a small expense. I think this arrangement has tended to efficiency as well as economy in these matters.

The work connected with the construction of this bridge has been a very important item of the work of the Department. Up to the present time the Deputy Attorney General thus designated has co-operated in the preparation of contracts for the Commission involving the expenditures of over $5,000,000. So far twenty properties have been condemned for bridge purposes and three acquired by purchase. The assessed value of the properties condemned is $390,400 and the total amount of the claims of the property owners is in excess of $1,500,000, indicating the probability of very substantial disputes in arriving at the amounts to be paid. Twenty-six tenants have been dispossessed from properties condemned and their claims for damages exceed $183,000. Amicable settlements have been made with some tenants. Forty-three condemnation cases are now pending before the Jury of View of Philadelphia County, representing claims of property owners and of tenants, and oral hearings have been conducted by the jury for a number of months.

In addition to the foregoing matters requiring legal attention the Department has been represented at all meetings of the Delaware River Bridge Joint Commission, as well as at the meetings of the executive committee, and has submitted numerous opinions by letter and otherwise. For months past almost daily conferences have been held with engineers, experts and others concerning matters arising in connection with contracts for construction, acquisition of properties, etc.

Other Pennsylvania—New Jersey Bridges.

Carrying out the provisions of legislation for acquiring and freeing certain Pennsylvania—New Jersey toll bridges this Department has taken care of all legal questions and generally looked after the work of the Pennsylvania Commission. Progress on these bridges is as follows:

The Easton-Phillipsburg Bridge, transferred; the Milford, Pike County Bridge, transferred; the Taylorsville (Washingtons Crossing) Bridge, transferred. The negotiations for the Yardleyville Bridge are completed and it will soon be taken over. Work has been commenced on the transfer of the Riegelsville Bridge and its transfer will soon be completed. Negotiations concerning the Belvidere Bridge are well along but are considerably involved and some little time will elapse before a transfer can be completed.

Pennsylvania—New York Bridges.

Duties similar to those mentioned in the last preceding heading have been performed by the Department in connection with the transfer of toll bridges between Pennsylvania and New York and the several matters have proceeded as follows:

The Port Jervis—Matamoras Bridge is transferred; The Chehocton—Hancock Bridge is transferred. The negotiations for the Barryville—Shohola Bridge, the Cochection Bridge, the Callicoon Bridge and the Skinners Falls—Milanville Bridge are practically completed and the transfers nearly consummated. The proceedings relating to the Highland and Lackawaxen and Lordville Bridges have been commenced and substantial progress made thereunder.

Indian Creek Litigation.

Shortly after the beginning of my term I received the petition of a large number of residents of Westmoreland County asking that the Attorney General intervene in certain equity proceedings, then recently instituted in Westmoreland and Fayette Counties, to prevent the waters of Indian Creek from being contaminated by coal mining operations. The waters of Indian Creek are used by the Mountain Water Supply Company largely for locomotives and other railroad purposes, and from this Company the Westmoreland Water Company purchases large quantities of water distributed to the public. The request that the Attorney General intervene as one of the plaintiffs was based on the theory that in the absence of such intervention the Court could not give consideration to questions affecting the welfare of the general public but only to the interests of the corporations involved. Under the circumstances and owing to the great importance of preserving this water supply, I deemed it proper to intervene and had petitions presented to the Courts to that end. The intervention was allowed and the Department was represented by one of the regular Deputies at the trial of the case in Uniontown, which occupied several weeks, and has also taken part in the argument and filed a brief. The trial Judge has found against the plaintiffs and exceptions to his findings will be argued before the full bench. The Westmoreland County cases involving the same questions have not yet been tried.

West Virginia Gas Case.

By joint resolution, approved the 18th of April, 1919, P. L. 87, the Attorney General was authorized to file a Bill in Equity in the Supreme Court of the United States on behalf of the Commonwealth against the State of West Virginia, to restrict the enforcement of a Statute of West Virginia (known as the Steptoe Act) the purpose of which, as contended, is to restrict the exportation of natural gas from that State. This of course is a question of the utmost importance to the people of the Western part of Pennsylvania and to the public service companies distributing natural gas in that section. My predecessor filed the Bill, a preliminary injunction was granted by the Supreme Court of the United States, and a commissioner appointed to take testimony.

After the testimony had been taken the Supreme Court of the United States fixed the 5th of December, 1921, for the argument of the case. Although the case was very fully argued, the Court subsequently made an order directing a reargument and it was reargued before the full bench during the week of February 13, 1922. On November 13, 1922, the Court handed down an order directing that the case be again restored to the calendar and reargued before the full bench at a date to be fixed. It is quite apparent that this case, which is being carried on in connection with a similar case in which the State of Ohio is plaintiff, has developed into one of the most interesting contests in the recent history of the Supreme Court of the United States. The two oral arguments which have taken place occupied a total of nine and one-half hours, yet the Court indicates its desire for further argument.

Anthracite Coal Tax.

In the Governor's address to the Legislature of 1921 he recommended a small ad valorem tax upon coal. The sentiment of the Legislature was against the imposition of this tax on bituminous coal. Under the Act of 1913 the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in Commonwealth vs. Alden Coal Company, 251 Pa. 134 and in Commonwealth vs. St. Clair Coal Company, 251 Pa. 159 had declared that a tax on anthracite coal which did not apply also to bituminous coal was in violation of the provisions of the Constitution of Pennsylvania requiring all taxation to be uniform upon the same class of subjects.

It being apparent that the members of the Legislature did not deem it wise to impose a tax upon bituminous coal, it became necessary either to abandon the idea of any coal tax or to make an effort to sustain a tax on anthracite coal notwithstanding what the Supreme Court had said in the cases referred to. Thereupon, at the Governor's instance, this Department drafted a Bill levying a tax on anthracite coal which was passed and approved.

Shortly after this anthracite coal tax became a law we arranged with representatives of the anthracite coal interests to have a test case started in the Dauphin County Court. This case throughout its career is entitled Roland C. Heisler vs. Thomas Colliery Company, et al. Much investigation was involved in connection with the pleadings in this test case because it was deemed important to place upon the record, as far as possible, the facts distinguishing anthracite and bituminous coal as commodities differing in their origin, production and use, which facts did not seem to have been fully or adequately found by the Court in the earlier cases.

The test case was argued on Bill and Answer in the Dauphin County Court in the latter part of November, 1921. The Court gave the case very thorough consideration and rendered a decision, joined in by all three of the Judges, sustaining the Constitutionality of the tax. From this decision an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, argued in Philadelphia before the full Bench in April of 1922 and a decision was rendered on June 24, 1922, holding the Act to be Constitutional and affirming the decision of the Dauphin County Court.

From the decision of our Supreme Court a writ of Error was taken to the Supreme Court of the United States and argued on the 14th and 15th of November. The Attorneys General of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey and Delaware (claiming that their people are the principal consumers of anthracite coal) filed a brief attacking the validity of the tax and argument was orally made by the Attorney General of Massachusetts representing this group. Of course the case was argued also by counsel representing the anthracite coal operators. On November 27, 1922, the Court, by Justice McKenna, delivered an opinion confirming the judgment of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and sustaining the validity of the tax.

Pending the appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States certain anthracite coal companies appealed from the settlements of the tax against them, which were made by the Auditor General after the argument in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. The Mill Creek Coal Company, (23 Commonwealth Docket, 1922) and the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, (28 Commonwealth Docket, 1922) in the Dauphin County Court, raised questions relating to the administrative features of the Act, not involved in the main test case, and sought to avoid the tax on these grounds. These cases were argued in due course and on November 18, 1922 Judge Hargest handed down opinions sustaining all the features of the Act therein questioned and entered judgment against the contesting companies for the full amount of the settlements against them with interest and commission. Exceptions have been filed to this decision but this Department is not apprehensive as to the questions raised therein. As stated, they relate to administrative features of the Act and do not involve the main question of the power of the Legislature to impose a tax upon anthracite coal, which question is now forever set at rest by the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States and the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Anthracite Mine Cave Law.

As the culmination of years of agitation and discussion, with which the members of the Senate and House are familiar, the Legislature of 1921 passed, and the Governor approved, the Kohler Act (P. L. 1198) and the Fowler Act (P. L. 1192) seeking to deal with the serious problem created by the mine caves in the anthracite region. A test case was promptly started in Luzerne County under the Kohler Act which the Court of Common Pleas of that County held to be unconstitutional. An appeal being taken to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, the Mayor of Scranton asked that the Attorney General take part in support of the law and at the request of the Governor this was done. The case was heard in the Supreme Court by the full Bench, and in an opinion by the Chief Justice the decision of the Court of Common Pleas of Luzerne County was reversed and the Constitutionality of the law sustained. Justice Kephart dissenting. An appeal was promptly taken to the Supreme Court of the United States where the case was argued on the 14th of November, 1922, a motion to advance it having been granted. Though the Commonwealth was not a party to the case, we obtained leave of the Court to file a brief and to submit a short oral argument in support of the law. On December 11, 1922 the Supreme Court, by Mr. Justice Holmes, delivered an opinion holding that the attempted act was an unwarranted restriction upon property rights which could not be sustained under the police power. Mr. Justice Brandeis filed a dissenting opinion. The case in the Pennsylvania Courts is entitled Mahon vs. Pennsylvania Coal Company and in the Supreme Court of the United States is entitled Pennsylvania Coal Company vs. Mahon. I think the people interested in solving this problem feel that this Department did all it could do to sustain this legislation, the validity of which always was considered a very doubtful question. This case will, at least, be some guide in the future efforts to relieve the situation at which the Act was aimed.

Gasoline Tax.

After the approval of the Act of 1921 imposing a tax upon sales of gasoline and like fluids (P. L. 1021) important questions were raised as to the commodities and sales to which it would apply. Thereupon a conference was held at this office with counsel representing the parties concerned and we were able to reach an understanding as to the interpretation of the law entirely satisfactory to the Commonwealth as well as to the manufacturers, under which the tax has been collected without any contest of any kind.

County of Philadelphia vs. Commonwealth.

For years the County of Philadelphia has had a very large claim against the Commonwealth for reimbursement for the expenses of primary elections. Several Auditors General in turn refused to make any settlement on this claim. Finally the County of Philadelphia obtained a special Act of Assembly authorizing it to bring suit against the Commonwealth in the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County. This case was tried and the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County held the Act to be unconstitutional, but an appeal to the Superior Court, argued early in 1921, the Act was sustained. Thereafter the Court of Common Pleas entered judgment in favor of the County and against the Commonwealth for an amount which we deemed exorbitant and from which we appealed to the Supreme Court, the case being argued in October, 1922. On January 3d the Supreme Court rendered a decision which will reduce the amount of the judgment in about $37,000. In the meantime, at the 1921 Sessions, an appropriation to take care of this claim was vetoed. The judgment entered by the Court of Common Pleas exceeded $600,000. Many of the charges included in it were grossly excessive, and I have deemed it appropriate to contest it as far as possible. An Appropriation for its payment will now be a matter for further consideration.

Inheritance and Corporation Taxes.

During the two year period numerous inheritance and corporation tax cases have been handled by this Department in the appellate courts and in the courts of first instance. The contentions of the Commonwealth have been sustained in nearly every case.

The case involving the largest amount in controversy is the matter of the inheritance tax in the estate of Henry C. Frick, deceased, in which the Orphans' Court of Allegheny County has entered a decree in favor of the Commonwealth for nearly $1,200,000 more than the amount for which the representatives of the estate admitted their liability. This case is now in the Supreme Court, where it is to be argued on January 12, 1923. It is practically certain that it will reach the Supreme Court of the United States in the contentions of the Commonwealth are sustained by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. At the outset my predecessor placed the case in the hands of Major David A. Keed of Pittsburgh as special counsel, and while this Department has co-operated the main work has been done by him, and with much ability and success.

In the case of Kirkpatrick's Estate we obtained a decision by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania reversing the Orphans' Court of Allegheny County and sustaining the provisions of our Inheritance Tax Law under which inheritance tax paid to the United States is not allowed as a deduction from the value of the estate in determining the State tax. The Orphans' Court of Philadelphia County had reached the same conclusion as the Orphans' Court of Allegheny County and the decision of the Supreme Court was of much importance to the Commonwealth.

Treasury Investigation.

After consulting this Department as to his powers in the matter the Auditor General caused a very complete audit to be made of the administration of the Treasury Department from May 1, 1917, to April 30, 1922. During the four year term from 1917 to 1921 a number of matters developed in the audit which the Auditor General submitted to me for my opinion and for such action as I might find proper. The reports being more or less inconclusive, I suggested that they should be supplemented by oral hearings and a number of such hearings were held. As a result I filed a somewhat extensive opinion which will be found among the opinions of the Attorney General, and felt compelled to cause a prosecution to be entered against the State Treasurer who served during the term in question, for misdemeanor in office. It is only fair to say that the charged was not based upon any profit to the State Treasurer or financial loss to the Commonwealth, but on what seemed to me such failure to obey the law as could not be ignored.

In connection with this investigation I desire to give public expression to my great appreciation for the assistance rendered by Honorable Edward J. Fox, former Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. Because of his high standing and ability and the public confidence reposed in him, I asked for his co-operation, which he rendered as a public service and for which he refused to receive any compensation.

The result of the prosecution above referred to is the case of Commonwealth vs. Kephart in which an indictment has been found in the Dauphin County Court, and a motion to quash the indictment and a motion to discharge the defendant have been overruled by that Court. An appeal from that decision is now pending in the Superior Court of Pennsylvania where it has been argued.

Bureau of Escheats.

The Bureau of Escheats, which is a Bureau of this Department, has continued its excellent work. From the beginning of its operation in May 1919, to December 31, 1920, this Bureau collected and paid into the State Treasury $300,896.01, of which $13,974, being 4.6 per cent of the amount collected, was refunded to claimants on orders of the Board of Public Accounts. During the period from January 1, 1921 to December 31, 1922, the Bureau has collected and paid into the State Treasury $478,785.09, making a total of collections from the beginning of its operations of $779,681.10. Claims allowed and pending will involve a refund to claimants of $26,265.64 or 3.3 per cent. of the entire amount collected. In addition to the total collections paid into the State Treasury, the Bureau has obtained Court orders for the payment of $10,228.72 which will be paid within the next few weeks. In securing these collections 127 petitions were filed in the various Courts of Common Pleas of the Commonwealth, together with numerous petitions in the Orphans' Courts of the several Counties. In addition there are now pending in the Orphans' Court of Philadelphia County, petitions for orders for the payment of $52,226.62, being unclaimed moneys held by trust companies under trusts which have ceased to be active. Mr. Eastman, who has special charge of this Bureau, drafted several Acts which became laws during the last Session of the Legislature, and which facilitated the work of this Bureau. The collections from January 1, 1921, to December 31, 1922, were made under the following Acts: Act of April 21, 1921, P. L. 223 (amending Act of 1915), $421,322.28; Act of April 21, 1921, P. L. 216 (amending Act of 1919) $42,384.53; Act of May 16, 1919, P. L. 174, $9,222.92; Act of April 17, 1872, P. L. 62, $5,855.36. Provisions to enable the Bureau to make more extensive examinations of trust companies would certainly result in very large additions to the amounts collected.

The expense of collecting the $478,785.09 paid into the Treasury during the past two years was less than $60,000, or 12½ per cent. of the amount collected. This includes cost of advertising court fees chargeable to the Commonwealth, and all salaries and expenses of every kind. Of this amount less than $50,000 has been paid from the appropriation to the Auditor General's Department and about $10,000 from the appropriation to the Attorney General's Department.

Bureau of Maintenance Collections.

This Bureau, which is also a part of the Attorney General's Department, has rendered very efficient service, especially during the last year. The collections for the year 1922 exceeded the collections for 1921 by $48,964.30. The total collections from January 1, 1921 to December 31, 1922 have been $345,876.06. This is just a little over the amount collected during the preceding two years, the total for the four-year period being $689,052.40.

Extradition Cases.

The number of extradition cases passing through the Executive Department has been very large, a natural result of the unusual number of crimes committed throughout the country during the past two years. Where there is any contest or question raised on an application for extradition the matter goes to the Attorney General's Department for hearing. Seventy-five such hearings have been held, in which both parties were represented, the requisitions for the return of fugitives having come from almost every State in the Union. We have also advised in numerous cases before papers were sent from the Executive Department to some other State asking for the return of a fugitive who had fled from this State.

Banking Department.

Hearings in bank cases have been numerous, especially since the Governor adopted the policy of granting bank charters only after investigation of the need therefor. Very many hearings have been held before the Banking Commissioner and a Deputy Attorney General in connection with questions of impaired capital, insufficient business methods, banking irregularities, etc. Some of these involved institutions with very large deposits, trusts, funds, etc., wherein defects were corrected, deficiencies in capital restored and failures prevented without creating public sensations.

We have instituted Quo Warranto proceedings against eight banking associations. Six banking institutions have been placed in possession of the Banking Commissioner as have also five building and loan associations. We have had occasion during the two year period to render thirty-one formal opinions to the Banking Department and have given informal advice in very many cases in connection with the very vigilant and careful work of that Department.

Insurance Department.

We have had a considerable number of litigated cases for this Department and two dozen or more insurance corporations have been dissolved or their charters forfeited. We have also kept in touch with some very important litigation the Insurance Commissioner has had in the State of New York.

Collection of Delinquent Corporation Taxes.

As far as possible this important work has been placed in the hands of Deputy Attorneys General instead of in the hands of special counsel. This, I think, has saved the Commonwealth considerable money. The cases in Allegheny County are referred to Special Deputy Attorney General Trent, and since I have had a Deputy Attorney General who is a member of the Philadelphia County Bar the Auditor General and I have arranged that all such cases shall be referred to him, and no further delinquent corporation tax claims have been placed in the hands of any special counsel in Philadelphia. Since this arrangement has been made more than one hundred such claims have been cared for in Philadelphia County, at an expense of practically nothing to the Commonwealth.

Freeport Bridge.

Very many questions have arisen in connection with the Freeport Bridge across the Allegheny River, where we have been able to save the Commonwealth between $200,000 and $300,000 through extended and tedious negotiations with the river interests and other parties concerned in the repair of the bridge, it having been greatly damaged through floods. A very dangerous grade crossing at Garver's Ferry at the Eastern end of the bridge is also eliminated as part of the arrangement. There were concerned in this matter the Secretary of War, the Water Supply Commission, the State Highway Department, the Counties of Armstrong and Westmoreland, the Borough of Freeport, Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Pittsburgh Coal Association and Allegheny River interests. An entirely satisfactory final agreement was reached and the bridge is now in the course of reconstruction.

Judicial Election Contests.

Following the election of 1921 petitions for the contest of the election of Judges were presented to the Attorney General from Blair County and from Northumberland County. It was contended by the contestants that it was the duty of the Attorney General to transmit the petitions to the Governor, without further inquiry whereupon it would be the duty of the Governor to summon a special tribunal consisting of the three President Judges located nearest to the County seat of the County involved, in order to try the contest. While the wording of the Statute might appear to sustain this position, it did not seem that it could have been intended that the Attorney General had no function beyond the mere transmitting of the papers. Consequently I fixed dates for hearings in both cases and in each case heard extended arguments on the part of counsel on both sides, after which I filed opinions refusing to certify the petitions to the Governor. Nothing further was done in the Northumberland County case, but in the Blair County case mandamus proceedings were instituted in the Dauphin County Court, leading to a very interesting opinion by Judge Hargest refusing the mandamus: Commonwealth ex. rel. vs. Alter, 25 Dauphin Co. Rep. 161. From this decision an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court, but the appeal was discontinued before argument. The case may be of some value as a precedent hereafter.

Board of Pardons.

The unusual number of crimes and convictions during the past few years has caused a corresponding increase in the number of applications for pardon. There has also been a tendency on the part of some Judges to sentence offenders to the penitentiaries who, under the law, should be sentenced to county prisons, thereby relieving the Judges from the annoyance of importunities to grant parols but throwing an additional burden upon the Board of Pardons. This, of course, leads also to an unusual percentage of applications in the less serious class of cases, which to some extent increases the percentage of pardons granted.

Excluding petitions for commutation of the death sentence to that of imprisonment for life, the number of applicants for pardon during the four years of the present administration has been 1110 and the number recommended 361, or 32.5 per cent. The increase in the work of the Board is shown by comparison with work during the administration of Governor Stone, 1899-1902, during which there were 411 applicants of which 169 or 41 per cent. were granted. The percentage during the succeeding administrations were as follows: 1903-1906, 31.1 per cent.; 1907-1910, 30 per cent.; 1911-1914, 61 per cent.; 1915-1918, 42.8 per cent.

Board of Public Accounts.

This Board consists of the Auditor General, the State Treasurer and the Attorney General. Its duty is to pass on applications for the correction of errors in State tax settlements and refund of moneys collected under the escheat statutes. About a year ago we adopted the plan of holding regular stated meetings with regular calendars of cases. As a result the work of the Board is practically cleaned up and can be kept so with very little effort. I think this plan has met with the favor of all parties concerned, as against the former plan of holding meetings by special appointment.

National Banks as Fiduciaries.

The recent legislation by Congress, authorizing national banks to act in a fiduciary capacity has brought about a situation which will require a decision by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania which may lead to a case in the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Act of Congress authorizing national banks to act as fiduciaries provides that they shall submit their trust business to the inspection of the authorities of the State, but not their general business. It is also apparent that in the event of insolvency the administration of the affairs of a national bank through the Comptroller of the Currency would be less desirable than the administration of the affairs of an insolvent trust company through our State agencies.

The Judges of the Orphans' Court and the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County declined to place national banks in their list of institutions qualified for appointment as fiduciaries. The Orphans' Court of Philadelphia County took like action on the application of a national bank to be so listed and refused an application for the appointment of a national bank as guardian. Certain stipulations had been filed binding the bank to submit to full State examinations, etc., but of course these were outside the Act of Congress. Upon appeals to the Superior Court these decisions of the Orphans' Court of Philadelphia County were reversed and it was ordered to grant the applications. Thereupon, the matter being brought to the attention of the Attorney General's Department, I deemed it appropriate to intervene and appeal from the decision of the Superior Court to the Supreme Court, so that a final determination might be had and the authority of the State upheld as fully as possible. This appeal is now pending and the Supreme Court has fixed January 15th for the argument.

We have passed upon a large number of land titles and prepared many contracts for the Adjutant General's Department, Board of Public Grounds and Buildings and for various State Institutions, have looked after a number of cases under the Workmen's Compensation Act in which the State was interested, have passed upon all applications for retirement, conducted all the legal matters connected with the completion of the taking over of the State Normal Schools, innumerable matters connected with State Highway contracts, and generally tried to keep the State's legal business up to date and to protect her interests in every possible way. The following is a summary of certain features of the work of the Department which may be of interest:

I desire in conclusion to testify to the very able and loyal service rendered by the Deputies and all others connected with the work of the Department, and the pleasure it has been to work with the Governor and the fine body of men who have conducted the various Departments, Bureaus and Commissions of the State Government.

The same has been true of the relations between the Department and the members of the Senate and the House. Every bill sent to the Governor during the legislative session was first submitted by him to us and a written opinion furnished him before the bill was signed or disapproved. This led to many conferences with members relating to suggested objections, and almost invariably they were anxious to co-operate in anything tending to make their legislation more perfect and beneficial.

Respectfully submitted,

GEO. E. ALTER,
Attorney General.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION APPOINTED TO MAKE AN INVESTIGATION OF THE BATTLE FIELDS OF FRANCE AND BELGIUM, AND TO SELECT POINTS FOR THE ERECTION OF MONUMENTS AND MARKERS.

TO THE HONORABLE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Gentlemen: By the provisions of the Act of Assembly, Approved the 27th day of May, A. D. 1921, P. L. 1173, the undersigned were appointed a Commission to make an investigation of the battle fields of France and Belgium, and to select point for the erection of monuments and markers of appropriate design to commemorate the achievements of Pennsylvania soldiers during the World War, and to make a report of our proceedings to the General Assembly not later than the first Monday of February, 1923.

Shortly after our appointment by the Governor, and as directed by the Act, the commission organized by the election of Major General William G. Price, Jr., as President and Colonel David J. Davis as Secretary.

The Act provides, iter alia:

The commission shall be composed of five citizens who were former Pennsylvania soldiers, sailors or marines who served in France or Belgium during the war with Germany * * * * they shall visit the battle fields of France and Belgium and ascertain the Points where Pennsylvania troops were engaged during the World War and determine the points where monuments and markers shall hereafter be erected * * * * determine the character and design of the monuments and markers to be erected at each of such points * * * * as nearly as may be ascertain the cost of the preparation and erection thereof * * * * enter into such agreements with the governments of France and Belgium as may be necessary to secure the erection of such monuments and markers.

From which it would appear that the principal duties imposed upon the commission by the Act were:

- First. To visit the battle fields of France and Belgium and ascertain the points where Pennsylvania troops were engaged during the war.
- Second. Determine the points where monuments and markers shall hereafter be erected.
- Third. Determine the character and design of such monuments and markers.
- Fourth. Ascertain as near as possible, the cost of the preparation and erection of such monuments and markers.
- Fifth. Enter into agreements with the governments of France and Belgium to secure permission for the erection of such monuments and markers.
- Sixth. Make a report of its proceedings to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania not later than the first Monday of February, 1923.

The first and second duties of the commission, i. e., to visit the battle fields of France and Belgium and ascertain where Pennsylvania troops were engaged, and determine the points where monuments and markers should be erected may will be treated as one matter.

For this purpose the commission sailed for France on May 24th 1922, but prior to its sailing the members of the commission obtained much information of value from the United States War Department, from consulting official war maps, by conference with the members of a similar commission previously appointed in the State of Massachusetts which had already visited the battle fields, and with the Battle Monuments Board of the War Department, which had been appointed by the Secretary of War to prepare a detailed project for marking the American battle fields in Europe.

Upon the arrival of the commission in France an interview was had with the French War Department, as a result of which it was decided to make a thorough study of the entire western front, Captain Le Roche of the French Army, who had assisted the commission from Massachusetts in its investigation, being detailed to accompany and assist the commission in every way possible.

Two weeks were spent in a survey of the battle fields of France and Belgium, special attention being paid to the battle fields on which troops from Pennsylvania were engaged.

Subsequently more detailed inspections and investigations were made of the battle fields, which, in the opinion of the commission, possessed sites or points upon which monuments could be most advantageously erected to commemorate the achievements of Pennsylvania soldiers, much of the ground being familiar to the members of the commission from having been engaged thereon during the war.

Based upon all the information and facts obtainable and from personal observation of the battle fields in days of peace, and with the belief that when monuments and markers are erected, they should be so located as to be connected with some notable achievement of Pennsylvania troops, the commission respectfully submits the following recommendations.

1. That owing to the fact that the 28th Division was 100% Pennsylvania Organization, existing long prior to the war as the Pennsylvania National Guard, and having taken part as such in the War with Spain and in the Mexican Border Service, that some of its hardest fighting in France was in the Argonne in and about the town of Varennes, which town is famous in French History, that the Place du Chateau owned by the town has been offered as a site for a monument, that the old Chateau Site which adjoins the Place du Chateau can be purchased reasonably, thereby enlarging the Place and which overlooks much of the surrounding country the Place du Chateau in the town of Varennes, Department of Meuse, would be an ideal point for a PENNSYLVANIA STATE MEMORIAL to be erected to commemorate the achievements of the citizens of Pennsylvania who served on the battle fields of France and Belgium and to perpetuate the memories of those who fell in the war against Germany and her allies.

2. For the same reasons cited in the previous recommendation and for the additional sentimental reasons, that it would replace a wooden bridge built by United States Army Engineers still in use, with a modern structure which would be of material assistance to the French people of that community, and thereby fixing permanently in their minds the memory of their friends from Pennsylvania, it is further recommended that a MEMORIAL BRIDGE be erected spanning the Vesle River between Fismes and Fismet, Department of Aisne, the substructure to be in accordance with French National Engineers plans, and the super-structure to be a suitable memorial to the 28th Division, which was actively engaged at this point.

3. It is further recommended that a monument be erected at Montfaucon, Department of Meuse, as a suitable memorial to those Pennsylvanians who served with the 79th Division, and who fought so valiantly in this Sector, Montfaucon, geographically is the outstanding point in that part of France, the German Crown Prince has his Headquarters and Observatory here during the operations in and about Verdun, and it has been selected by the French Government as one of the places to be kept in its present condition of ruin to commemorate the sacrifices of war. This site has also been recommended by the 79th Division Association as a location for this monument to commemorate the heroic deeds of that Division in France.

4. It is also recommended that a monument be erected at Nantillois, Department of Meuse, as a suitable memorial to those Pennsylvanians who served with the 80th Division, whose gallant fighting in this immediate locality did so much to release this territory from the hand of the invader, which point is approved by the 80th Division Association.

5. It is further recommended that a monument be erected at Audenard, in Belgium, as a suitable memorial to the 53rd Field Artillery Brigade of the 28th Division, which Brigade after its Division had been withdrawn from the Argonne was transferred to Belgium, and while attached to the 91st Division, operated so successfully and gallantly as to win the commendation of the King of Belgium and the Commanding General of the 91st Division.

THIRD. Character and design of monuments and markers

Much information with reference to the character and design of the monuments was obtained by consultation with the Beaux Arts Commission of France, and the commission was very materially assisted in deciding on the character and design of the monuments and bridge to be recommended by Major Thomas H. Atherton, Jr., of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, who having served over seas with the Pennsylvania troops took an unusual interest in the work of the commission, and without compensation has prepared sketches of the proposed memorials as outlined in the foregoing recommendations, which sketches are submitted as part of this report.

FOURTH. Cost of the preparation and erection of State Memorial, Monuments and Bridge.

From the best information obtainable it is estimated that the maximum cost of the State Memorial, Monuments and Bridge complete will total the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, apportioned as follows:

State Memorial at Varennes, Department of Meuse	$180,000
28th, Division Memorial Bridge at Fismes-Fismet	$30,000
79th, Division Memorial Monument at Montfaucon	$55,000
80th, Division Memorial Monument at Nantillois ..	$20,000
53rd. Field Artillery Brigade Memorial Monument, at Audenard, Belgium.	$15,000

It is recommended that an appropriation of three hundred thousand dollars be granted for these purposes, so much thereof as may be necessary to be used to carry out the plans as outlined above and in line with the approximate amounts specified.

FIFTH. Agreements with the French and Belgium Governments for the erection of such memorials.

The only agreements required would be the assent of the local officials of the towns in which the monuments and bridge are to be erected, and the approval of the Beaux Arts Commission, which we are assured can be obtained when the plans are submitted.

While investigating the battle fields the commission called on the Mayors of Fismes, Montfaucon, Nantillois, Audenard and Varennes, in each case the commission were assured of their co-operation and support and their willingness to have such a monument and bridge erected.

Official action was taken by the council of the town of Varennes granting permission to erect the monument in the Place du Chateau, as evidenced by a certified copy of the minutes of the meeting attached hereto.

There is also attached hereto a sketch of the town of Varennes showing the relative location of the Place du Chateau and the so called Chateau Site, (shaded in red), referred to in the first recommendation.

SIXTH. The report of the commission is herewith respectfully submitted.

COMMUNE OF VARENNES.

Extract of the Verbal Process of the Deliberations of the Municipal Council, July 9, 1922.

The year One Thousand Nineteen Hundred Twenty-Two, July 9, the Municipal Council of the Commune of Varennes, being assembled in ordinary session, at the habitual place of its meetings, after legal call of meeting, under the Presidency of Mr. Peter Potier, were present:

Messrs. Potier, Wanauld, Lambert, Nicot, Evrard, Robin, de Kuntz, Buitge, Janoly.

Absent: M. George Preud homme.

In accordance with Article 53 of the Law of April 5, 1884, a secretary was elected from among the members of the Council;

Mr. Lambert having received the majority of the votes was designated to perform these functions, which he accepted.

The President opened the meeting and submitted to the Council the proposition of the office of Franco-American liquidation, relative to a request for the authorization of erecting, on the green square, a monument commemorating the role of the American Division which recaptured Varennes in September, 1918.

The office of the liquidation made known its intention of purchasing the site of the Castle of Varennes for the purpose of making it a public garden.

The Council, after having discussed the proposition, would be happy to see this project realized, and gives the desired authorization.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION TO CODIFY AND REVISE THE LAW RELATING TO BANKS, PRIVATE BANKERS AND TRUST COMPANIES DOING BUSINESS WITHIN THIS COMMONWEALTH.

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The Commission appointed to codify and revise the law relating to banks, private bankers and trust companies doing business in this Commonwealth was appointed in pursuance of the Act of the General Assembly approved July 25, 1917, P. L. 1202. It was continued by the Act of Assembly approved July 21, 1919, P. L. 1057, and further by Act of Assembly of May 27, 1921, P. L. 1201.

Its powers were extended to include a study of laws relating to savings banks and all institutions under the supervision of the Banking Department and further consideration of such subjects as might be referred to it by the Governor of the Commonwealth or the Commissioner of Banking.

The Commission presented a preliminary report February 26, 1919, submitting the draft of the Act relating to the Banking Department of the State. This Act, with some slight amendments, was adopted by the General Assembly and approved May 21, 1919, P. L. 209.

The Commission made a report March 29, 1921, submitting to the General Assembly the draft of an Act "Codifying and revising the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating to the Banking Department and to banks, trust companies, title insurance companies, savings banks and private bankers; with table of contents."

The report of the Commission has been widely circulated among those directly interested throughout the State and the Commission has since its presentation held numerous meetings in regard to the subject matter of its report. It has further through its members been in conference, by personal interview and by correspondence, with many individuals throughout the state. As a result of this further study of the report submitted in 1921, it has reached the conclusion that certain changes should be made in its former report. Herewith are submitted its conclusions, with drafts of Acts.

The changes, while fairly numerous, have been for the most part on minor points. It, however, has been deemed advisable that there should be a separate Act for the Banking Department of the State, rather than to have this subject included in an Act relating also to the institutions operating under the banking department. The Commission believes that the changes made from the report as submitted in 1921 are such as to lead to the simplification of operation of the Department of Banking and the institutions under its supervision, at the same time safe guarding well the interests of the banking institutions, depositors and the public at large.

The Commissioner of Banking requested the Commission to study and prepare a report including an Act relating to Building and Loan Associations and the Commission expects within a very short time to be able to present to the General Assembly a full and complete report upon this subject.

Respectfully submitted,

THOS. EDWARDS,
Chairman.

I approve of every provision in the proposed Code but suggest an additional provision set forth in the attached minority report.

G. M. RADNER.

MINORITY REPORT:

I am in accord with my colleagues of the Commission, upon every provision of the proposed Banking Act, but disagree with them as to the elimination of one of the Sections contained in the Act as recommended by us to the Legislature of 1921. The proposed Act accompanying Report to the Legislature in 1921 contained the following Section which reads:

"Sec. 120. TRUST COMPANIES NOT TO DRAFT WILLS, ETC. (a) COMPANY NOT TO ACT AS FIDUCIARY UNDER DOCUMENTS PREPARED BY ITS OFFICERS, ETC.—No trust company or other corporation doing or authorized to do a trust company business or acting or authorized to act in any fiduciary capacity in this Commonwealth shall be qualified or have power to act in any fiduciary capacity when the will, deed or other instrument appointing it shall have been prepared, written, drafted or transcribed by any officer, agent or employees of such trust company or other corporation.

(b) OFFICERS, ETC., FORBIDDEN TO PREPARE SUCH DOCUMENTS—No officer, agent or employee of any such trust company or other corporation shall prepare, write, draft or transcribe, directly or indirectly, any will, deed or other instrument, wherein such trust company or other corporation is appointed or named as executor, guardian, trustee, assignee, or in any other fiduciary capacity. Any person violating the provisions of this clause shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars and to imprisonment, in default of payment of fine, not exceeding one month.

(d) EXCEPTIONS.—The provisions of clauses (a) and (b) of this section shall not be construed to apply to the will of any officer, agent or employees of such trust company or other corporation, nor to any deed or other instrument executed by such officer, agent or employee, nor to any will, deed or other instrument executed prior to the date of the approval of this Act, nor to any will, deed or other instrument drafted by a practicing attorney-at-law, retained or employed by the client for whom the instrument is drawn."

Note:—This Section resembles similar legislation in the Banking Codes of New York, Missouri and other States. While the Court in GAULER VS. TRUST CO., 28 W. N. C. 208, 9 PA. C. C. 634 (Arnold, P. J.), expressly decided "That title and trust companies had no right whatever to do conveyancing, draw deeds, write wills or the like, and their conduct in this respect was a usurpation on the Commonwealth;" no effective method would seem to exist under the present law to stop that practice, except, perhaps, quo warranto which, it is submitted, is too extreme a punishment."

The explanatory note of the Commissioners set forth briefly the purpose of the Section. In the Code accompanying this Report, the majority of the Commissioners, at the request of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association, voted the elimination of this Section. The reason moving the majority of the Commission to do so was in effect, that the evils aimed at in Section 120 had been radiated by the adoption of a voluntary Code of Ethics at the recommendation of the Pennsylvania Bar Association.

In this Minority Report, therefore, I need not long dwell upon the evils prevailing at the time of this Commission's appointment in 1917. At that time we found many Trust Companies, in disregard of the decision of GAULER VS. TRUST CO., cited in the note above, freely transgressing their powers and boldly advertising to the public that they would draw deeds of trust, and wills free of charge whenever the Company was appointed Executor or Trustee therein. The vice of this practice lay in the fact that, while the public believed they were getting disinterested advice, free of charge, the Trust Company official drafting the will or instrument was always interested in getting the most favorable and profitable will for the Company which paid his salary. Thus, instead of the public getting this service free of charge, they were paying a 5% Commission on an oft-times unnecessary trust which was best neither for the testator nor the beneficiaries' circumstances, but best only from the Company's standpoint. Other trust companies were even having their officials appear in court and assuming to practice law, although the relationship of attorney and client cannot be well carried on by a corporation.

Without commenting further upon these evils which admittedly needed correction, I address myself to the reason which led the majority of the Commissioners to vote the elimination of Section 120. The Pennsylvania Bankers Association is to be congratulated upon the adoption of its Code of Ethics and I believe the gentlemen comprising the Legislative Committee of that Association are entirely honest and sincere in their belief that the Code of Ethics will be lived up to by the Trust Companies of the State and that the practices complained of have been, as far as they know, abandoned. They admit, however, that the reforms accomplished and the adoption of the Code of Ethics was largely brought about by Section 120. Under these circumstances, I fear that the Code of Ethics will not accomplish permanent reform. In the first place, all of the Trust Companies of Pennsylvania are not members of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association, and, therefore, are not bound to observe the Association's Code of Ethics. These Trust Companies can only be reached by legislation. Secondly, suppose a majority of the members of the Association do abide by the Code of Ethics, but a small minority, even ten per cent., do not, what power has the Association to discipline the non-conforming members? They may expel them from the Organization, but that does not put the offending institution out of existence. The Bankers Association is not in the happy position of being able to enforce its Code as is the Bar Association which, upon proper address to the Court, can suspend an offending member and deprive him of his right to practice.

The inability to enforce the Code of Ethics and punish recalcitrant institutions would, of course, mean the breaking down of the whole system. It would be too much to expect the rule abiding institutions to stand by while the offending institutions were corraling more business by reason of their breach of the rule. More would drift away from strict observance until all would join in the mad scramble for business by the fair and unfair means that existed before the menace of Section 120 stopped that practice.

To the undersigned it seems inconceivable that there should be any objections to this Section by institutions who profess to be willing to abide by their Code of Ethics. This Section will not hurt those institutions that intend to observe their own Code. It will, however, furnish effective means of checking those institutions who will not observe and those outside of the Association that are not even in honor bound to do so.

For this reason I feel it incumbent to dissent from the Majority Report in its elimination of Section 120, and to strongly recommend the Legislature to re-insert it in the proposed Banking Act.

G. M. RADNER.

AN ACT

Regulating banks, trust companies, title insurance companies, savings banks, and private bankers, codifying and revising the laws relating thereto, and providing penalties for the violation thereof: with table of contents.

ARTICLE I—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

SECTION 1. Short Title.—Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That this Act shall be known and may be cited, as "The Banking Act of 1923."

SEC. 2. Definitions.—Except as otherwise expressly indicated, the following words, wherever used in this Act, shall be taken and construed to have the following meanings:

"Bank" means any state bank, incorporated banking company, trust company, savings bank or unincorporated bank, heretofore or hereafter organized.

"Trust company" means a corporation having power to execute trusts and to act in any fiduciary capacity, whether such corporation has been heretofore organized under the General Corporation Act of 1874 and its supplements or under any previous Acts of Assembly, general or special, or is hereafter organized under this Act or any supplements thereto.

"Savings bank" means an institution incorporated under any general or special act of assembly on the mutual plan and without capital stock, and receiving deposits payable on stipulated notice.

"Unincorporated bank" means an individual, partnership or unincorporated association engaged in the business of banking.

"Banking" means discounting and negotiating promissory notes, drafts, bills of exchange and other evidences of debt, receiving deposits of money and commercial paper otherwise than as bailee, lending money on real or personal security, and buying and selling gold and silver bullion, foreign coin or bills of exchange.

"Commissioner" means the Commissioner of Banking.

"Person" means an individual, a partnership or an unincorporated association.

"Court" means the court of common pleas of the county where the banking house or other place of business of the corporation or person in question is located.

"Prothonotary" means the prothonotary of such court.

(Note:—The purpose of this section is merely to define terms as used in the Code, and not to attempt general definitions, enumerating the powers, etc., of the different institutions, which are fully set forth in the appropriate sections.

The last three definitions are copied from section 2 of the Banking Department Act of 1919.)

SEC. 3. Unauthorized Use of Words Indicating Banking, Trust Company or Savings Bank Business.—(a) No corporation or person, except a national bank, a federal reserve bank, or an incorporated or unincorporated bank duly authorized to transact business in this state, shall, as a designation or name, or part of a designation or name, under which business is or may be transacted in this state, make use, in any of the ways enumerated in clause (d) of this section, of the word "bank," "banking," or any other word or words indicating the carrying on of a banking business.

(b) No corporation or person, except a corporation duly authorized to do a trust company business in the state, shall, as a designation or name, or part of a designation or name, under which business is or may be conducted in this state, make use, in any of the ways enumerated in clause (d) of this section, of the word "trust" or any other word or words indicating the carrying on of a trust company business or a business in the nature thereof: Provided, That this clause shall not be construed to prevent any individual, as such, from acting in any trust capacity as heretofore.

(c) No corporation or person, except a savings bank duly authorized to transact business in this state, shall, as a designation or name, or part of a designation or name, under which business is or may be conducted in this state, make use, in any of the ways enumerated in clause (d) of this section, of the word "saving," "savings," or any other word or words indicating the carrying on of the business of a savings bank or savings fund or a business in the nature thereof: Provided, however, That the prohibitions of this clause shall not apply to any incorporated bank or building and loan association having the word "saving" or "savings" as part of its corporate title at the date of the approval of this Act, nor shall such prohibitions prevent any bank from establishing, operating or advertising a department for the receipt of savings or time deposits.

(d) The prohibitions of clauses (a), (b) and (c) of this section shall include the use of any of the prohibited words in any corporate, artificial or business name or title; the use of any office sign at the place where such business is transacted, having thereon any word or words indicating that such place or office is the place or office of a bank, trust company or savings bank, as the case may be; and the use or circulation of any letterheads, billheads, blank forms, notes, receipts, certificates, circulars, or any written or printed or partly written and partly printed paper whatever, having thereon any word or words indicating that such business is the business of a bank, trust company or savings bank, as the case may be.

(e) Any corporation or person violating any provision of this section shall forfeit to the Commonwealth the sum of one hundred dollars a day for every day or part thereof during which such violation continues, such penalty to be recovered in an action brought by the Commissioner in the name of the Commonwealth, as other penalties are recoverable.

(f) In addition to the remedy provided by clause (e) of this section, a court of competent jurisdiction may, on bill filed by the Commissioner in the name of the Commonwealth, issue an injunction restraining any such corporation or person from further using such word or words in violation of the provisions of this section and from further transacting business in such manner as to lead the public to believe that the business being carried on is that of a bank, trust company or savings bank, as the case may be, during the pendency of such action to recover the penalty, and perpetually, and may make such other order or decree as equity and justice may require.

(Note:—This new section takes the place of the Act of April 23, 1909, (P. L. 121; 5 Purd. 5701), relating to the use of the word "trust", and section 3 of the Private Banking Act, June 19, 1911, (P. L. 1060; 5 Purd. 5352) which is therefore omitted from Article VI of this Code.)

SEC. 4. Applicability of Act.—Except as herein otherwise indicated, the provisions of this act shall apply to all banks heretofore incorporated or doing business at the date of the approval of this Act, as well as those hereafter incorporated or established.

SEC. 5. Constitutionality of Act.—If any section, clause, sentence, paragraph, or other part of this Act, shall for any reason be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remainder of this Act or any part thereof, but shall be confined in its operation to the part thereof directly involved in the controversy in which such judgment shall be rendered, it being hereby declared that the legislature would have enacted the remainder of this Act without such part adjudged to be invalid.

Any section, clause or other part of this Act so declared to be invalid shall not be considered as having been stricken out from any other portion or portions of this Act wherein cross-references thereto are made but shall be taken and construed as having been actually written in full, into such other portion or portions from which cross-references are made.

(Note:—The first paragraph of this section is copied, with slight modifications, from section 51 of the Banking Department Act of 1919. The second paragraph is new.)

SEC. 6. Acceptance of Provisions of Act.—Acceptance of the provisions of this Act by any bank in existence at the date of the approval of this Act, chartered under any law of this Commonwealth, general or special, shall be by filing with the Commissioner a written acceptance under the seal of the corporation of all the provisions of this Act and of the Constitution of the Commonwealth, signed by the president and the cashier or treasurer of such bank and authorized by the vote of a majority of the stockholders at a meeting called for that purpose.

When the Commissioner shall be satisfied that such bank has complied with all the requirements of this Act, he shall issue to the bank a certificate to that effect and transmit a copy thereof to the Auditor General, and thereafter such bank shall be entitled to all the benefits and be subject to all the provisions of this Act, but shall continue to possess all powers given to it by any special Act of Assembly, so far as the same shall not be inconsistent with this Act or with the Constitution.

(Note:—This takes the place of section 32 of the act of May 13, 1876, (P. L. 161; 1 Purd. 406), which does not prescribe the procedure and applies only to state banks. The new section, includes trust companies, thus replacing section 3 of the act of June 11, 1885, (P. L. 111; 4 Purd. 4829). It also includes savings banks. The procedure conforms to that prescribed by section 26 of the General Corporation Act.)

SEC. 7. Expiration of Charter of Existing Bank.—Whenever the charter of any bank in existence at the date of the approval of this Act, which bank shall have accepted the provisions of this Act and of the Constitution of the Commonwealth, in the manner provided by Section 6 of this Act, shall be limited in time, such bank may, at any time before the expiration of such charter, obtain a new charter under this Act in the following manner:

A special meeting of the stockholders shall be called, in the manner provided by clause (a) of Section 39 of this Act, or, when there are no stockholders, a special meeting of the trustees or managers shall be called as provided by law or by-law, for the purpose of considering and deciding whether application for a charter under this Act shall be made. If, at such meeting, the holders of a majority of the stock, or a majority of the trustees or managers, as the case may be, of said bank shall decide in favor of such application, a majority of the directors, or of the trustees or managers, of the bank shall thereafter, and before the time when the charter of said bank expires, subscribe and acknowledge in duplicate the certificate of incorporation required by Section 21 of this Act, and attach thereto certified copies of such resolution and proof of notice of such meeting, and shall file said certificates, copies and proofs with the Commissioner and pay to the Commissioner a fee of one hundred dollars.

The Commissioner shall thereupon proceed to ascertain whether the provisions of the law have been complied with and shall also ascertain, from the best sources of information at hand, and by such investigation as he may deem necessary, whether said bank is in good financial standing and repute, whether in the conduct of its affairs, so far as he officially knows, the said bank has conformed to the laws of the state, and whether the granting of a new charter under this act to said bank is consistent with the interests of the public.

If the Commissioner shall be testified as to the matters above enumerated, he shall forthwith so notify the bank in writing, and shall endorse his approval on said duplicate certificates of incorporation and shall transmit the same to the Governor, who, if he shall approve the same, shall proceed as is provided by Section 26 of this Act; and the certificate of incorporation transmitted by the Governor to the recorder of deeds shall be recorded and indexed in the same manner as is provided by Section 27 of this Act; and from and after the date of such recording, the charter of said bank and its corporate rights and franchises shall be in law renewed and extended, with the same force and effect as though the bank had been incorporated under this Act.

If the Commissioner shall disapprove such certificates of incorporation, he shall forthwith certify such disapproval to the Governor, stating fully and clearly his objections to the granting of the proposed charter, and shall forthwith furnish the bank with a copy of such objections. The bank may thereupon, but not later than thirty days after receipt of such copy, proceed by application for a writ of mandamus against the Commissioner to have the validity of said objections determined by the court according to the law, and if determined in favor of said bank, the court shall issue its writ of mandamus to the Commissioner, requiring him to issue his certificate in proper form in favor of the bank, whereupon the Governor shall proceed to issue letters patent as hereinbefore provided.

Provided: That any savings bank without capital stock, incorporated prior to 1874, the charter of which has been renewed from time to time by general or special legislation, where the right of perpetual succession was conferred by the original charter upon the managers, may apply for and receive a perpetual charter upon an application being made in the manner as provided in this section, without accepting the provisions of this Act, and shall continue to be entitled to the privileges and benefits conferred in its original charter and supplements but shall not be entitled to any of the benefits conferred by this Act excepting the right of perpetual succession, unless and until it shall have duly accepted all the provisions of this Act.

(Note:—This section, which renders obsolete the existing laws as to renewal and extension of charters, is intended to bring all banks having twenty-year charters under the operation of this act as their charters from time to time expire. Under the amendment to Article XVI, section 11 of the Constitution, perpetual charters are made possible; and it is improbable that any bank which could obtain a perpetual charter under this act would desire a renewal for twenty years only.)

This section provides a method of procedure assimilated to original proceedings for incorporation, and involves the repeal of section 4 of the act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400) and the Act of April 26, 1889, (P. L. 61; 1 Purd. 420), so far as they relate to renewal and extension of charters, and of the act of May 10, 1889, (P. L. 185; 1 Purd. 421), so far as it relates to the renewal of charters of banks of discount, savings banks and trust companies.)

SEC. 8. Advertisements in Newspapers and Legal Periodicals.—Whenever, under any of the provisions of this Act, advertisement is required to be made in a newspaper or newspapers, such advertisement shall, unless otherwise provided, be made in a newspaper or newspapers of general circulation in the county, published in the city, borough or township where the banking house or other place of business of the corporation or person in question is located.

Whenever advertisement is required to be made in two newspapers, if there shall be, in the county, a legal periodical designated by the court of common pleas for legal advertisements, then such advertisement shall be made in one newspaper as aforesaid and in such legal periodical. If there be only one newspaper published in the city, borough or township and no such legal periodical be published in the county, publication in such one newspaper shall be sufficient. If there be no newspaper published in the city, borough or township, then the advertisement shall be made in a newspaper of general circulation in the county, published at the county seat, or, if none be there published, in the newspaper published nearest to said city, borough or township within the county, and in such legal periodical if any there be in the county. If there be no newspaper published in the county, then the advertisement shall be made in the newspaper published nearest to such city, borough or township in an adjoining county.

(Note:—This section is intended to avoid repetitions in the various sections by which advertisements are required. It is founded on the last part of section 4 of the act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400), with some revision and the addition of the provision as to legal periodicals.)

SEC. 9. Service of Notices.—Except as herein otherwise expressly provided, all written notices required by this Act shall be served either in the manner now or hereafter provided by law for the service of writs of summons except that service need not be made by the sheriff, or by mailing such notice to any person required to be notified at his last known place of business or residence, as appearing on the records of the corporation, and to any corporation at its principal office or, if a foreign corporation, at the office of its duly authorized agent in this state.

(Note:—This section, which follows Section 3 (b) of the Banking Department Act of 1919, save that the words "or printed" are omitted before "notices," and "by registered mail, return receipt requested" before "to any person," is intended to avoid repetition. Where the advertising of notices is required, it is provided for in the sections dealing with the particular kinds of notices.)

SEC. 10. Fees of Public Officers.—Whenever, under any of the provisions of this Act, certificates or other documents are required to be filed or recorded in the office of the prothonotary or any court of common pleas or in the office of any public official other than the Commissioner of Banking, such prothonotary or other official shall be entitled to receive therefor the same fees as are provided by law for similar services.

(Note:—This is copied from section 3 (c) of the Banking Department Act of 1919, and is intended to prevent any constitutional objection to the various provisions requiring the filing of papers, on the ground that they impose additional duties upon the prothonotary or other official without additional compensation.)

SEC. 11. Preservation of Records. (a) In General.—Every bank shall preserve, in such form and manner that they may be readily produced on proper demand, all its records of original or final entry, including cards used under the card system and deposit slips or tickets, for a period of twelve years from the date of making the same.

(b) Records of Dissolved Banks:—In case of the voluntary or involuntary dissolution of any bank, all of its books and records relating to any moneys paid or subject to payment into the state treasury under any law of this Commonwealth relating to escheats shall be delivered to the Commissioner and retained by him as part of the records of the Banking Department.

SEC. 12. Evidence from Records of Bank.—(a) Whenever any evidence shall be required in any civil suit or proceeding, in any Court of this Commonwealth, from the book entries or other records of any bank doing business in this Commonwealth at the time of such requirement, it shall be competent, upon five days' written notice to the opposite party, to produce verified copies of such entries or other records, which shall be received in such proceeding as prima facie evidence of such entries or other records; and a bank officer shall not be compelled to produce the original book or record, or attend as a witness thereto unless a party to such proceeding shall, at least forty-eight hours before the trial, file an affidavit that injustice will likely be done unless the original book or record is produced and serve a copy of such affidavit on the opposite party: Provided, That this section shall not apply to any suit or proceeding to which the bank is a party.

(Note:—This is derived from sections 1 and 3 of the Act of June 22, 1883, (P. L. 154; 2 Purd. 1509-10). The period of notice has been changed from ten days to five; the provisions have been extended to "other records" as well as "book entries;" and the provisions as to forty-eight hours' notice of objection and service of copy of affidavit are new.)

(b) To warrant admission in evidence of such copy, it must be shown by an affidavit or the testimony of an officer of the bank that the book or other record is one of the ordinary books or records of the bank used in the transaction of its business, that the entry is as was originally made at the time of its date and in the usual course of business, that there are no interlineations or erasures, that the book or record is in the custody and control of the bank, and that the copy has been compared with the book or record and is a correct copy of the same; and such book or record shall be open to the inspection of any interested party.

(Note:—This is a revision of section 2 of the act of 1883 (2 Purd. 1510). Except for the inclusion of records other than books, the changes are in phraseology and not in substance.)

SEC. 13. Escheats.—Every bank shall comply with the provisions of the laws of this Commonwealth, now in force or hereafter enacted, relating to escheats.

(Note:—If any reference to the subject of escheats is necessary in this Code, the above would seem to be sufficient.)

The act of March 6, 1847, (P. L. 222; 4 Purd. 4369), relating to annual statements of unclaimed profits and dividends, and the escheats thereof, was expressly repealed by the escheats act of June 7, 1915, (P. L. 878; 5 Purd. 5306), which, with its amendments, is the law now in force.)

SEC. 14. Foreign Banks:—It shall not be lawful for any bank incorporated under the laws of any other state or country to receive any deposit or deposits or transact any banking business whatsoever in this Commonwealth. Every corporation or person who shall in violation of this section be concerned in such receipt of deposits or transaction of banking business shall be subject to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each day during which any such business shall be carried on, said penalty to be payable to the Commissioner and recoverable by him by action at law. In addition to said remedy, a court of competent jurisdiction may, on bill filed by the Commissioner, issue an injunction restraining such foreign bank from continuing to receive deposits or transacting a banking business in this Commonwealth, and may make such other order or decree as equity and justice may require.

(Note:— This takes the place of the last paragraph of section 1 of the act of February 11, 1895, (P. L. 4; 1 Purd. 411), establishing the Banking Department, and of section 2 of the act of March 28, 1808, (4 Sm. L. 537; 1 Purd. 447), which provides that no company incorporated under the laws of any other state "shall be permitted to establish within this commonwealth and banking-house or office of discount and deposit." The provisions of section 1 of the act of 1895, which was re-enacted in section 4 of the Banking Department Act of 1919, was that no foreign corporation should receive deposits or transact banking business without first filing in the office of the Commissioner a certified copy of the statement required to be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

The penalty and the injunction provisions of the new section are similar to those relating to branch banks in section 36 clauses (c) and (d) of this Code.)

ARTICLE II.—PROVISIONS RELATING TO INCORPORATED BANKS.

SEC. 15. Requisite Amount of Capital:— No corporation shall be organized under this act to carry on the business of a state bank with a capital of less than two hundred thousand dollars, or to carry on the business of a trust company with a capital of less than two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, except that state banks with a capital of not less than fifty thousand dollars and trust companies with a capital of not less than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars may, with the approval of the Commissioner, be organized in any city, borough or township, the population of which exceeds five thousand inhabitants but does not exceed fifty thousand inhabitants, and except that state banks with a capital of not less than twenty-five thousand dollars and trust companies with a capital of not less than one hundred thousand dollars, may, with the approval of the Commissioner, be organized in any borough or township, the population of which is less than five thousand inhabitants.

The population of any city, borough or township shall, for the purpose of this section, be ascertained according to the United States census last preceding the date of the application for incorporation.

(Note:— As to state banks, this is founded on the provisions of the National Bank Act (Sec. 5138 U. S. Rev. Stat., as amended in 1909), the difference being that under the Federal Act the required capital in places having a population between three thousand and six thousand inhabitants is fifty thousand dollars.

The section takes the place of the first part of Section 5 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400), as amended by Section 1 of the Act of May 3, 1909, (P. L. 412; 5 Purd. 5341), relating to state banks. As to trust companies, a capital of not less than one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars is required for all trust companies by the present law: Proviso to Section 1, Act of May 9, 1889, (P. L. 159; 4 Purd. 4761); Section 2, Act of June 27, 1895, (P. L. 399; 2 Purd. 1672).

SEC. 16. Existing Banks or Trust Companies Having Capital Less than Minimum Required by this Act.—Any state bank or trust company in existence at the date of the approval of this Act, the capital of which is less than the minimum required by this Act for the incorporation of a state bank or trust company in the city, borough or township where the principal place of business of such state bank or trust company is located, may continue to do business with its present capital: Provided, That it shall not be entitled to any of the benefits of this Act unless it shall increase its capital, out of surplus or otherwise, to an amount equal to said minimum in accordance with the provisions of Section 32 of this Act, or unless it shall credit to the surplus fund at the close of each dividend period one-half of its net earnings until the capital and surplus fund shall together equal not less than twenty-five per cent. more than such minimum; and no such state bank or trust company shall declare, credit or pay any dividends to its stockholders for any dividend period until it shall have increased its capital as aforesaid or made such credit to its surplus fund for that period; and when the capital and surplus fund shall equal twenty-five per cent. more than said minimum as a result of crediting half of the net earnings to the surplus fund as aforesaid, a sufficient portion of the surplus shall be converted into capital, by proceedings for increase of capital stock in accordance with Section 32 of this Act, to make the capital equal to the minimum.

(Note:—This new section provides alternative methods by which existing banks having a capital smaller than that required by the Code may comply with the new standard and bring themselves within the benefits of this act.)

SEC. 17. Capital Stock to be Paid in Full.— No charter shall be granted to any state bank or trust company under this Act until the whole of its capital shall be paid in to the persons named in the certificate of incorporation as the board of directors for the first year, who shall certify such payment to the Commissioner.

(Note:—This takes the place of Section 9 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 401), which requires only 50 per cent of the capital to be paid in before a bank commences business, and permits payment of the remainder in monthly installments of at least ten per cent of the whole amount of capital.)

SEC. 18. Advertising Capital in Excess of Real Amount:—No bank shall advertise by newspapers, letter-head or in any other manner a larger capital than has actually been paid in; nor shall any bank, after a decrease of its capital stock, continue in any manner to represent or hold out to the public or to its customers that the amount of its capital stock remains as it was before such decrease. Any bank violating the provisions of this section shall be subject to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each day during which such advertising, representation or holding out shall continue, said penalty to be payable to the Commissioner and recoverable by him by action at law.

SEC. 19. Par Value of Capital Stock.—The capital stock of every bank shall be divided into shares of a par value of not less than fifty dollars each. Any bank whose capital stock is now or hereafter may be divided into shares of a greater par value than fifty dollars may, by vote of a majority of its stockholders, decrease the par value of its shares to any desired amount not less than fifty dollars and correspondingly increase the number of shares: Provided, That the capital stock shall not thereby be increased or decreased.

(Note:—The first sentence is derived from Section 5 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400), amended by Section 1 of the Act of May 5, 1909, (P. L. 412; 5 Purd. 5341). The remainder of the section is founded on Section 1 of the Act of June 4, 1879, (P. L. 94; 1 Purd. 419), with changes of wording for the purpose of clearness. Trust companies and savings banks having a capital stock are included. Section 2 of the Act of June 11, 1885, (P. L. 111; 4 Purd. 4829), relating to trust companies, permits the change of par value of stock to one hundred dollars per share.)

SEC. 20. Incorporators. (a) State Banks and Trust Companies.—A corporation for carrying on the business of a state bank or trust company may be formed, under the provisions of this Act, by any number of persons, not less than three, a majority of whom shall be citizens of the United States and bona fide residents of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

(Note:—This is founded on the first part of Section 1 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 399), with the addition of the provisions as to citizenship.

The requirements of that act as to articles of association are omitted, since the certificate of incorporation, hereinafter provided for, and the filing and approval of the by-laws, make articles of association superfluous. For the same reason, that part of Section 5 of the Act of 1876 is omitted, which provides that "no change shall be made in the articles of association by which the rights, remedies or securities of the existing creditors of the association shall be impaired."

Trust companies, which at present are incorporated under the General Corporation Act of 1874 and its amendments, are hereafter to be organized under this Code in the same manner as state banks.)

(b) Savings Banks.—A corporation for the encouragement of saving money, intended to be a savings bank, may be formed under the provisions of this act by any number of persons, of not less than fifteen, at least two-thirds of whom shall be citizens of the United States and bona fide residents of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and of the county where the proposed bank is to be located.

(Note:—This takes the place of Section 1 of the Savings Bank Act of May 20, 1889, (P. L. 246; 1 Purd. 452), increasing the number of incorporators from thirteen to fifteen and adding the requirements as to citizenship. The provisions relating to articles of association are omitted for the reasons stated in the note to clause (a) of this section.)

SEC. 21. Certificate of Incorporation.—The persons desiring to form a corporation under the provisions of this Act shall, under their hands, make duplicate certificates of incorporation, which shall specify:

I. Name of the proposed corporation.

II. Location or place of business, particularly designating the county, and the city, borough or township, with the population thereof according to the last preceding United States census, together with the street number of other local designation in the city, borough or township, of the place of business.

III. In the case of a proposed bank having capital stock, the amount of the capital stock, the number of shares into which divided, the par value thereof, and that the same has all been subscribed in good faith, and a statement of all expenses connected with the organization of the bank and sale of such stock.

IV. The term of existence of the proposed corporation, which may be perpetual.

V. The names, occupations, citizenship, places of residence and post office addresses of the incorporators and, unless the corporation is to be a savings bank without capital stock, the number of shares subscribed for by each.

VI. In the case of a proposed bank having capital stock, the number of directors and the names and places of residence of directors agreed upon for the first year; and, in the case of a proposed savings bank without capital stock, a declaration that each incorporator will accept the responsibilities and faithfully discharge the duties of a trustee in such institution when authorized according to the provisions of this Act.

VII. A statement that such certificate is made to enable the persons named to form a corporation for banking, trust company, or savings bank purposes under this Act.

This certificate shall be acknowledged by at least two of the incorporators before any person authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds in this state and the acknowledgment shall be certified and authenticated by the official seal of such person.

(Note:—This is founded on Section 2 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 399) and part of Section 2 of the Savings Bank Act of 1889. In clause II, "township" is substituted for "village" and the provision as to population added. In clause III, the words after "divided" have been added. Clause IV is new. In clause V the word "occupations" is derived from the Savings Bank Act, the word "citizenship" is new, and "incorporators" and "subscribed for" have been substituted for "shareholders" and "held by". The first part of clause VI is new and the last part is derived from the Savings Bank Act. Clause VII is founded on clause V of the Act of 1876.

Acknowledgment before anyone authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds is substituted for acknowledgment before a judge or notary public. The provisions as to filing and recording the certificate and as to certified copies thereof are covered by later sections of this Code.)

SEC. 22. Advertisement of Application for Charter.—When application shall be made for the incorporation of a bank by filing the duplicate certificates of incorporation with the Commissioner as provided in Section 23 of this Act, the persons making such application shall forthwith cause a notice thereof to be advertised in two newspapers and shall continue such advertisement, once a week, for three weeks. The notices shall specify the name and style of the proposed corporation, the location, the specific object for which it is to be created and the amount of the capital, except in the case of a proposed savings bank having no capital stock.

(Note:—This takes the place of part of Section 4 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400) and of Section 5 of the Act of 1889 (1 Purd. 453). Provisions is made for beginning the advertising when the application is made and continuing it for three weeks only, instead of advertising for three months before making the application, and for publication in the city, borough or township instead of in the county. The provisions of both acts as to the newspapers in which the notice is to be published are covered by Section 8 of this Act.

The provisions of Section 4 of the Act of 1876 as to proceedings for renewal of charter and for increase of capital are covered in later sections.)

SEC. 23. Filing Certificate; Payment of Fee and Bonus; Investigation by Commissioner.—The duplicate certificates of incorporation, together with two certified copies of the proposed by-laws of the corporation, which by-laws shall contain proper provisions for their own amendment, shall be filed with the Commissioner for his inspection and approval; and at the same time the incorporators shall pay to the Commissioner a fee of one hundred dollars.

The Commissioner shall thereupon proceed to ascertain whether the provisions of the law have been complied with, and shall also ascertain, from the best source of information at his command and by such investigation as he may deem necessary:

(a) Whether the name of the proposed corporation is likely to mislead the public as to its character or purpose, or is the same as one already adopted or appropriated by an existing corporation subject to the supervision of the Banking Department, or by its similarity thereto is likely to mislead the public.

(b) Whether the convenience and advantage of the public will be served by the proposed incorporation, and whether the density of the population in the neighborhood designated for the place of business of such proposed corporation and in the surrounding country affords a reasonable promise of adequate support for the enterprise.

(c) Whether the responsibility, character and general fitness for the business of the persons named in such certificate are such as to command the confidence of the community and warrant belief that the business of the proposed corporation will be honestly and efficiently conducted in accordance with the intent and purpose of this Act.

(Note:—The first paragraph takes the place of Section 2 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 399) and part of Section 2 of the Savings Bank Act of 1889 (1 Purd. 453), providing for the filing of the certificate with the Auditor-General after approval by the Attorney-General. The provision as to by-laws is introduced because the articles of association required by the existing acts have been dispensed with.

The remainder of the section is partly derived from Section 3 of the Savings Bank Act (1 Purd. 453) and partly new.)

SEC. 24. Proof of Publication and Payment of Capital; Approval of Certificate by Commissioner.—After completion of the advertising required by Section 22 of this Act, and upon the receipt by the Commissioner of satisfactory proof of such advertising, the Commissioner, if he shall be satisfied upon the matters enumerated in Section 23 of this Act and approved the proposed by-laws, shall forthwith so notify the incorporators in writing. If, within thirty days after the giving of such notice, the incorporators shall pay to the State Treasurer such bonus as is or may be prescribed by law, and shall file with the Commissioner the certificate under oath of the persons named in the certificate of incorporation as the board of directors for the first year that the whole of the capital stock has been paid to them, the Commissioner shall forthwith endorse his approval on said duplicate certificates of incorporation and certified copies of the by-laws and shall transmit the same to the Governor.

In all cases, the Commissioner shall approve or disapprove said certificate of incorporation and by-laws within thirty days after the receipt by him of proof of advertisement.

(Note:— This new section, with the preceding ones, is intended to enable the Commissioner to make the necessary investigation during the period of advertising, so that, at the end of the period, nothing need remain open except the proofs of advertising and payment of capital. The thirty-day limitation will give any additional time necessary. The permanent records at Harrisburg will remain in the office of the Commissioner, and the duplicates transmitted to the Governor will be returned to the corporation as provided below.)

SEC. 25. Disapproval of Certificate by Commissioner; Appeal.—If the Commissioner shall disapprove a certificate of incorporation or proposed by-laws, he shall forthwith give notice thereof, in writing, stating his objections fully and clearly, to the proposed incorporators, who, if they so desire, may within ten days thereafter appeal from such disapproval to the Governor, who shall hear the said appeal promptly and, within thirty days after hearing, shall decide the matter and certify his decision to the Commissioner. The decision of the Governor shall be final and conclusive and not subject to review, and the Commissioner shall act in accordance therewith.

(Note:—Since this Code empowers the Commissioner to approve or disapprove the incorporation of banks, some method of reviewing his action in disapproving an application seems necessary.)

SEC. 26. Issuance of Letters Patent and Transmission of Certificate of Incorporation to Commissioner and to Recorder of Deeds.—The Governor, on receipt of said certificates and copies of by-laws, with the approval of the Commissioner, shall, if he approve the same, endorse on both of said certificates his approval with the date of the letters patent, and shall cause letters patent, under the great seal of the Commonwealth, to be issued to the said corporation. The Governor shall thereupon forthwith transmit one of the said certificates of incorporation to the recorder of deeds in and for the county where the principal place of business of the corporation is to be located, shall forward to the corporation, with the letters patent, one of the copies of the by-laws, and shall return the other certificate and the other copy of the by-laws to the Commissioner, who shall file and preserve the same in his office. For the purpose of taxation, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner forthwith to furnish the Auditor-General with a certified copy of said certificate of incorporation.

(Note:—This takes the place of Section 3 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400) and Section 4 of the Savings Bank Act of 1889 (1 Purd. 453), which provide that the Auditor-General, on receipt of the articles of association with the approval of the Attorney-General, shall certify a copy to the Governor, who shall thereupon issue the letters patent.

The purpose of the transmission of the certificate to the recorder of deeds is shown by the section next following.)

SEC. 27. Recording Certificates and Effect thereof.—On receipt by said recorder of deeds of the certificate of incorporation and on payment to him by the incorporators of his fees as provided by law in similar cases, he shall forthwith record said certificate and index the same in the same books and in the same manner as charters of other corporations are or may be by law required to be recorded and indexed; and when said certificate has been so recorded, the subscribers thereto and their associates and successors shall be a corporation for the purpose and on terms named in said certificate, from the date of the letters patent.

(Note:—This is modeled on the provisions of Section 3 of the General Corporation Act of 1874. It seems proper that the charters of banks as well as those of other corporations should be recorded in the county where the business is carried on.

The first part of Section 9 of the Act of 1889, providing that before any savings bank shall be authorized to receive deposits it shall transmit to the Auditor-General the names and addresses of the officers and trustees and the place where business is to be carried on, is sufficiently covered by the provisions of the previous sections of this Code.)

SEC. 28. Certified Copies of Certificates as Evidence.—Copies of any certificate of incorporation under this Act, duly certified by the Commissioner or by the Recorder of deeds, and authenticated by the seal of his office, shall be conclusive evidence, in all courts of the Commonwealth, of the existence of such corporation and of every other matter or thing which could be proved by the production of the original certificate.

(Note:—This is derived from the last part of Section 2 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 399), substituting the Commissioner for the Auditor-General, and adding the Recorder of Deeds.)

SEC. 29. Failure to Organize and Commence Business.—Any bank incorporated under this Act that shall not organize and commence business within two years after the issuance of letters patent as provided in Section 26 of this Act, shall forfeit its rights and privileges as a corporation under this act.

(Note:—This is founded on Section 7 of the Savings Bank Act of 1889 (1 Purd. 454), substituting two years for one year, to conform to Section 17 of the Banking Department Act of 1919, which prescribes the procedure to be followed by the Commissioner.)

SEC. 30. Stock. (a) Certificates of Stock.—All banks having a capital stock are authorized and required to issue certificates of their said stock to all the stockholders, properly signed by the president or a vice-president and by the cashier or treasurer or an assistant cashier or assistant treasurer of the bank.

(Note:—This is derived from Section 4 of the Act of April 17, 1872 (P. L. 62; 4 Purd. 4370), which relates to savings banks only.

The act of May 2, 1919, (P. L. 109), amending Section 2 of the Act of May 28, 1913, (P. L. 378; 5 Purd. 5711), so as to permit trust companies to issue preferred stock, is recommended for repeal, there being no reason apparent to the Commissioners why a banking institution should issue preferred stock.)

(b) Transfer of Stock.—The shares of stock of any bank shall be deemed personal property and shall be transferable on the books of the bank in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws thereof; and every person to whom stock shall be so transferred shall, in proportion to the shares received, succeed to all the rights and liabilities of the prior holders thereof, subject, however, to the provisions of Section 31 of this Act, relating to individual liability of stockholders.

(Note:—This is derived from Section 5 of the Act of 1876, amended by Section 1 of the Act of May 3, 1909, (P. L. 412; 5 Purd. 5341), omitting after "by-laws" the words "and articles of association." It covers also a part of Article X of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 427).

Section 4 of the Act of April 17, 1872, (P. L. 62; 4 Purd. 4370), relating to savings banks, provides that "certificates transferred by the party holding the same, or his duly authorized attorney in the presence of the president, secretary or treasurer, shall be a valid and legal transfer of the said stock." This is now left to be regulated by the by-laws.

Section 21 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 405), providing that no stockholder shall sell or transfer his stock, without the consent of a majority of the directors, so long as he is indebted to the bank, and that he shall not be entitled to receive and dividends or profits so long as any liability of his to the bank shall be overdue, is recommended for appeal, as is also the similar provisions of Article X, Section 10 of the Act of 1850. Stock in corporations in general is no longer subject to these restrictions and there seems to be no reason why they should be continued as to banks.)

SEC. 31. Individual Liability of Stockholders.—(a) In General.—The stockholders of every bank in addition to their liability as such stockholders for unpaid subscriptions, shall be personally liable, equally and ratably, but not one for the other, for all contracts, debts and engagements of such bank to an amount equal to the par value of their stockholdings thereof.

Stockholders who shall have transferred their shares or registered the transfer thereof within thirty days next before the date or the failure of such bank to meet its obligations, or with knowledge of such impending failure, shall be liable to the same extent as if they had made no such transfer, to the extent that the subsequent transferee fails to meet such liabilities; but this provision shall not be construed to affect in any way any recovery which such stockholder might otherwise have against those in whose names such shares are registered at the time of such failure.

Any agreement made by a bank with its depositors, whereby the liability of stockholders imposed by this section shall in any manner be sought to be waived, shall be void.

(Note:—The first paragraph is derived from Section 5 of the Act of 1876, amended by Section 1 of the Act of May 3, 1909, (P. L. 412; 5 Purd. 5342.) The language has been modified for the sake of clearness. Section 32 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 442), dealing with individual liability in cases of insolvency and the method of enforcement thereof, is covered by Section 37 of the Banking Department Act of 1919.

Section 1 of the Act of May 11, 1874, (P. L. 135; 1 Purd. 443), imposing double liability on stockholders of "banks, banking companies, saving fund institutions, trust companies, and all other incorporated companies doing the business of banks, or loaning and discounting moneys as such in this Commonwealth", has been construed not to apply to trust companies incorporated under the General Corporation Act of 1874 and its supplements, since such companies are not "doing the business of banks": De Haven vs. O'Rourke, 223 Pa. 663, affirming 17 Dist. Rep. 445. The present section is drafted so as to include all trust companies.

The second paragraph of the clause follows the provisions of Section 23 of the Federal Reserve Act of December 23, 1913, except that the period is made thirty days instead of sixty. (The last paragraph is new.)

(b) Proceedings by Commissioner or Creditors.—In case the Commissioner shall have taken possession of the business and property of a bank pursuant to law, all actions or proceedings to enforce the liability of stockholders under this section shall be taken and prosecuted only by the Commissioner as provided by law, unless the Commissioner shall refuse to take or prosecute such action or proceedings on proper request in writing made by a creditor of the bank, or shall fail or neglect to commence such action or proceedings or to prosecute the same within sixty days after the receipt of such request, in either of which events such action or proceeding may be taken by any creditor of the bank, who shall have recovered a judgment against the bank, execution whereon shall have been returned unsatisfied in whole or in part.

Any action to enforce the liability of stockholders under this section must be brought within six years after the cause of action has accrued.

(Note:—This clause is new.)

Section 11 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 402) relating to the collection of unpaid stock subscriptions, is recommended for repeal except as to banks in existence at the date of approval of this Code. The section can have no application to banks incorporated under the Code, whose capital stock is required to be paid in full before the charter issues; and after the approval of the Code, the section can apply only for a period of five months after the date of incorporation of the last bank under the old law, and for a period of one year from the last increase of capital stock under the old law.)

SEC. 32. Increase of Capital Stock. (a) In General.—Any bank may, with the approval of the Commissioner, increase its capital stock, from time to time, in accordance with the provisions of this section, but not otherwise, provided a majority of these stockholders shall so determine; but no such increase, unless made from surplus or undivided profits, shall be approved by the Commissioner until the entire amount thereof shall have been subscribed and paid for, or until the corporation, if in existence before the approval of this Act, shall have filed a certificate accepting the provisions of this Act and of the Constitution of the Commonwealth, as provided by Section 6 of this Act.

The stockholders may, by majority vote, direct the sale of stock issued pursuant to such increase for such price per share, not less than par, as they may designate; Provided, That every stockholder shall be entitled to a like option with all other stockholders of taking shares so issued in proportion to his interest in the corporation, and that all moneys thus received, beyond the par value of the shares, shall be applied as directed by the stockholders who may also direct the sale of options not taken, after a reasonable time shall have been given for electing to take or refuse the same.

(Note:—This and the following clauses take the place of the first part of Section 10 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 402), which contemplates provisions as to increase of capital in the articles of association, limits the increase to the amount there specified, provides for certification to the Auditor-General, and allows a year for payment.

The general scheme of the present section is the same as that of the general Act of February 9, 1901, (P. L. 1; 1 Purd. 808.)

The provisions as to issuance of an increase of stock at a price above par is substantially the same as that of Section 1 of the Act of April 15, 1891, (P. L. 11; 2 Purd. 1947), relating to insurance companies.

Section 2 of the Act of June 11, 1885 (P. L. 111; 4 Purd. 4829) provided that trust companies might increase their capital stock "according to the forms prescribed by law", and limited the amount after such increase to two million dollars. This limitation has been impliedly repealed by subsequent legislation relating to corporations in general.)

(b) Resolution of Board of Directors.—Any bank desiring to increase its capital stock shall, by resolution of its board of directors, adopted by a majority of the entire number thereof, declare such purpose and thereupon by resolution, similarly adopted, direct that the question of such proposed increase be submitted to the stockholders either at a regular annual meeting or any adjournment thereof, or at a special meeting called for that purpose.

(c) Notice of Stockholders' Meeting.—Notice of any such meeting of stockholders to vote on the question of a proposed increase of capital stock shall be given to all stockholders of record, in writing, by registered mail, return receipt requested, at least sixty days before the date of such meeting, and be advertised once a month for two months in one newspaper, the first advertisement to be published at least sixty days before the date of such meeting.

The notice and advertisement shall specify the name and style of the bank, its location, the amount of its capital stock, and the amount of the proposed increase thereof; and, if it be proposed to issue the new stock at a price above par, such purpose shall also be specified.

(Note:—This is derived partly from the Act of 1901 and partly from Section 4 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400). The designation of the newspapers is covered by Section 8 of this Code.)

(d) Conduct of Stockholders' Meeting.—At such meeting, or any adjournment thereof, an election of the stockholders shall be taken for or against such increase, which election shall be conducted in the same manner as is provided by clauses (e) and (f) of Section 38 of this Act for the holding of elections of directors. The judges of election shall, when the election is closed, count the number of shares voted for and against such increase, and declare whether the holders of a majority of the stock of such bank have consented or refused to consent thereto, and shall make out duplicate returns of said election, stating the number of shares of stock voted for such increase and the number voted against such increase, and subscribe and deliver the same to one of the chief officers of said bank.

(Note:—Clause (b) of Section 2 of the Act of 1901 contains provisions as to judges of election, ballots, proxies, etc. Since these provisions are equally applicable to any election of directors or other stock vote, it seems better to cover them in the later section dealing with those matters.)

(e) Certificate and Return.—It shall be the duty of such bank, if consent is given to the proposed increase, to file in the office of the Commissioner, within thirty days after the meeting of stockholders, the certificate of the chairman and secretary of said meeting, with a certified copy of the resolutions of the board of directors, and proofs of notice to stockholders and publication in accordance with the provisions of clause (c) of this section.

(Note:—This is founded on Section 3 of the Act of 1901, but substitutes the Commissioner for the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and ignores the distinction between annual and special meetings and between actual and authorized increase.)

(f) Approval by Commissioner; Bonus.—The Commissioner shall thereupon proceed to ascertain whether the provisions of the law have been complied with and shall also ascertain from the best sources of information at his command and by such investigation as he may deem necessary whether the convenience and advantage of the public will be served by the proposed increase of capital stock. If he shall be satisfied on said points, he shall so notify the bank in writing, whereupon the bank shall, within thirty days, furnish to the Commissioner proof satisfactory to him that the amount of such increase of capital stock, if issued for cash, has been actually paid in, or, if such increase be in the nature of a stock dividend, that it is justified by the surplus or undivided profits of the bank. On receipt of such proof, the Commissioner shall endorse his approval on said certificate of the chairman and secretary and shall notify the bank thereof, whereupon the bank shall forthwith pay to the State Treasurer such bonus on said increase as is or may be prescribed by law.

For the purpose of taxation, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner, at the same time he notifies the bank of his approval, to furnish the Auditor-General with a certified copy of the return of the cashier or treasurer of the bank.

(Note:—This clause is new.)

(g) Pending Proceedings.—Any proceeding for increase of capital stock, begun under existing law prior to, and not completed at the date of approval of this Act, shall be consummated under the provisions of the law existing prior to the approval of this Act.

(Note:—This takes the place of the first proviso to Section 4 of the Act of 1901.)

SEC. 33. Decrease of Capital Stock:—(a) In General.—Any bank may, with the approval of the Commissioner, decrease its capital stock from time to time, in accordance with the provisions of this section, but not otherwise, either by reducing the number of its shares or by reducing the par value of each share or by both methods, to any sum not below the minimum required by law for such bank, provided a majority of the stockholders shall so determine, and provided that the liability of the stockholders for the contracts, debts or engagements of the bank for which they are liable at the time when such decrease is made shall continue for one year thereafter.

No such decrease shall be approved by the Commissioner until the corporation, if in existence before the approval of this act, shall have filed a certificate accepting the provisions of this Act and of the constitution of the Commonwealth, as provided by Section 6 of this Act.

(Note:—This follows the form of clause (a) of Section 32, relating to increase of capital stock, and takes the place of part of Section 10 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 402), Section 1 of the Act of June 11, 1879, (P. L. 133; 1 Purd. 417) and section 1 of the Act of June 22, 1883, (P. L. 155; 1 Purd. 402).)

The last part of the first paragraph has been changed by striking out, after "provided that", the words "no such decrease shall effect or destroy," and by adding at the end of the sentence the words "shall continue for one year thereafter."

The Act of 1876 requires a vote of two-thirds of the stockholders, but the later acts require a majority only. The Act of 1883 provides "that for all deposits received by banking corporations after such decrease, the stockholders shall only be liable for the indebtedness of such banking company as the charter provides." The necessity for re-enacting this provision is not apparent.

(b) Resolutions of Board of Directors; Stockholders' Meeting.—The procedure for decrease of capital stock, so far as relates to the resolution of the board of directors declaring the purpose, the resolution directing that the question be submitted to the stockholders, the notice of the stockholders' meeting and the conduct of the meeting, shall be the same as is prescribed by clauses (b), (c) and (d) of Section 32 of this Act, relating to increase of capital stock.

(Note:—This takes the place of Sections 3 and 4 of the Act of June 11, 1879, (P. L. 133; 1 Purd. 418) and Article III of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 423).)

(c) Certificate; Approval by Commissioner.—It shall be the duty of such bank, if consent is given to the proposed decrease, to file in the office of the Commissioner, within thirty days after the meeting of stockholders, the certificate of the chairman and secretary of said meeting, with a certified copy of the resolutions of the Board of Directors and proofs of notice to stockholders.

The Commissioner shall thereupon proceed to ascertain whether the provisions of the law have been complied with and shall also ascertain from the best sources of information at his command whether the interests of depositors or other creditors of such bank, or of the public, will be injuriously affected by the proposed decrease of capital stock. If he shall be satisfied upon said points, he shall endorse his approval on said certificate of the chairman and secretary and shall notify the bank thereof.

(Note:—The first paragraph is founded in part on Section 5 of the Act of 1879, (1 Purd. 418). The Commissioner is substituted for the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the provisions as to proofs of notice and approval by the Commissioner are new.

The second paragraph corresponds to clause (f) of Section 32 of this Code.)

(d) Notice of Approval by Commissioner; Return; Actual Decrease.—Upon notification by the Commissioner that such decrease has been approved by him, and upon the actual making of such decrease, it shall be the duty of the president and the cashier or treasurer of the bank, within thirty days thereafter, to make a return to the Commissioner, under oath, of the amount of such decrease; and in case of neglect or omission so to do, such decrease shall be void.

The Commissioner shall cause said return to be recorded in a book kept for that purpose and shall forthwith furnish a certified copy of the same to the Auditor-General; and thereupon, the directors of such bank shall alter and change the number or the par value of the shares of stock thereof, or both, to conform to the decrease and shall issue new certificates of stock representing the decreased number of shares or the decreased par value, or both, signed by the proper officers of the bank, and deliver the same to the shareholders entitled thereto, and on the surrender of their former stock certificates, which shall be cancelled by said officers, before the payment of any dividends declared thereon after such decrease.

(Note:—This takes the place of part of Section 5 of the Act of 1879 (1 Purd. 418), with some changes of wording and the substitution of the Commissioner for the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Section 2 of the Act of June 22, 1883 (P. L. 155; 1 Purd. 402), provides that when stock certificates have been issued subject to assessment for unpaid portions of the subscription price, the bank may decrease its capital to the amount paid in and issue new certificates, full paid non-assessable; but that no bank shall so decrease its capital to less than $200,000, nor any trust company or savings institution to less than $50,000. This cannot apply to banks incorporated under this Code, since their entire capital stock must be paid in before they are chartered; but its repeal should be so qualified as not to apply to banks in process of organization at the date of approval of the act.)

(e) Excess of Capital Created by Decrease of Stock.—Any excess of capital created by a decrease of the capital stock of a bank in accordance with the provisions of this section shall forthwith be transferred to the surplus fund of the bank, or, with the written approval of the Commissioner, may be returned to the stockholders in proportion to their holdings.

(f) Pending Proceedings.—Any proceeding for decrease of capital stock, begun under existing law prior to, and not completed at the date of approval of this act, shall be consummated under the provisions of the law existing prior to the approval of this Act.

(Note:—This conforms to clause (g) of Section 32 of this Code, relating to increase of capital stock.)

SEC. 34. Corporate Powers in General.—A bank organized under the provisions of this Act shall, from the date of the letters patent, issued as provided in Section 26 of this Act, be a body corporate; but it shall transact no business, except such as may be incidental to its organization, until the recording of its certificate of incorporation in the office of the recorder of deeds as provided in Section 27 of this Act.

It shall have power:

(a) To adopt a corporate seal and have succession by the name designated in its certificate of incorporation, perpetually or for the term limited in said certificate, from the date of the letters patent, unless dissolved as provided by law.

(b) To contract, sue and be sued, complain, prosecute and defend actions and suits as fully as a natural person; and process against such corporation shall be served in the same manner as process against corporations of this Commonwealth in general is or may be required by law to be served.

(c) To exercise under this Act the powers of a State bank, a trust company or a savings bank, as specified in the certificate of incorporation, but shall not carry on any kind of business not so specified.

(Note:—This section deals with the general powers common to all corporations under the act—what may be designated as “corporate powers” as distinguished from “banking powers”. The section is founded on the first part of Section 6 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400) and the first part of Section 6 of the Savings Bank Act of 1889 (1 Purd. 453). The wording has been changed, reference to the articles of association has been omitted, the method of service of process has been made uniform with that for other corporations, and those parts of the Act of 1876 as to powers of the directors and the place where business is to be transacted have been transferred to other sections.

The enumerations of the powers of banks as such in the Act of 1876 and of the powers of savings banks in the Act of 1889 are covered by Articles III and V of this Code.

The present section provides for either a perpetual or a limited charter and includes the general corporate powers of trust companies and savings banks as well as state banks. Clause (c), so far as it provides for the carrying on of the kind of business specified in the certificate of incorporation, is new.)

SEC. 35. Place of Business.—(a) In General.—No bank shall transact any banking or trust company business except at the place designated in its certification of incorporation and at such branch or branches as may lawfully be established in accordance with the provisions of Section 36 of this Act, unless such place of business shall be lawfully changed in the manner hereinafter set forth.

(Note:—This takes the place of the last part of Section 6 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400), which provides that the usual business of the bank shall be transacted at an office or banking house in the place specified in the certificate of association.)

(b) Change of Place of Business.—Any bank may, by resolution of its board of directors, remove the location of its principal place of business to any other place in the same city, borough or township, upon filing with the Commissioner a certified copy of such resolution and, if the bank was in existence before the approval of this Act, a certificate accepting the provisions of this Act and of the Constitution of the Commonwealth, as provided by Section 6 of this Act.

Any bank may, with the consent of the Commissioner, remove the location of its principal place of business to any other place within the same county, but outside the city, borough or township, by the vote of the holders of two-thirds of the stock of such bank at a meeting of stockholders called for the purpose, thirty days' notice of which meeting and of the purpose thereof shall be given to all stockholders. A certified copy of the minutes of such meeting, with proof of the notice thereof, and a certificate accepting the provisions of this Act and of the constitution of the Commonwealth as aforesaid, shall be filed with the Commissioner; and the change of location shall not be made until the Commissioner shall be satisfied that such change will serve the convenience and advantage of the public, that the density of the population in the neighborhood designated for the new place of business for such bank and in the surrounding country affords a reasonable promise of adequate support for the enterprise, and that the capital of the bank equals or exceeds the minimum capital required by law for the incorporation of a new bank located in the place to which the place of business is proposed to be removed, or until the Commissioner shall have issued his certificate of approval of such removal.

When any change of location of place of business of a bank is made under the provisions of this clause, the Commissioner shall forthwith notify the Auditor-General thereof.

(Note:—This clause is new. Section 10 of the Savings Bank Act (1 Purd. 454), authorizes changes of location within the limits of the city or town with the written approval of the Auditor-General, and permits the sale of the old property and the purchase of the new one.

The second paragraph is founded on Section 2 of the Act of Congress of May 1, 1886, relating to national banks, and covering change of name as well as change of place of business. The removal there provided for is to any place in the same state, not more than thirty miles distant.

Change of name is covered in this Code by the section relating to amendments of the charter in general.)

(c) Different Institutions Not to Occupy Same Room.—No two or more of the following corporations or persons, namely, a state bank, a trust company, a savings bank, a co-operative bank, an unincorporated bank, and a national bank, shall do business or be located in the same room or rooms, or in rooms so connected and arranged, as to be to all intents and purposes one banking room: Provided; That the provisions of this clause shall not apply to conditions of occupancy existing at the date of approval of this Act, but that when any material change shall be made in the arrangement of any existing banking room or rooms, of the materiality of which change the Commissioner shall be the sole and final judge, the provisions of this clause shall apply.

(Note:—This clause is new. It is recommended by the Commission for obvious reasons connected with examinations by the Department.)

SEC. 36. Branches. (a) Within the State.—With the approval of the Commissioner, whose decision in the matter shall be final, any bank may establish and maintain, in the county in which its principal place of business is located, one or more branches, at which all or any of the kinds of business which may be transacted by such bank at its principal place of business may be carried on; but no bank having capital stock shall be permitted to establish any such branch or branches unless its capital stock shall at least equal the total minimum capitals that would be required under this Act if it and its branch or branches were incorporated as separate banks, or, if the bank was in existence before the approval of this Act, until it shall have filed with the Commissioner a certificate accepting the provisions of this Act and of the constitution of the Commonwealth, as provided by Section 6 of this Act.

(Note:—This takes the place of the Act of July 28, 1917, (P. L. 1235), which permits sub-offices or sub-agencies for the purpose only of receiving and paying out monies, requires daily reports and daily transfer of assets to the main office, and does not permit branch offices for the transaction of the general business of the bank.

Section 50 of the act of 1850 (1 Purd. 446) prohibited the establishment or maintenance of any branch or agency and imposed as a penalty forfeiture of the charter of the bank and payment, during the period of continuance of any branch or agency, of four times the amount of all taxes chargeable to the bank in the current year.)

(b) Outside the State.—With the approval of the Commissioner, whose decision in the matter shall be final, any bank having a combined capital and surplus of one million dollars or more may establish and maintain a branch office or branch offices in one or more places located outside the state of Pennsylvania, either in the United States of America, any territory, possession or dependency thereof, or in any foreign country: Provided, That no such branch shall be established or maintained unless the bank, if in existence before the approval of this Act, shall have filed with the Commissioner a certificate accepting the provisions of this Act and of the constitution of the Commonwealth, as provided by Section 6 of this Act.

(Note:—This clause is new. Section 25 of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended by the Act of September 7, 1916, authorizes national banks, having a capital and surplus of one million dollars or more, to apply to the Federal Reserve Board for permission to establish branches in foreign countries or dependencies or insular possessions of the United States.)

(c) Penalty for Unauthorized Branches.—Any bank which shall establish or maintain a branch, either within or without the state of Pennsylvania, without the approval of the Commissioner, or in violation of the provisions of this section, shall be subject to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each day during which any such branch shall be open or occupied. Said penalty shall be payable to the Commissioner and, in case of failure or refusal of such bank to pay the same, the Commissioner may maintain an action at law for the recovery thereof.

(Note:—This clause is new. The Act of 1917 provides no penalty; and the penalty of the Act of 1850, set forth in the note to clause (a) of this section, is unduly severe.)

(d) Injunction.—In addition to the remedy provided by clause (c) of this section, a court of competent jurisdiction may, on bill filed by the Commissioner, issue an injunction restraining any bank from opening, operating or maintaining a branch without the approval of the Commissioner or in violation of the provisions of this section, and may make such other order or decree as equity and justice may require.

(Note:—This new clause provides a remedy which, in some instances, may be more effective than the penalty imposed by the preceding clause.)

SEC. 37. Officers. (a) In General.—Every bank shall, by its board of directors or trustees, elect annually a president, a vice-president or vice presidents, a cashier or treasurer, and such other officers as may be prescribed by the by-laws, and shall fix the compensation of all officers, whether members of the board or directors or trustees, or not, but not the compensation of the directors as such, and may dismiss any of such officers at pleasure and appoint others to fill vacancies caused by such dismissal or otherwise.

The officers shall exercise such powers and perform such duties as shall be prescribed by the by-laws.

(Note:—This takes the place of Section 6 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400), the provisions being extended to trust companies and savings banks. The word "annually" has been inserted and the provision of Section 6 as to bonds is covered in clause (d) of this section. The reference to the by-laws and the provision for appointments to fill vacancies other than those caused by dismissal are new.

Section 2 of the Act of May 7, 1855, (P. L. 508; 1 Purd. 425), authorizing directors to elect a vice-president and assistant cashier and confer certain powers upon them, with provision for ten days' notice in a newspaper of the election of such officers, is recommended for repeal, as are also Section 1 of the Act of April 13, 1859, (P. L. 613; 1 Purd. 425), relating to salary of vice-president, and Section 15 of the Act of May 29, 1851, (P. L. 295; 1 Purd. 425), amended by the Act of May 6, 1854, (P. L. 595; 1 Purd. 425 n.) so far as it relates to the election of cashiers and solicitors in Philadelphia.)

(b) Eligibility of Cashier, Treasurer or Assistants; Restrictions on Engaging in Other Business.—No judge of any court of record nor any person holding any office under this Commonwealth in the Banking Department, the Treasury Department or the Auditor-General's Department, nor any person authorized to receive and account for the public moneys of this Commonwealth, nor the treasurer of any county, city, or other municipal sub-division of this Commonwealth, shall be eligible, at the same time, as cashier or treasurer of any bank.

No cashier, or assistant cashier, or treasurer, or assistant treasurer of any bank shall, without the consent of a majority of the board of directors of said bank duly evidenced by resolution recorded upon the minutes, engage in any other profession, business, occupation or calling, either directly or indirectly, than that of the duties appertaining to his office.

If such cashier, or assistant cashier, or treasurer or assistant treasurer shall, directly or indirectly, engage in any other profession, business, occupation or calling than that of his duties as cashier or assistant cashier or treasurer or assistant treasurer without such consent, or shall, directly or indirectly, engage in purchasing or selling on margin stocks or other securities or commodities, he shall forfeit his office and shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, upon conviction whereof he shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars.

(Note:—The first paragraph is a revision of Section 3 of the Act of January 27, 1819, (7 Sm. L. 148; 1 Purd. 422), as amended by Section 2 of the Act of April 18, 1855, (P. L. 258; 1 Purd. 423). The Act of 1819 relates to directors as well as cashiers and the Act of 1855 permits justices of the peace to be directors. The new wording as to the state departments is submitted for "the accounting or treasury department or in the land offices," and the provisions as to treasurers of counties, etc., is new.

The clause is extended to trust companies and savings banks. Section 4 of the Act of April 22, 1854, (P. L. 468; 1 Purd. 451), provides that all general laws relating to cashiers of banks shall apply to the cashiers or treasurers of savings institutions.

The second and third paragraphs are founded on part of Section 18 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 404), part of Article V of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 424), as amended by the Acts of April 18, 1855, (P. L. 258; 1 Purd. 425), May 7, 1855, (P. L. 508; 1 Purd. 425) and April 18, 1856, (P. L. 403; 1 Purd. 425 n.), and Section 64 of the Act of March 31, 1860 (P. L. 382). The provisions as to assistants and consent of directors are new, and the exceptions as to management of the officers' own property are omitted. The provision as to dealing in stocks, etc., on margin has been substituted for "engage in the purchase of stocks."

In the recent case of Solomon vs. Moyer, 71 Pa. Superior Court 4, it is held that the Act of 1860 refers to a general occupation by which one usually gets his living, and not to a single transaction.)

(c) Oaths.—Every officer of a bank elected by the stockholders or by the board of directors or trustees shall, within thirty days after his election and before assuming the duties of his new office, take an oath or affirmation that he will give the business of the bank his care and attention and, so far as the duty devolves on him, diligently and honestly administer the affairs of the bank, and faithfully perform the duties of his office in accordance with the law, so long as he continues therein; that he will never use the moneys of the bank in his private transactions nor engage in private financial operations through his official position; that he will render true accounts of all his transactions; and that he will not knowingly violate or willingly permit to be violated any of the provisions of law applicable to such bank.

Such oath or affirmation shall be subscribed by the officer making it and immediately transmitted to the Commissioner, by whom it shall be filed.

(Note:—This is derived from Section 15 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 425), Section 18 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 404), relating to the agreement to be entered into by an officer with the bank, and the Act of June 3, 1911 (P. L. 652; 7 Purd. 7698), relating to the oath of directors.)

(d) Bonds.—The officers and employees of every bank, before entering upon the performance of their duties, shall furnish bonds to the bank in such amount as the board of directors shall require, with surety approved by the board of directors, conditioned for the faithful performance of their duties.

The Commissioner shall have power at any time to require any such officer or employe, during the term of his office or employment, to furnish a bond in a greater amount than that required by the board of directors, or with new or additional sureties.

(Note:—This clause takes the place of Section 18 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 404) and Article V of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd 424), as amended, relating to state banks, and Section 14 of the Savings Bank Act of 1889 (1 Purd. 455).)

The provisions of the Act of 1876 as to articles of agreement are covered in part by clause (c) of this section and the provisions as to approval of bonds by the court and recording in the office of recorder of deeds are omitted. The provisions as to the Commissioner of Banking are new.)

SEC. 38. Directors. (a) Term of Office; Qualifications.—The affairs of every state bank and trust company shall be managed by not less than five directors, who shall be elected by the stockholders for such term, not exceeding three years, as shall be provided by the by-laws; and such state bank or trust company may provide in its by-laws for the division of its board into two or three classes, and the election thereof at its annual meetings in such manner that the members of one class only shall retire, and their successors be chosen, each year.

One of the directors shall be the president and another the vice-president or one of the vice-presidents.

Every director shall, during his term of service, be a citizen of the United States; and two-thirds of the directors shall, during their term of service, be bona fide residents of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Every director shall own, in his own right unpledged shares of the capital stock of the corporation having a par value of not less than five hundred dollars; and every person elected as a director, who, after such election, shall hypothecate, pledge, or cease to be the owner in his own right of the amount of stock aforesaid shall forthwith cease to be a director of the corporation and his office shall be vacant and he shall not be eligible for re-election as a director for a period of one year from the date of the next succeeding annual meeting.

(Note:—The provisions that directors shall be elected is derived from Section 6 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400), the classification provision being new. The remainder of the clause is founded on part of Section 12 of that act (1 Purd. 403), amended by the Act of July 19, 1917, (P. L. 1101), which provides that no cashier, clerk or teller shall be eligible as a director and requires a director to own at least ten shares of the stock.

The provision vacating the office in case a director pledges his stock, etc., is new.

Section 15 of the Act of March 29, 1851, (P. L. 295; 1 Purd. 425), amended by the Act of May 6, 1854, (P. L. 595; 1 Purd. 425 n.), relating to Philadelphia only, requires that one elected as a director shall have been a stockholder for three months.

Section 1 of the Act of April 17, 1861, (P. L. 342; 1 Purd. 422), permits the stockholders to fix the number of directors at not less than five nor more than thirteen and provides that when the number is seven or less a majority shall be necessary to constitute a quorum. This may well be left to regulation by the by-laws.

Section 8 of the Act of April 18, 1843, (P. L. 311; 1 Purd. 423) provides that directors shall be eligible for only three years out of any four, except that the president shall always be eligible, and provides for removal and fine in quo warranto proceedings by any stockholder.)

(b) Powers of Board.—The board of directors shall have power, in any manner not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act or with the by-laws, to designate and regulate the manner in which the stock shall be transferred, directors and officers elected or appointed, the property of the bank transferred, and the general business conducted; and all the privileges granted by this act to any bank shall be exercised and enjoyed by the board of directors, except as herein otherwise provided.

(Note:—This is derived from the last part of Section 6 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 400), with the addition of the provisions as to inconsistency with this act or with the by-laws, and the phrase "except as herein otherwise provided.")

(c) Time and Notice of Elections.—The directors of any bank, first elected, shall hold office until their successors shall be elected and qualified.

All subsequent elections of directors shall be held annually at the principal place of business of the bank, in the month of January in each year. Notice of the time and place of holding the annual stockholders' meeting for the election of directors and for action upon such other matters as may be brought before such meeting shall be given, in writing, to the stockholders at least two weeks prior to the date of such meeting.

The directors elected at such meeting shall hold office for such term as is provided by the by-laws and until their successors shall be elected and qualified.

Note:—This takes the place of the first part of Section 13 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 403), which provides for election on such days as may be specified in the articles of association. The method of serving notice of the annual meeting is covered by Section 9 of this act, advertising being thus eliminated and notice by personal service or registered mail substituted.

The last part of Section 13 of the Act of 1876, providing for advertisement when the election is not held at the time appointed and for fixing the date of election in the by-laws or by vote of the stockholders, is recommended for repeal as unnecessary.)

(d) Filling Vacancies in Board.—Any vacancy in the board of directors, caused by the death, resignation or disqualification of any director, shall be filled by election by a majority of the whole board, and any director so elected shall hold office until the next annual election.

(Note:—This takes the place of so much of Section 13 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 403) as provides for the filling of vacancies.)

(e) Votes at Elections.—In all elections for directors, each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote on each share held by him, and each ballot shall have endorsed thereon the number of shares thereby represented.

No share or shares transferred within thirty days prior to any election for directors shall entitle the holder or holders thereof to vote at such election.

Each stockholder shall be entitled to as many votes as shall equal the number of his shares of stock multiplied by the number of directors to be elected, and may cast all of such votes for a single director or may distribute them among the number to be voted for, or any two or more of them, as he may see fit, which right, when exercised, shall be termed cumulative voting.

Stockholders may vote by proxy, but no proxy shall be received or entitle the holder to vote, unless the same shall bear date and have been executed within two months next preceding the meeting at which such proxy is offered.

(Note:—This takes the place of Section 14 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 403), omitting the provisions that "no shareholder whose liability is past due shall be allowed to vote." The clause is derived in part from Section 4 of the Act of June 11, 1879, (P. L. 133; 1 Purd. 418), relating to decrease of capital stock. The period for transfer has been changed from sixty to thirty days and the limitation of proxies from three months to two months. The provision as to cumulative voting has been made more definite.

The provisions of Article V of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 424), making it unlawful for the president, cashier, teller or clerk of a bank to act as a proxy is not re-enacted.

The Commissioners recommend for repeal Article IV of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 424), providing that stock may not be voted unless held for three months before the election or unless held by the person in whose name it appears absolutely and bona fide, etc., that only females may vote by proxy, etc.; and Section 2 of the Act of April 17, 1861, (P. L. 342; 1 Purd. 423), providing that stockholders shall have one vote per share up to ten shares, one vote for two shares from ten to twenty, one vote for five shares from twenty to one hundred, and one vote for ten shares above one hundred.)

(f) Conduct of Election.—Every election for directors shall be conducted by three judges, not directors of the bank, appointed by the board of directors to hold said election, and if one or more of said judges be absent, the judge or judges present shall appoint a person or persons to fill the vacancy or vacancies. The said judges shall respectively take and subscribe an oath or affirmation, before any officer authorized by law to administer the same, well and truly and according to law to conduct such election to the best of their ability.

The bank shall furnish to such judges the stock ledger or a statement of the amount of its capital stock, with the names of the holders thereof and the numbers of shares held by each respectively, which statement shall be signed by the president, cashier or treasurer of the bank, with an affidavit thereto annexed that the same is true and correct to the best of his knowledge and belief.

Such judges shall decide upon the qualifications of voters, and when the election is closed shall determine whether the persons who shall have the greatest number of votes are qualified to be elected directors, and shall decide and declare who are elected directors.

(Note:—This follows in general the provisions of clause (b) of Section 2 of the act of February 9, 1901, (P. L. 1; 1 Purd. 809), relating to increase of capital stock by corporations.)

(g) Eligibility of Directors.—No judges of any court of record, nor any person holding an office under this Commonwealth in the Banking Department, the Treasury Department or the Auditor-General's Department, nor any person authorized to receive and account for the public moneys of this Commonwealth, nor the treasurer of any county, city, or other municipal subdivision of this Commonwealth, shall be eligible, at the same time, as a director of any bank.

(Note:—This is derived from Section 3 of the Act of January 27, 1819, (7 Sm. L. 148; 1 Purd. 422), which applies to cashiers as well as directors. See the note under clause (b) of Section 37 of this act.)

(h) Oaths.—Each director shall, within thirty days after his election, and before assuming the duties of his office, take an oath or affirmation that he will, so far as the duty devolves on him, diligently and honestly administer the affairs of the bank, and will not knowingly or willingly permit to be violated any of the provisions of law applicable to the bank; that he is the owner, in good faith and in his own right, of shares of the capital stock of the bank of a par value of at least five hundred dollars, subscribed by him or standing in his name on the books of the bank, and that said stock is not hypothecated or in any way pledged as security for any loan or debt; and, in case of re-election, that such stock was not hypothecated or in any way pledged as security for any loan or debt during his previous term.

Such oath or affirmation shall be subscribed by the director making it and immediately transmitted to the Commissioner, by whom it shall be filed.

(Note:—This is derived from Section 15 of the Act of 1850, (1 Purd. 425) and the Act of June 3, 1911, (P. L. 653; 7 Purd. 7698), with the addition of the thirty day limitation and the provision as to re-election.)

(i) Meetings of Board; Committees.—Within fifteen days after the annual meeting of stockholders, the directors duly qualified shall hold a meeting at which they shall organize and elect such officers as are provided for by the by-laws.

The directors of every bank shall hold a regular meeting at least once each month. They may, by resolution duly adopted, delegate to a committee or committees of their number the powers of the board in regard to the ordinary operations of the business of the bank between the dates of the monthly meetings. All such committees shall keep full minutes of all business transacted by them and shall make full reports of all such transactions at each monthly meeting of the board.

Full reports of all transactions of the bank shall also be rendered by the officers of the bank to the board of directors, as and when the same may be required by the board.

(Note:—This new clause is intended to take the place of Article VII of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 426). The matter of quorum is left to be regulated by the by-laws.)

(j) Records.—The books, papers and correspondence, and the funds of every bank shall at all times be subject to the inspection of the directors.

The board of directors shall keep fair and regular entries of their proceedings, in a book provided for that purpose; and on any question, when a director shall require it, the yeas and nays shall be inserted on their minutes, which minutes shall, on demand, be produced to the stockholders, at any general meeting, on request of the holders of a majority of the stock represented at the meeting, and shall be subject, also, together with the other books and papers, to the inspection of the Commissioner.

(Note:—Except for the substitution of the Commissioner instead of committee of the Legislature, a change from two directors to one in requiring the yeas and nays, and the requirements of a majority vote of stockholders, this is a re-enactment of Section 20 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 405), which is substantially the same as Article XV of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 426).)

(k) Examinations and Reports by Board.—The board of directors of every bank shall, at least, once in each year, make or cause to be made by at least three of its members or by accountants employed for the purpose, a full examination of the books, papers and affairs of the bank, and the loans and discounts thereof, and particularly the loans and discounts made directly or indirectly to its officers or directors, or for their benefit, or for the benefit of other corporations, partnerships or unincorporated associations of which any officers or directors of the bank are also officers, directors, or members or stockholders having an interest equal to ten per cent. of the capital thereof, or in which they have a beneficial interest as creditors or otherwise, with the special duty of ascertaining the safety and present value of the loans and discounts of the bank and the value of the collateral security, if any, held in connection therewith, and into such other matters as the Commissioner may require. The board of directors shall have power to employ such assistance in making such examinations as they may deem necessary.

As soon as any such examinations is completed, a full, written report thereof, signed by the directors or other persons making the same, shall be placed on file in the bank.

(Note:—The clause makes compulsory in all banks a practice which is generally followed in well-managed institutions.)

(l) Compensation.—Any bank, by vote of the holders of a majority of the stock represented at any annual meeting, or by provision in its by-laws, may allow and pay to its directors compensation for their services as such.

(Note:—This is in line with the Act of May 17, 1917, (P. L. 228), relating to corporations in general.

Article VI of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 425), provides: "No director, except the president, shall be entitled to any emolument unless the same shall have been allowed by the stockholders at a general meeting.")

(m) List of Stockholders.—The directors of every bank shall cause to be kept, at all times, at the principal place of business of the bank, a full and correct list of the names and residences of the stockholders and the number of shares held by each.

A copy of such list, verified by the president and the cashier or treasurer of the bank, shall at any time be furnished to the Commissioner on demand.

(Note:—This is Section 15 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 403), with the following changes: The section is extended to all banks; the provision that the list shall be subject to inspection of shareholders, creditors and officers authorized to assess taxes is omitted as unnecessary with regard to stockholders and tax officers, and undesirable as to creditors; and the requirement as to furnishing a list to the Commissioner is substituted for a provision that a copy shall be sent to the Auditor-General on the first Monday of June of each year.)

(n) Statement at Annual Meeting.—At each annual meeting of the stockholders of any bank, the directors shall lay before them a general and particular statement of the affairs of the bank: Provided, That this shall not be so construed as to compel the directors to lay before the stockholders a statement of any private account.

(Note:—This is derived from Article 1X of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 427), which also provides that a general meeting of the stockholders shall be held on the first Tuesday of November in each year.)

(o) Communications from Banking Department.—Every official communication directed by the Commissioner or by one of his deputies to a bank or to any officer thereof, shall be submitted by the officer receiving it to the Board of Directors at the next meeting of such board, and shall be duly noted in the minutes of such meeting.

(Note:— This clause is new.)

SEC. 39. Meetings of Stockholders.—(a) Annual Meetings. The annual meeting of banks shall be held at the times, upon the notice and in the manner and form provided in section 38 of this Act. (b) Special Meetings. The board of directors of any bank, or any twenty stockholders thereof, being together the owners of one-twentieth part of the capital stock, or the holders of a majority of the capital stock, may at any time call a meeting of the stockholders for any purpose relative to the business of the bank, giving at least four weeks' written notice, specifying the time, place and object or objects of such meeting.

(Note:—This is derived from Article VIII of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 427). The method or service of notice is covered by Section 9 of this act, advertising being thus eliminated and notice by personal service or registered mail being substituted.)

(c) Stock Votes.—Whenever, at any meeting of stockholders of a bank, a stock vote shall be taken on any question, the same shall be controlled by the provisions of clauses (e) and (f) of Section 38 of this Act, relating to elections of directors, so far as applicable.

(Note:—This new clause is framed so as to avoid repetition of the provisions of Section 38, clauses (e) and (f), relating to votes, proxies, judges of election, etc.)

SEC. 40. Amendment of Charter. (a) Procedure.—When any bank shall desire to amend or alter its charter or articles of association, otherwise than by changing the location of its place of business or increasing or decreasing the capital stock, such bank shall proceed in the following manner:

After the adoption of a resolution authorizing such application by a majority of the board of directors, ratified by a vote of a majority of the stockholders at a regular meeting or at a special meeting called for the purpose, or the adoption of such resolution by a majority of the trustees or managers, where there are no stockholders, the bank shall give notice of the intention to apply for such amendment by publication once a week for three weeks in two newspapers, setting forth briefly the character and objects of the desired amendment or amendments.

The bank shall prepare duplicate certificates, under its corporate seal, setting forth the character and objects of the desired amendment or amendments, acknowledged by the president and the cashier or treasurer of the bank before any person authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds in this state, which certificates, together with proof of publication of notice as aforesaid, shall then be produced to the Commissioner. and there shall be paid to him by the corporation a fee of fifty dollars. The Commissioner shall thereupon examine said certificate and said proof of publication, and if he shall find them to be in proper form, and that such amendment or amendments will be lawful and beneficial and not injurious to the community, and in accord with the purposes of the charter or articles of association, he shall approve thereof and endorse his approval thereon, and transmit the same to the Governor.

The Governor, if he shall approve the same, shall endorse his approval on both of said certificates, with the date of the letters patent, and shall cause letters patent, under the great seal of the Commonwealth, reciting said amendment or amendments, to be issued to the bank. The Governor shall thereupon forthwith transmit one of said certificates to the recorder of deeds in and for the county where the principal place of business of the bank is located and shall return the other certificate to the Commissioner, who shall file and preserve the same in his office and shall forthwith transmit to the Auditor-General a certified copy thereof.

On receipt by said recorder of deeds of the certificate of amendment and on payment to him of his fees as provided by law in similar cases, he shall forthwith record said certificate and index the same in the same book and in the same manner as charters of banks are by law required to be recorded and indexed, and shall also note upon the margin of the record of the charter of such bank, if the same be recorded, a reference to his book and page where such certificate of amendment is recorded. When said certificate has been so recorded, the same shall be deemed and taken to be a part of the charter articles of association of the bank, to all intents and purposes, as if the same had originally been made a part thereof.

(Note:—This is modeled to some extent on the Act of June 13, 1883, (P. L. 122; 1 Purd. 782), relating to amendment of charters of corporations of the second class. The Commissioner has been substituted for the Secretary of the Commonwealth and his approval made necessary. Resolutions of the board of directors and of the stockholders, or of the trustees or managers, are provided for and other changes have been made to bring the clause into conformity with the provisions of this Code relating to incorporation. The provisions as to noting an amendment on the margin of the record of the charter is new.)

(b) Method Exclusive: Acceptance of Act and Constitution.—No bank shall be permitted to amend or alter its charter or articles of association, otherwise than by changing the location of its place of business or increasing or decreasing the capital stock, except in the manner provided by clause (a) of this section; and no such amendment or alteration shall be approved by the Commissioner until the bank shall have filed with him a certificate accepting the provisions of this Act and of the constitution of the Commonwealth, as provided by Section 6 of this Act.

(Note:—This clause is new. The exception of amendments changing location or increasing or decreasing capital stock is made because those subjects are covered by other sections of this code.

In this connection, it is recommended that the Act of April 22, 1903, (P. L. 251; 1 Purd. 784), relating to change of corporate name, be repealed so far as it relates to banks.)

SEC. 41. Merger and Consolidation. (a) Authority to Merge or Consolidate.—Any state bank or trust company incorporated under this Act or accepting the provisions thereof may merge its corporate rights, franchises, powers and privileges, with and into those of any other state bank or trust company so incorporated or accepting, so that by virtue of this Act any two or more state banks, any two or more trust companies, or any state bank or state banks and any trust company or trust companies may consolidate and so that all the property, rights, franchises and privileges then by law vested in either or any of such corporations so merged shall be transferred to and vested in the corporation into which such merger shall be made.

(Note:—Except for the provisions of clauses (c) and (f), which are new, this section is founded on the Act of April 18, 1919, (P. L. 84), relating to electric light, heat and power companies. The Act of 1919 follows the provisions of the general Act of May 3, 1900, (P. L. 408), as amended by the Act of April 29, 1915, (P. L. 205).

The Act of May 28, 1913, (P. L. 357) relates to the bonus to be paid when a trust company is merged with another trust company, a bank, or a savings institution, but contains the following proviso: "That nothing contained in this act shall be construed to authorize the merger of trust companies with banks, banking companies or savings institutions.")

(b) Agreement of Merger and Consolidation.—Said merger or consolidation shall be made under the conditions, provisions and restrictions, and with the powers, herein set forth, namely:

1. The directors of each corporation may enter into a joint agreement, under the corporate seal of each corporation, for the merger and consolidation of said corporations, prescribing the terms and conditions thereof, the mode of carrying the same into effect, the name of the new corporation, the number and names of the directors and other officers thereof and who shall be the first directors and officers and their places of residence, the number of shares of capital stock, the amount of par value of each share and the manner of converting the capital stock of each of said corporations into the stock of the new corporation, and how and when directors and officers shall be chosen, with such other details as they shall deem necessary to perfect the said consolidation and merger; but said agreement shall not be effective until the same shall be approved by the stockholders of each corporation in the manner hereinafter provided.

2. Said agreement shall be submitted to the stockholders of each of said corporations, at separate special meetings, of the time, place and object of which respective meetings due notice shall be given by publication in at least one newspaper once a week for two successive weeks before said respective meetings, and by registered mail, return receipt requested. At said meetings the said agreement shall be considered and a vote of the stockholders on the question of adoption or rejection of said agreement shall be taken by ballot in the manner provided by Section 38, clauses (e) and (f), of this Act. If a majority in amount of the entire capital stock of each of said corporations shall vote in favor of said agreement, then that fact shall be certified by the cashier or treasurer of each corporation, under the seal thereof, and said certificates, together with said agreement or a copy thereof, shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner.

(c) Examination by Commissioner; Approval or Disapproval.—Upon the filing of said certificates and agreement or copy of agreement as aforesaid, and upon the payment to the Commissioner of a fee of one hundred dollars, the Commissioner shall cause to be made an examination of each corporation to determine whether the interests of the depositors, creditors and stockholders thereof are protected, whether such consolidation and merger is made for legitimate purposes, and whether the name of the proposed new corporation is such as to mislead the public as to its character or purpose, or is the same as one already adopted by an existing corporation subject to the supervision of the Banking Department, or by its similarity is likely to mislead the public, and his consent to or disapproval of such consolidation and merger shall be based upon such examination. No such consolidation or merger shall be made without the approval of the Commissioner; and if his approval be refused, an appeal may be taken therefrom in the same manner as is provided in Section 25 of this Act.

(d) Issuance of Letters Patent; Recording of Certificate.—If the Commissioner shall approve such consolidation and merger, he shall forthwith notify each of the merging corporations thereof and transmit to the Governor a copy of the agreement of merger and consolidation with his approval certified thereon. Upon the filing by each of the merging corporations with the Secretary of the Commonwealth of a certificate from the Auditor-General setting forth that all reports required by the Auditor-General have been duly filed and all taxes due the Commonwealth have been paid by each of said corporations, and upon the payment to the State Treasurer of a bonus of one-third of one percentum on all the capital stock of the consolidated corporation in excess of the amount of the capital stock of the constituent corporations upon which the bonus required by law has been theretofore paid, the Governor, if he shall approve, shall issue to the consolidated corporation new letters patent and shall transmit to the recorder of deeds of the county or counties where said corporations have their principal places of business the certificate of approval of the Commissioner, endorsed with the date of the letters patent, which certificate shall be recorded and indexed by said recorder or recorders in the manner provided by Section 27 of this Act for the recording and indexing of certificates of incorporation.

(e) Effect of Merger in General.—When said certificate shall have been recorded as provided in clause (d) of this section, the merger shall be deemed to have taken place and the merging corporations to be one corporation under the name adopted in and by said agreement, possessing all rights, privileges and franchises theretofore vested in each of them; and all the estate and property, real and personal, of each of said corporations shall be deemed and taken to be transferred to and vested in the said new corporation without any further act or deed: Provided, That all rights of creditors and all liens upon the property of each of said corporations shall continue unimpaired, and all debts, duties and liabilities of each of said constituents corporations shall thenceforth attach to said new corporation and may be enforced against it to the same extent and by the same process as if said debts, duties and liabilities had been contracted by it.

(f) Effect of Merger on Trusts.—Whenever a trust company or a state bank possessed of trust company powers shall merge or consolidate with another trust company or state bank under the provisions of this section, all the estate and property, real and personal, held by either of such merging corporations in any trust or fiduciary capacity, shall be deemed and taken to be transferred to and vested in the consolidated corporation, without any further act or deed or any order or decree of any court or other tribunal, and the consolidated corporation shall have and hold the same as fully as the same was possessed and held by the corporations from which it was, by operation of the provisions of this clause, transferred, and said consolidated corporation shall succeed to all the relations, obligations and liabilities, and shall execute and perform all the trusts and duties devolving upon it, in the same manner as though it had itself assumed the relation or trust: Provided, That if, within thirty days after notice to any person or corporation interested in any such trust of the consolidation and merger, such person or corporation shall file a written objection with said consolidated corporation, and shall apply to the proper court or other tribunal having jurisdiction of such trust estate for the appointment of a substituted trustee or other fiduciary, such court or tribunal shall have power to make the appointment of a substituted trustee or other fiduciary and to order said consolidated corporation forthwith to file an account of such trust estate and to pay over and transfer the assets and property thereof to the substituted trustee or fiduciary so appointed.

(Note:—This new clause covers the merger of trust companies or banks having trust company powers and makes it optional with the beneficiaries in trust estates to obtain the appointment of new fiduciaries should they object to the consolidated company's continuing to act.)

(g) Dissenting Stockholders.—If any stockholder of a corporation which shall become a party to an agreement of merger and consolidation as provided in this section shall be dissatisfied with or object to such merger and consolidation and shall not have voted in favor of the same at the stockholders' meeting, it shall be lawful for such stockholder, within thirty days after the adoption of said agreement by the stockholders as herein provided, to give written notice to the president, cashier or treasurer of the corporation of his desire to surrender his stock upon receiving the value thereof as of the date of said stockholders' meeting; and he shall thereupon be entitled to receive from the corporation the amount of such value, to be ascertained, if it cannot be agreed upon, by an appraisal made by three persons, one to be selected by such stockholder, one by the board of directors, and the third by the first two. In case the value so fixed shall not be satisfactory to such stockholders or to the board of directors, the dissatisfied party may, within sixty days ensuing after notice to such stockholder of the value so fixed, apply to the court by petition to appoint an assessor or assessors to make a re-appraisal, which, when confirmed by the court, shall be final and binding. In case such application is made to the court, all expenses and costs of the appraisals and of the application shall be paid by the unsuccessful party.

(Note:—The method of ascertaining the value of stock of a dissenting stockholder is substituted for the provisions of the Act of 1919 as to appointment of assessors by the Court of Common Pleas in the first instance.)

SEC. 42. Alteration or Revocation of Charter.—The legislature reserves the power to alter, revoke, or annul the charter of any bank organized under this act or accepting its provisions, whenever, in the opinion of the legislature, it may be necessary for the public welfare, in such a manner, however, that no injustice shall be done to its stockholders.

(Note:—This covers the provisions of Section 31 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 406) and Section 53 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 417).)

SEC. 43. Voluntary Dissolution.—Any bank having capital stock may be dissolved and go into liquidation in the following manner.

(a) Call of Stockholders' Meeting.—The board of directors, or any twenty stockholders of the bank, being together the owners of one-twentieth part of the capital stock, or the holders of a majority of the capital stock may at any time call a meeting of the stockholders for the purpose of inquiring into the expediency of dissolving the corporation and liquidating and winding up its affairs, giving at least thirty days written notice by registered mail, return receipt requested, to all stockholders, specifying the time, place and object of such meeting. Proof by affidavit or return registry receipts of due service of such notice shall be filed in the office of the bank before or at the time of such meeting.

(Note:—This and the two following clauses take the place of Section 25 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 406), Section 29 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 441), and the Act of April 1, 1822, (7 sm. L. 541; 1 Purd. 441).)

(b) Vote of Stockholders; Certificate and Advertisement.—At such meeting, the stockholders shall vote upon the question whether or not the corporation shall be dissolved, the bank closed and the business wound up. The meeting shall be conducted and the vote taken in the manner provided by clauses (e) and (f) of Section 8 of this Act, relating to election of directors, so far as applicable.

If the owners of at least two-thirds in amount of the entire capital stock shall vote in the affirmative on such question, it shall be the duty of the board of directors to cause a copy of the minutes of such meeting, verified by the chairman and secretary of the meeting, together with a certified copy of the resolution of the board of directors calling such meeting or of the call issued by stockholders, as the case may be, forthwith to be filed with the Commissioner, and to cause notice thereof to be served upon all depositors and other creditors of the bank so far as known to the board of directors, and to be advertised in a newspaper once a week for four successive weeks, calling upon such depositors and other creditors to present their claims for payment.

(c) Certificate of Dissolution; Distribution of Assets.—Upon the completion of such advertising and the presentation to the Commissioner of satisfactory proofs of publication, the Commissioner shall forthwith issue to the bank a certificate of dissolution, whereupon the bank shall cease to do business and the board of directors then in office shall thenceforth act as liquidating trustees of the bank, and shall proceed to collect all its assets and distribute the same in accordance with the provisions of Section 45 of this Act: Provided, that no distribution among stockholders shall be made until the liquidating trustees shall have produced to the Commissioner satisfactory proof that all debts of the bank have been paid, and the Commissioner shall have made an order authorizing distribution among stockholders.

SEC. 44. Dissolution on Expiration or Forfeiture of Charter.—Whenever the charter of a bank shall expire by limitation or shall be forfeited, the affairs of such bank, unless the case be one in which the Commissioner shall be authorized to take possession under the provisions of the law, shall be liquidated. If the bank be one having capital stock, in accordance with Section 43 of this Act, or, in the case of a savings bank having no capital stock, in accordance with Section 74 of this Act.

(Note:—This takes the place of Sections 1, 2, 3, 6 and 7 of the Act of April 1, 1822, (7 Sm. L. 641; 1 Purd. 441-2), which provides for the election of liquidating trustees by the stockholders.)

SEC. 45. Distribution of Assets.—In case of any distribution of the money, funds, property or other assets, whatsoever, of any bank, in the course of its liquidation, whether voluntary or involuntary, distribution shall (subject to the provisions of Section 68, clauses (f) and (h) of this Act as to title insurance reserve) be made and preferred in the following order, namely:

First. To the payment of all depositors, whether the deposits be subject to immediate check or only payable after specified notice, or at the expiration of a fixed period, whether or not such notice has been given such period has expired at the time of such distribution. Bona fide holders value of certified checks on such bank, or of certificates of deposit issued by it, or of its checks or drafts given in exchange for or in payment of checks or drafts of its depositors drawn on it, not exceeding the balance to the credit of the depositor, shall also be treated and considered as depositors within the meaning of this section. Bona fide holders of outstanding checks drawn by depositors on such bank and not certified shall be subrogated to the rights of the depositors whose checks they hold, but only to the extent of the balances to the credit of such depositors.

Second. To the payment and discharge of all remaining liabilities of such bank.

Third. The residue, if any, shall be distributed to the shareholders of the bank according to their respective legal rights.

Provided, however, that where trust moneys and property are held by the bank, they shall be kept separate as provided by law, and distributed to the beneficiaries accordingly.

(Note:—This is founded on Section 1 of the Act of May 8, 1907, (P. L. 192), as amended by the Act of May 23, 1913, (P. L. 354; 7 Purd. 7697), relating to trust companies, and supplies Section p8 of the State Bank Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 407).)

The new provision as to holders of uncertified checks has been inserted because such holders are fairly entitled to the same priority as the depositors on whose accounts the checks have been drawn.

ARTICLE III.—STATE BANKS: BANKING POWERS, LIMITATIONS AND REGULATIONS IN GENERAL.

SECTION 46. Powers of State Banks.—Every state bank incorporated under the provisions of this Act or accepting its provisions as provided by Section 6 of this Act, shall, in addition to the general corporate powers enumerated in Section 34 of this Act, have the following powers, to wit:

(a) Deposits.—To receive money on deposits and to allow interest thereon.

(b) Borrowing Money.—To rediscount, to borrow money, bonds or other securities, and to pledge collateral therefor.

(c) Lending Money.—To lend money on the security of real or personal property.

(d) Dealing in Commercial Paper and Evidences of Debt.—To discount, buy, sell, negotiate and assign promissory notes, drafts, bills of exchange, trade and bank acceptances, bonds, and other evidences of debt.

(e) Exchange.—To buy and sell exchange, coin and bullion.

(f) Interest on Loans.—To charge interest for the loan or use of money at a rate not exceeding the legal rate now or hereafter fixed by the laws of this Commonwealth, and to receive and retain in advance the interest on loans and discounts made.

(g) Purchasing and Holding Real Estate.—To purchase, hold and convey real estate as follows:

1. Such as shall be necessary for its present or prospective accommodation in the transaction of its business.

2. Such as shall be mortgaged to it in good faith as security for debts or conveyed to it in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of its business.

3. Such as it shall purchase at sales under judgments, decrees or mortgages held by it, or shall purchase to secure debts due to it.

(h) Improving and Leasing Real Estate.—To improve any real estate held by it for its accommodation in the transaction of its business by erecting a building or buildings or by renewing or replacing any building or buildings thereon with a new or additional structure; to use such portion thereof for the transaction of its business as may be suitable and convenient for that purpose; and to lease and let, from time to time, such portion and apartments of such building or buildings as it may not require for its business and to receive rents for the use thereof.

(i) Sale of Property; Dealings with Collateral.—To sell and dispose of real or personal property owned by it; and to purchase, collect, adjust and dispose of any property held as security for obligations due to it.

(j) Acceptances and Letters of Credit.—To accept for payment at a future date drafts drawn upon it and to issue letters of credit authorizing the holders thereof to draw drafts upon it or its correspondents.

(k) Membership in Federal Reserve Bank.—To become a member of a Federal Reserve Bank as created and established by the Act of Congress approved December 23, 1913, entitled the "Federal Reserve Act," and its supplements and for that purpose to purchase and hold so much of the capital stock of such Federal Reserve Bank as will qualify it for such membership. Any bank which shall become a member of a Federal Reserve Bank shall have and exercise all powers, not in conflict with the laws of this Commonwealth, which are conferred upon any such member bank by the "Federal Reserve Act" and its supplements; but such bank and its officers, directors and stockholders shall continue to be subject, nevertheless, to all liabilities and duties imposed upon them by this Act or by any law of this Commonwealth.

(l) Safe Deposit Business.—To receive, upon terms and conditions to be prescribed by it, upon deposit for safe keeping, bonds, mortgages, jewelry, plate, stocks, securities and valuable papers of any kind, and to let out receptacles for the safe deposit thereof.

(m) Holding Stock in Banks Engaged in Foreign Business.—To invest, when a state bank has a capital and surplus of not less than one million dollars, an amount not exceeding in the aggregate ten per cent. of its capital and surplus in the stock of one or more banks or corporations chartered or incorporated under the laws of the United States or of any state thereof and principally engaged in international or foreign banking, or banking in a dependency or insular possession of the United States, either directly or through the agency, ownership or control of local institutions in foreign countries or in such dependencies or insular possessions, but only by and with the previous written consent of the Commissioner and under such terms and conditions as he shall prescribe.

(n) Holding Stock in Real Estate Companies.—To acquire and hold stock of a corporation formed for the purpose of taking and holding title to real estate and erecting or maintaining thereon a building or buildings to be used in whole or in part for the accommodation and transaction of the business of such state bank and of any branch or branches thereof.

(o) Acquisition of Trust Company Powers.—To obtain all the powers of a trust company in the manner and subject to the limitations provided by section 69 of this Act.

(Note:—This entire section is intended to bring into one orderly arrangement the banking powers of corporations chartered under or accepting this Code.

Clause (a), so far as it relates to interest on deposits, takes the place of the provisions of the Act of June 10, 1897, (P. L. 138; 1 Purd. 429), as amended by the Act of May 23, 1913, (P. L. 338; 5 Purd. 5350) and extends them to trust companies. Section 7 of the Act of 1876 provided that no interest should be paid on deposits except on daily balances of foreign correspondents or correspondents in other states; and Section 30 of that Act provided that banks chartered under the Act should not pay interest on call deposits, on penalty of a forfeiture of the charter.

Clauses (b) to (e) inclusive take the place of that part of Section 6 of the Act of 1876 which provides that banks formed under that Act shall have "all such power as shall be necessary to carry on the business of banking, by loaning money, discounting, selling, buying or negotiating promissory notes, drafts, coin or bullion, bills of exchange and all other written evidences of debt and specialties."

Clause (f) is founded on Section 1 clause 2 of the trust company Act of May 9, 1889, (P. L. 159; 4 Purd. 4762), which is recited verbatim in Section 1 of the Act of June 27, 1895, (P. L. 399; 2 Purd. 1669). The Act of 1889 was an amendment of Section 29 of the general corporation Act of 1874, and apparently repealed the Act of May 24, 1881, (P. L. 22).

Clause (g) is derived from the first part of Section 8 of the Act of 1876, amended by the Act of April 19, 1901 (P. L. 79; 1 Purd. 401). Clause (h) is founded on Section 1 of the Act of May 21, 1901, (P. L. 288; 1 Purd. 401), relating to state banks only.

Clause (i) takes the place of the provisions of Section 7 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 401), that a bank may purchase, collect and adjust collateral securities and dispose thereof.

Clause (j) is new.

Clause (k) is derived from Section 1 and 2 of the Act of July 17, 1917 (P. L. 1021). The provisions of Sections 3 and 4 of that Act, relating to examinations and reserve requirements, are covered in the sections of this Code dealing with those subjects.

Clause (l) takes the place of clause 3 of Section 1 of the Act of May 9, 1889, (P. L. 159; 4 Purd. 4762) and the first paragraph of Section 1 of the Act of June 11, 1885 (P. L. 111; 4 Purd. 4829), relating to trust companies, and permits state banks to do business of this character. Section 45 of the Act of April 29, 1874, (P. L. 95; 4 Purd. 4351). provides that "safe-deposit companies shall have power to receive upon trust for safekeeping, jewelry, plate, stocks, bonds, notes, and valuable property of every kind, upon terms to be prescribed by the by-laws of such corporation, which by-laws shall, at all times, be posted up in the place or places of business of such corporation." This should not be repealed, since corporations organized to do a safe deposit business only, if there be any such, are not covered by this Code.

Clause (m) resembles Section 25 of the Federal Reserve Act, but leaves the details of regulation to the Commissioner.

Clause (n) provides a method whereby a bank may organize a separate corporation to hold title to the real estate used in the bank's business. It is so framed as to oblige the bank to maintain control of such a company in its own hands.)

SEC. 47. Restrictions on Loans, Investments and Total Liabilities of a Person or Corporation. (a) Limitation of Loans to a Person or Corporation.

1. In General.—A state bank shall not directly or indirectly lend to any corporation, person or body politic an amount which, including therein any extension of credit by means of letters of credit or by acceptance of drafts for, or the discount or purchase of the notes, bills of exchange or other obligations of, such corporation, person or body politic, will exceed ten per cent. of the capital and surplus of the state bank: Provided, That the restrictions of this clause shall not apply (a) to loans to the United States, the state of Pennsylvania, or any county, city, borough, township, or school district of this state, or (b) to the discount of drafts or bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actual existing values, or (c) to the discount of trade acceptances or other commercial or business paper actually owned by the person negotiating the same to the state bank and endorsed by such person without limitation, or (d) to the discount of notes secured by shipping documents, warehouse receipts or other such documents conveying or securing title covering readily marketable non-perishable staples, including livestock, for any one person or corporation or the several members thereof for not more than six months in any consecutive twelve months, when the actual market value of the property securing the obligations is not at any time less than one hundred and fifteen per cent. of the face amount of the notes secured by such documents and when such property is fully covered by insurance: And provided further That the total liabilities to a state bank, other than those incurred under (b), (c) or (d) above, of any corporation, person or body politic may equal but not exceed twenty per cent. of the capital and surplus of the state bank if such liabilities in excess of ten per cent. of such capital and surplus are secured by collateral consisting of bonds of the United States or of the State of Pennsylvania, or of any county, city, borough, township or school district of this state, having an ascertained market value of at least ten per cent. more than the amount of the liabilities so secured.

In computing the total liabilities of any corporation to a state bank there shall be included all liabilities to the state bank of any partnership or unincorporated association of which he is a member and any loans made for his benefit or for the benefit of such partnership or association, and all liabilities to the state bank of any corporation of which he owns more than fifty per cent. of the capital stock.

In computing the total liabilities of any partnership or unincorporated association to a state bank there shall be included all liabilities to the state bank of the individual members of such partnership or association and all loans made for the benefit of such partnership or association or any member thereof.

In computing the total liabilities of any corporation to a state bank there shall be included all loans made for the benefit of the corporation and all loans or for the benefit of any individual who owns more than fifty per cent. of the capital stock thereof.

(Note:—This new clause is derived in part from Section 5200 U. S. Rev. Stat. as amended by Acts of Congress of June 22, 1906, September 24, 1918, and October 22, 1919, relating to national banks.)

2. Stock of Bank or Trust Company as Collateral.—A state bank shall not take or hold at any one time more than twenty-five per cent. of the total capital stock of another state bank or trust company as collateral security for loans.

(Note.—This new clause is intended to prevent large advances on the security of stock of another banking institution.)

3. Limitation on Loans Secured by Stock or Obligations of Corporations.—A state bank shall not take or hold loans or discounts secured by the stock or obligations of any one corporations which loans or discounts exceed in the aggregate at any one time thirty per cent. of the capital and surplus of such state bank.

(Note.—This clause is new and guards against large advances on the securities of one corporation.)

(b) Limitation as to Investments in or Loans on Mortgages and Ground Rents.—A state bank shall not hold at any one time investments in or loans secured by mortgages on real estate or ground rents issuing out of real estate to an amount exceeding twenty-five per cent. of the total assets of the bank: Provided, That the limitations of this clause shall not apply to the investment of funds held by a state bank in any fiduciary capacity.

(Note.—This takes the place of the provision of section 1 of the Act of July 10, 1901, (P. L. 639; 1 Purd. 447), amended by the Act of July 24, 1913, (P. L. 972; 5 Purd. 5350.) Section 1 of the Act of April 21, 1858, (P. L. 412; 1 Purd. 814), provides that trust companies may invest in mortgages on "unincumbered real estate" and ground rents issuing out of such real estate.

The requirement that mortgages shall be on unincumbered real estate is not re-enacted.)

(c) Limitations as to Real Estate.—A state bank shall not

1. Title to Real Estate.—Hold or carry title to any real estate owned by it in the name of any other person or corporation, unless specially authorized by the board of directors.

2. Real Estate for Accommodation of Bank.—Invest in any real estate for its own present or prospective accommodation in the transaction of its business, or partly so used and partly leased to others, a sum of money exceeding in the aggregate at any one time fifty per cent. of its capital and surplus, without the previous written approval of the Commissioner.

3. Seven Year Limitation.—Hold possession of any real estate by virtue of a mortgage, or the title and possession of any real estate purchased by it, except such as may be necessary for its present or prospective accommodation in the transaction of its business or partly so used and partly leased to others, for a longer period than seven years, without the written approval of the Commissioner.

4. Stock of Real Estate Company.—Invest in the capital stock and obligations of a corporation or corporations owning the real estate used in whole or in part for the transaction of the business of such state bank or any branch or branches thereof an amount exceeding, in the aggregate, fifty per cent. of the capital and surplus of the state bank, nor acquire and hold any of the capital stock and obligations of any such corporation or corporations if the total amount of the capital stock and obligations of such corporation or corporations exceeds in the aggregate fifty per cent. of the capital and surplus of the state bank, without the written approval of the Commissioner.

(Note.—These limitations are derived from Section 8 of the Act of 1876, amended by the Act of April 19, 1901, (P. L. 79; 1 Purd. 401) and Section 1 of the Act of May 21, 1901 (P. L. 288; 1 Purd. 401), except as to sub-clause 4, which is new. In sub-clause 3 the limitation is increased from five years to seven.)

(d) Limitations as to Acceptances and Letters of Credit.—A state bank shall not

1. Acceptance of Drafts or Bills of Exchange.—Accept for payment at a future date draft or bills of exchange drawn upon it unless the same have not more than six months sight to run and grow out of transactions involving the importation or exportation of goods or out of transactions involving the domestic shipment of goods and provided shipping documents conveying or securing title are attached at the time of acceptance, or which are secured at the time of acceptance by a warehouse receipt or other such document conveying or securing title covering readily marketable staples, though such documents may be detached after acceptance.

Note.—This is derived from Section 13 of the Federal Reserve Act as amended, the language being modified so as to make it clear that the documents may be detached after the acceptance, this being in accordance with the existing practice under said Act.)

2. Issuance of Letters of Credit.—Issue letters of credit in any transaction involving the importation, exportation or domestic shipment of goods and authorizing the holders thereof to draw upon it or its correspondents, unless there is a bona fide contract for the shipment of goods within a specified reasonable time and the existence of such contract is certified in the acceptance agreement.

(Note.—This is derived from Section 13 of the Federal Reserve Act as amended.)

3. Limitations as to Amount.—Accept drafts or bills of exchange or issue letters of credit for any one person or corporation to an amount at any one time in the aggregate equal to more than ten per cent. of the capital and surplus of such state bank, unless it is secured either by attached documents or by some other actual security growing out of the same transaction as the acceptance; and a state bank shall not accept drafts or bills of exchange or issue letters of credit to an amount equal at any time in the aggregate to more than fifty per cent. of its capital and surplus, except that a state bank acting under a general authorization by the Commissioner and subject to such regulations as he may generally provide, may accept drafts or bills of exchange or issue letters of credit to an amount not exceeding in the aggregate at any one time one hundred per cent. of its capital and surplus.

(Note.—This is derived from Section 13 of the Federal Reserve Act as amended.)

(e) Limitations as to Dealings in Bank's Own Stock.—A state bank shall not:

1. Purchase or Holding.—Purchase or hold any of the shares of its own capital stock.

2. Loans on Security of Stock.—Make any loan or discount on the security of shares of its own capital stock.

3. Loans to Enable Purchase of Own Stock.—Lend, knowingly, directly or indirectly, any money or property for the purpose of enabling any person to pay for or hold any shares of its capital stock, unless the loan is made upon approved security.

(Note.—Sub-clauses 1 and 2 are derived from Section 2 of the Act of June 14, 1901, (P. L. 56; 1 Purd. 448), which is substantially the same as Section 23 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 405).

Sub-clause 3, which is new, is directed at the practice of evading the prohibition of loans on the security of the bank's own stock by making loans on unsecured notes for the purpose of facilitating the purchase of stock of the bank.)

(f) Protection Against Loss on Previous Loan or Investment.—No restriction imposed by this section shall be construed to prevent a state bank, in order to protect itself from loss upon a loan or investment previously made in good faith, from taking and holding any kind of property or security. Any of its own capital stock so acquired shall be sold within one year, and any other property so acquired, which it is not otherwise lawful for the bank to hold, shall be sold within five years, unless the Commissioner shall give written consent to a longer holding.

(Note.—This clause is new.)

(g) Property or Securities Acquired Before Approval of Act.—No restriction imposed by this section shall be construed to render unlawful the continued holding of any loans, stock, real estate or securities lawfully acquired prior to the date of the approval of this Act.

(Note.—This new clause prevents unnecessary disturbance of existing conditions.)

SEC. 48. Limitations on Loans to Officers, Directors and Employees.—No officer, director or employee of any state bank shall borrow, directly or indirectly, from such bank any sum of money without the affirmative vote or written assent of a majority of the board of directors, or the affirmative vote or written assent of a majority of the duly authorized finance or executive committee of the board of directors, exclusive, in either case, of any director or directors directly or indirectly interested in obtaining such loan; and if an officer, director or employee of the bank shall own more than fifty per cent. of the capital stock of any other corporation, or shall be a member of any partnership or unincorporated association, a loan to such corporation, partnership or association shall be considered, for the purpose of this section, as a loan to such officer, director or employee.

Any officer, director or employee of a bank violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be subject to imprisonment not exceeding one year and to a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or either, at the discretion of the court, and shall forever thereafter be disqualified from acting as an officer, director or employee of any bank in this state.

(Note:—This takes the place of Section 1 of the Act of June 14, 1901, (P. L. 561; 1 Purd. 405), which repealed the first clause of Section 21 of the Act of 1876.

The limitations upon the total loaned to officers, directors and employees, contained in the Act of 1901, Section 23 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 426), as amended by Section 51 of the same Act, and Section 1 of the Act of April 17, 1861, (P. L. 342; 1 Purd. 426) are recommended for repeal, the subject being sufficiently covered by the provisions of Section 47 (a) 1 of this Code, limiting the amount of loans to one person or corporation.)

SEC. 49. Purchases and Sales from and to Directors.—Any state bank may contract for or purchase from any of its directors or from a firm of which any of its directors is a member any securities or other property, when such purchase is made in the regular course of business upon terms not less favorable to the bank than those offered to others, and when such purchase is authorized by the affirmative vote or written assent of a majority of the board of directors of such bank not interested in the sale of such securities or property.

Any state bank may sell securities or other property owned or held by it to any of its directors or to a firm of which any of its directors is a member in the regular course of business on terms not more favorable to such director or firm than those offered to others, when such sale is authorized by the affirmative vote or written assent of a majority of the board of directors of such bank not interested in the purchase of such securities or property.

In any transaction between a state bank and any of its directors, the Commissioner may at any time require full disclosure of all details relating to such transaction, together with a full statement as to commissions received or profits realized by any director or directors in connection therewith.

(Note:—This follows Section 22 of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended in 1918.)

SEC. 50. Purchases of Evidence of Debt Below Face Value.—No director, officer, employee or attorney of any state bank, shall be interested, directly or indirectly, in the purchase from such bank of any promissory note or other evidence of debt issued by such bank for less than its face value.

(Note:—The provisions of this section are new. Their necessity is obvious.)

SEC. 51. Deposits. (a) Receipts for Deposits.—Every state bank shall furnish each depositor with a receipt in full, by pass-book or otherwise, for all moneys received as deposits, which deposits, until refunded, shall constitute a liability upon the part of the bank, and a record thereof shall be kept in proper form.

(Note:—Clause (a) is derived from Section 1 of the Act of June 12, 1907, (P. L. 525; 6 Purd. 7492), which applies to all corporations under the supervision of the Commissioner and to moneys received as dues or on account of installments for any trust or investment as well as to deposits. For the sake of clearness, the word "deposits" has been inserted before "until refunded", and the words "a record thereof" before "shall be kept.")

(b) Receipts for Money Deposited for Transmission.—Every state bank shall give a receipt to every person depositing money for transmission to a foreign country, which receipt shall show the name and address of the bank; the date of receipt of the money, the name and address of the person to whom the money is to be transmitted and the date not later than which the money is to be transmitted. All moneys received by a state bank for transmission to a foreign country shall be forwarded to the person designated to receive the same within five days after the receipt thereof, unless a later date be fixed in such receipt.

(Note:—This corresponds to Sections 6 and 7 of the Private Bank Act of 1911, but permits the fixing in the receipt of a period for transmission longer than five days.)

(c) Penalty.—Any officer or employee of a state bank violating any of the provisions of clause (a) or (b) of this Section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof, shall be subject to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars.

On discovery of such violation, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner to institute proceedings against the officer or employee guilty thereof.

(Note:—This is derived from Sections 4 and 5 of the Act of 1907. Sections 2 and 3 of that Act relate to reports to the Commissioner or other authorities, concealment of assets, etc. These subjects are covered elsewhere in this Code.)

(d) Deposits by or for Minors.—Any state bank may, at its discretion, receive deposits by or on behalf of a minor and provide for the payment of such money, or any part thereof, or any interest accruing thereon, on the check, proper receipt or order of such minor, without the assent or approbation of the parent or guardian of such minor; and it shall not be lawful for such parent or guardian to attach or in any manner interfere with any such deposit.

(Note:—This takes the place of Section 1 of the Act of May 15, 1874, (P. L. 193; 1 Purd. 429), the provisions of that section as to married women being omitted as unnecessary.)

(e) Death of One Making Deposit as Trustee.—When a deposit shall be made with a state bank by any person describing himself in making such deposit as trustee for another, and no other or further notice of the existence and terms of a legal or valid trust than such description shall have been given in writing to the bank, in the case of the death of the person making such a deposit, and upon the production to the bank of satisfactory proof of such death, by certificate of a physician or undertaker or otherwise, it shall be the duty of the bank, if the amount of such deposit shall exceed three hundred dollars, forthwith to report such death by registered mail, return receipt requested, to the register of wills of the proper county, in order that such register may take action to secure the payment to the Commonwealth of any collateral or direct inheritance tax which may accrue. Unless, within ten days after such notice, the bank shall be notified to the contrary by registered mail, return receipt requested, by said register of wills, and in any event, if the amount of such deposit does not exceed three hundred dollars, it may pay over such deposit, or any part thereof and any interest accrued thereon to the person for whose benefit the deposit was stated to have been made, and the receipt of such person shall be a sufficient acquittance to the bank therefor. If, in the case of a deposit exceeding three hundred dollars, within such period of ten days, said register of wills shall notify the bank by registered mail, return receipt requested, not to pay to such person, the bank shall make payment only on the joint check, order or receipt of such person and the executor or administrator of the depositor.

(Note:—This new clause covers a subject not dealt with by any existing law in Pennsylvania. The Banking laws of New York, Missouri and California contain somewhat similar provisions.)

(f) Joint Deposits.—1. When a deposit shall be made with a state bank in the names of two or more persons, other than husband and wife, the bank shall not be required to pay the same or any part thereof or any interest accru-ing thereon, except upon the proper check, order or receipt of both or all of such persons. In case of the death of one of such persons, and upon the production to the bank of satisfactory proof of such death, by certificate of a physician or undertaker or otherwise, it shall be the duty of the bank, if the amount of such deposit shall exceed three hundred dollars, forthwith to report such death to the register of wills of the proper county by registered mail, return receipt requested. Thereafter, and in any event, if the deposit does not exceed three hundred dollars, the bank may pay over such deposits or any part thereof and any interest accrued thereon to the survivor or survivors of the depositors, whose receipt shall be a sufficient acquittance to the bank therefor.

2. When a deposit shall be made with a state bank in the names of two or more persons, other than husband and wife, and said deposit shall be marked at the direction of the depositors as payable upon check or order of either or any of said depositors, the bank may pay such deposit upon the check or order of either or any of said depositors notwithstanding the fact that one or more of said depositors may be dead; but when the bank receives actual notice of the death of any one of such depositors, it shall be the duty of the bank forthwith to report such death to the register of wills of the proper county, by registered mail, return receipt requested.

(Note:—This clause is also new and is drawn in conformity with the next preceding clause.)

(g) Liability for Non-Payment of Checks. No state bank shall be liable to a depositor because of the non-payment, through mistake or error and without malice, of a check which should have been paid, unless the depositor shall allege and prove actual damage by reason of such non-payment, and, in such event, the liability shall not exceed the amount of damage so proved.

(Note:—This re-enacts the Act of June 12, 1919, (P. L. 453).)

SEC. 52. Banks as Court Depositaries.—Each of the several courts of record in the state of Pennsylvania, into which money may be paid by parties, or be brought by judgment or decree, may, by rule, order or decree, direct the same to be deposited with any state bank.

(Note:—This is derived from Section 2 of the Act of April 21, 1903, (P. L. 223; 4 Purd. 4830), relating to trust companies.)

SEC. 53. Business after Noon on Saturday.—Nothing in any law of this Commonwealth shall, in any manner whatsoever, affect the validity of, or render void or voidable, the payment, certification or acceptance of a check, or other negotiable instrument by a state bank, because done, performed or transacted on any Saturday between twelve o'clock noon and midnight, provided such transaction would be valid if done or performed at or before twelve o'clock noon on Saturday; and nothing in any law of this Commonwealth shall be construed to prevent any state bank from keeping open its doors or transacting its business on any Saturday after twelve o'clock noon, if by a vote of its directors it shall elect so to do.

No state bank which by law or custom ceases to transact business at twelve o'clock noon on any Saturday shall be required to keep open for the transaction of business, or to perform any of the acts or transactions aforesaid on any Saturday after such hour; but all such transactions shall be at the option of such bank.

(Note:—This is derived from the Act of July 18, 1917, (P. L. 1067), with some changes of wording and the addition of the last clause of the first paragraph, which is part of the proviso to Section 1 of the Act of February 16, 1911, (P. L. 3; 5 Purd. 6359), which amended the Act of June 23, 1897, (P. L. 188; 2 Purd. 1839).

SEC. 54. Reserve Fund.—All state banks are hereby required to create and maintain a reserve fund, which, in amount and manner, shall be as follows, the Commissioner being hereby authorized to make and enforce rules governing the manner in which the amount of the reserve fund shall be ascertained:

(a) Reserve Against Demand Liabilities.—Every state bank receiving deposits of money subject to check or payable on demand shall, at all times, have on hand a reserve fund of at least fifteen per centum of the aggregate of all its immediate demand liabilities, which liabilities shall include total demand deposits (demand deposits, excluding, however, savings deposits, being hereby defined to comprise all deposits payable within thirty days), all amounts due to banks, the amount due on certified and cashier's checks, and for unpaid dividends, less the following items:

1. Total time deposits, as defined in clause (b) of this section.

2. The amounts due it on demand from banks other than its reserve depositaries, including foreign exchange balances, credited to it and subject to draft.

3. The excess due it from reserve depositaries over the amount required to maintain its total reserves.

The whole of such reserve fund may, and at least one-third thereof must consist of lawful money of the United States, gold certificates, silver certificates, notes or bills issued by any lawfully organized national banking association or federal reserve bank.

One-third, or any less part thereof, may consist of bonds which are the absolute unpledged property of the state bank and are issued by the United States or the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or issued in compliance with law by any county, city or borough of this Commonwealth, computed at their market value, not exceeding their par value.

The balance of said reserve fund, over and above the part consisting of any of the items hereinbefore enumerated, may consist of moneys on deposit, subject to call, in any state bank, trust company or national bank in the State of Pennsylvania, or in any other state, which depositary shall have been approved by the Commissioner.

(b) Reserve against Time Deposits.—Every state bank receiving time deposits of money (which are hereby defined to comprise all deposits payable after thirty days, all savings deposits and certificates of deposit which are subject to notice before payment, and all postal savings deposits) shall, at all times, have on hand a reserve fund of at least seven and one-half per centum of the aggregate of all its time deposits.

Such reserve fund may consist in part of lawful money of the United States, or notes or bills issued by any lawfully organized national banking association or Federal Reserve Bank.

One-third, or any less part thereof, may consist of bonds which are the absolute unpledged property of the state bank and are issued by the United States or the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or issued in compliance with law by any county, city or borough of this Commonwealth, computed at their market value, not exceeding their par value.

Such reserve fund, or the balance thereof, over and above the part consisting of any of the items hereinbefore enumerated, may consist of moneys on deposit, subject to call, in any state bank, trust company or national bank in the State of Pennsylvania or in any other state, which depositary shall have been approved by the Commissioner.

(Note:—This takes the place of Section 3 of the Act of May, 8, 1907, (6 Purd. 7482), as amended by the Act of July 11, 1917, (P. L. 791). The definition of time deposits is taken from Section 19 of the Federal Reserve Act as amended.)

(c) No Reserve against Government Deposits Secured by Pledge.—No reserve fund shall be required against deposits made by the federal or state government or by any municipality of this state, which are secured by the pledge of securities by the state bank, provided such securities are of kinds which might legally constitute part of the reserve fund of the bank under the provisions of this section, or are approved by the Commissioner.

(Note:—The propriety of this new provision is evident.)

(d) Deficiency in Reserve Fund.—If the total reserve fund of any state bank shall be less than the amount required by this section, such bank shall not, while such deficiency exists, increase its liabilities or make purchases of any character otherwise than by dealing in bills of exchange payable at sight.

The Commissioner shall notify any such state bank to make good its reserve fund. If the total reserve fund remains one per cent. or more below the amount required for a period exceeding ten days, the Commissioner may levy an assessment upon the state bank during the period for which the deficiency exists at the rate of six per cent. per annum of the amount of any such deficiency not exceeding two per cent. of the deposits, eight per cent. per annum of the amount of any additional deficiency not exceeding three per cent. of such deposits, ten per cent. per annum of the amount of any additional deficiency not exceeding four per cent. of such deposits, and twelve per cent. per annum of the amount of any additional deficiency above four per cent. of such deposits.

(Note:—This is founded in part on Section 5 of the Act of 1907, (6 Purd. 7492). The provisions as to assessments are new.

Section 5 of the Act of 1907 provides that if the bank shall fail for thirty days to make good the reserve fund, the Commissioner may proceed against it as provided in Section 9 of the Act of February 11, 1895, creating the Banking Department, namely, by a receivership.

Section 6 of the Act of 1907 provided for the creation of the reserve fund in fractional parts at dates named. No similar provisions is necessary in this Code.)

(e) Membership in Federal Reserve Bank.—Any state bank becoming a member of a Federal Reserve Bank, as provided in clause (k) of Section 46 of this Act, and complying with the reserve requirements of the "Federal Reserve Act" and its supplements shall be relieved from compliance with the provisions of this section.

(Note:—This is the substance of Section 3 of the Act of July 17, 1917, (P. L. 1021).

SEC. 55. Deposits in Other Banks.—(a) Unauthorized Deposits to Constitute Loans.—The deposit of funds by a state bank in any other bank, not duly designated as a depository by the board of directors of the depositing bank and approved as such by the Commissioner, shall be held to be a loan, and, as such, subject to the restrictions of Section 47 of this Act.

(b) Limitation of Deposits.—No state bank shall deposit as a reserve or otherwise in any other bank an amount in excess of fifty per cent. of the capital and surplus of such depository bank, except pursuant to a resolution of the board of directors of the depositing bank.

(c) Selection of Reserve Depositories.—Whenever a state bank selects any other bank as a depository for its reserve, such selection shall be evidenced by the approval in writing, or by a vote of a majority of the directors, spread upon the minutes of the depositing bank. In case any director of such bank is an officer or director owning ten per cent. or more of the capital stock of the proposed depository bank, he shall not be qualified to vote in favor of the selection of such depository.

SEC. 56. Liabilities and Assets.—(a) Limitations.—No state bank shall at any time be indebted or in any way liable to an amount exceeding the amount of its capital stock at such time actually paid in and remaining undiminished by losses or otherwise, except on account of demands of the nature following:

1. Moneys deposited with or collected by the bank.
2. Bills of exchange or drafts drawn against money actually on deposit to the credit of the bank, or due thereto.
3. Liabilities created by the endorsement of accepted bills of exchange, actually owned and discounted by the endorsing bank.
4. Liabilities to the stockholders of the bank for dividends, surplus and undivided profits.
5. Rediscounts or borrowings of money during any continuous period not exceeding three months in any year; and, if the state bank is a member of the federal reserve system, liabilities incurred under the provisions of the "Federal Reserve Act."

(Note:—This is derived from Section 5202 of the Revised Statutes as amended in 1918 and 1919. It takes the place of Section 17 of the Act of 1850, (1 Purd. 435) and Section 1 of the Act of April 22, 1854, (P. L. 467; 1 Purd. 435).

(b) Reports and Accounts.

1. Liabilities to be Set Out in Full.—In all reports furnished to the Commissioner, the courts of law or other supervisory authorities, the aggregate of the liabilities of a state bank to depositors shall be set out in full; and it shall not be lawful to reduce the same for the purpose of concealing unadjusted losses, overdrafts, expense charges or loans, all of which shall be set out in accounts, separate and apart, on the books and reports until adjusted or charged off, and not debited, in any manner whatever, against deposits, or other credits for which the state bank may be liable.

(Note:—This is derived from Section 2 of the Act of June 12, 1907, (P. L. 525; 6 Purd. 7492), limiting the application to banks only.)

2. Loans to be Set Out in Full.—Whenever any state bank shall borrow money, the amount of such liability, together with assets assigned or guaranteed for a loan or sale of rediscounts, shall be set out in full on the books and in all reports required by law.

(Note:—This is derived from Section 3 of the Act of June 12, 1907, (6 Purd. 7492).

3. Concealment of Assets.—It shall not be lawful for any state bank to conceal any of its assets in any manner whatsoever, but a true record shall be kept of the same. No state bank shall by any system of accounting or any device of bookkeeping, directly or indirectly, enter any of its assets on its books in the name of any other person or corporation, or under any title or designation that is not truly descriptive thereof.

(Note:—The first sentence is derived from part of Section 3 of the Act of 1907, (6 Purd. 7492). The second sentence is new.

4. Book Value of Real Estate.—No state bank shall, except with the written approval of the Commissioner, enter or at any time carry on its books any real estate owned by it at a valuation exceeding its actual cost to the bank.

(Note:—This and the next sub-clause are new. The penal provisions of Sections 4 and 5 of the Act of 1907, (6 Purd. 7493), for violations of provisions of the act, are recommended for repeal so far as they relate to banks.)

5. Methods of Bookkeeping.—Every state bank shall conform its methods of keeping its books and records to such general rules and regulations and such special orders as the Commissioner may from time to time make and promulgate in conformity to law.

(Note:—This is new.)

SEC. 57. Surplus Fund.—Every state bank shall create a fund to be known as a surplus fund, which fund may be created or increased by contributions, or by transfers from undivided profits, or from net earnings. Such fund shall not be reduced below twenty-five per centum of the capital of the bank, except for the payment of losses in excess of undivided profits.

(Note:—This section is new.)

SEC. 58. Dividends. (a) Determination of Gross Earnings.—To determine the amount of gross earnings of a state bank for any dividend period, the following items may be included:

1. All earnings actually received during such period, less interest accrued and unpaid included in the last previous calculation of earnings.
2. Interest accrued and unpaid upon debts owing to it secured by collateral, upon which no default of more than one year exists, and upon bonds or other interest-bearing obligations owned by it, upon which no default of more than six months exists.
3. Any profits actually received during such period from the sale of securities, real estate or other property owned by it.

4. Sums recovered on items previously charged off, and any amount allowed by the Commissioner on account of assets previously allowed and charged off.

5. Provided the Commissioner shall have approved, and only to the extent of such approval, any actual increase over the book value of real estate owned by it.

(Note:—This and the clause next following are new.)

(b) Determination of Net Earnings.—To determine the amount of net earnings of a state bank for any dividend period, the following items shall be deducted from the gross earnings:

1. All expenses paid or incurred, both ordinary and extraordinary, in the transaction of its business, the collection of debts owing to it, and the management of its affairs, less expenses incurred and interest accrued upon its debts deducted at the last previous calculation of net earnings for dividend purposes.

2. Interest paid or accrued and unpaid upon debts owing by it.

3. All losses sustained by it. In the computation of such losses, there shall be included such assets as shall have been disallowed by the Commissioner or by the board of directors of the bank.

The balance thus obtained shall constitute the net earnings of the state bank for such period.

(c) Determination of Undivided Profits.—When the net earnings of a state bank have been determined at the close of a dividend period, as provided in clause (b) of this section, if the surplus fund does not equal twenty-five per centum of the capital of the bank, one-tenth of such net earnings shall be credited to the surplus fund, or so much of such net earnings, less than one-tenth, as will make such surplus fund equal twenty-five per centum of such capital. The balance of such net earnings, or the entire amount if such surplus fund equals twenty-five per centum of the capital, may be credited to the profit and loss account of the bank; or, if its expenses and losses for such dividend period exceed its gross earnings, such excess shall be charged to its profit and loss account. The credit balance of such account shall constitute the

(d) Declaration and Payment of Dividends.—The directors of any state bank may declare such dividends as they may deem expedient from the undivided profits ascertained as provided in clause (c) of this section, and pay the same to the stockholders, on demand, at any time not exceeding thirty days after any such dividend is declared.

No state bank shall declare, credit or pay any dividend to its stockholders except out of undivided profits ascertained as above provided; and in case the reserves required by law to be maintained by such bank against deposits are not in hand, no dividend shall be declared until such reserves shall have been made good.

If the directors of any state bank shall declare, credit or pay any dividend in violation of the provisions of this clause, the directors consenting thereto shall be jointly and severally liable in an action of assumpsit or bill of equity, in their individual capacities, to the bank for the amount of such dividends; and each director present at the meeting when any such dividend shall be declared shall be adjudged consenting thereto, unless he shall forthwith cause his protest to be entered on the minutes of the board and give notice to the Commissioner.

(Notes:—The first paragraph is derived from Section 16 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 403), with a change from fifteen to thirty days for the time of payment. The second paragraph and part of the third are new and the remainder of the third paragraph is derived from Section 16 of the Act of 1876, with changes of language and the substitution of notice to the Commissioner for public notice to the stockholders.)

This and the preceding clause take the place of Section 24 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 406) and Article XII of Section 10 of the Act of 1850 (1 Purd. 427), so far as they relate to dividends.)

(e) Statement by Cashier or Treasurer.—Prior to the declaration of a dividend, the cashier or treasurer of every state bank shall furnish to the board of directors a full and explicit statement, certified by him to be correct, of the condition of the bank as of the last day of the period for which a dividend is to be declared, and showing all items required by this section to be considered by the board of directors in determining whether a dividend is to be declared and the amount thereof.

(Notes:—This takes the place of Section 17 of the Act of 1876 (1 Purd. 404), which enumerates the items to be shown in the cashier's statement.)

ARTICLE IV.

TRUST COMPANIES.

SEC. 59. General Powers, Limitations and Regulations.

—A trust company incorporated under the provisions of this Act or accepting its provisions as provided in Section 6 of this Act shall have the general corporate powers enumerated in Section 34, and shall have the powers and privileges and be subject to the limitations and regulations given to and imposed upon state banks by the provisions of Article III of this Act.

(Note:—So far as the banking business is concerned, this section puts trust companies on an equal footing with state banks, including the discount privilege. Under the Code, trust companies will, to all intents and purposes, be state banks with the additional powers conferred by the subsequent sections of this Article.)

SEC. 60. Powers of Trust Companies in Addition to Those of State Banks.—A trust company incorporated under the provisions of this Act, or accepting its provisions as provided in Section 6 of this Act, shall have the following powers in addition to those conferred by Section 59 of this Act.

(a) To Act as Fiduciary.—To act as assignee, receiver, guardian, committee, executor, administrator or trustee, and take, accept and execute trusts of every description and act in any fiduciary capacity not inconsistent with the laws of this state or of the United States; and for those purposes to receive and hold real and personal property, including the notes, bonds and obligations of states, individuals, partnerships and corporations, and the same to collect, adjust and settle and, in the execution of any trust, to employ moneys, directly and indirectly, in trade or commerce, by buying or selling goods, wares, merchandise or commodities, by owning or operating industrial plants or otherwise, subject to the supervision of the court having jurisdiction of the accounts of such fiduciary.

(b) To Act as Agent for Fiduciary.—To act as agent for any executor, administrator, guardian, trustee or other fiduciary in the business of the trust estate.

(c) To Act as Registrar of Stock, etc.—To act as agent for the purpose of issuing, countersigning or registering the certificates of stock, bonds, or other obligations of any corporation, association or municipality, state or public authority, and to receive and manage any sinking fund thereof on such terms as may be agreed upon.

(d) To Become Surety on Fiduciary Bonds.—To become sole surety in any case where by law one or more sureties are or may be required for the faithful performance of the duties of any assignee, receiver, guardian, committee, executor, administrator, trustee or other fiduciary.

(e) To Become Surety on Court Bonds.—To become sole surety upon any writ of error or appeal, or in any proceeding instituted in any Court of this Commonwealth, in which security is or may be required: Provided, That nothing in this clause shall be construed to dispense with the approval of any court of this Commonwealth or any officer now or hereafter required by law to approve such security.

(f) To Act as Agent or Attorney-in-fact.—To act as agent or attorney-in-fact in the purchase and sale of real estate, in the collection of rents and the management thereof, and in the making of investments in stocks, bonds or other securities, the custody thereof, the collection and disbursement of principal and income therefrom, and the sale, transfer or other disposal thereof.

(g) To Issue Debentures and Guarantee Mortgages.—To execute and issue its debentures payable at a future date and pledge for the payment thereof bonds secured by mortgages on real estate; and to guarantee the payment of principal and interest of bonds secured by mortgage upon real estate, and to make and execute such contracts and policies as may be required therefor.

(h) To Hold Stocks of Other Corporations.—To hold stocks in corporations when such stocks are taken and received by the trust company in payment for services rendered, or as part consideration in the purchase of the obligations of such corporations.

(i) To Hold Stocks of Title Insurance and Surety Companies.—To hold stock of:

1. A company organized to engage chiefly in the insurance of owners of real estate, mortgages and others interested in real estate from loss by reason of defective titles, liens and encumbrances.

2. A company organized to engage chiefly in the insurance of the fidelity of officials and employees.

3. A company organized, to engage chiefly in guaranteeing the payment of the principal and interest of bonds secured by mortgages upon real estate.

(j) To Take and Dispose of Real Property Insured.—To take, receive and hold any and all such pieces of real property as may have been, or may hereafter be, the subject of any insurance made by such company under the powers conferred by its charter, and the same to grant, bargain, sell, convey and dispose of in such manner as it may deem proper.

(Note:—This takes the place of the following acts and parts of acts which enumerate the powers of title insurance and trust companies: Section 1 of the Act of June 11, 1885, (P. L. 111; Purd. 4828); Section 1 of the Act of May 9, 1889, (P. L. 159; 4 Purd. 4761); Section 1 of the Act of May 29, 1885, (P. L. 127; 4 Purd. 4762); Section 1 of the Act of June 27, 1895 (P. L. 399; 4 Purd. 4829-30-32); Section 1 of the Act of April 21, 1903, (P. L. 223; 4 Purd. 4830-32.)

The title insurance business is covered by Sections 67-68 of this Article; the power to act as surety is restricted to fiduciary bonds and court bonds; and clause (i) is new.)

SEC. 61. Restrictions on Powers, Loans and Investments.—

(a) Limitation of Power to Become Surety.—A trust company heretofore incorporated under any general or special Act of Assembly or hereafter incorporated under this Act shall not become surety except as specified in clauses (d) and (e) of Section 60 of this Act.

(b) Limitation of Investment in Stocks of Certain Corporations.—Such trust company shall not hold at any one time investments of more than ten per cent. of its capital and surplus in the stocks of any or all of the following corporations:

1. A company organized to engage chiefly in the insurance of owners of real estate, mortgagees and others interested in real estate from loss by reason of defective titles, liens and encumbrances.

2. A company organized to engage chiefly in the insurance of the fidelity of officials and employees.

3. A company organized to engage chiefly in guaranteeing the payment of the principal and interest of bonds secured by mortgages upon real estate.

(c) Certain Stocks Not to be Held More Than Five Years.—Such trust company shall not hold for a longer period than five years, without the written approval of the Commissioner, the stock of any corporation which has been acquired by the trust company as compensation for services or as part consideration in the purchase of the obligations of such corporation.

(d) Limitation of Debentures and Guarantees of Mortgages.—Such trust company shall not at any one time have issued and outstanding its debentures secured by mortgages upon real estate or its guarantees of the payment of bonds secured by mortgages on real estate:

1. To an amount exceeding three times the amount of its capital and surplus.

2. The maturities of which falling due in any one calendar year exceed twenty-five per cent. of the amount of its capital and surplus.

3. To an amount at any time exceeding the face value of mortgages pledged for the payment of such debentures.

4. Provided, That the whole of this clause (d) shall apply only to trust companies receiving deposits.

(e) Limitation of Investment in Mortgages.—No such trust company shall be permitted to invest to an amount exceeding twenty-five per cent. of its total assets, except with the written approval of the Commissioner, in mortgages other than such as are pledged by it to secure its outstanding debentures: Provided, That this restriction shall not prevent a trust company from taking and holding in its own name mortgages upon real estate, to any amount, when such loans are for the account of trust estates managed by such trust company.

(f) Restrictions not Retroactive.—No restriction imposed by this section shall be construed to render unlawful the continued holding by any trust company of any stocks, securities or real estate lawfully acquired prior to the date of the approval of this act.

(g) Protection against Loss on Previous Loan or Investment.—No restriction imposed by this section shall be construed to prevent a trust company, in order to protect itself from loss upon a loan or investment previously made in good faith, from taking and holding any kind of property or security. Any of its own capital stock so acquired shall be sold within one year, and any other property so acquired, which it is not otherwise lawful for the trust company to hold, shall be sold within five years, unless the Commissioner shall give written consent to a longer holding.

(Note:—This section follows, in general, the plan of Section 47 of this Code relating to state banks.)

SEC. 62. Estoppel to Deny Power to Execute Surety Bonds.—No trust company having signed a bond, undertaking or obligation as surety, shall be permitted to deny its corporate power to execute such instrument or incur such liability, in any proceeding to enforce liability against it thereunder.

(Note:—This is founded on Section 4 of the Act of June 26, 1895, (P. L. 343; 4 Purd. 4522), relating to surety companies, with some modification of the language.)

SEC. 63. Capital Taken as Security.—Whenever a trust company shall receive and accept the office or appointment to act in any fiduciary capacity or be directed to execute any trust whatever, the capital of such company shall be taken and considered as the security required by law for the faithful performance of its duties, and shall be absolutely liable in case of any default whatever.

(Note:—This is Clause II of the Act of June 27, 1895, (P. L. 401; 4 Purd. 4831), with some changes in wording.)

SEC. 64. Officers Qualified to Make Oath.—In all cases where a trust company is or shall be charged with the execution of any trust, any officer of such company, duly elected by the board of directors or the stockholders, shall be empowered to make the usual oath or affirmation directed to be taken by private persons in like cases.

(Note:—This supplies the provisions of the Act of February 16, 1877, (P. L. 3; 4 Purd. 4923). The Act of 1877 was repealed by the Fiduciaries Act of 1917 so far as it related to trusts within the jurisdiction of the Orphan's Court. It may now be repealed absolutely.)

SEC. 65. Trust Funds to be Kept Separate.—Every trust company, national bank or other corporation doing a trust company business or acting in any fiduciary capacity in this Commonwealth shall keep all trust funds and investments separate and apart from the assets of such corporation; and all investments made by it as fiduciary shall be so designated that the trust to which each such investment belongs shall be clearly known; Provided, That every such corporation shall have the right to clear receipts and payments of trust moneys in the regular course of business in the same manner as other funds held by it; And provided further, That participation in a general trust fund of legal trust investments may be assigned by such corporation to various estates; in which case it shall be a sufficient compliance with the provisions of this section for the corporation to designate clearly on its records the securities composing such general trust fund, the names of the trust estates participating therein and the amounts of the respective participations; and in such case no estate so participating shall be deemed to have individual ownership in any specific security in such fund, and the corporation shall have the right at any time to repurchase at market value, but not less than cost price, and in the case of mortgages not less than face value, any such securities from such fund with the right to substitute therefor other legal trust investments at market prices.

(Note:—The first part of this Section is derived from Clause V of Section 1 of the Act of June 27, 1895 (P. L. 309; 4 Purd. 4832). The first proviso which is new, is in accord with the practice which has been followed for years as the simplest method of handling such matters, in order to prevent undue publicity being given to the affairs of trust estates. The second proviso, which is also new, is in accord with a practice recognized by the courts, and enables trust companies to handle investments to the advantage of the trust estates in a way not possible if absolutely separate investments must be made for each trust.)

SEC. 66. Supervision by Court.—

(a) Audit of Examination by the Court Itself.—Whenever any Court of record of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall be asked to appoint or approve, or shall have appointed or approved, a trust company, a national bank or any other corporation to act in any fiduciary capacity, such court shall have the right to make or cause to be made such audit or examination of the affairs of such corporation or of the specific trust in the care of such corporation as such court may deem proper. The report of such audit shall be filed and kept in the records of the Judges of the court, not in the public records, as confidential information for the guidance of the judges.

(b) Mandate to Commissioner of Banking.—Any such court may at any time at its discretion issue under its seal a mandate to the Commissioner, directing him to forward to said court a certified copy of the last report of such corporation filed in his office, which copy shall be filed and kept in the records of the judges of the court, not in the public records, as confidential information for the guidance of the judges; or such court may in its discretion issue under its seal a mandate to the Commissioner requiring him to make or cause to be made through his Department an investigation of the affairs and management of such corporation, and to report to the court the manner in which its investments are made and the security afforded to those by and for whom its engagements are held, and any such reports shall likewise be filed and kept in the records of the judges of the court, not in the public records, as confidential information for the guidance of the judges.

(c) Payment of Expenses.—Any and all expense of such examination or the preparation of such certified copies of reports shall be defrayed by the corporation so examined or reported upon.

(Note:—This takes the place of Clause IV of the Act of June 27, 1895, amended by the Act of June 7, 1907, (P. L. 454; 7 Purd. 7697). The feeling of the Commission is that since trust companies are under the supervision of the Banking Department, the examination of their assets in order to determine the security accorded by the capital of such companies in lieu of the bonds required of individuals may properly be secured by the courts from the Commissioner, but that the copies of reports should not be made parts of the public records of the courts.)

SEC. 67. Powers as to Title Insurance.—Every trust company which at the date of the adoption of this Act lawfully possesses the power of insuring owners of real estate, mortgages, and others interested in real estate from loss by reason of defective titles, liens and encumbrances shall continue to possess such power; but no other trust company shall hereafter have or exercise such power.

(Note:—The Commissioners are of opinion that the business of insuring titles should not, in future, be carried on by companies acting as fiduciaries. The right of existing trust companies to continue to do a title insurance business is expressly preserved by this section; and a method by which new trust companies may carry on that business by means of a separate corporation is indicated in clause (i) of Section 60 of this Code.

By the repeal of the acts giving trust company powers to title insurance companies incorporated under the Act of 1874, while leaving in force the original provisions of the Act of 1874, this Code does not interfere with the future incorporation of companies to do a title insurance business only.)

SEC. 68. Title Insurance Reserve. (a) Reserve Fund Required.—All companies heretofore or which may hereafter be incorporated for the insurance of owners of real estate, mortgagees and others interested in real estate from loss by reason of defective titles, liens and encumbrances, as well as all title insurance and trust companies heretofore incorporated and authorized by charter or by law to carry on said business, shall from and after the approval of this Act establish and maintain a reserve fund for the protection of policy holders, in the manner herein provided.

(b) Establishment and Maintenance of Fund.—Said reserve shall be established by setting aside a sum equal to ten per cent. of the premium (that is, the sum charged for insurance over and above examination and settlement fees), paid on each policy of insurance which such company may hereafter issue, until the total amount set aside shall equal one million dollars: Provided, That the said total reserve fund may, with the consent of the Commissioner, be set aside at any one time, or from time to time, out of the surplus and undivided profits. Said ten per cent. of each premium shall be known as the reserve, and the aggregate of said reserves of all policies issued and outstanding shall be known as the reserve fund. The reserve fund shall be maintained as herein provided so long as liability on any policies shall be outstanding.

(c) Custody; Supervision by Commissioner.—The custody of said reserve fund shall be retained by the company and the fund shall be kept separate and apart from the other assets of the company in the manner hereinafter provided. The Commissioner is hereby required from time to time to make investigation to ascertain that a reserve fund equal to the amount required by clause (b) of this section is so maintained. Should any company neglect or refuse to establish or maintain such reserve fund as herein provided, the Commissioner shall by an order under his hand and seal of office direct said company either to comply with the provisions of this section or to discontinue doing a title insurance business.

(d) Investment of Reserve Fund.—Said title insurance reserve fund shall be invested by such companies in first mortgage or other securities designated by law as legal investments for trust funds, and such investment of any accumulated reserve shall be made whenever such accumulation shall amount to one thousand dollars.

Said mortgages or other such securities so held shall be carried at cost price, but in no case at more than market price, and in case there shall be a depreciation in the market price of any such securities, such company shall make good any such depreciation by the addition of other legal investments, so that the said fund may always be maintained at the full amount required by clause (b) of this section. Such companies shall have the right to withdraw from said fund any mortgages or other securities so held therein by crediting the fund the amount at which such mortgages or securities are valued therein, provided there are immediately substituted therefor other first mortgages or other securities designated by law as legal investments for trust funds.

The securities constituting a reserve fund shall be earmarked and kept separate and apart from the other assets of the company. The income of the reserve fund shall become part of the general assets of the Company.

(e) Cancellation of Policy.—Whenever any policy of title insurance hereafter issued is surrendered by the holder, cancelled or liability thereon completely discharged, the reserve therefor may be withdrawn or credited against reserves that may be due.

(f) Reserve Fund to be a Trust Fund.—It is the intent and purpose of this section that the reserve fund hereby directed to be set aside shall constitute a separate and distinct trust fund for the protection of policy holders and shall not be subject to distribution among depositors or other creditors, until all policy holders have been paid in full or the liability in the policies, contingent or actual, has been completely discharged.

(g) Reinsurance by Commissioner.—In the event of the Commissioners taking possession of and winding up any company, the Commissioner is authorized, if it shall seem advisable and practicable to him to use the reserve fund to purchase reinsurance for the liabilities represented by the policies outstanding against such fund. Acceptance of the policy of the reinsuring company shall operate as a complete discharge of liability under the policy of the insolvent company. Should any policy holder refuse to accept the policy of the reinsuring company, he shall only be entitled to receive the pro rata portion of his reserve that shall remain upon distribution as set forth in clause (h) of this section.

(h) Distribution of Reserve Fund.—The reserve fund in the custody of the Commissioner shall be liable only to the following claims:

1. To pay all outstanding claims of indemnity that have arisen by virtue of any policies of insurance.

2. For the purchase of reinsurance to indemnify and protect the remaining outstanding policies.

3. To distribute among policy holders upon cancellation of their policies the proportionate share of the reserve fund of which they are entitled, which shall in no case exceed the proportion which the premium paid for any such policy may bear to the whole amount of title insurance then outstanding.

(Note:—This section is drafted in accordance with suggestions received by the Commission at their meeting at Pittsburgh. Under the present law, if a little insurance company becomes insolvent, the policy-holders are merely general creditors and as such postponed to depositors. It seems, therefore, only proper that some provision should be made to safeguard policyholders, at least to the extent of a portion of the premium paid by them for protection. The suggestion of some title companies that liability on these policies is remote because doubtful titles are not insured is answered by the fact that within the past few years, both in Philadelphia and in Pittsburgh, defects in titles have arisen, due in some cases to negligent examination of title, and in others to discharge liens.

The New York plan, requiring each title company to set aside as a reserve two-thirds of its capital and surplus, would not be practical in Pennsylvania, where most of the title companies transact a banking business, and so large a proportion of their capital and surplus could not be withdrawn without crippling their right to do banking. New York has taken the farther step of placing title insurance companies under the supervision of the Insurance Commissioner.)

SEC. 69. Acquisition of Trust Company Powers by State Banks.—Any state bank incorporated prior to the date of the approval of this Act, accepting the provisions of this Act and of the constitution of the Commonwealth as provided in Section 6 hereof, and any state bank incorporated under the provisions of this Act, if it has a capital at least equal to the capital required by Section 15 of this Act for the incorporation of a trust company in the city, borough or township where the principal place of business of such state bank is located, may, by amendment of its charter in the manner provided by section 40 of this Act, obtain all the powers and become subject to all the restrictions, limitations and regulations of this Article relating to trust companies, and shall add to its corporate title the words "trust company" or the word "trust."

(Note:—This takes the place of the Act of July 17, 1919, (P. L. 1032), the repeal of which is recommended.)

ARTICLE V. SAVINGS BANKS.

SECTION 70. General Powers.—A savings bank incorporated under the provisions of this Act or accepting its provisions as provided in Section 6 of this Act shall, in addition to the general corporate powers enumerated in Section 34, have the following powers:

(a) To receive money on deposit and to invest the same.

(b) To purchase and hold for investment:

1. Bonds or other interest-bearing obligations of the United States or those for which the faith of the United States is pledged to provide payment of the principal and interest thereof.

2. Farm loan bonds issued by Federal Land Banks.

3. Bonds or other interest-bearing obligations of the state of Pennsylvania or of any of the United States.

4. Bonds or other interest-bearing obligations of any county, city, borough, township or school district of the state of Pennsylvania or of a city, borough, township or school district of any other state of the United States, the population of which is not less than one hundred thousand as shown by the last United States census and which has a debt limit not exceeding ten per centum of the assessed value of taxable property therein, and has not defaulted in the payment of any interest due by it within ten years.

(c) To make not exceeding ninety day loans on the collateral of such securities as it is authorized to purchase.

(d) To take on deposit bonds of the United States and of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the same manner as cash, to be entered in the pass-book and to constitute with the cash one account, but repayable not specifically bond for bond, but in kind under such conditions as the savings bank may prescribe.

(e) To purchase and hold for investment bonds secured by first mortgages on improved real estate situated in the State of Pennsylvania and ground rents issuing out of such real estate.

(f) To make loans on the security of bonds secured by first mortgages on improved real estate situated in the state of Pennsylvania.

(g) To purchase, hold and convey real estate as follows:

1. Such as shall be necessary for its accommodation in the transaction of its business.

2. Such as it shall purchase at sales under judgments, decrees or mortgages held by it.

(h) To improve any real estate held by it for its accommodation in the transaction of its business by erecting a building or buildings or by renewing or replacing any building or buildings thereon with a new or additional structure; to use such portion thereof for the transaction of its business as may be suitable and convenient for that purpose; and to lease and let, from time to time, such portion and apartments of such building or buildings as it may not require for its business and to receive rents for the use thereof.

(i) To purchase and hold bankers' acceptances and bills of exchange.

(Note:—Clause (a) is derived from Section 15 of the Savings Bank Act of May 20, 1889, (P. L. 246; 1 Purd. 455), and clause (b) from Section 17 of this act, with the addition of farm loan bonds. Clauses (c) and (d) are new. Clause (e) is also derived from Section 17, with the addition of ground rents.

Clause (f) permits loans on mortgage. Clause (g) follows the provisions of Section 8 of the Act of 1889, omitting the second clause of that section which is covered by clause (f). Clause (h) corresponds to the similar provision as to state banks in Section 46, Clause (h) of this Code. Clause (i) is new.)

SEC. 71. Restrictions on Loans, Investments and Real Estate Holdings. (a) Loans on Commercial Paper.—Except as provided in clause (i) of Section 70 of this Act, no savings bank shall lend the money deposited with it, or any part thereof, upon notes, bills of exchange or drafts, or discount any such notes, bills of exchange or drafts.

(Note:—This is the first draft of Section 19 of the Act of 1889, except as modified by the provision as to Section 70, clause (i) of this Code, permitting the purchase of bankers' acceptances and bills of exchange.)

(b) Investments Other than in Mortgages.—A savings bank shall not purchase and hold for investment securities other than bonds secured by mortgages on real estate and ground rents to an amount exceeding at any time sixty per cent. of the total deposits of such savings bank.

(Note:—This clause is new.)

(c) Loans on Mortgages.—A savings bank shall not purchase and hold for investment mortgages, or loan to any one person or corporation upon the security of mortgage, upon real estate of any one person or corporation to an amount exceeding at any time eight per cent. of the total amount of deposits of such savings bank at the time such a purchase or loan is made.

A savings bank shall not loan upon the security of real estate or purchase a mortgage secured upon real estate unless a bond shall accompany the same; and all the expenses of searches, examinations, certificates of title, appraisal of value or title insurance, and of drawing, perfecting and recording papers shall be paid by such borrower.

Whenever buildings are included in the valuation of any such real estate, they shall be insured against fire by the borrower in a company or companies approved by the savings bank, and the policy or policies of insurance shall be duly assigned to the savings bank or the loss made payable to it as its interest may appear. The savings bank may renew such policy or policies from year to year, or for a longer or shorter time, in case the borrower or the owner of the property shall neglect to do so, and may charge the amount paid to said borrower or owner. All necessary charges and expenses so paid by the savings bank shall be repaid to it by the borrower or the owner of the property and shall be a lien upon the property mortgaged, recoverable with interest from time of payment as part of the money secured to be paid by such mortgage. The amount of insurance to be carried as aforesaid shall be equal to eighty per cent. of the valuation of such buildings, provide such amount does not exceed the amount of the mortgage.

(Note:—This is derived from Sections 19 and 20 of the Act of 1889, except as to the first two paragraphs, which are new.)

(d) Investments in and Title to Real Estate.—A savings bank shall not:

1. Hold or carry title to any real estate owned by it in the name of any other person or corporation, unless specially authorized by the board of trustees.

2. Invest in any real estate for its own accommodation in the transaction of its business, or partly so used and partly leased to others, a sum of money exceeding in the aggregate at any one time fifty per cent. of the amount of its surplus fund without the written approval of the Commissioner.

3. Hold possession of any real estate by virtue of a mortgage, or the title and possession of any real estate purchased by it, except such as may be necessary for its accommodation in the transaction of its business, or partly so used and partly leased to others, for a longer period than seven years without the written approval of the Commissioner: Provided, That this restriction shall not apply to any real estate held by any savings bank before the date of the approval of this act.

(Note:—This follows the provisions of the first three sub-clauses of Section 47, clause (c) of this Code, except that, in sub-clause 2, fifty per cent. of the surplus fund is substituted for fifty per cent. of the capital and surplus.)

(e) Purchases of Acceptances and Bills of Exchange:

1. A savings bank shall not purchase and hold bankers' acceptances and bills of exchange unless the same are of the kind and maturities made eligible by law for rediscount with Federal Reserve Banks and are accepted by a state bank, trust company, or national banking association having its principal place of business in this Commonwealth, or in a city located in another state of the United States and having a population of at least five hundred thousand as shown by the last United States census.

2. A savings bank shall not purchase and hold bankers' acceptances or bills of exchange in an amount exceeding at any one time twenty per cent. of the total amount of deposits of such savings bank.

3. A savings bank shall not purchase and hold the acceptances of any state bank, trust company or national banking association to an amount exceeding at any one time twenty-five per cent. of the paid-up capital and surplus of such acceptor.

(Note:—This new clause limits the power given by clause (i) of Section 70 of this Code.)

(f) Protection against Loss on Previous Loan or Investment.—No restriction imposed by this section shall be construed to prevent a savings bank, in order to protect itself from loss upon a loan or investment previously made in good faith, from taking and holding any kind of property or security. Any property so acquired, unless of a character to be a legal investment for such savings bank, shall be sold by it within five years, unless the Commissioner shall give written consent to a longer holding.

(Note:—This corresponds to clause (f) of Section 47 of this Code, relating to state banks.)

(g) Property or Securities Acquired before Approval of Act.—No restriction imposed by this section shall be construed to render unlawful the continued holding of any loans, securities or real estate lawfully acquired prior to the date of the approval of this Act.

(Note:—This corresponds to clause (g) of Section 47 of this Code, relating to state banks.)

SEC. 72. Trustees. (a) Incorporators to be First Board of Trustees.—The persons named in the certificate of incorporation of a savings bank, as provided by clause (b) of Section 20 of this Act, shall be the first trustees of such savings bank and shall have the entire management and control of all of its affairs, subject to the provisions of this Act.

(Note:—This is derived from Section 9 of the Act of 1889.)

(b) Filling Vacancies; Eligibility.—All vacancies in the board of trustees of a savings bank by death, resignation or otherwise, shall be filled by the board as soon as practicable at a regular meeting after such vacancies occur.

No person shall be elected to fill such a vacancy unless he shall be a citizen of the United States and a bona fide resident of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and removal from the state by any trustee so elected shall vacate his office.

Each trustee so elected shall, within thirty days thereafter, file with the Commissioner the declaration required of incorporators by section 21, sub-division VI, of this Act.

Note:—The first paragraph is derived from Section 11 of the Act of 1889, and the second from Section 28 of that Act, with the addition of the provision as to citizenship. The third paragraph is new.)

(c) Change in Number of Trustees.—Subject to the approval of the Commissioner, the board of trustees of any savings bank, may by resolution adopted by a majority of the board, a copy whereof shall be filed with the Commissioner, reduce the number of trustees named in the certificate of incorporation to any number not less than fifteen, such reduction to be effected gradually by the occurrence of vacancies by death, resignation or otherwise.

The number of trustees may be increased, by resolution similarly adopted, to any number designated in the resolution, with the approval of the Commissioner.

(Note:—This is derived from Section 26 of the Act of 1889, the Commissioner being substituted for the Auditor-General.)

(d) Conduct of Trustees; Compensation.—No trustee of any savings bank shall have any interest whatever, direct or indirect, in the gains or profits thereof, otherwise than as a depositor, nor shall he directly or indirectly receive any pay or emolument for his services, except as herein-after provided; and no trustee or other officer of any savings bank shall, directly or indirectly, for himself or as the agent or partner of others, borrow any of its funds or deposits or in any manner use the same except to make such current and necessary payments as are authorized by the board of trustees; and any trustee violating any of the provisions of this paragraph shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be subject to imprisonment not exceeding one year and to a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or either, at the discretion of the court, and to repay forthwith to the savings bank any amount received or borrowed in violation of any of the provisions of this paragraph.

No trustee or other officer of any savings bank shall become an endorser or surety or in any manner an obligator for moneys loaned by or borrowed from such savings bank.

Trustees of a savings bank, acting as officers of the same, whose duties require and receive a regular and faithful attendance at the institution, may receive such compensation as in the opinion of a majority of the board of trustees shall be just and reasonable; but such majority shall be exclusive of any trustee to whom such compensation shall be voted.

Any savings bank, by a vote of a majority of its trustees, may allow and pay to its trustees compensation for their services as such, with the approval of the Commissioner.

(Note:—This is derived from Sections 12 and 27 of the Act of 1889. The penalty of the first paragraph is modeled upon that of Section 48 of this Code. Section 27 declares that it shall not be lawful to pay trustees as such for attendance at meetings of the board; but in view of the general Act of May 17, 1917, (P. L. 228), it has been considered proper to follow the provisions of clause (1) of Section 38 of this Code, adding the requirement that the approval of the Commissioner shall be obtained.)

(e) Disqualification of Trustees.—Whenever a trustee of any savings bank shall become a trustee, officer, clerk or employee in any other savings bank, or upon his borrowing directly or indirectly any of the funds of the savings bank of which he is a trustee, or becoming a surety or guarantor for any money borrowed of, or a loan made by such savings bank, or upon his failure to attend the regular meetings of the board or to perform any of the duties devolving upon him as trustee for six successive months without having been previously excused by the board for such failure, the office of such trustee shall thereupon immediately become vacant; but a trustee vacating his office by failure to attend meetings or to discharge his duties may, in the discretion of the board, be eligible for re-election.

(Note:—This is derived from Section 13 of the Act of 1889 with slight changes of wording.)

(f) Liability of Trustees upon Insolvency.—If the insolvency of any savings bank be occasioned by the fraudulent conduct of the trustees, those trustees by whose acts or omissions the insolvency was in whole or in part occasioned shall each be liable to the depositors and creditors of the savings bank for his proportional share of the losses, the proportion to be ascertained by dividing the whole loss among the whole number of trustees liable for its reimbursement.

(Note:—This is the last paragraph of Section 11 of the Act of 1889, slightly modified in phraseology.)

SEC. 73. Deposits. (a) Interest; Surplus Fund.—It shall be lawful for a savings bank to credit and pay interest on deposits. The trustees shall regulate the rate of interest, not to exceed five per centum per annum, upon the deposits, in such manner that the depositors shall receive, as nearly as may be, all the profits of the savings bank after deducting necessary expenses and reserving such amount as the trustees may deem expedient as a surplus fund for the security of depositors, which, to the amount of fifteen per centum of the deposits, the trustees are hereby authorized gradually to accumulate and hold to meet any contingency or loss in the business, from the depreciation of securities or otherwise.

The trustees of any savings bank may classify its depositors according to the character, amount and duration of their dealings with the savings bank, and regulate the interest allowed in such manner that each depositor shall receive the same ratable proportion as all others of the same class. It shall be unlawful for the trustees to declare or allow interest on any deposit for a longer period than the same has been deposited; and no interest shall be declared, credited or paid except by the authority of a vote of a majority of the board of trustees, duly entered upon their minutes, whereon shall be recorded the yeas and nays upon each vote; and whenever any interest shall be declared and credited in excess of the interest or profits earned and appearing to the credit of the savings bank, the trustees so voting for such interest shall be jointly and severally liable to the savings bank for the amount of such excess, so declared and credited.

It shall be the duty of the trustees of any savings bank whose surplus exceeds fifteen per centum of its deposits, to gradually reduce the excess over and above the said fifteen per centum by an increase in the rate of interest paid to depositors.

A notice posted conspicuously in the banking room of a change in the rate of interest shall be equivalent to a personal notice.

(Note:—The first sentence is derived from Section 15 of the Act of 1889, and the remainder of the clause from Section 22 of that act, omitting the words "per annum" after "fifteen per centum", as misleading. The provision as to gradual reduction is new.)

(b) Regulation and Repayment.—Deposits, together with the interest credited thereupon, shall be repaid to the depositors respectively, or to their legal representatives, after demand in such manner, at such times, after such previous notices, and under such regulations as the board of trustees shall prescribe.

The regulations shall be printed in the passbooks or other evidences of deposit furnished by the savings bank, and shall be evidence between the savings bank and depositors holding the same of the terms upon which deposits therein acknowledged are made.

Every savings bank shall have the right to limit the aggregate amount which any one person or corporation may deposit to such sum as the board of trustees may deem it expedient to receive, and may refuse to receive, and may refuse to receive a deposit, and at any time return all or any part of any deposit.

(Note:—This conforms to the provisions of Section 15 of the Act of 1889, omitting, however, the limitation upon the aggregate of any depositor.)

SEC. 74. Voluntary Dissolution. (a) Resolution of Trustees; Notice to Depositors and Creditors.—Whenever the trustees of any solvent savings bank shall deem it necessary and expedient to close the business thereof, they may, by affirmative vote of not less than two-thirds of the whole number of trustees, at a meeting to be called for that purpose, of which all the trustees shall have notice, declare by resolution the determination of the savings bank to close its business and pay the money to the depositors and creditors and surrender the corporate franchise. The vote upon such resolution shall be taken by yeas and nays, and the resolution and the votes thereon shall be recorded in the minutes of the board, and a copy of the record of such proceedings, certified by the president and secretary of the Savings bank, shall be filed with the Commissioner. The trustees shall thereupon give notice to all the depositors and creditors of the adoption of such resolution by publication thereof in two newspapers and by written or printed notices to the depositors and creditors.

(Note:—This is the first part of Section 30 of the Act of 1889.)

(b) Certificate of Dissolution; Distribution of Assets.—Upon the completion of such advertising and the presentation to the Commissioner of satisfactory proofs of publication and of service of notices, the Commissioner shall forthwith issue to the savings bank a certificate of dissolution, whereupon the bank shall cease to do business and the board of trustees then in office shall thenceforth act as liquidating trustees of the bank, and shall proceed to collect all its assets and distribute the same in accordance with the provisions of Section 45 of this Act: Provided, That when distribution has been made as aforesaid and said trustees have complied with the laws of this Commonwealth relating to escheats, the franchise of such savings bank shall be deemed to have been surrendered and the existence thereof terminated.

(Note:—This takes the place of the last part of Section 30 of the Act of 1889. Except for the proviso, it follows the provisions of clause (c) of Section 43 of this Code.)

SEC. 75. Matters Not Specifically Covered by This Article.—Savings banks shall be subject to the provisions of Sections 34, 35, 36, 37, 40, 42, 49, 50, 51, 53, 54 and 56 of this Act, so far as the same are not in conflict with the provisions of this Article.

(Note:—This Section has been drafted to avoid repeating in this Article the sections covered by the cross references.)

ARTICLE VI.

UNINCORPORATED BANKS.

SECTION 76. Right to do Business. (a) No New Unincorporated Banks.—From and after the date of approval of this Act no new unincorporated bank shall be established, and no individual, partnership or unincorporated association shall engage, directly or indirectly, in the business of banking or of receiving deposits of money for safe keeping or for the purpose of transmission to another, or for any other purpose, except as provided in clause (c) of this section.

(b) Existing Unincorporated Banks.—Unincorporated banks lawfully engaged at the date of the approval of this Act in a banking business and actually transacting the same may continue in such business at the places where they are now located, under and subject to the provisions of this Act.

(c) Exemptions.—None of the provisions of this article shall apply to any express company or telegraph company receiving money for transmission; nor to any hotel-keeper who shall receive money for safe keeping from a guest; nor to any individual, partnership or unincorporated association licensed under the laws of this Commonwealth to do a brokerage business, holding a membership in a lawfully incorporated brokerage exchange, and not doing any banking business as defined by this Act.

None of the provisions of this Article except those of Sections 77, 78, 80, 81, 83, 84, 87, 89, 90, 93, and 95, shall apply to any individual, partnership or unincorporated association engaged in business as a private banker or private bankers on the 19th day of June, 1911, if such individual, partnership or unincorporated association and his or their predecessor, predecessors, or one or more of the members thereof, had continuously and in the same locality conducted the business since a date not less than seven years prior to the 19th day of June, 1911, and such individual, partnership or unincorporated association was not, on the 19th day of June, 1911, engaged in the sale, as agent or otherwise of railroad or steamship tickets: Provided, That any unincorporated bank exempted by this section may upon application to the Commissioner and on acceptance of all the terms of this Act become subject to all of its provisions.

(Note:—This Article takes the place of the Act of June 19, 1911, (P. L. 1060: Purd. 5350-50). The changes are noted under the various sections.

Clause (a) of the present section forbids the establishment of any new private banks and therefore involves the repeal of all provisions of the Act of 1911 relating to the granting of licenses.

Clause (b) permits private banks now lawfully in business to continue.

Clause (c) embodies such of the exceptions contained in Section 8 of the Act of 1911 as it is necessary to reenact. The provision of that section for exemption from supervision by filing a bond or depositing securities is omitted.)

SEC. 77. Changes in Partnership.—Neither death nor withdrawal of a partner nor the admission of a new partner shall change the status of any existing unincorporated bank as a partnership under the provisions of this Act, nor work a dissolution of such partnership if all the remaining partners elect to continue the same and assume or discharge all of its obligations.

In case of any change in the partnership by death, sale or otherwise, a new statement, in accordance with Section 79 or Section 80, as the case may be, shall forthwith be filed with the Commissioner, under the penalty provided in Section 81, and a certificate of authorization or exemption, as the case may be, shall be obtained in accordance with Section 82 or Section 83.

SEC. 78. Unincorporated Banks Must be Partnerships.—From and after Jan. 1, 1925, no unincorporated bank shall be continued or carried on by an individual or an unincorporated association or otherwise than by at least three individuals, who shall be general partners and at least a majority of whom, in number and interest, shall be citizens of the United States, and at least two of whom shall be bona fide residents of the state of Pennsylvania; and no one, of at least three, of the members of said partnership shall be the owner of less than a five per cent. interest in such unincorporated bank.

(Note:—The Commissioners are of opinion that a banking business should not be conducted by one individual or by an informal, unincorporated association. The complications arising in case of death in the first instance, and the difficulty of enforcing obligations in the second, make it desirable that in every case a bank which is not incorporated should be carried on by a general partnership and that at least three of the partners should have substantial interests in the bank. Furthermore, the rights of depositors and creditors will be clearly defined in the marshalling of partnership and individual assets. Ample time is allowed for the formation of partnerships.)

SEC. 79. Statement to be Filed.—On or before December 31, 1924, every unincorporated bank in the state of Pennsylvania, except those exempted by clause (c) of Section 76 of this Act, shall file with the Commissioner a verified statement in duplicate, which shall set forth:

(a) Name.—The name of the bank, which shall be in form, "The Banking Company of, Unincorporated," or the name by which the bank is known at the date of the approval of this Act, followed, in all cases where such name includes the word "Bank" or "Banking" by the word "Unincorporated", where required under the provisions of Section 85 of this Act, which name thereafter may be changed only with the consent of the Commissioner.

(b) Partners.—The full name, residence and post office address of each member of the partnership, and the citizenship of each.

(c) Place of Business.—The county, and the city, borough or township in which the business is carried on, with the street number or other local designation therein of the place of business of the unincorporated bank.

(d) Capital.—The amount of permanent capital actually paid in and remaining in its possession, bona fide, as its property, for its sole purposes.

(e) Individual Responsibility.—A statement of the responsibility and net worth of the individual members of the partnership, together with a detailed statement of the resources and liabilities of the unincorporated bank.

(f) Articles of Agreement.—A duplicate of the articles of co-partnership or agreement under which the business of the bank is being or is to be conducted, which shall be executed and acknowledged by all the partners, and which shall set forth the amount of the interest of each partner, and may, subject to the approval of the Commissioner, provide for the selection by the partners of a board of managers, consisting of not less than three of the partners, and for the employment of a cashier and such other agents and employees as may be necessary.

(g) Managers, Officers, and Employees.—If not disclosed in the articles of co-partnership or agreement, then the names, residences and post office addresses of the board of managers, if any, chosen for the first year, and of the officers, agents or employees in active charge and management of the business.

Said statement shall be verified by the oaths or affirmations of all the members of the partnership, upon a form prescribed by the Commissioner, which shall state that the affiants have read the statement and that the facts therein set forth are true.

(Note:—The statement required by this section corresponds as nearly as may be to the certificate of incorporation of an incorporated bank, and will put upon the record in the office of the Commissioner full information as to every unincorporated bank subject to the supervision of the Department, including the paid-in capital, the net worth of the partners, and the terms of the partnership agreement.)

SEC. 80. Statement of Exempted Unincorporated Banks.—On or before December 31, 1923, every unincorporated bank exempted by clause (c) of Section 76 of this Act, or claiming to be so exempt, shall file with the Commissioner a verified statement in duplicate, setting forth in detail the facts upon which such exemption is based or claimed, and the matters specified in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of Section 79 of this Act.

(Note:—Compliance with this section will furnish the Commissioner with a record of the names, partners, and places of business of the banks not subject to his supervision, with a statement, in each instance, of the grounds upon which the exemption is claimed.)

SEC. 81. Business Prohibited unless Statements Filed.—From and after the dates mentioned in Sections 79 and 80 of this Act, respectively, no unincorporated bank shall continue in business unless it shall have filed with the Commissioner the statement required of such bank by Section 79 or Section 80, as the case may be; nor, although it shall have filed such certificate, shall an unincorporated bank subject to the provisions of Section 79 continue in business after December 31, 1924, unless it shall have obtained from the Commissioner a certificate of authorization as hereinafter provided, or an unincorporated bank exempted by clause (c) of Section 76, unless it shall have obtained from the Commissioner a certificate of exemption as hereinafter provided.

(Note:—This furnishes the method of enforcement of Sections 79 and 80, as well as Sections 82 and 83.)

SEC. 82. Certificate of Authorization.—Upon receipt by the Commissioner of the statement required by Section 79 of this Act, he shall issue his certificate authorizing the unincorporated bank, subject to the provisions of this Act, to continue its business, provided it shall appear that the provisions of this Article have been complied with by the applicant, that the terms of the article or co-partnership or agreement set forth in said statement are in form binding upon the parties thereto and not in contravention of this Act or of public policy, and that the financial condition and responsibility of said unincorporated bank and of the individual partners are such as to warrant a continuance of the business.

Said statement may be amended for any defect in form or substance on application to the Commissioner and for proper cause shown.

In case the Commissioner shall refuse to issue the certificate of authorization as aforesaid, he shall forthwith give notice thereof in writing, stating his objections in detail, to such unincorporated bank, which shall have the same right to appeal and in the same manner as is provided by Section 25 of this Act.

(Note:—Under the provisions of this section, the Commissioner is given power to determine whether an existing unincorporated bank subject to the supervision of the Department, should be authorized to continue in business. The right to appeal from an adverse decision by the Commissioner is secured.)

SEC. 83. Certificate of Exemption.—Upon receipt by the Commissioner of the statement required by Section 80 of this Act, if he shall find that the unincorporated bank filing such statement is entitled to exemption under clause (c) of Section 76 of this Act, he shall issue his certificate so stating.

(Note:—A bank not subject to the supervision of the Department will, under this section, be furnished with evidence of its exemption.)

SEC. 84. Certificate and Statement to be Posted.—Every unincorporated bank shall at all times keep posted in the room in which it transacts its business and in plain view of its customers the certificate of authorization issued by the Commissioner pursuant to Section 82 of this Act, with a statement of the names of all the members of the partnership, that the resources of the bank are pledged for its liabilities, and that the individual assets of the partners are additional security for its obligators, or the certificate of exemption issued by the Commissioner pursuant to Section 83 of the Act.

(Note:—This corresponds to the provision of Section 1 of the Act of 1911 requiring the license certificate to be posted.)

SEC. 85. "Unincorporated" to be part of name.—From and after December 31, 1923, every unincorporated bank, the name of which includes the word "bank" or "banking", shall use the word "unincorporated" immediately following the name under which it does business.

(Note:—The Commissioners consider it proper that every person dealing with an unincorporated bank should have notice of the fact that the bank is not a corporation.)

SEC. 86. Capital.—No unincorporated bank, subject to the provisions of this Act shall continue in business after December 31, 1924, unless it shall have a capital actually paid in and remaining in its possession, bona fide, as its property and to be used for its sole purposes and for the security of its depositors and other creditors, of not less than ten thousand dollars in any city, borough or township, the population of which does not exceed five thousand inhabitants, nor less than twenty-five thousand dollars in any city, borough or township having a population between five thousand and fifty thousand inhabitants, nor less than fifty thousand dollars in any city, borough or township having a population exceeding fifty thousand inhabitants.

Such capital shall at all times be segregated from all other property or business of the members of the partnership and shall be kept and maintained unimpaired for the security of depositors and other creditors of such unincorporated bank.

From time to time, with the written consent of the Commissioner and upon cause shown, the capital of an unincorporated bank may be increased. In like manner, such capital may be decreased, provided such decrease does not bring such capital below the minimum required for such unincorporated bank by the provisions of this Section.

(Note:—These provisions, requiring a minimum capital, which shall be segregated and kept unimpaired, and which may not decrease without the consent of the Commissioner, should tend to protect depositors and others dealing with unincorporated banks. Ample time is given to enable existing banks to bring their capital up to the minimum.)

SEC. 87. Contract Provisions as to Ascertainment of Value of Partner's Share.—Nothing contained in this Act, through the increase of the capital or surplus, or otherwise, of any unincorporated bank, shall have the effect of rendering inoperative the lawful terms of any contracts among partners, existing at the date of the approval of this Act, as to the methods of ascertaining the true value of any partner's interest in the co-partnership in case of the withdrawal or death of such partner, without the consent of all the partners thereto.

(Note:—This section is for the protection of partners in existing unincorporated banks.)

SEC. 88. Bonds of Officers and Employees.—All officers of every unincorporated bank, other than members of the firm, and such employees as shall, with the approval of the Commissioner, be designated by the partners, shall be required to furnish bonds the same as those required of officers and employees of unincorporated banks under the provisions of Section 37, clause (d) of this Act.

(Note:—There is no reason why unincorporated banks should not be subject to the same provisions as to the bonding of officers and employees as apply to banks which are incorporated.)

SEC. 89. Changing Place of Business.—No unincorporated bank, except as provided in Section 90 of this Act, shall transact a banking business except at the place designated in the certificate of authorization or exemption issued by the Commissioner as provided by Section 82 or 83 of this Act, unless such place of business shall be lawfully changed in the following manner:

Any unincorporated bank may remove the location of its place of business to any other place within the same city, borough or township, upon filing with the Commissioner an application for such removal, signed by all the members of the partnership, upon receipt of which the Commissioner shall issue a certificate of removal as requested, provided the place to which the removal is proposed to be made be one not prohibited by any provisions of this Act.

Any unincorporated bank may remove the location of its place of business to any other place within the same county, but outside of the city, borough or township, by filing an application and obtaining a certificate of removal as aforesaid, and, in the case of an unincorporated bank not otherwise subject to all the provisions of this Act, by accepting such provisions; but such change of location shall not be made until the Commissioner shall be satisfied that the same will serve the convenience and advantage of the public, that the density of the population in the neighborhood designated for the new place of business and in the surrounding country affords a reasonable promise of adequate support for the enterprise, and that the capital equals or exceeds the minimum required by law for an unincorporated bank located in the place to which the removal is proposed to be made.

When any change of location of place of business of an unincorporated bank is made under the provisions of this section, the Commissioner shall forthwith notify the Auditor-General thereof.

(Note:—The Commissioners consider it desirable that an unincorporated bank should not be permitted to do business except at its regular place of business, and that any change of such place should be subject to the supervision of the Banking Commissioner as in the case of incorporated banks.)

SEC. 90. Branches Forbidden.—No unincorporated bank shall establish or maintain any branch or any agency for the purpose of discount or deposits, unless such branch had been established and operated for at least seven years prior to the 19th day of June, 1911; and any unincorporated bank violating the provisions of this section shall be subject to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each day during which any such branch or agency shall be open or occupied, said penalty to be payable to the Commissioner and recoverable by him by action at law. In addition to said remedy, a court of competent jurisdiction may, on bill filed by the Commissioner, issue an injunction restraining any unincorporated bank from establishing or maintaining a branch agency, and may make such other order or decree as equity and justice may require.

(Note:—In the opinion of the Commissioners, no new branches of unincorporated banks should be allowed. The penalty and the remedy provided by this section are the same as those for the unauthorized establishment or maintenance of a branch by an incorporated bank.)

SEC. 91. Title to property.—No property, real or personal, owned by an unincorporated bank, shall be held in the name of any individual or member of the partnership; but all such property shall be held in the registered name of the co-partnership, or in the names of the members of the co-partnership, followed by the words, "co-partners, doing business as", and the name of the unincorporated bank.

(Note:—In line with the provisions of Section 86 for segregation of capital, this section provides that title to all property shall be held in the name of the bank.)

SEC. 92. Powers and Limitations as to Real Estate, Loans and Investments.—The powers of unincorporated banks as to the purchase and holding of real estate and the improvement thereof, and as to the making of loans upon or investments in mortgages and ground rents, and the limitations upon the loans which may be made by an unincorporated bank to any corporation or person, shall be the same, as those provided by Sections 46 and 47 of this Act as to state banks, save that the percentage shall be calculated on the paid-in capital of the unincorporated bank and the net worth of the partners as individuals.

(Note:—This puts unincorporated banks on the same footing as state banks with regard to holdings of real estate, the improvement thereof and loans and investments. The net worth of the partners as individuals is used as a basis for the limitations instead of the surplus of incorporated banks.)

SEC. 93. Distribution of Assets.—The depositors in any unincorporated bank shall be first paid out of the assets of such bank in any proceeding for winding up its business, to the amount of their several deposits; and for any balance remaining unpaid, such depositors shall share in the general assets of the members of the partnership pro rata with the general creditors of such partners.

(Note:—This gives depositors priority as to the assets of the bank and makes them general creditors of the individual partners as to any balance not paid out of the unincorporated bank assets.)

SEC. 94. Satisfaction of Mortgages, etc.—Wherever it becomes necessary to satisfy any mortgage, judgment or lien which has been accepted by the Licensing Board, under the provisions of the Act of June 19, 1911, entitled "An Act to provide for licensing and regulating private banking in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and providing penalties for the violation thereof," the Commissioner shall have power to cause satisfaction or relief to be entered upon the record in such manner and form as are now prescribed under existing laws.

(Note:—This takes the place of the Act of May 23, 1913, (P. L. 334; 5 Purd. 5354), which requires a resolution of the Board giving the Commissioner power of attorney. The Board will of course be abolished by the repeal of the Act of 1911.)

SEC. 95. Conversion of Unincorporated Bank into State Bank or Trust Company.—(a) Method of Incorporation.—Any unincorporated bank lawfully doing business in this state may be converted into an incorporated state bank or trust company by complying with the provisions of this Act in regard to the incorporation of such banks and trust companies; and in event of such incorporation the capital stock may be paid by transfer of the assets of such unincorporated bank, provided the live assets of such unincorporated bank shall exceed its liabilities by an amount equal to the amount of the capital stock, such assets to be taken at the true value thereof. The Commissioner shall cause an examination of such incorporated bank to be made and its assets and liabilities ascertained before authorizing payment of the capital by a transfer of such assets and before approving the certificate of incorporation.

(b) Effect of Incorporation.—Upon the incorporation of any unincorporated bank as herein provided, all the assets of every kind and character, including the real and personal property, and choses in action, belonging to such unincorporated bank shall be deemed to be transferred to and vested in such incorporated state bank or trust company without any deed, transfer or assignment being executed, and the incorporated state bank or trust company shall hold and enjoy the same in the same manner and to the same extent as the unincorporated bank held and owned the same.

(c) Rights of Creditors and Others.—The rights of the creditors and depositors of such unincorporated bank shall not be impaired in any manner by such incorporation, nor shall any liability or obligation for the payment of any money due or to become due, or any claim or demand existing against such unincorporated bank be in any manner released or impaired thereby, and all the rights, obligations and relations of all the parties, depositors, and others shall remain unimpaired by such incorporation. Such incorporated state bank or trust company into which such unincorporated state bank shall be converted shall succeed to and be held liable to pay and discharge all obligations and liabilities in the same manner as though such incorporated state bank or trust company had itself incurred the obligation or liability; and no suit or other proceeding then pending before any court or tribunal in which such unincorporated bank is a party shall be deemed to have abated or been discontinued by reason of any such incorporation, but the same may be prosecuted to final judgment in the same manner as if such unincorporated bank had not been so converted, and the incorporated state bank or trust company may be substituted in place of the unincorporated bank by order of the court in which such action, suit or proceeding may be pending. Such incorporated state bank or trust company shall likewise be subject to be sued in any court having jurisdiction upon any cause of action against such converted unincorporated bank, in the same manner as if such cause of action had originated against such incorporated state bank or trust company.

(Note:—This new section provides a method whereby private banks may be directly converted into incorporated state banks or trust companies without the necessity of having the individual partners apply for a charter and wind up the affairs of the unincorporated bank.)

SEC. 96. Matters Not Specifically Covered by This Article.—Unincorporated banks shall be subject to the provisions of Sections 52 to 57, inclusive, of this Act, so far as the same are not in conflict with the provisions of this Article save that "capital invested in the business" shall be substituted for "capital stock" in Sections 56 and 57.

(Note:—This section has been drafted to avoid repeating in this Article the sections covered by the cross references.)

ARTICLE VII

CRIMINAL OFFENCES BY OFFICERS, DIRECTORS OR EMPLOYEES OF BANKS.

SECTION 97. False Swearing.—The wilful and deliberate false swearing by any officer, director, partner or employee of any bank, in any case where an oath or affirmation is required of him in such capacity by this Act or by any law of this Commonwealth, shall constitute perjury and be punishable, upon conviction, in the same manner as perjury is or may be punished by law.

(Note:—This takes the place of Section 1 of the Act of April 3, 1840 (P. L. 716; 1 Purd. 436). It has been extended so as to include partners in unincorporated banks; and the crime is declared to be perjury, instead of a misdemeanor punishable by stated fine and imprisonment.)

SEC. 98. Compensation for Procuring Loans.—No officer, director, partner, associate, employee or attorney of any bank may stipulate for, or receive or consent or agree to receive, any fee, commission, gift or thing of value for procuring or endeavoring to procure for any person or corporation any loan from, or the purchase or discount of any negotiable paper or other evidence of debt by, such bank: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall prevent the payment by a bank of a rate of interest on a deposit with such bank of any officer, director, partner, associate, employee or attorney, not greater than that paid to other depositors on similar deposits.

Any violation of the provisions of this section shall constitute a misdemeanor, punishable on conviction by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding three years, or both, at the discretion of the court.

(Note:—This section is new.)

SEC. 99. False Certification of Checks.—Whoever, being an officer, director, partner, associate, employee or agent of a bank, wilfully certifies a check drawn on such bank and fails forthwith to charge the amount thereof against the account of the drawer, or wilfully certifies a check drawn upon the bank unless the drawer of such check has on deposit with the bank an amount of money subject to the payment of such check and equal to the amount specified therein shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

(Note:—This section is new.)

SEC. 100. Embezzlement and Frauds. (a) Embezzlement Generally.—If any president, cashier, director, trustee or any other officer or employee of any bank shall fraudulently embezzle or appropriate to his own use, or to the use of any other person or persons, or misapply any money or other property belonging to said bank, or left with the same as a special deposit or otherwise, he or they, upon conviction of such offense, shall be fined in an amount not less than the sum appropriated or embezzled and sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the proper state penitentiary, to be kept in separate and solitary confinement at hard labor for any term not exceeding five years: Provided, That this shall not prevent any person or persons aggrieved from pursuing his, her or their civil remedy against such person or persons.

(Note:—This re-enacts Section 19 of the Act of May 13, 1876 (P. L. 167; 1 Purd. 405), with the addition of the word "trustee" and the substitution of "employee" for "clerk," and makes the section applicable to all banks.

Section 20 of the Act of April 16, 1850 (P. L. 486; 1 Purd. 426), is substantially the same.)

(b) Embezzlement; Misapplication of Funds; Frauds and False Entries.—Every president, Director, trustee, cashier, teller, employee or agent of any bank who shall embezzle, abstract or wilfully misapply any of the moneys, funds or credits of such bank, or shall, without authority from the directors or trustees, fraudulently issue or put forth any certificate of deposit, draw any order or bill of exchange, mortgage or other instrument of writing, or shall make any false entry on any book, report or statement of the bank, with an intent, in either case, to injure or defraud such bank, or to injure or defraud any other company, body corporate or politic, or any individual person, or to deceive any officer or agent appointed to inspect the affairs of any bank, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be confined in the penitentiary, at hard labor, not less than one, nor more than ten years.

(Note:—This re-enacts Section 36 of the Act of May 1, 1861 (P. L. 515), adding the references to "trustees," substituting "employee" for "clerk," and omitting the provision as to fraudulent circulation of the notes of the bank, which is obsolete.)

ARTICLE VIII.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF ACT: REPEALER.

SEC. 101. Effective Date of Act.—Except as therein otherwise expressly provided, this Act shall go into effect on the first day of September, 1922.

SEC. 102. Repealer.—The following acts and parts of acts of assembly are hereby repealed as respectively indicated. The repeal of the first section of an act shall not repeal the enacting clause, and the repeal of a repealing act shall not revive the act or acts repealed thereby.

AN ACT

Relating to the organization, maintenance and operation of the Banking Department, and the scope of its supervision and control over corporations, partnerships, unincorporated associations and individuals, and the assets and liabilities thereof; providing penalties for the enforcement of its provisions; and repealing the Banking Department Act of 1919; with table of contents.

This is a re-enactment of the Banking Department Act of 1921, with the following changes:

The definition of "Commissioner" has been added in Section 2. In Section 4, the phraseology as to unincorporated banks has been modified and the reference to cooperative banks added. The last paragraph of the Section in the Act of 1919 has been omitted, being covered by Section 14 of the Banking Act. In Section 5, clauses (a) and (b), the salary of the Commissioner has been increased from $8,000 to $10,000 and those of the deputies have each been increased by $1,000. Section 9 (a) has been changed by omitting the temporary provisions of the first paragraph and inserting the words "and furniture" after "rental". In clause (b), the proviso as to building and loan associations has been omitted, so as to put the associations on the same footing as other institutions examined by the department. The provision, in Section 12, as to selection of the Committee by the bank, is new. In Section 14, clauses (a) and (b), the language has been slightly modified, and in clause (a) semi-annual examination of banks has been made annual. In Section 15 (a), the signatures of at least two members of a partnership has been substituted for the signatures of all. In Section 20, there has been a slight revision of the wording and the time for making good impairment of capital has been reduced from sixty to thirty days. The last clause of Section 21 is new. In Section 24, the words "and legal counsel" have been added. In Section 26, the requirement of certification of the inventory is omitted. Section 37 has been modified so as to conform to the language of Section 31 of the Banking Act. Section 51 conforms to Section 5 of the Banking Act, and Section 52 is of course, new. The act of 1919 is to be repealed with the single exception of Section 53 thereof, the repealer.

Section 1. Short Title.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, that this Act shall be known and may be cited as "The Banking Act of 1923."

Section 2. Definitions.

Except as otherwise expressly indicated, the following words, wherever used in this Act, shall be taken and construed to have the following meanings:

"Commissioner" means the Commissioner of Banking.

"Person" means an individual, a partnership or an unincorporated association.

"Court" means the Court of Common Pleas of the County, where the banking house or other place of business of the corporation or person in question is located.

"Prothonotary" means the prothonotary of such Court.

Section 3. Advertisements, Notices and Fees.

(a) Advertisements. Whenever, under any of the provisions of this act, advertisement is required to be made in a newspaper, such advertisement shall, unless otherwise provided, be made in a newspaper of general circulation in the county, published in the city, borough or township where the banking house or other place of business of the corporation or person in question is located. If there be no newspaper published in such city, borough or township, then the advertisement shall be made in a newspaper of general circulation in the county, published at the county-seat, or, if none be there published, in the newspaper published nearest to said city, borough or township, within the county. If there be no newspaper published in the county, then the advertisement shall be made in the newspaper published nearest to such city, borough, or township, in an adjoining county.

(b) Notices. Except as otherwise expressly provided, all written or printed notices required by this act shall be served either in the manner now or hereafter provided by law for the service of writs of summons, save that service need not be made by the sheriff, or by mailing such notice by registered mail, return receipt requested, to any person required to be notified, at his last known place of business or residence, and to any corporation at its principal office, or, if a foreign corporation, at the office of its duly authorized agent.

(c) Fees. Whenever, under any of the provisions of this act, certificates or other documents are required to be filed or recorded in the office of the prothonotary of any court of common pleas or in the office of any public official other than the Commissioner of Banking, such prothonotary or other official shall be entitled to receive therefor the same fees as are provided by law for similar services.

Section 4. Banking Department; Scope of Supervision; Powers; Duties.—There shall continue to be a separate and distinct department known as the Banking Department, charged with the supervision of all the corporations and persons hereinafter described, and with the duty of taking care that the laws of this Commonwealth in relation thereto shall be faithfully executed, and that the greatest safety to depositors therein or therewith and to other interested persons shall be afforded.

The said supervision, duties, and powers shall extend and apply to the following corporations now or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this state or under the laws of any other state, and authorized to transact business in this state, namely: all such corporations having power to receive and receiving money on deposits or for safe-keeping otherwise than as bailee, including all banks, banking companies, co-operative banking associations, trust, safe deposit, real estate, mortgage, title insurance, guarantee, surety and indemnity companies, savings institutions, savings banks and provident institutions. The said supervision, duties and powers shall also extend and apply to mutual savings funds, building and loan associations, and corporations doing a safe deposit business only.

The said supervision, duties, and powers shall also extend and apply to all national banking associations, located in this state, now or hereafter incorporated under the laws of the United States, which shall, in pursuance of Federal law or regulation, be granted a permit to act or shall act as trustee, executor, administrator, registrar of stocks and bonds, guardian of estates, assignee, receiver, committee of estates of lunatics, or in any other fiduciary capacity.

The said supervision, duties, and powers shall also extend and apply to all unincorporated banks except such as are or shall be exempted by law, and to all such individuals, partnerships and unincorporated associations as are or shall be by law subject to the supervision of said department, and to any individuals or associations of individuals doing the business of co-operative banks or of building and loan associations, or a business in the nature of either, whether under the guise of a deed of trust or otherwise.

Section 5. Commissioner, Deputies and Employees.

(a) The chief officer of the Banking Department shall continue to be known as the Commissioner of Banking. He shall be appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and shall hold office for the term of four years and until his successor is duly qualified. Within fifteen days from the time of notice of his appointment, he shall take and subscribe the oath of office prescribed by the constitution and file the same in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and shall also give to the Commonwealth a bond, in the penalty of fifty thousand dollars, with two or more individual sureties, or a corporate surety, to be approved by the Governor, conditioned for the faithful performance of all his duties. He shall receive an annual salary of ten thousand dollars.

(b) Deputies. The Commissioner shall appoint a first deputy, whose salary shall be six thousand dollars per annum, and may appoint a second and a third deputy, whose salaries shall be, respectively, five thousand and four thousand dollars per annum. The duties of all such deputies shall be such as may be assigned to them by the Commissioner, and each of them shall take, subscribe, and file oath of office as herein prescribed for the Commissioner, and shall, whenever required by the Commissioner, give bond, in such amount and with such surety as may be prescribed by the Commissioner, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of such deputy.

(c) Deputy Acting in Place of Commissioner.—Whenever the Commissioner, by reason of absence or incapacity, is unable to perform the duties of his office, or if a vacancy in the office of Commissioner occurs, the duties of the Commissioner shall be performed by the deputy next in authority, until such disability is removed or the vacancy filled.

Any deputy, before entering upon the performance of such duties, shall give to the Commonwealth a bond in the penalty of fifty thousand dollars, with two or more individual sureties; or a corporate surety, to be approved by the Governor, conditioned for the faithful performance of such duties while he is acting as Commissioner.

(d) Clerks, Examiners and Other Employees.—The Commissioner, with the approval of the Governor, shall employ, from time to time, such clerks, examiners, special agents, and other employees, as he may need to discharge in a proper manner the duties imposed upon him by law. They shall perform such duties as the Commissioner shall assign to them, and their compensation shall be fixed by him with the approval of the Governor. Each of such employees shall take, subscribe, and file the oath of office as herein prescribed for the Commissioner and deputy commissioner. Bonds shall be given to the Commonwealth by such of said employees, in such amounts, and with such surety, as may be determined by the Commissioner, conditioned for the faithful performance of their duties.

(e) Cost of Bonds.—The cost of all bonds required by this section to be given by the Commissioner, the deputy commissioners, or any of the clerks, examiners, or other employees of the Banking Department, shall constitute expenses of the department and shall be paid as hereinafter provided for such expenses.

(f) Prohibitions.—Neither the Commissioner nor any of his deputies, clerks, examiners, or other employees shall be interested as officer, director, trustee, manager or stockholder, in any corporation subject to the supervision of the Banking Department, nor interested in any way in the business of any person subject to such supervision.

No deputy commissioner or examiner shall be appointed special deputy to assist in the liquidation of any corporation or person whose books, papers and affairs he shall have examined within one year previous to the taking of possession by the Commissioner under the provisions of Section 21 of this Act.

No examiner shall receive a loan, nor shall the Commissioner or any of his deputies, clerks, examiners, or other employees receive a gift, directly or indirectly, of any sum of money or other valuable thing, from any corporation or person to whom this Act applies, or from any director, officer, or employee thereof; and a violation of this prohibition shall constitute ground for the removal of such Commissioner, deputy, clerk, examiner or other employee.

Section 6. Transfer of Powers and Duties to Commissioner.—All powers, rights, privileges, and duties heretofore by any law of this Commonwealth conferred or imposed upon the Auditor-General or the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in relation to any of the corporations or persons who, under the provisions of this act, are subject to the supervision of the Banking Department, are hereby transferred to, and conferred and imposed upon, the Commissioner, so far as the same relate to the supervision of such corporations and persons for the purposes of this Act.

Section 7. Records and Securities to Remain in Custody of Commissioner.—All books, papers, records, and securities which were formerly in the office of the Superintendent of Banking and in the office of the Auditor-General, relating to the business of corporations and persons subject to the supervision of the Commissioner, and which were delivered and transferred to the Commissioner, shall be and remain in his charge and custody.

Section 8. Rooms at Capitol; Furniture.—There shall be assigned to the Commissioner by the Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings, a suitable room or rooms, at the Capitol of the state, for conducting the business of the Banking Department; and the Commissioner shall, from time to time, with the approval of the commissioners aforesaid, procure the necessary furniture and other proper conveniences for the transacting of the said business, the expenses of which shall be paid, on the certificate of the Commissioner and the warrant of the Auditor-General, out of the funds appropriated to the Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings.

Section 9. Maintenance of Banking Department.

(a) Expenses.—All moneys derived by the Banking Department from fees, assessments, charges, penalties, and otherwise, shall be paid by the Commissioner into the state treasury for safe keeping, and shall, by the State Treasurer, be placed in a separate fund, to be available for the use of the Banking Department upon requisition of the Commissioner. All such moneys, so paid into the state treasury, are hereby specifically appropriated to the Banking Department for the purpose of paying the salaries of the Commissioner, the deputy commissioners, the examiners, and the other employees of the department, and the expenses of the department, including the rental and furniture of such rooms or quarters as the Commissioner may deem necessary outside of the capitol.

The Auditor-General shall, upon requisition of the Commissioner, from time to time, draw warrants upon the State Treasurer for the amounts specified in such requisitions, not exceeding, however, the amount in such fund at the time of the making of any such requisitions.

(b) Assessment of Expenses upon Corporations and Individuals.—All the expenses incurred in and about the conduct of the business of the Banking Department, including the cost of the regular examinations of corporations and persons under the supervision of the department, the compensation of the Commissioner, deputy commissioners, examiners, and other employees of the department, (but excluding the furniture and convenience mentioned in Section 8 of this Act), together with all other general or overhead expenses of the department, shall be charged to and paid by the corporations and persons subject to the supervision of the department, in equitable proportions, at such times, and in such manner, as the Commissioner shall by general rule or regulation annually prescribe.

The expenses incurred in connection with any special examination or investigation of any corporation or person, including a proportionate part of the salary of any examiner or other employee of the department engaged in such examination of investigation, shall be charged to and paid by such corporation or person.

On failure or refusal of any such corporation or person, after thirty days written notice, to pay any sum lawfully assessed or charged against it or him by the Commissioner under the provisions of this clause, the Commissioner may, at his option, bring an action at law to recover the same, or may take possession of the business and property of such corporation or person as provided in Section 21 of this Act.

Section 10. Seal.—The seal now in use by the Commissioner shall continue to be the seal of the office of the Commissioner of Banking, and may be renewed when necessary. A description of the seal, with the impression thereof, and a certificate of approval of the Governor, shall remain on file in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Section 11. Copies of Documents. (a) Admissibility of Contents.—Copies of all books, accounts, reports, and other papers or documents filed in the office of the Banking Department, certified under the hand and seal of the Commissioner, shall be admitted to be read in evidence in all courts of law and elsewhere in this Commonwealth, in all cases where the originals would be admitted in evidence: Provided, That in any proceeding, the court having jurisdiction may, on cause shown, require the production of the originals.

(b) Fees.—For every copy of any paper filed in the Banking Department, and for the certification thereof, except when such copy or certification is made for the benefit of a corporation or person subject to the supervision of the department under the provisions of this Act, the Commissioner may charge such fees as he may by general rule or regulation prescribe.

(c) Prima Facie Evidence of Contents.—In any proceeding under the provisions of this Act, a copy, duly certified by the Commissioner, of a duly instituted examination of the corporation or person involved in such proceeding, shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated.

Section 12. Disclosure of Information Forbidden; Exceptions.—Neither the Commissioner nor any deputy, directly or indirectly, wilfully exhibit, publish, divulge, or make known, to any person or persons, any record, report, statement, letter or other matter, fact, or thing, contained in said department, or ascertained from any of the same, or from any examination made under the provisions of this act, excepting in such manner as is expressly authorized by this Act, and excepting when the production of such information in a proceeding in any court is duly required by subpoena issued by special order of the court, or other legal process; and any violation of the provisions of this section shall be a misdemeanor, upon conviction whereof the person so offending shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, and shall be dismissed from his employment in said department; Provided, however, That the Commissioner, on the written request or consent of any corporation, authorized by resolution of its board of directors, or on the written request or consent of any person, under the supervision of the Banking Department, may discuss, with an advisory committee selected by the Commissioner, or selected by such corporation or person and acceptable to the Commissioner, such matters relating to the financial condition of such corporation or person as the Commissioner may deem pertinent to the rehabilitation thereof; And provided, further, That the Commissioner may, on like request or consent, furnish to the Federal Reserve Board or to the Federal Reserve Bank of the district in which the banking house or other place of business of any corporation is located, copies of any reports or parts thereof, or any information in his possession, relating to such corporation for the use of said board or bank.

Section 13. Department's Power to examine and Inspect.—Every corporation and person included within the supervision of the Banking Department as set forth in Section 4 of this Act, together with all the property, assets, and resources of such corporation or person, shall be subject to inspection and examination by the Commissioner or his deputies, or any qualified examiner of the said department, when such examiner is authorized in writing, under the official seal of the department, by the Commissioner or a deputy commissioner, to make such examination and inspection.

Section 14. Examinations.

(a) In General.—It shall be the duty of the Commissioner, at least once in each year, to examine or cause to be examined the books, papers and affairs of each and every corporation and person subject to the supervision of the Banking Department. The Commissioner may also, at any time, make such special investigation or examinations as, in his opinion, the exigencies of any case may require. Whenever he shall deem it necessary or proper, he shall assign a qualified examiner or examiners to make any such examination or investigation, which examiner or examiners shall have power to make a thorough examination into all the business and affairs of the corporation or person in all departments, and of all property, assets and resources wherever situated, and in so doing, to examine, under oath or otherwise, any of the officers, agents, employees or members of the corporation or person, or any corporation or person in possession of any assets of the corporation or person under examination. The examiner or examiners shall make a full and detailed report of the condition of the corporation or person under examination, or such special report as may be directed by the Commissioner.

Provided, That whenever any bank shall, by becoming a member of the Federal Reserve Bank, be subject to the examinations required by the Federal Reserve Act, the Commissioner may, in his discretion, accept such examinations in lieu of the examinations required by this section or by the laws of this Commonwealth.

(b) Examinations under Oath.—The Commissioner and his deputies and any qualified examiner appointed by the Commissioner are hereby authorized and empowered to administer oaths or affirmations to any of the officers, agents, employees or members enumerated in clause (a) of this section, and any wilful false swearing in any inquiry thereunder shall be perjury, and subject, upon conviction thereof, to the same punishment as is or may be provided by law, for the punishment of perjury. Upon failure of any of the individuals aforesaid to make answer to any such inquiry, the Attorney General, upon the request of the Commissioner, shall make information thereof to the court, whereupon said court, after hearing, shall make such order as the occasion requires.

Section 15. Reports to Commissioner.

(a) In General.—Every corporation and person subject to the supervision of the Banking Department, except building and loan associations doing business exclusively within this state, shall make and render to the Commissioner not less than two or more than five reports of its or his condition during each year. The number, form and manner of such reports shall be prescribed by the Commissioner by general rule or regulation. Every such report shall be verified by the oath or affirmation of the president, cashier, treasurer or other managing officer in the case of a corporation or association, by a member of the firm in the case of a partnership, and by an individual banker in person. It shall be attested as correct by the signatures of at least three of the directors, trustees, or other managers of a corporation or association, and by the signatures of at least two of the members of a partnership.

Each such report shall exhibit, in detail and under appropriate heads, the resources and liabilities of the corporation or person at the close of business on any past day specified by the Commissioner, and shall be transmitted to him within five days or such further time as he may in his discretion allow, after the receipt of a request or requisition therefor from him.

Abstract summaries of two of said reports, designated by the Commissioner, in each year, except the reports of building and loan associations doing business exclusively within this state, shall forthwith be published by the corporation or person in a newspaper, and proof of such publication, verified by affidavit, shall be furnished to the Commissioner.

Building and loan associations doing business exclusively within this state shall in the manner hereinbefore provided, make and render one report during each year. No abstract summaries of such reports need be published.

The Commissioner shall also have power to call for a special report from any corporation or person under the supervision of the Banking Department, including building and loan associations, whenever, in his judgment, the same may be necessary to a full and complete knowledge of its or his condition.

The reports and publications provided for in this clause shall be in lieu of all reports and of all publications for similar purposes heretofore required by law to be made.

(b) Failure to Make or Publish Reports.—Any corporation or person failing to make and transmit any report, to publish any report required by this Act to be published, or to furnish any proof of publication required by clause (a) of this section, shall be subject, at the discretion of the Commissioner, to a penalty of not more than one hundred dollars, payable to the Commissioner, for each day after the time, or any extension thereof, fixed for filing such report, making such publication, or furnishing such proof. In case of failure or refusal to pay such penalty, the Commissioner may maintain an action at law to recover the same.

Section 16. Commissioner's Report to Governor.—The Commissioner shall make an annual report to the Governor setting forth:

I. A summary of the state and condition of every corporation and person from whom reports have been received during the preceding year, with such other information in relation to said corporations and persons as in his judgment may be useful.

II. A statement of the corporations and persons under the supervision of the Banking Department, whose business has been closed or taken in possession by the Commissioner during the preceding year, with such information relating thereto as he may deem useful.

III. Suggestions of amendments to the laws relating to corporations and persons under the supervision of the Banking Department by which the condition of such corporations and persons may be improved.

IV. The names and compensation of the deputies, examiners, clerks and other employees of the Banking Department during the preceding year, the whole amount of the receipts and expenditures of the department during such year, and the method and basis of assessing such expenditures adopted by the Commissioner under the provisions of this Act.

Section 17. Failure to Pay in Capital or Exercise Powers. When any corporation under the supervision of the Banking Department: (a) has not paid in the capital as required by law; (b) has not in any manner exercised the powers conferred upon it by its letters within two years after the issuance thereof; or (c) has failed to exercise its corporate privileges for two years after having been liquidated, such corporation shall be returned by the Commissioner to the Attorney General, who shall proceed by quo warranto against such corporation, to the end that it may be ousted from its charter rights, and its corporate privileges be declared null and void.

Section 18. Violations of Charter.—Whenever it shall appear to the Commissioner, from any report of condition of any corporation subject to the supervision of the Banking Department, or from any examination made by him of the condition of the affairs of such corporation, that such corporation has committed any violation of its charter, he shall, by an order under his hand and seal of office, direct the discontinuance of such illegal practice, and direct strict conformity with the provisions of the charter; and whenever any such corporation shall refuse or neglect to comply with any such order, the Commissioner shall communicate the facts to the Attorney General, who shall thereupon institute such proceedings as the nature of the case may require for appropriate relief or correction, or may proceed by quo warranto for the forfeiture of the charter.

The court before which such proceedings shall be instituted shall have power to grant such orders, and in its discretion, from time to time, notify or revoke the same, and to grant such relief and render such judgment as the facts or evidence in the case and the situation of the parties, and the interests involved shall require; or, if it shall appear to the said court that the interest of the public so require, shall declare a dissolution of such corporation and a distribution of its effects.

Section 19. Jurisdiction of Courts.—Whenever it shall become the right or duty of the Attorney General to proceed against any corporation or person under the supervision of the Banking Department, pursuant to the provisions of this Act, he may, in his discretion, proceed either in the court of common pleas of Dauphin county or in the court of common pleas of the county where the banking house or other place of business of such corporation or person is located.

Section 20. Orders by Commissioner.—Whenever it shall appear to the Commissioner that any corporation or person under the supervision of the Banking Department has violated any provision of this Act or any law regulating the business of such corporation or person, or is conducting business in an unauthorized or unsafe manner, or that any such corporation has an impairment of capital, the Commissioner may issue an order, under his hand and seal of office, directing such corporation or person to discontinue such violation of law or such unauthorized or unsafe practices, or directing such corporation to make good, within a time of not less than thirty days after notice, to be fixed by the Commissioner, any impairment or deficiency of capital.

Section 21. Power of Commissioner to Take Possession.—The Commissioner may, after hearing had upon notice given, with the approval and consent of the Attorney General, take possession of the business and property of any corporation or person subject to the supervision of the Banking Department, whenever it shall appear to him that such corporation or person:

I. Has violated any law regulating its or his business, and has persisted in such violation in disregard of an order duly made by the Commissioner;

II. Is conducting business in an unauthorized or unsafe manner, and has persisted in disregard of an order duly made by the Commissioner;

III. Is in an unsafe or unsound condition to continue business: Provided, in such case, That the Commissioner may forthwith, without such hearing and consent of the Attorney General, take possession of the business and property of any such corporation or person receiving moneys on deposit, when and if, in his opinion, the protection of depositors and the public requires such peremptory action;

IV. Has an impairment of capital, which has not been restored or made good within the time fixed by order of the Commissioner;

V. Has suspended payment of obligations;

VI. Has neglected or refused to comply with the terms of any lawfully issued order of the Commissioner;

VII. Has refused, upon proper demand, to submit the records and affairs of the business to the Commissioner, a deputy commissioner, or any duly authorized examiner or agent of the Banking Department;

VIII. Has refused to be examined upon oath or affirmation regarding such affairs;

IX. Has failed or refused, after thirty days notice, to pay any assessment or charge, as provided in this Act; or X. Is in the hands of a receiver appointed by any court or in bankruptcy proceeding, or of an assignee or trustee for creditors appointed by such corporation or person.

The Commissioner may in like manner take possession of the business and property of any unincorporated bank, otherwise exempt from the supervision of the Banking Department, whenever, such unincorporated bank shall have made an assignment for the benefit of creditors or confessed its insolvency.

Section 22. Certificate of Taking Possession.—When the Commissioner shall have duly taken possession of the business and property of a corporation or person as provided in Section 21 of this Act, he shall forthwith make, under his hand and official seal, a certificate setting forth that he has so taken possession, and shall file such certificate in his office, and cause a certified copy thereof to be filed in the office of the prothonotary, who shall index the same in the judgment index under the name of the corporation or person as defendant and the name of the Commissioner as plaintiff.

From and after the filing of such certified copy in the office of the Prothonotary, the Commissioner shall supercede any receiver previously appointed by any court for, or any assignee or trustee for creditors appointed by, such corporation or person.

Such superceded receiver, assignee, or trustee shall forthwith file his account in the court having jurisdiction thereof, and pay over and deliver to the Commissioner all moneys, securities, assets, and property of such corporation or person in his custody, possession, or control. Said court shall allow credit for expenses and for the disbursements properly incurred or made prior to the taking possession by the Commissioner, and shall allow proper compensation to said receiver, assignee, or trustee, and his counsel, which, when determined, shall be paid out of the funds of said corporation or person in the hands of the Commissioner.

Section 23. Injunction to Restrain Commissioner.—Whenever the Commissioner takes possession of the property and business of any corporation or person, such corporation or person may, at any time within ten days, apply to the court for an order requiring the Commissioner to show cause why he should not be enjoined from continuing such possession. The Commissioner may be served personally, wherever found, within the state, by leaving a copy with the deputy in charge of his office or by serving the special deputy appointed by him in such proceeding. At the hearing, a copy, certified by the Commissioner, of any report of a duly instituted examination of such corporation or person shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated; and if, from such report or reports or other evidence, there shall appear to be just cause for the taking and continuing of possession by the Commissioner, he shall not be enjoined, unless such report or reports or other evidence shall be overcome by proper proof produced by such corporation or person, in which event the court shall direct the Commissioner to refrain from further proceedings and to surrender such possession.

Section 24. Special Agents and Assistants.—The Commissioner may, by the certificate of taking possession provided for in Section 22 of this Act, or by a subsequent certificate in like manner made and filed, appoint one or more special deputies as agent or agents to assist him in continuing or liquidating the business and affairs of any corporation or person in his possession. He may, from time to time, delegate to such special deputy or deputies such duties connected with such continuation or liquidation as he may deem proper. He may employ such expert assistants and legal counsel and may retain such officers and employees of such corporation or person, as he may deem necessary in the continuation of the business or the liquidation and distribution of the assets. He shall require such security as he may deem proper from his agents and assistants appointed pursuant to the provisions of this section.

Section 25. Notice to Parties Holding Assets.—When the Commissioner shall have taken possession of the property and business of any such corporation or person, he shall forthwith give notice in writing of such fact to all corporations and persons holding any assets thereof. No one having such notice or actual knowledge that the Commissioner has so taken possession, shall have a lien or charge against any of the assets of such corporation or person for any payment, advance, or clearance thereafter made or liability thereafter incurred.

Section 26. Inventory of Assets.—After the Commissioner has taken possession as aforesaid, he shall make or cause to be made, a complete inventory of the assets of such corporation or person, which inventory shall be verified by oath or affirmation of the person or persons making the same, and shall forthwith file such inventory in his office.

Section 27. Suspension or Continuation of Business.—The Commissioner is authorized, upon taking possession of the property and business of such corporation or person, to continue or suspend the business for such period as he may deem necessary to enable him to determine whether to liquidate the affairs of such corporation or person, and, during such period, to take such action as in his judgment is necessary to conserve the assets and business.

Section 28. Surrender of Possession by Commissioner.—The Commissioner may, upon conditions approved by him, surrender possession for the purpose of permitting such corporation or person to resume business, to sell or convey its or his property and franchises, or to merge or consolidate its or his business with that of another corporation or person in accordance with the laws of this Commonwealth; but he shall not authorize any decrease of capital stock by a corporation except upon compliance by the corporation with the provisions of law as to such decrease.

Whenever the Commissioner shall surrender possession under the provisions of this section, he shall forthwith issue an order, under his official seal, authorizing such corporation or person to resume business, to sell or convey its or his property and franchises, or to merge or consolidate as aforesaid, and shall file said order in his office, and cause a certified copy thereof to be filed in the office of the prothonotary, who shall thereupon cause the entries upon the judgment index made pursuant to Section 22 of this Act to be cancelled.

Section 29. Status of Commissioner as Receiver.—Except as herein otherwise provided, the Commissioner shall, when he has taken possession of the business and property of a corporation or person, have all the rights, powers, and duties of a receiver appointed by any court of equity in this Commonwealth; and he shall be vested, in his official capacity, with all the property of such corporation or person, including debts due, liens or securities therefor, and rights of action or redemption.

He shall be the representative of the creditors of the corporation or person, and entitled, as such, to have vacated and set aside, for the benefit of the creditors, any judgment, execution, attachment, sequestration, payment, pledge, assignment, transfer, conveyance or incumbrance, which could have been avoided by the creditors or any of them, or by which it is attempted to give any creditor unlawful preference over another.

He may, with leave of court obtained on petition after notice to all creditors of whom he has knowledge, surrender to the corporation or person any assets, including choses in action, whether the subject of pending proceedings or not, which are burdensome and of no advantage to creditors.

Section 30. Power of Court to Make and Enforce Orders.—The court having jurisdiction shall have power to make and enforce any and all orders necessary and appropriate to enable the Commissioner to discharge his duties in connection with the business, property, and affairs of any corporation or person taken into possession by the Commissioner under the provisions of this Act.

Section 31. Continuance of Possession; Exceptions.—When the Commissioner shall have duly taken possession of the business and property of a corporation or person as provided in Section 21 of this Act, he shall hold such possession until the affairs of such corporation or person have been liquidated by him, unless:

I. He shall have been directed by order of court to surrender such possession pursuant to the provisions of Section 23 of this Act;

II. He shall have permitted a resumption of business, or a sale or conveyance of property and franchises, or a merger or consolidation, pursuant to the provisions of Section 28 of this Act.

III. The stockholders of such corporation, after payment of all creditors in full, shall have elected a trustee or trustees to continue the liquidation or such corporation, or the court shall have appointed such trustee or trustees, pursuant to the provisions of Section 50 of this Act, and such trustee or trustees shall have duly qualified to take possession of the remaining assets of such corporation; or

IV. The depositors and other creditors of such person and the expenses of such liquidation shall have been paid in full.

Section 32. Recording Certificate; Sales.

(a) Recording Certificate of Possession or Surrender.—When the Commissioner has taken possession of the business and property of a corporation or person, he shall, if there be any real property, file in the office of the recorder of deeds in each county of this state, or with the proper official in any other state or county, where any such real property shall be situated, a certified copy of the certificate, required by Section 22 of this Act, which copy shall be recorded in the deed book, and indexed in the grantor's index in the name of such corporation or person and in the grantee's index in the name of the Commissioner, and shall also be registered with the proper authority empowered to keep a register of real estate, if any there be. And when the Commissioner has surrendered possession of the business and property of a corporation or person, he shall in the same manner file a certified copy of the order provided for by Section 28 of this Act, which shall be in like manner recorded, and shall be indexed in the name of the Commissioner as grantor and in the name of such corporation or person as grantee, and shall also be registered as aforesaid.

(b) Sales of Real and Personal Property.—The Commissioner may sell at any public sale any or all of the real and personal property of such corporation or person without any order of the court. He may, with leave of court, sell either real or personal property at private sale. At least ten days' notice of any petition for leave to sell at private sale shall be given to all stockholders of such corporation, or to such person, and to all creditors known to the Commissioner; and such notice shall also be advertised at least once in a newspaper in the county where the banking house or other place of business is located, and, when the land is situated in a different county at least once in a newspaper published in the latter county.

(c) Sales of Real Estate Outside of the County.—When any real property of such corporation or person is situated in a county other than that where the banking house or other place of business is located, a petition for leave to sell such property at private sale shall be filed in the court having jurisdiction on the liquidation proceedings, which court, if satisfied of the propriety of such sale, shall make an order or decree authorizing the Commissioner to sell such real property or so much thereof as the court may designate. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the court of common pleas of the county wherein the real property so designated is situated, on petition of the Commissioner, to make an order for the sale of said property or so much thereof as the court having jurisdiction of the liquidation proceedings shall have designated; and the Commissioner shall in all cases make a return of the sale to the court of the county in which the real property is situated. If the same be approved by said court, it shall be confirmed, and a certified copy of the return and of the decree of confirmation shall be filed in the court having jurisdiction of the liquidation proceedings.

(d) Sale of Listed Securities.—Listed securities may be sold on the stock exchange, with leave of court obtained on petition of the Commissioner, at such time or times, and in such manner as may be determined by the court. No notice to creditors of such petition shall be necessary unless required by the court.

(e) Effect of Sale upon Liens.—When any real property of such corporation or person is subject to liens which under the laws of this Commonwealth would be discharged by a judicial sale, the same shall not be affected by a sale by the Commissioner unless such sale be made pursuant to an order of court directing that liens be discharged thereby and after notice to all creditors having or claiming liens; and in such event, the proceeds of the sale shall take the place of the property sold, and be distributed to the parties entitled thereto.

If such real property is situated in a county other than that where the banking house or other place of business is located, a petition for leave to sell discharged of liens shall be filed in the court having jurisdiction of the liquidation proceedings, which court, if satisfied of the propriety of such sale, shall make an order or decree authorizing the same; and thereupon it shall be the duty of the court of common pleas of the county where such property is situated to make an order for the sale thereof, discharged of liens. Return of such sale shall be made to the latter court. If the sale be approved by that court, it shall be confirmed, and a certified copy of the return and of the decree of confirmation shall be filed in the court having jurisdiction of the liquidation proceedings, which court shall also make distribution of the proceeds of such sale to the parties entitled thereto.

Section 33. Execution of Deeds and Documents.—The Commissioner may execute, acknowledge, and deliver any and all deeds, assignments, bills of sale, release, extensions, satisfactions, and other instruments necessary and proper to effectuate any sale, lease, or transfer of real or personal property, or to carry into effect any power conferred or duty imposed upon him by this act or by order of court. Any instrument executed pursuant to the authority hereby given shall be as valid and effectual for all purposes as though the same had been executed by the officers of such corporation by authority of its board of directors, or by such person individually.

Section 34. Compromises.—The Commissioner may, with leave of court, compound or compromise any debt or claim due to the corporation or person, and discontinue any action or other proceeding pending therefor, if done in good faith and after proper inquiry; and, upon payment of the amount due, may require all mortgages, conditional contracts, pledges, and liens, of or upon any real or personal property of such corporation or person, to be satisfied, cancelled, or assigned to him, as he may deem best, or he may sell the property subject thereto.

Section 35. Actions and Suits.—For the purpose of executing any of the powers and performing any of the duties hereby conferred and imposed upon him, the Commissioner may, in the name of the corporation or person, prosecute and defend any and all actions and proceedings at law, in equity, or otherwise, pending at the time when the Commissioner takes possession of the business and property of such corporation or person.

He may, by bill of discovery or other legal or equitable proceeding, obtain information of, and sue for and recover, any assets, debts or damages, which such corporation or person might sue for and recover, or which any of the creditors might make available for the payment of their claims.

He may, at any time while he is in possession of the property and business of a corporation, institute and maintain against the directors, trustees, managers, or officers, any action or proceeding which is vested in such corporation or in the stockholders or creditors thereof.

He shall be liable to suit, in his representative capacity, by any person seeking to recover specific property, if such property could have been recovered as against the creditors of the corporation or person levying an execution thereon.

Section 36. Judgments Not to be Liens; Stay of Executions.—A lien shall not attach to any of the property or assets of the corporation or person by reason of the entry of any judgment against such corporation or person after the Commissioner has taken possession of its or his property and business and filed a certificate as required by Section 22 of this Act, and so long as such possession continues.

During such time, no execution or attachment shall issue against such corporation or person, nor shall any pending execution or attachment be proceeded with, except by special leave of the court.

Section 37. Enforcement of Individual Liability of Stockholders.—Whenever the stockholders of a corporation whereof the Commissioner shall have taken possession are liable, in addition to their liability as such stockholders, for unpaid subscription to an amount equal to the par value of their stockholdings in such corporation, and the Commissioner has determined from his examination of the affairs of the corporation that the reasonable value of its assets is not sufficient to pay its creditors in full, he may enforce the individual liability of such stockholders to such extent as may be necessary.

If he determines to enforce such liability, he shall make demand in writing upon such stockholders by causing the same to be mailed by registered mail to the respective stockholders at their last known places of address as the same appear on the stock ledger of the corporation, or at their last known addresses if no addresses appear in such ledger. Such demand shall state the total amount assessed by the Commissioner against the stockholders, and the pro rata share assessed against the particular stockholder addressed, and the total sum to be paid by such stockholder. The demand shall also fix a date, not less than thirty days after the date of such demand, on which the stockholders shall be required to pay such assessment to the Commissioner.

If any stockholder shall fail or refuse to pay such assessment within such time, the Commissioner shall have a cause of action either at law or in equity against such stockholder, either severally or jointly with other stockholders, for the amount of such assessment, together with interest from the date when the same was due and payable. In any such action, the written statement of the Commissioner under his hand and seal of office, reciting his determination to enforce the individual liability, or any part thereof, of such stockholders, and setting forth the value of the assets of the corporation and its liabilities, as determined by him after examination and investigation, shall be prima facie evidence of such facts as therein stated.

Section 38. Inventory and Appraisal; Statement of Liabilities.—When the Commissioner has determined to liquidate the affairs of any such corporation or person, he shall forthwith cause an inventory and appraisal of the assets of such corporation or person, under oath or affirmation, to be made in duplicate, by two disinterested appraisers chosen by him, and shall file such inventories and appraisements, accompanied by a complete statement, certified by him, of the liabilities of such corporation or person so far as he has been able to ascertain the same, one in his office and the other in the office of the prothonotary.

Section 39. Procedure as to Property in Safe-Deposit.—After taking possession as aforesaid, the Commissioner may give written notice to anyone claiming, or appearing on the books of the corporation or person, to be owner of any personal property left in the possession of such corporation or person as bailee or depository for hire, or the lessee of any safe, vault, or box, notifying such bailor or lessee to remove all such personal property within a period of not less than sixty days.

At the expiration of such period, if such property has not been removed, the Commissioner may proceed as the corporation or person might have proceeded as provided in the contract of bailment or lease, or, at, his option, may cause any such safe, vault, or box to be opened in his presence or the presence of his special deputy, and of a notary public not an officer or employee of the corporation or person or of the Banking Department, and the contents, if any, of such safe, vault, or box shall be sealed and marked by such notary with the name and address of the bailor or lessee in whose name such safe, vault, or box stands upon the books of the corporation or person, and a list of the property therein shall be attached thereto. Such package, so sealed and addressed, shall be removed by the Commissioner to his office and there preserved until delivered to the owner or otherwise disposed of in accordance with law.

After the service or mailing of the notice as aforesaid, the contract of bailment or leasing, if any, shall cease and determine upon the date for removal fixed by said notice, and the amount of unearned rent or charges, if any, paid by the bailor or lessee, shall become a debt of the corporation or person. All contracts of bailment or lease, such as aforesaid, made after the date of the approval of this act, shall be subject to the provisions of this section.

Section 40. Trust Funds.

(a) Taking Possession by Commissioner.—Whenever the Commissioner takes possession of the business and property of a corporation or person in accordance with the provisions of this act, he shall also take possession of all funds, property, and investments held by such corporation or person in any fiduciary capacity, but shall keep the same separate and apart from the assets thereof.

(b) Substituted Fiduciaries.—Upon determining to liquidate the affairs of such corporation or person, the Commissioner shall forthwith give written notice to all parties interested in any such funds, property, or investments held in a fiduciary capacity, so far as such notice is practicable, requiring them within thirty days to apply to the proper court or official for the appointment of substituted fiduciaries to take the place of such corporation or person. On the failure or neglect of the parties so notified to make such application within the time designated, or in case the parties in interest can not be notified, the Commissioner shall himself apply for such appointment of substituted fiduciaries.

(c) Settlement with out Accounting.—In any instance where there shall be no dispute as to the amount or identity of such funds, property, or investments, and all parties in interest are sui juris and so request in writing the Commissioner may, without the filing of an account, transfer, pay over, and deliver to such substituted fiduciary all funds, property, and investments of the particular trust, taking from such parties and such substituted fiduciary a receipt and release in full, which shall discharge the Commissioner and such corporation or person from any further liability in the premises.

(d) Jurisdiction of Disputes as to Identify of Trust Fund.—In any instance where there shall be a dispute as to the identity of alleged trust funds, property, or investments, either because the same have become or are alleged to have become mingled with other funds, property, or investments, or otherwise, the court having jurisdiction of the liquidation proceedings shall have exclusive jurisdiction to determine such dispute.

(e) Accounting.—In all other instances, the Commissioners shall, with the least possible delay, prepare and file in the courts having jurisdiction thereof the accounts of such corporation or person in such fiduciary capacities, and shall transfer, pay over, and deliver the balances determined upon such accounts to be due in accordance with the orders and decrees of such courts.

(f) Deficiencies and Surcharges.—In any instance where it shall be ascertained by such court that there is a deficiency in any such trust funds, property, or investments for which such corporation or person is liable, or that such corporation or person is liable to surcharge in respect thereof, the amount thereof shall constitute an unpreferred claim against the general funds in the hands of the Commissioner, and the order or decree of such court shall be conclusive, subject to appeal, as to the amount of such claim. Should the existence or amount of any deficiency or surcharge or the liability of the corporation or person therefor be undetermined at the time of any distribution of such general funds, it shall be the duty of the court ordering such distribution to set apart and withhold from such distribution a sufficient amount to pay the proportionate dividend upon such undetermined claim until the same shall have been finally adjudicated.

Section 41. Notice to Depositors and Creditors.—When the Commissioner shall have determined to liquidate the affairs of such corporation or person, he shall forthwith give written or printed notice to all depositors to produce to him their deposit or pass books for settlement, stating in such notice the amount which the books of the corporation or person show to be due each depositor, subject to outstanding checks, and notifying such depositors that, unless a depositor shall, within four months from the date of such notice, make proof, in the manner hereinafter set forth, that the amount due to him differs from the amount as shown by the books of the corporation or person, the amount last mentioned will be conclusive as to the amount of the claim of such depositor, subject, as aforesaid, to any outstanding checks.

The Commissioner shall, at the same time, give written or printed notice to all creditors other than depositors, so far as known to him, to make proof of their claims in the manner hereinafter set forth, within four months from the date of such notice, or be debarred from coming in upon the fund.

He shall also advertise such notices to depositors, and other creditors, in a newspaper, once a week for four successive weeks.

Section 42. Proof of Claims of Creditors.—No claim other than the claim of a depositor shall be allowed unless the claimant, or someone for him if he cannot do so, shall furnish to the Commissioner a statement of his claim, together with a copy of any book entries pertaining thereto, or any note or other writing evidencing the same, verified by an affidavit in substantially the following form:

"I, (name of claimant), do solemnly swear (or affirm) that the above is a true statement of my claim against (name of corporation or person); that there are no creditors or allowances against the same except as therein set forth; that I have not directly or indirectly made or entered into any bargain, arrangement, or agreement, express or implied, to take or receive, directly or indirectly, any money, property, or consideration whatever, to or for myself, or to or for any other person, firm, or corporation whatever, other than my dividend as a creditor, and that there is no collateral security for said indebtedness, or any part thereof, held by me or anyone else, other than as above set forth."

In case the claimant shall be a partnership or corporation, such affidavit shall be made by a member of the partnership or by the treasurer or assistant treasurer of the corporation claimant, and the form thereof shall be modified accordingly.

The provisions of this section shall not apply to the claims of cestuis que trust or others to or against trust funds or property in the custody, possession, or control of a corporation or person, possession of whose business and property is taken away by the Commissioner under the provisions of this Act.

Section 43. Proof of Claims of Depositors.—When proofs of claims by depositors are necessary under the provisions of Section 41 of this act, the same shall be in such form as the Commissioner shall prescribe, and shall, on request of any such depositor, be prepared by the special deputy in charge of the affairs of the corporation or person in question, and the affidavits thereto shall be taken by him without charge.

Section 44. Allowance of Claims.—If such claim and affidavit, when required, are in proper form, and if the amount claimed by a depositor or other creditor agrees with the amount shown by the books of the corporation or person, or if, upon consultation with the claimant and such corporation or person, the amount is ascertained to the satisfaction of the Commissioner, the claim shall be allowed if presented within the time limited by the notice as aforesaid, unless objected to in the manner hereinafter provided.

Section 45. Partial of Final Account; Objections.—At the expiration of the time fixed by the notice and advertisement for the presentation of claims prescribed in Section 41 of this act, the Commissioner may file a partial or final account, consisting of a statement of receipts and expenditures, together with a list of the claims which have been allowed, and, separately, a list of the claims which have been objected to or are disputed, showing, as to all claimants, the names, addresses, and amounts.

If no account is filed within a year from the time when the Commissioner takes possession, any party interested may petition the court for an order on the Commissioner requiring the filing of an account.

Any account filed by the Commissioner shall be duly verified by him under oath or affirmation. Upon the filing thereof, he shall give written or printed notice to all the depositors and other creditors known to him of such filing, and that, unless objections shall be filed within thirty days from the date thereof, the same will be confirmed absolutely. He shall also, at the same time, advertise such notice in two newspapers once a week for four successive weeks.

During such period of thirty days any depositor, other creditor, stockholder, or anyone having any interest, may file in the court objections in writing to said account or to the allowance of any of said claims, a copy of which objections shall forthwith be served upon the claimant whose claim is objected to, or his counsel, and upon the Commissioner, or his counsel, or the special deputy appointed by him in such proceeding.

Section 46. Distribution.—If, at the expiration of said period of thirty days from the filing of the account no objections shall have been filed thereto, the same shall be confirmed absolutely, and the Commissioner shall prepare and file a schedule of distribution in accordance with the priorities fixed by law. Said schedule shall be subject to the approval of the court, and in accordance therewith, when so approved, a partial or final dividend, as the case may be, shall be declared and paid by the Commissioner. In case there shall be any disputed claim or any claim to which objections shall have been duly filed, the dividend shall be calculated as if all claims were valid and approved, and, after deducted and setting apart such portion of the dividend as represents claims which are disputed or objected to, the balance shall be distributed among the other claims. If all or any of the claims disputed or objected to shall thereafter be determined to be valid, they shall then receive their portions of such dividend. If all or any of such claims shall be determined to be invalid, the portions of such dividend set apart to them shall be distributed to the valid claims.

Section 47. Conclusiveness of Confirmation and Distribution.—The confirmation of a partial account and distribution thereunder as aforesaid shall be conclusive only as to the fund distributed, and shall not prevent the proof and allowance, out of the fund involved in any subsequent account, of claims not presented in time for allowance out of such previous fund.

Section 48. Hearing and Decision of Matters in Controversy.—If there shall be claims disputed or objected to, or if there shall be objections to the account, the court shall itself, without delay, hear and decide the matters in controversy. The court shall fix a time and place for the hearing, of which three weeks' written notice shall be given to the Commissioner, and to the corporation or person, and to all depositors and other creditors whose claims have been filed as aforesaid. Said notice shall also set forth that all parties whose claims are disputed or objected to must appear at said time and place and prove their claims or be debarred from coming in upon the fund for distribution.

Section 49. Expenses to be Paid out of Funds.—All assessments, charges, and penalties due to the Banking Department by such corporation or person, all expenses of the taking and maintaining possession of the business and property or the continuing of the business by the Commissioner, and all expenses of liquidation under the provisions of this act, shall first be payable out of the funds of such corporation or person, including the compensation of special deputies, assistants, and other employed by the Commissioner to assist him in such proceedings, the allowance of all such expenses to be subject to the approval of the court.

Section 50. Distribution of Balance; Liquidating Trustees.—If, after the filing and confirmation of the final account of the Commissioner, and the payment of all creditors in full, and the return to stockholders, who have paid to the Commissioner the amounts demanded pursuant to section 37 of this act, of their pro rata shares of any such amounts not necessary to pay creditors in full, there shall remain a balance in the hands of the Commissioner, he shall call a meeting of the stockholders by serving written or printed notice upon them at least thirty days before the day fixed for the meeting.

At such meeting, the stockholders shall elect by ballot a trustee or trustees for the purpose of completing the liquidation. A majority of the stock present in person or by proxy shall be necessary to elect. Should the stockholders fail or refuse to elect, the Commissioner or any stockholder may petition the court for the appointment of such a trustee or trustees, who, when appointed, shall give bond to the Commonwealth, in such amount, with such surety, and on such conditions, as the court may direct.

When such trustee or trustees have been duly elected or appointed as aforesaid, the Commissioner shall then transfer, convey, and deliver to such trustee or trustees all the assets of the corporation then remaining in his hands. He shall thereupon be discharged from all further liability to such corporation and its creditors, and shall file a certified copy of the proceedings of said stockholders' meeting in his office, and cause a certified copy thereof to be filed in the office of the prothonotary. No powers subject to the supervision of the Banking Department shall thereafter be exercised by such corporation, except by permission of the Commissioner, and after compliance by such corporation with all the requirements of law as to a new corporation desiring to exercise such powers.

Section 51. Constitutionality of Act.—If any section, clause, sentence, paragraph, or other part of this act, shall for any reason be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not affect, impair or invalidate the remainder of this act or any part thereof, but shall be confined in its operation to the part thereof directly involved in the controversy in which such judgment shall be rendered, it being hereby declared that the legislature would have enacted the remainder of this act without such part adjudged to be invalid.

Any section, clause or other part of this act so declared to be invalid shall not be considered as having been stricken out from any other portion or portions of this act wherein cross-references thereto are made but shall be taken and construed as having been actually written in full, into such other portion or portions from which cross-references are made.

Section 52. Repealer. Sections 1 to 52, inclusive, of the Banking Act of 1919, approved May 21, 1919, (P. L. 209), are hereby repealed, it being expressly declared that Section 53 of said Act, being the repealing section thereof, shall remain in full force and effect.

All other acts of Assembly, or parts thereof, that are in any way in conflict or inconsistent with this Act, or any part thereof, are hereby repealed.

MEMORIAL NO. 3. STATE OF OREGON.

STATE OF OREGON.

Thirty-second Legislative Assembly—Regular Session

HALL OF REPRESENTATIVES

HOUSE JOINT MEMORIAL No. 3.

TO THE HONORABLE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED:

Your memorialists, the Legislature of the State of Oregon, respectfully represent that:

WHEREAS, the Senate and House of Representatives of Oregon/State Legislature have under consideration at the present time various income tax measures which have been introduced ostensibly for the purpose of redistribution of the tax burden of the State of Oregon; and

WHEREAS, the people of the State of Oregon indicated by their affirmative vote at the last general election their desire for an income tax measure; and

WHEREAS, there is a strong probability that an income tax measure will be passed by the present legislative assembly; and

WHEREAS, in the event such income tax measure is passed it will be necessary for the officers of the State of Oregon to have access to the income tax returns filed under the Federal Income Tax Law now in effect; and

WHEREAS, the officers of the State of Oregon do not now have access to the income tax returns filed by individuals; therefore

BE IT RESOLVED by the House of Representatives of the State of Oregon, the Senate jointly concurring, that we most earnestly petition and memorialize the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Washington, in the name of the State of Oregon, that Congress enact such legislation as will permit and require the various collectors of internal revenue to permit upon application of such commission or person as authorized by the Governor of the State of Oregon to examine any and all income tax returns filed under the Federal Income Tax Act by individuals, corporations and others doing business in the State of Oregon, as well as any person, corporation, or others deriving any income from business transacted in the State of Oregon; provided, however, that the same secrecy which safeguards income tax records made to the Federal Government be extended to any information regarding income tax statements furnished to the officials of the State of Oregon; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Secretary of State of the State of Oregon be and he is hereby instructed to forward a copy of this resolution to each member of Congress of the United States of America, and to the respective legislatures of the respective states of the United States.

Adopted by the House January 29, 1923.

K. K. KUBLI,
Speaker of the House.

Adopted by the Senate January 30, 1923.

JAY UPTON,
President of the Senate.

AUDITOR'S CERTIFICATE.

We have audited the accounts of the Treasurer of The Pennsylvania State College for the year ending June 30, 1922 and hereby certify that the foregoing Consolidated Balance Sheet and Consolidated Income and Expenditure Account are in accordance with the books and, in our opinion, they exhibit a true statement of the Income and Expenditure Account of the year and of the financial position at June 30, 1922.

(Signed) PATTERSON TEELE & DENNIS,

Accountants and Auditors.

New York, October 16, 1922.

COMPTROLLER'S STATEMENT.

The Pennsylvania State College entered into the year 1921-1922 with a demand for its services far greater than in any year of its history. Its income, however, was not correspondingly increased.

The budget for the year was carefully planned in detail in advance so as to provide an adequate margin of income over expense but in doing so some projects of value to the Commonwealth had to be abandoned and every department of the college received very meagre allowances—too small to serve as a basis of future budgets if the serviceability of the institution is not to suffer. These conditions are reflected in the budget request which must be submitted to the 1923 session of the Legislature for consideration.

The budget estimates of revenue for 1921-1922 were all fully realized and in only one or two instances among the many departments of the college were original estimates of expenditures found to be inadequate, these over-runs, however, were offset by savings effected in other divisions.

The foregoing income and expense report of the Treasurer of the College for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922 shows that the operations of the institution were conducted with an excess of expenditure over income of $29,080.44 for the year.

The deficiency for the year resulted from two items which could not be anticipated and in one case which was beyond the control of the institution.

Approximately $22,000 was disbursed during the year on account of interest charges on loans negotiated to finance the delinquent payments of the college appropriation by the State Treasury. This condition improved during the year but at the close a total of $197,782.14 remained unpaid. Under normal conditions the State appropriations are paid in advance monthly installments.

Inadequate fire protection of College property compelled a partial reconstruction of water supply mains involving an expenditure of approximately $11,000 not anticipated in the original budget. Other essential items of plant repair were most pressing but were deferred for lack of funds. Deferment of fire protection for such a reason did not seem to be justified.

Detailed schedules of items in the Treasurer's report may be had by addressing the undersigned.

R. H. SMITH,

Comptroller, The Pennsylvania State College.

REPORT OF THE STATE FAIR COMMISSION.

To the Members of the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

We herewith submit a report to accompany a plan for an Agricultural Fair and Industrial Exposition for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Purpose of an Exposition.

A typical State Fair and Exposition is an educational institution which portrays the industrial, agricultural and commercial advancement from year to year of the state which it has the opportunity to represent.

Pennsylvania is the only state in the Union with extensive industrial organizations engaged in large manufacturing, agricultural and commercial activities, that is not represented by a State Fair worthy of portraying the best that is raised and produced in the State.

History of Fairs.

The Fair and Exposition idea in the United States and Canada has been entirely revolutionized during the last thirty years. Starting first as neighborhood and community competitions for honors in the exhibition of live stock, agriculture and home manufactured products, this form of fair mainly because of disinterested and incompetent management, degenerated into a legalized method of promoting gambling devices, questionable shows and prearranged races. Wild West shows, robbing the stage coach and exhibitions of Indian war dances were all a part of the performance. By force of decency the patronage of this form of exhibition was not drawn from the desirable class of citizens and for this reason in many cases the fair as such ceased to function.

Modern Conception.

Beginning with the advent of wide spread interest in pure bred live stock, scientific agriculture, labor saving machinery on the farm and in industry, and the incubation of the idea in the minds of manufacturers that an exhibition of their products at a fair or exposition was the most economical and still most effective method of advertisement, the modern conception of fairs and expositions was developed.

The educational advantages of a large State Exposition have been demonstrated many times. It has been shown by long experience that an exhibition of state products and state activities in one annual exposition is the most convenient, attractive and economical method of bringing before the citizens of a state the progress that is being made from year to year along the lines of the industrial, agricultural and commercial activities of the state.

The extent of the influence of this conception can only be realized when we recognize the fact that during 1922 there were more than 10,200 fairs and expositions of all kinds staged in the United States and Canada and more than 38,000,000 visitors proved their interest thru their attendance. The Great Canadian National Exhibition held annually at Toronto, Ontario, in 1922 over a period of ten days entertained over a million and a quarter visitors at a net profit of over $700,000. During this same year the state district and county fairs of one of our sparsely populated middle western states had a paid attendance of over 1,800,000 visitors, in their periods of a separate week, for their fairs.

Opportunity Offered Pennsylvania.

Using these statistics as an indication of Exposition information it is only just to estimate that the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, with more and varied products, industries and invested capital than any state in the Union, should have the greatest, most complete and satisfactory Exposition in the United States, and when thoroughly developed should excel Canada's Great National Exhibition at Toronto, which is now the largest in the world.

By placing such an Exposition near one of the larger centers of population in Pennsylvania a conservative estimate might be made that a million visitors would visit such an Exposition in one week's exhibition at a profit to exceed $500,000. There is no other state in the Union that affords the opportunity that is offered to Pennsylvania to become the leader in the Exposition world. With an unlimited variety of raw materials and manufactured products, varied live stock and agricultural industries and a dense population interested in exhibits and wholesome amusements of all kinds, a State Fair and Exposition could not avoid being a success.

At other times during the year the Exposition grounds might be used for a variety of purposes, winter live stock, grain and horticultural shows, live stock sales, automobile exhibits, political conventions, athletic events and race meets of all kinds would make possible a continuous use of the grounds and also a steady source of income.

Objections to a State Fair and Exposition.

Some objections have been raised to the building of a State Fair and Exposition in Pennsylvania, one of them being that it would be necessarily financed thru a state appropriation. Admitting the truth of this argument it is only just to the cause to consider that when established, with few exceptions and under normal conditions the State and district fairs and expositions of the United States are self-supporting. After the original cost of establishing an exposition has been met the annual revenue is more than enough to pay the cost of operation. Sufficient funds might be appropriated for starting a fair and exposition and future profits be used to complete the fair and make needed unforeseen changes in the future.

The County Fairs of Pennsylvania are second to none in the United States, and four or five of the largest, equal in size and scope the large district fairs of the middle west. Because of the fact that the management of these county fairs is under such competent supervision and because the fairs are located near centers of population, it has been proven for years that large fairs can be operated in Pennsylvania on a dollars and cents basis and yield a return each year which shows a net profit on the investment.

It is actually demonstrated in our middle western states that the State Fair and Exposition is the best assistant and helper for the large district and county fairs. Show herds and industrial exhibits are developed for the State Fairs which no herd owner or manufacturer could afford to develop for the smaller district fair. The resultant of this is that because of a State Fair, better herds of live stock and a greater variety of exhibits of all kinds can be shown at the county and district fairs at the small expense of transportation and thus the quality, quantity and variety of the exhibits at the smaller fairs are materially increased.

The question has been raised as to whether a State Exposition, if established, would tend to lower the appropriation now given each year to the county fairs. In answer to this question it might be noted that the annual appropriation given each year to county fairs in states where large State Fairs and Expositions are already established, that these appropriations, average higher than those now given in Pennsylvania.

A decrease in attendance as predicted at county fairs because of a State Exposition may be answered by an example of the State Fair in Iowa where the number of visitors at the Fair comprised but one-sixth of the total attendance at fairs in the state and the State fair showed a reasonable profit for the year.

Typical Site Selected.

The site as selected by the State Fair Commission as authorized by the last General Assembly, is a typical tract of about 600 acres of slightly rolling land and for all practical purposes has the natural advantages which are desirable on an Exposition Grounds. It is a tract of land nearly a mile square altho broken on the south by an irregular boundary. Because of the interesting changes in topography, as shown by the accompanying plan, it is proposed to use about 300 acres of the northern part of the area for the Exposition Grounds proper, and the southern half as an area which might be developed into a state park and camping grounds for State Fair visitors.

Traffic Facilities.

By changing the public highway which now extends from east to west across the area, so that it would bound the entire area on the north, an opportunity would be given to place three distinct entrances on the north, two as auto entrances and one for pedestrian, bus, shuttle train and street car traffic directly into the center of the fair grounds.

By an interesting change of traffic lines and the construction of two viaducts over the P. & R. R. R. and one subway under the same, all the lines of traffic, auto, pedestrian, shuttle train and electric train, can be handled without one line crossing another either to enter or leave the fair grounds.

Race Track.*

A natural depression on the extreme eastern part of the grounds of the right size will make possible the construction of a half mile race track at a minimum of expense.

Amusements.

By reason of the character of the amusements and because amphitheatre crowds are their chief customers, the amusement park has been located in close proximity to the amphitheatre on the west side of the track.

State Building.

Just to the southwest of the race track location, is an elevation overlooking the entire grounds and directly south of the subway where a large proportion of the fair visitors would enter. This site has been chosen for the location of a Pennsylvania State Building, which is approached from the north and west by means of wide tree-lined boulevards.

Around the Pennsylvania State Building, sites have been suggested for other buildings more or less under the control of state officials, such as education, fish and game, mining and forestry.

Forestry Buildings.

One of the most important places on the grounds after choosing the location of the state building has been given to the forestry building because of the interesting exhibits which can be displayed of forest products and also because demonstrations of reforestation on large areas in the state, which would otherwise be unused would make desirable exhibits. For reason of the conservation of natural resources, this should be one of the important buildings on a State Fair Grounds.

New Features in Plan.

A distinct innovation has been suggested on this proposed plan, of grouping buildings which should house exhibits of similar nature around courts in close proximity to each other in order to minimize physical efforts to see all exhibits of a similar character and not to have them scattered in several places over the grounds. Three distinct courts have been suggested, manufacturers court, agricultural and stock courts. The agricultural court, for example, is shown with a large building in the center probably containing county exhibits, and agricultural products from state institutions, surrounding this large building are four smaller buildings; viz., forestry, dairy, poultry and horticulture, these with two smaller buildings, floricultural and Agricultural Extension Department buildings make up the Agricultural group of buildings, with the stock court directly to the west.

The reasons for the location of the other buildings is entirely obvious and need only be observed to be understood.

Estimate of Cost of a Fair and Exposition.

The following tabulation has been made giving three estimates of the cost of a State Fair and Exposition which would be worthy of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. These estimates are based on cost of buildings actually constructed or similar buildings which have been submitted to contractors for their estimate of cost of construction. The first estimate is based on rather liberal terms, the second a more conservative outlay and the third the absolute minimum which would be required to establish a State Fair on the land chosen for that purpose.

New Innovations Possible.

The possibilities of developing certain new features of an exposition for educational purposes are unlimited.

Industrial Arts Building.

For example, the industrial arts building might contain exhibits of home and factory labor-saving devices of all kinds, and manufactured articles of all variety might be shown from collar buttons to Baldwin locomotives. In such an exhibition there would be some exhibit interesting to every man, woman and child visiting the exposition. Another innovation in this building might be a process exhibit showing the actual process carried out in producing certain common well known articles. Either in miniature or with full sized machinery in operation when possible; complete manufacturing processes can be shown to thousands of interested visitors who, in all probability, would not otherwise ever see the complete inner workings of such a plant.

Education Building.

The education building might house not only exhibits such as prize work from grade and high schools along the lines of home economics, manual training, penmanship, drawing and other similar activities, but a new and novel feature might be added; that of a book exhibit probably placed by a number of book concerns, showing and explaining their complete line of new books along all topics.

Woman's Building.

The woman's building should be the headquarters for all woman's activities and should contain lockers, check rooms, large comfortable rest rooms, day nurseries and, in connection with these, a new type of exhibit might be that of an exhibit of toys of all varieties to suit children of different ages. Such an exhibit certainly would be a great drawing card for the coming generation.

Machinery Building.

The machinery building, housing the exhibits of horse-drawn, power and hand machinery not shown on the machinery field, might profitably give over one section of the exhibit to electrical conveniences for the farm home.

Merchants' Building.

A portion of the merchants' building could be made in the form of a platform and style shows be staged there showing, for example, moderate priced street dresses and suits, school dresses, kitchen aprons and house dresses, and should not be an exhibit of expensive party dresses, afternoon tea gowns or evening wraps. A style show as described would be of educational and financial value to a much larger proportion of visitors than one of evening wearing apparel.

Fine Arts.

An exhibit in the fine arts building should not be of the type to interest only those well versed in the works of the old masters, on the other hand it should be made up of pictures and works of art more easily understood by those not endowed with artistic ability. A competent "human" artist might be employed to not only select the pictures and works of art best suited for such an exhibit but lectures on art, principles of drawing and appreciation of pictures, etc., might be given in an adjoining outdoor theater. Such an exhibit, if made adjustable to the interest of a large number of fair visitors, might be made one of the most interesting exhibits and the fine arts building be the most popular building on the fair grounds.

By these few illustrations it can easily be shown how by injecting some unusual innovations from year to year that the educational value of a fair can be materially increased and many permanent results be achieved.

Pennsylvania Needs a State Fair and Exposition.

By noting a few of the possibilities of an Exposition that are being enjoyed in other states it is plain to be seen that the adult citizens and the children of the Great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are actually handicapped. They are being deprived of a part of the great educational system enjoyed by the population of other states.

In the face of these facts it is only a question of time when a State Exposition will be established and as long as it is postponed just so long will our citizens be deprived of the wide educational advantages offered by other states.

History of the State Fair Commission of Pennsylvania.

Conforming with the expressed wishes of many of the agricultural, manufacturing, commercial and allied interests of Pennsylvania, there was passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor, May 27, 1921, Act No. 443, creating the State Fair Commission of Pennsylvania and defining its powers and duties as follows:

"It shall be the duty of the State Fair Commission to formulate plans for the establishment, organization, conduct, and management of an annual State fair, to embrace exhibits of all agricultural, industrial, and artistic products of the Commonwealth, including exhibits of all classes of farm products embracing live stock, dairying, horticulture, all classes of manufacture, industries, mining, mechanics, and domestic arts, and such other exhibits as will best advance the interests of agriculture and the other industries of the Commonwealth.

"In the furtherance of this duty, the State Fair Commission shall have power to examine sites, and if possible, to secure a donation of a proper and convenient site for the annual State Fair. It shall also have power to examine sites for purchase by the Commonwealth for the purposes of the State fair, and for this purpose to secure options. It shall prepare plans for exhibits, together with their equipment, and formulate plans for advertising, management, and exhibits. The Commission shall have general power to do and undertake all preliminary work looking to the establishment of an annual State Fair. The State Fair Commission shall present a full and complete report to the General Assembly not later than the third Monday of January, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, together with its recommendations."

Under the date of August 11, 1921, the Governor made the following appointments in accordance with provisions of the Act:

Ex-OFFICIO

William C. Sproul, Governor.
Fred Rasmussen, Secretary of Agriculture.
Thos. E. Finegan, Superintendent Public Instruction.
Clifford B. Connelley, Commissioner of Labor and Industry.

TWO YEARS EACH.

Harry F. Bovard, Greensburg, Pa.
C. F. Fendrick, Mercersburg, Pa.
P. M. Sharples, West Chester, Pa.

THREE YEARS EACH.

John A. Bell, Jr., Carnegie, Pa.
John A. McSparran, Furniss, Pa.

FOUR YEARS EACH.

Charles G. Jordan, Volant, Pa.
Samuel S. Lewis, York, Pa.

On November 16, 1921, the Commission organized and the following abstract is taken from the minutes:

"The Governor in calling the meeting to order stated the purpose of the Commission and expressed the hope that the result of its work would lead to the establishment of an agricultural and industrial exposition for Pennsylvania, unequalled anywhere in the country. It is a project which the agricultural people of the State have been looking forward to for many years and furthermore there is a great interest among our industries for the development of such an exposition."

The following officers were elected: Wm. C. Sproul, Chairman; Fred Rasmussen, Vice-Chairman; E. K. Hibshman, Secretary, and J. H. Thomas, Treasurer.

Subsequently the members of the Commission personally viewed two proposed sites in Dauphin county in the vicinity of Middletown, five in Cumberland county, one in Lancaster county, and careful consideration was given to the proposals made by the cities of Sunbury, Williamsport and Altoona. Communication was established with the United States Government relative to securing the aviation depot at Middletown and the Commission was informed that this tract was to be developed into a permanent aviation center and was not available.

A number of experienced exposition managers who had successfully developed similar fairs were consulted and from them the Commission received much valuable information concerning the essential features necessary for the successful establishment and operation of a project of this character. Following the best advice obtainable, the Commission employed the services of the Landscape Architects, Messrs. Pearse, Robinson and Sprague, of Chicago, and De Moines to prepare a complete plan.

A tentative site in Cumberland county was selected and used as the basis for the report which includes original drawings, text and tabulations. These plans include a detailed layout of the grounds showing the locations of the entrances, streets, track, various groups of buildings, and parking fields. Detailed ground plans and elevation views of the various buildings are also given. This report was accepted by the Commission and in accordance with the Act is presented to the Legislature of 1923 with the recommendation for an appropriation of Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($500,000) for the purchase of site, laying out and grading of grounds, building of roads, planting of trees and such other preliminary work as may be necessary to establish such a State Fair as is intended by the provisions of the Act.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF COMMISSIONERS

ON

UNIFORM STATE LAWS.

To His Excellency, Honorable Gifford Pinchot, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Sir: In accordance with the provisions of the Act of Assembly of April 20, 1917, P. L. 90, the undersigned, constituting the Board of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, respectfully reports:

This Act provides: "It shall be the duty of said board to examine such subjects as it may deem necessary, and to ascertain the best means to effect an assimilation and uniformity of State legislation throughout the United States relative to the subjects so examined; and said Board of Commissioners shall meet with the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, for the promotion of uniformity of legislation throughout the United States, at its annual or other sessions, and join with it in such measures as may be deemed most expedient to advance the objects of its appointment."

Since the last biennial report they attended the thirty-first and thirty-second annual conferences of the Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, held at Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1921, and at San Francisco, California, in 1922.

The national Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws has been in existence since August 24, 1892. The Commissioners of Pennsylvania were first appointed in the year 1901. The Conference is composed of Commissioners from the different States, organized into a national body for the better accomplishment of their work. All the States are now represented and also the District of Columbia, Alaska, Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippine Islands, making in all fifty-three (53) jurisdictions. The membership is fully representative, there being judges, law teachers, members of legislatures, congressmen and practicing lawyers of note.

The present officers are Nathan William MacChesney, Chicago, Illinois, President; Eugene C. Massie, Richmond, Virginia, Vice-President; George G. Bogert, Ithaca, New York, Secretary; W. O. Hart, New Orleans, Louisiana, Treasurer.

The object of the Conference as set forth in its Constitution, is "to promote uniformity of State laws on all subjects where uniformity is deemed desirable and practicable."

The Conference has a method of procedure which is intended to secure the greatest possible accuracy in the preparation of a uniform law. It is first submitted to a Committee on Scope and Program to determine whether it is pertinent to the work of the Conference and one upon which uniformity is desirable. Having decided to consider it, the subject is referred to a standing committee or a special committee to have a tentative draft of an act prepared. Usually this work is done by an expert draughtsman specially versed in the law on the subject. The first tentative draft having been prepared and prescribed to the Conference, is considered section by section and then referred back to the committee for redrafting with such amendments as the Conference has adopted. By a standing rule no draft is sent out for adoption by the legislatures of the different States until it has been considered section by section by the Conference at two meetings. Frequently it has happened that years have been taken in the consideration of acts before they have attained the requisite perfection.

Among the commercial acts of most importance for which the Conference is responsible may be mentioned the Negotiable Instruments Act, recommended in 1896, adopted in every jurisdiction except Georgia and Porto Rico; the Warehouse Receipts Act, adopted in forty-eight (48) jurisdictions; the Sales Act adopted in twenty-five (25) jurisdictions; the Bills of Lading Act adopted in twenty-five (25) jurisdictions; the Stock Transfer Act adopted in fifteen (15) jurisdictions; and the Partnership Act adopted in fourteen (14) jurisdictions.

Pennsylvania has adopted the following: Negotiable Instruments Act, Sales Act, Warehouse Receipts Act, Bills of Lading Act, Stock Transfer Act, Partnership Act, and Limited Partnership Act, the Deposition Act, Fraudulent Conveyance Act, Proof of Statutes Act, ten in all.

At the Cincinnati meeting, the Conference, which was in session from August 24th until August 30th, 1921 was mainly engaged in a discussion of the preliminary drafts of a Uniform Incorporation Act and, a Uniform Fiduciaries Act, an Act Relating to the Status and Relation of Illegitimate Children, the Uniform Declaratory Judgments Act, a Uniform Mortgage Act and a Uniform Aviation Act. At the San Francisco meeting which was in session from August 2nd until August 8th, 1922, the time of the Conference was taken up mainly by consideration of these Acts, except that of the Uniform Incorporation Act, which was laid aside.

The Conference has recommended the four following additional Acts for passage by the Legislatures of the different States.

1. Uniform Declaratory Judgments Act, providing that courts of record within their respective jurisdictions shall have the power to declare rights, status and other legal relations whether or not further relief is, or could be claimed. No action or proceeding shall be open to objection on the ground that a declaratory judgment or decree is prayed for. The declaration shall have the force and effect of a final judgment or decree.

2. Uniform Illegitimacy Act. This Act seeks to retain those provisions which have been approved by the experience of most of the States, the coercive features of the court proceedings have been preserved and strengthened.

3. Uniform State Law for Aeronautics. This Act has been prepared on the theory that the Federal Government will provide rules and regulations for licensing of craft and pilots, and is confined to the elementary principals concerning the lawfulness of flight, responsibility for damages and similar matters.

4. Uniform Fiduciaries Act. The object of this Act is to relieve persons dealing with a fiduciary from the heavy responsibility of a constructive inquiry into the good faith of the fiduciary. In practice such inquiries are impossible in the ordinary course of banking and commercial transactions and there is involved a risk which should be eliminated except in case of knowledge of fraud or personal advantage to the payee or recipient.

In addition to the four Acts above enumerated there were certain other amendments to commercial acts heretofore adopted. These amendments are intended to remove certain inconsistencies as to the extent of the negotiability of warehouse receipts, bills of lading, and stock certificates in the various uniform acts heretofore recommended by the National Conference.

The Uniform Sales Act and the Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act (in Pa. 1910) were adopted earlier than the Uniform Bills of Lading Act (in Pa. 1911) and the Uniform Stock Transfer Act (in Pa. 1911). Sections 32 and 38 of the Uniform Sales Act and Sections 40 and 47 of the Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act provided that negotiation may be made by any one intrusted with a document in deliverable form and is not invalidated by breach of duty, fraud, accident, mistake, duress or conversion. But Sections 31 and 38 of the Uniform Bills of Lading Act and Section 5 of the Uniform Stock Transfer Act protect a purchaser for value either from the thief or finder if the instrument is made or endorsed to him or is endorsed to blank. The amendments adopted therefore amend the sections of the Sales and Warehouse Receipts Act to agree with the rule later adopted in the Bills of Lading and Stock Transfer Acts, and make the documents covered by the earlier acts as fully negotiable as those dealt with in the later acts.

This Commonwealth, from the inception of the movement has given its hearty support to uniformity of legislation among the States on appropriate subjects. There have been biennial appropriations of Two Thousand ($2,000.00) Dollars for many years, to cover the travelling and hotel expenses of the Commissioners and also a contribution to the Treasury of the Conference, usually fixed at Two Hundred and Fifty ($250.00) Dollars per annum. The Commissioners ask that this appropriation be continued.

At this time, when the sentiment of the country for simplicity, certainty and uniformity in subjects of interstate importance is growing stronger, it is essential, if the Commissioners from Pennsylvania are to carry on the good work which has been done in the past, to have the cordial support and cooperation of the Legislature. No better way has yet been devised for obtaining uniformity in appropriate subjects than the plan of the Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. The undersigned earnestly hope that they will continue to receive the cordial support of Your Excellency and of the Legislature.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM H. STAAKE, Chairman, of Commission.

WALTER GEORGE SMITH,
WILLIAM M. HARGEST,
Commissioners.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY ON INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

COMMUNICATION.

Department of Internal Affairs,
Harrisburg, January 16, 1923.

To His Excellency, Gifford Pinchot, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and Members of the General Assembly:

Complying with the requirements of the Constitution, I have the honor to present herewith the general report of this Department for the period beginning May 6, 1919, and ending November 30, 1922.

Very respectfully,

JAS. F. WOODWARD,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

ORGANIZATION OF THE DEPARTMENT.

The Department of Internal Affairs at the present time operates through the following Bureaus:

1. Land Office Bureau
2. Bureau of Statistics and Information, which contains the following divisions:

Following my election as Secretary of Internal Affairs November 5, 1918, I entered upon the duties of the office on the sixth day of May, 1919, the law providing that the term of the Secretary of Internal Affairs shall begin on the first Tuesday in May following his election. The State Constitution requires the Secretary of Internal Affairs to make a report to the General Assembly. The duty, therefore, devolves upon me to present to you, and to the incoming Legislature, as full and complete a survey as possible of the operations of the Department of Internal Affairs, embracing the period beginning May 6, 1919, and ending November 30, 1922.

CHANGE IN REPORTS.

From the time of the creation of the Department of Internal Affairs by the Constitution of 1874 the report of the Secretary has been made and published in three volumes, as follows:

- Parts I and II - Land Office and Bureau of Taxes and Assessments.
- Part III - Bureau of Industrial Statistics.
- Part IV - Bureau of Railways, Canals, Telephones, &c.

As a result of the comprehensive re-organization of the Department in the last three years the above divisions of the Secretary's report must be departed from. By reason of the merging of several existing bureaus, and of the creation of additional bureaus in the Department, the number and the style of the publications must be completely changed. I contemplate, as this report witnesses, a separate Annual Report by the Secretary which shall be in the nature of a general review of the operations of all of the bureaus of the Department, together with suggestions for improvement in the work of the respective bureaus, and discussions upon such subjects as may be pertinent to the established, or possible, jurisdiction of the Department. The methods which have heretofore prevailed did not offer sufficient opportunity for personal and distinctive expression of policies by the head of the Department. I believe that this is a fault which too generally prevails in departmental reports. They are too often mere mechanical accounts of bureau details compiled by the chiefs of bureaus and published under the name of the head of the department, with but slight effort apportioned credit or responsibility. Furthermore, I very much doubt the wisdom and expediency of the Act of April 18, 1919, (P. L. 89) which provides that reports of the state government shall be published biennially. It seems to me that the people have just as much right to an accounting from the head of every department exercising a public function as the members or stockholders of a business corporation have of the affairs of the company and the conduct of the operating officials. The saving of a small sum of money annually by keeping the public in ignorance of the conduct and results of its own business seems to me to be poor policy and doubtful economy. It cannot be denied that in the past there has been much loss and waste in state publications, but the remedy is not in a crippling and obstructive policy. By pursuing what I believe to be a short-sighted policy one of the strongest incentives for performing good service is removed. When the employees of a department work energetically and faithfully throughout the year, and the results of their work are not promptly printed for permanent records, it is discouraging to them. Furthermore, there are many eminent experts in numerous lines of endeavor employed by the state whose opinion and advice upon subjects within the fields of their knowledge are eagerly sought after by interested citizens. The great value of the information which they disseminate in many forms of publication will be denied only by the thoughtless and the ignorant.

A state needs publicity as well as private enterprises do. The more carefully and systematically a state's publicity is planned and organized, the more effective and beneficial it is to that state, and the less opportunity there will be for misunderstanding and misrepresentation. Pennsylvania's publicity system is heterogenous. It has grown throughout the years largely without plan or reason. A thoroughly and systematic re-organization is greatly needed. Every department head should carefully plan his reports and other publicity features with the view of producing quality rather than quantity, and all should be centered to a common intent and the elimination of all duplication. And, in my judgment, there should be published monthly, or at least quarterly, either by the State Library or the Department of Printing and Binding, a catalogue of all state documents issued for the respective month or quarter. Similarly, when reports and documents are prepared for printing, they should be printed promptly.

I have engaged in this discussion of state publishing and printing in general because I regard it as important. Every state department receives almost daily requests for printed matter relating to the state's activities which may have been compiled and not printed, or has been printed in such form that it cannot readily be furnished to the inquirer. There is very noticeable increases in the number of such requests from the public and teachers in the schools, and from women since their enfranchisement. This is proof of an augmented interest in the affairs of the state and a real desire on the part of these classes to learn the details of the operations of the state departments. It is an opportunity to educate in civic affairs that should not be neglected and information in an attractive form should always be available.

CONSOLIDATION OF BUREAUS.

The Bureau of Statistics and Information in this Department, as a result of the several Acts of Assembly reorganizing this Bureau, now embraces the Bureau of Railways and the Bureau of Taxes and Assessments, which formerly functioned as separate bureaus in the Department. The combined reports of the three bureaus prove that the consolidation has been most satisfactory. Two volumes have been printed and distributed. The first volume, containing eight hundred and seventy-eight pages, was printed and distributed in the year 1920 and was entitled, "Report on Productive Industries"; it comprised a vast array of statistical data relating to the industrial activities of the state covering the years 1916, 1917, 1918 and 1919. The second volume, containing ten hundred and forty pages, was printed and distributed in 1921, under the title "Productive Industries, Railways, Taxes and Assessments, Waterways, Miscellaneous Statistics." This volume contains very full and complete industrial statistics for 1920; summarized tables covering reports of steam railroads, electric railways, telegraph and telephone companies operating within the state for the years 1918, 1919 and 1920; comparative and summarized tables on assessments and taxes for the years 1918, 1919, 1920 and 1921, and a large collection of valuable and interesting data of a general nature. The data for the 1921 report has been collected and tabulated and is now in the hands of the printer. There is also in the hands of the printer the copy of the fourth edition of the Pennsylvania Industrial Directory which was compiled by the Bureau, the law authorizing its publication every three years.

UNPRINTED REPORTS OF OTHER BUREAUS.

The reports of the Land Bureau and the Bureau of Standards, each covering the years 1919, 1920, 1921 and 1922, have been compiled but not printed. The Bureau of Municipalities did not issue any reports while it was in the Department of Labor and Industry, nor has it issued any since it became a Bureau in this Department. I propose, however, that this important bureau shall, in the near future, fully apprise the public of the splendid work it has done in behalf of the municipalities of the state and of the wonderful possibilities for the future which this work promises.

The Bureau of Topographic and Geological Survey has been seriously handicapped owing to the fact that the greater part of the results of its labors could not be promptly printed and circulated. As the topographic survey is a joint work on the part of the State and the Federal government, the engraving of the topographic map is done by the latter, and maps covering five hundred square miles were promptly printed and distributed. The printing requirements of the geological end of the survey, as contemplated, are very great. A large amount of copy, representing what will be permanent publications, has been prepared but has not been printed. Sixty-three advance bulletins have been mimeographed and distributed in lieu of printed reports.

An illustrated pamphlet containing twenty pages entitled "The Story of the Pennsylvania Survey" and the "Oil and Gas Report", containing about eighty pages, represent the publications this Bureau has been able to distribute in printed form. It is imperative that the completed work of this important bureau be printed soon, so that it may become available to the public. The failure of the printing department to keep abreast with the work of the bureau will necessitate very largely increased appropriations for the next biennial period in order to dispose of this accumulation, and also that the work of the bureau may not be further retarded.

CO-OPERATION OF PRESS APPRECIATED.

Notwithstanding its inability to distribute printed permanent reports promptly, the Department was never before so successful in getting the results of its work to the notice of interested persons and the public generally. All important statistics, as soon as they were compiled, were furnished to the newspapers and trade journals of the state in articles which they generously and readily published. The policy adopted of collecting and compiling statistics with cities and counties as units made it possible to publish the same locally upon the completion of any particular unit without waiting for totals in the state, which added greatly to the interest with which the information was received. I acknowledge my gratitude to the press of the state for its unstinted co-operation in this respect. I have at all times had its most liberal support and encouragement, from which I am led to believe that the work of the Department has generally met with the approval of the press.

INVESTIGATION AND IMPROVEMENT NECESSARY.

In this review and explanation of the reasons for the delay in publishing reports and other documents there has been no thought of criticising the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding or the State Printer. These officials have always been most courteous and accommodating in all their relations with the Department and at times have gone out of their way to meet emergencies. Scarcity and high prices of materials and unsettled labor conditions in the last few years greatly embarrassed them in their tasks. But the time has certainly arrived for a thorough investigation of the state's method of conducting this important branch of its business with a view to complete re-organization and improvement.

SUMMARY OF DEPARTMENT PUBLICATIONS.

The following summary presents the present situation as to reports and publications, those in printed form being available upon application to the Department until the editions are exhausted:

BUREAU OF STATISTICS AND INFORMATION.

(Printed)

Report on Productive Industries, 1916, 1917, 1918 and 1919.
Productive Industries, Railways, Taxes and Assessments, Waterways, Miscellaneous Statistics. (Industrial Statistics 1920; steam railroads, electric railways, telegraph and telephone companies, 1918, 1919, 1920; taxes and assessments 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921.)

(In the Printer's Hands)

Fourth Edition of the Pennsylvania Industrial Directory.

BUREAU OF TOPOGRAPHIC AND GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

(Printed)

The Story of the Pennsylvania Survey.

Oil and Gas Report.

(Not printed but mimeograph copies are available for distribution.)

Sixty-three advance bulletins upon geographical subjects.

The titles to these bulletins may be read in another part of this report pertaining to the Bureau.

BUREAU OF STANDARDS.

(Printed)

Housekeeping—Pennsylvania's Greatest Industry.

(Not printed but copy prepared)

Report of Bureau—1919, 1920, 1921.

LAND OFFICE BUREAU.

(Not printed but copy prepared)

Report of Bureau—1919, 1920, 1921.

LAND OFFICE BUREAU.

This Bureau contains the records of the first titles acquired by the Proprietaries and the Commonwealth to all lands within the limits of the state, and the records of all grants and conveyances from the Proprietaries and the Commonwealth to purchasers of land. These consist of what are known as applications, warrants to survey, drafts of surveys, and patents. These form the bases of titles to lands, including islands, in the state. They are on file in the Vault of the Department and searches may be made by persons interested in the investigation of titles, or, upon request, by the Search Clerks of the Bureau, and certified copies of records procured upon order and the payment of the proper fees.

SOME OUTSTANDING FEATURES OF THE BUREAU'S WORK FROM MAY 6, 1919, to NOVEMBER 30, 1922.

COPYING WORK.

During a period of four years, 1919 to 1922, inclusive, 21,206, old warrants, more or less worn and broken, were copied, compared, signed, certified, and bound in volumes, each containing four hundred and eighty warrants. Owing to the fact that neatness as well as accuracy was required of those employed in the work, and owing to the large amount of current work that demanded attention throughout this time, the copying of these warrants is a creditable showing when the nature and quantity of this work is known and understood. A summary is given below:

YEAR	WARRANTS
1920	5,116
1921	4,434
1922	6,664

Total 21,206

WARRANTEE TRACT MAPS.

By Act of June 13, 1907, (P. L. 621) the duty was imposed upon the Secretary of Internal Affairs to compile, or cause to be compiled, connected warrantee tract maps of the several counties of the Commonwealth. Few people have any conception of what was involved in this apparently simple direction. It is an enormous task which can only be completed by many years of continuous work. It is, however, a meritorious undertaking as every township and county constructed will greatly facilitate the examinations of titles to real estate located therein for all future time. The work requires the services of draftsmen especially trained and skilled in connecting old surveys according to the rules of law and surveying. As the appropriations for this work have been small, the progress being made is necessarily slow. It is, however, being prosecuted as diligently and continuously as possible.

Three draftsmen have been employed in the construction of warrantee tract maps in the counties of Greene, Fayette, Mercer, Washington, Butler and Susquehanna. In the past four years there have been completed twenty-one townships of Mercer county; twenty-one of Washington county; twenty-four (all) of Fayette county; eight of Butler county; three of Susquehanna county; and six of Green county reconstructed, a total of eighty-three. Two townships in Fulton county and one in Huntingdon are now in course of construction. The above enumerated townships have an area of approximately two thousand, two hundred seventy-two square miles, which is a slight index to the large amount of work required in construction, in verifying the completed maps and in getting the necessary data.

A BOUNDARY LINE DISPUTE.

From the earliest days there has existed a dispute between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the State of Delaware as to the correct boundary line at what is known as the New Castle Circle. Strange to say, it is still unsettled and presents an anomalous situation.

At the request of Governor William C. Sproul I made a thorough investigation of the entire subject in the year 1920. I appointed a competent engineer and land surveyor who made a complete survey upon the ground and subsequently filed in the Department an elaborate report which determines the exact conditions.

As a result of this uncertainty as to the true line many published maps of Pennsylvania differ. Some show a small wedge of the state extending southward between the states of Maryland and Delaware, while others do not show this wedge. According to the present legal status the wedge is a part of this state and properly belongs on the map, but strange to relate, all the residents therein have always voted, paid taxes and held office in the state of Delaware.

A full presentation of the subject involved complicated questions of law and surveying. I shall, however, confine myself to an effort to clearly explain the points of difference. In the year 1889 an attempt at adjustment was jointly undertaken by the two states but the results of the labors of the Commissioners have so far been defeated by the failure of Delaware to ratify their actions. After the survey which I instituted was completed, I reported to Governor Sproul in the following letter:

November 16, 1920.

His Excellency, William C. Sproul,
Governor of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Sir:

In pursuance of your request for a statement in the matter of the boundary line between the states of Pennsylvania and Delaware, I furnish you herewith the principal facts, which I hope will give you a clear view of the proposition.

The General Assembly of Pennsylvania passed an Act on May 4, 1889, (P. L. page 81) which recites:

"WHEREAS, The reports of the county commissioners on the condition of the boundry line monuments, made pursuant to the Act of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, show that that portion of the boundary line, known as the circle of New Castle, which separates this Commonwealth from the State of Delaware, is unmarked, and has not been surveyed for upwards of one hundred years, leaving its location so uncertain that it is impossible to determine in which state a large amount of property is situated:

"AND WHEREAS, Said county commissioners' reports show that many of the monuments that were set in the Mason and Dixon line have been mutilated, destroyed or removed from their proper location; therefore,

"SECTION 1. BE IT ENACTED, &c., That it shall be the duty of the Governor to appoint three competent persons as commissioners, representing this Commonwealth, who are hereby authorized to act in conjunction with a similar commission from the state of Delaware, to examine, survey and re-establish the boundary line that separates this Commonwealth from the state of Delaware, and when said line shall have been properly relocated, to mark its location by the erection of enduring monuments. It shall also be the duty of the said commissioners to make a detailed report of their operations, which, together with the field notes of surveys, description of monuments, maps and other items of interest connected with their work, shall be filed immediately after the performance of the duties imposed by this act, with the Secretary of Internal Affairs, who shall cause a proper record of the same to be made," etc.

In pursuance of this Act, Wayne McVeagh, William H. Miller and R. Emmet Monaghan were appointed commissioners for Pennsylvania, and Thomas F. Bayard, John H. Hoffecker and B. L. Lewis were appointed commissioners for Delaware.

The commission, on January 29, 1894, filed a report, with maps of surveys, etc., in the Department of Internal Affairs, as required by their appointment.

By Act of Assembly of June 22, 1897, (P. L. 182) Pennsylvania confirmed and approved the report of said commission and, on its part, accepted the line established and marked by monuments by the commission, as the boundary line between the two states.

By the small map attached you may see that this report extended the Mason and Dixon Line due east four thousand, one hundred sixty-nine feet to a stone on the New Castle circle. This would necessarily result in the triangular tract of land to the south thereof (marked A) becoming a part of the state of Delaware. It is, however, still carried on most of the maps of Pennsylvania.

It having been brought to my attention that Pennsylvania had no evidence that the state of Delaware had ever acted favorably upon the report of its commissioners, and the inspection of the boundary lines of the state being a part of the lawful duties of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, I decided to make a thorough investigation of the existing situation. I therefore sent Mr. Warren J. Daniel, a surveyor in the Land Office Bureau of this Department, with assistants, to make a complete inspection of the boundary monuments and a survey of the district.

Mr. Daniel's report showed that the tract which became a part of Delaware by the report of the commissioners, if confirmed by the state of Delaware, and which should no longer be a part of the map of Pennsylvania, contains seven hundred and fourteen (714) acres; that there are within its boundaries twenty-nine (29) different property owners and nineteen (19) families, one village called Mechanicsville, two churches, one school and three and one-half miles of public roads. Mr. Daniel reports that these people vote and pay taxes in the state of Delaware and that they and the state of Delaware seem to recognize in all respects that this territory is a part of the state of Delaware.

To assure myself as to whether the state of Delaware had ever confirmed the action of its commissioners, on the thirteenth day of September, 1920, I wrote to the Secretary of State of Delaware, and on September twenty-fourth, 1920, received the following letter in reply:

"September 24, 1920.

"Hon. James F. Woodward,
Secretary of Internal Affairs,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Sir:

Your favor of the 13th instant received, and wish to advise I have made a thorough examination of the Session Laws since 1897, and fail to find an enactment of the General Assembly of the state of Delaware that has any bearing upon the subject to conform to the law now upon the state books of your state. If you desire, or think it advisable to have the law passed by the General Assembly of this state of the nature referred to, I would suggest that you address a communication of the Governor of the state of Delaware, enclosing a copy of the Act now in force in your state.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) EVERETT C. JOHNSON,
Secretary of State."

Mr. Daniel reports that proper stone monuments bearing the names of the commissioners from both states have been erected upon the line as established by this commission.

In view of the above facts, it seem to me that this situation in relation to our boundary line should be definitely settled by appropriate legislation on the part of the state of Delaware, so that no question can arise at any time in the future, and so that map makers of Pennsylvania can thereafter exclude the small triangular projection which appears on so many of the state maps.

I respectfully suggest that you indite a letter to the Governor of the state of Delaware in relation to this matter.

Very respectfully yours,

JAMES F. WOODWARD,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

I was never informed by Governor Sproul as to whether he complied with the request contained in this letter, but lately I have seen references in the newspapers to some legislation in connection with the boundary line. I expect to investigate these reports soon.

The real gist of the dispute lies in the alleged difference between an old line of 1701 and the new line established by the commission appointed in 1889. A most interesting history of the subject is contained in an equity case, Johnson versus Crossan, decided by Judge Hemphill in the Common Pleas Court of Chester county. The opinion is extraordinarily lengthy and I give the most pertinent extracts. The suit arose out of an attempt to collect taxes alleged to be payable in this state.

Extracts from Judge Hemphill's opinion:

"Upon the hearing of this case it appeared that the plaintiff had resided upon the tract in question since the spring of 1866; had always paid taxes upon the same and exercised and enjoyed all the rights, duties and privileges of citizenship in the state of Delaware, as had his predecessors in title for many years prior thereto.

"The defendant denies that said land is in the state of Delaware, but on the contrary alleges it to be within the state of Pennsylvania, and avers that the plaintiff is now and always has been a resident of said state, and as proof thereof points to the report of the Commissioners of said states appointed in 1889, under acts passed by the respective Legislatures, 'to examine, survey and re-establish the boundary line which separates the state of Delaware from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,' and which as thus fixed, re-established and relocated' shows said tract to be within the boundaries of Pennsylvania.

"The plaintiff's answer to this is, that said Commissioners exceeded their powers, that instead of relocating and re-establishing the old and traditional boundary line between the states, they located, at least in the vicinity of the plaintiff's property, an entirely new and different line, some twelve hundred feet farther southeast, within the state of Delaware, and thus transferred his property from Delaware to Pennsylvania, and that this action on their part was ultra vires.

"In so far as this case is concerned it is unimportant whether or not the Commissioners exceeded the powers conferred upon them by their respective states, but the important question is, have they materially altered or changed the boundary line heretofore existing between the states? If they have, and under ample authority, conferred by the states, then the assent of Congress alone is wanting, and if without such authority, then ratification by the states, as well as the assent of Congress is necessary, for it is not pretended that either has been procured.

"But as we have said, the important question for determination is, have the Commissioners materially altered or changed the boundary line heretofore existing between these states? If they have, whether with or without the assent of states, is unimportant for the reason that such alteration or change has not received the assent or approval of Congress, and the old line consequently remains the boundary line until that is procured.

"In the present case it is not pretended that the consent of Congress has been given, either expressly or by implication, the position of the defendant being that the line run and marked by the Commissioners appointed in 1889 did not define a new boundary between the states, but merely relocated and remarked the old and existing line established by the survey in 1701.

"The end of the horse dyke next to the town of New Castle was the center of the circle from which the survey of 1701 was made, and the Commission of 1889 was able to identify and locate three points in the line of that survey; viz; the site of Lamplugh's house on the Delaware, the great-bend in the Brandywine, where the white oak stood, and the stump of the old hickory tree at the corner of Kennett and Pennsbury townships. Measuring then northward from the spire of the New Castle Court House, the center adopted by the Commission, toward the site of Lamplugh's house, the radius of twelve miles fell over three thousand feet short of that point, nor would a circle described upon the radius pass through either of the other identified points—the line would fall entirely within the state of Delaware and cut off nearly five thousand acres of land belonging to that state.

"West of the old hickory stump at the corner of Kennett and Pennsbury they were unable to verify any points as identical with the original line.

"Another twelve mile radius, from the same center, was run northwestwardly until it intersected the east line extended from the northeast corner of Maryland and the point of intersection was adopted as the initial and the site of Lamplugh's house as the terminal point of the circular boundary.

"To reach the terminal point, from the adopted center, the radius had to be increased from twelve to twelve and eighty-one one hundredths miles or over three quarters of a mile. By this increase the curve line would pass through or close to all the identified points of the old survey, but when extended beyond to the west, would encroach upon Pennsylvania, pass far west of the initial point and run a considerable distance into the State of Maryland—for the survey of both Mason and Dixon and Colonel Grahams, with a twelve mile radius from the same center, cut a small segment of a circle out of Maryland.

"To overcome this difficulty a compound curve to be composed of two arcs with a common tangent at the hickory stump at the corner of Kennett and Pennsbury was agreed upon, and the radius of the second or western arc was shortened to eleven and fifty-eight one hundredths miles so as to interest the initial points.

"The curve if extended south and west would not touch the eastern boundary of Maryland, but would pass, so testified John G. Jackson, a civil engineer and surveyor, about twelve hundred feet east of the tangent point on the perpendicular line between Delaware and Maryland, while the survey of 1701 extended in the same direction would just reach the eastern boundary of Maryland.

"The survey and measurements having been completed, the commission, on April 11, 1893, resolved:

"First. That the boundary line between the State of Delaware on the north and the State of Pennsylvania shall be held to commence at the northeast corner and boundary stone of the State of Maryland and extending thence due east, four thousand one hundred and sixty-nine feet, to the monument now fixed and agreed upon by this joint Commission as the western terminus of the circular boundary line between the said states, &c."

"Second. That the monuments as inscribed and set under the direction of this joint Commission at the eastern and western termini, respectively, of the said circular boundary line, be and are hereby adopted, approved and confirmed as the truth and just terminal points of the said boundary line and that the intermediate line of boundary, being twenty-two miles and fifty seven hundredths between the terminal points aforesaid as surveyed and delineated by W. C. Hodkins, as assistant engineer, &c. be adopted and approved."

"The result of this action of the Commission if legalized would be to cede Delaware the wedge-shaped tract belonging to Pennsylvania that lies between the eastern boundary of Maryland and the circular boundary of Delaware, extending nearly one mile and a half along the Maryland line and containing about eight hundred acres of land, and on the other hand cede to Pennsylvania a portion of Delaware lying north of a line drawn due east from the northeast corner of Maryland to the circular boundary, being between four and five hundred yards wide at said line and following the said circular boundary east and gradually tapering to a point at the corner of Kennett and Pennsbury, a distance of almost ten miles and nine tenths. (These wedges are marked "A" and "B" respectively on the map.)

"While this perhaps is a fair and equitable exchange, and the boundary line would give a better one than that of 1701, yet until ratified by the Legislatures of the States, and approved by Congress, it is not and cannot be treated as a boundary line.

"It is certainly desirable that this long disputed boundary line should be settled and definitely located, and since the Commission of 1889 have marked their survey and measurements with enduring monuments, it could now be readily accomplished by having its action ratified by the states and approved by Congress.

"The land of the plaintiff lines north of the western arc of the compound curve, his residence six hundred feet north of it and six hundred feet south of the traditional line of 1701, as established by the evidence. His land, therefore, having always heretofore been considered and treated as within the state of Delaware, and the proceedings of the Commission of 1889 lacking the assent of the states and Congress, he is not liable for the tax assessed, and the injunction must be made perpetual."

This long drawn out controversy should be settled by Delaware ratifying the acts of the joint Commission, as Pennsylvania has already done, and the line so established which has been marked by permanent stone monuments along its entire course, receive the approval of Congress.

NOTE: After the above sketch was written my attention was called to newspaper items which reported proceedings in the Legislature of the state of Delaware upon this subject. I wrote to the Secretary of State asking for information and in reply to my letter he forwarded to me a copy of an Act of the Legislature of Delaware, approved March 28, A. D., 1921, which accepted the report of the Commissioners appointed jointly by the two states, and which report was approved by the state of Pennsylvania by Act of Assembly of June 22, 1897.

I have not learned definitely if an Act of Congress has been passed, but the present status would seem to settle for all times this long-drawn-out controversy.

A SURVEY OF STATE OWNED LANDS AT ERIE.

Several times representations were made to Governor Sproul and to me by prominent citizens of Erie to the effect that the state owned a great deal of valuable real estate in and about the harbor of Erie. One gentleman said to me, "I will give a million dollars for the state's holdings". As no one connected with the state government seemed to have any definite knowledge upon the subject, after consultation with Governor Sproul, I decided to have a survey made with the purpose of locating all state owned lands in that vicinity.

Accordingly, an engineer from the Department went to Erie early in the year of 1920 and conducted a searching investigation. He made an elaborate report which is now on file in this Department. It comprises a complete abstract of title to the Erie Triangle, together with maps exhibiting all lands owned by the state and is a valuable addition to the state's records. The survey developed very satisfactory information. It designates as property belonging to the state the following:

The Canal Basin.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Home.

The Water Lot Tract, in front of the third section of the City of Erie.

The Peninsula of Presque Isle.

The accompanying map shows these tracts. Personal inspection of the properties was made by W. A. Moore, the engineer, and he comments as follows:

"I also spent one day in examining the properties owned by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the general condition of the harbor. In this I was greatly assisted by Captain William Leverett Morrison, Commander of the United States Steamship "Wolverine," on the Lake, who placed himself and his automobile at my command. Captain Morrison is a native of the city of Erie and has made an exhaustive study of the needs of the harbor.

"The Canal Basin, which is one of the state's properties, is in a deplorable condition. It is surrounded by the rotting hulls of boats and tumble-down shacks. In it were stored the fishing boats laid up for the winter and many other small craft. This basin should be cleaned out. It lies at the foot, and on both sides, of State street, the highway leading to the public dock built a few years ago by the state of Pennsylvania.

"The property of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home is in fine condition. That part of it lying between the bluff and the Lake does not appear to be of much, if any, use to the inmates of the Home, and if the city could have the use of it, it could be made into a fine recreation ground. It is easy of access from Wayne street, without crossing the grounds on which the Home is built.

"The Water Lot Tract, in front of the Third Section of the town of Erie, lies wholly in the Bay of Presque Isle. By building a sea wall along the front of it and filling back of the wall with material dredged from the Bay, this property could be converted into manufacturing sites, wharves and docks. This would make it a very valuable property to the state, as a large revenue could be obtained from any sales or leases made of it. The Erie Yacht Club House and dock are located on this property, although I understand the club is paying rental to the abutting shore owners.

"The Peninsula of Presque Isle is no longer a Peninsula, as the storms of the last few years have washed away the western end of it. This is a serious matter for it would not be many years before the remainder of it would go in the same way and the wonderful natural harbor of Erie be a thing of the past. I understand, however, that the United States War Department has contracted for the filling of this break. Some work was done on this last year but the storms of the fall and winter washed it all out again.

"The Peninsula is covered for the most part with a fine growth of timber and in the summer is said to be very dense with foliage. It is dotted with small lakes or lagoons and indented with small bays. Some of these lakes are used by the State Department of Fisheries for the propagation of fish.

"On the north side of the Peninsula near its eastern end is a very fine bathing beach, the bottom being composed of sand and extending out into the bay for a great distance. The depth of the water for a distance of from four hundred to eight hundred feet is not more than six feet.

"The soil of the Peninsula is sandy and is formed in parallel ridges extending in an easterly and westerly direction, their summits being about twenty to twenty-five feet above the Lake level. This Peninsula could be made into a beautiful park, with a driveway around its shores, and be used by the citizens of western Pennsylvania as a recreation ground."

Immediately after this survey was completed the citizens of Erie seemed to have awakened to the wonderful advantages these lands possessed in the possible future development of the harbor and for park purposes. The agitation of the project to canalize the St. Lawrence river, whereby ocean vessels may at some future time continue their voyages through to the Great Lakes, doubtless had much to do with enlivening interest. It certainly is true that if the St. Lawrence project is ever consummated, Erie harbor will become of tremendous commercial importance.

At any rate, a movement was started early in the year 1921 by a number of enterprising citizens of Erie, having for its purpose greater care over utilization of these properties. This movement culminated in the passing of the Act of twenty-seventh day of May, 1921, (P. L. 1130) which created the Pennsylvania State Park and Harbor Commission of Erie. The title to all of the hereinbefore mentioned tracts of land, excepting the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, is vested in the Commission and dedicated to the use of the public, to the end that said Presque Isle Peninsula be preserved, maintained, improved, enlarged and forever held as a public park, to be known as the Pennsylvania State Park at Erie; and the other parcels of land for increasing the utilization and importance of the Harbor of Erie. The sum of fifty thousand dollars was appropriated to be expended upon the Peninsula in the construction of roads, etc., upon the condition that the city of Erie, the county of Erie and citizens of Pennsylvania, or others interested, should first provide in the aggregate the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars. The number of Commissioners was fixed at nine persons, three to be appointed by the Governor, two by the council of the city of Erie, two by judges of the Judicial District of the county of Erie, and the Secretary of Internal Affairs and the Commissioner of Fisheries to be members ex-officio.

The Commission had been duly organized and the work of constructing roads to the peninsula is well under way. The planning engineer of the Bureau of Municipalities of this Department rendered a large amount of excellent service in starting this work.

During the last year the United States government laid claim to the title of Presque Isle Peninsula. This claim has been happily adjusted by an Act passed by the present Congress, which quitclaims any interest the Federal government might have in the Peninsula to the state.

When Presque Isle Peninsula is properly improved and developed it will, by reason of its natural beauty and its many unique features, attract the notice of the entire nation and be an object of constant pride to the citizens of Pennsylvania. It is a project which should be encouraged.

BOARD OF PROPERTY.

The Board of Property is composed of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, the Attorney General and the Secretary of the Commonwealth. It is a quasi court with authority to hear disputes arising with reference to the regularity or original land titles, and to pass upon applications made for vacant land when caveats are filed against the granting of warrants, acceptance of the surveys or the issuing of patents.

The decisions of the Board are always receivable in evidence in suits between the same parties, but they are not conclusive either of fact or law. Indeed, a statement of facts, as provided in their proceedings is not even prima facie evidence of their truth. It existed under the Proprietaries and was re-established under the Commonwealth by the Act of April 5, 1782, and has functioned ever since.

While the Board is not of as much importance at the present time as it was in the early days of the Land Office, yet occasionally most important questions involving the most intricate points of law and fact are passed upon.

One of these celebrated causes has occurred during my term as Secretary of Internal Affairs and is, indeed, still pending. It is known as the "Hog Island" case and is of such importance as to deserve a particular notice for present information and future reference.

THE HOG ISLAND CASE.

Hog Island is in Tinicum township, Delaware county, and contains nine hundred acres, with a water frontage on the Delaware river of two and twenty-five hundredths miles. In the early survey of the river made by Lindstrum in 1665 for the Swedes, as shown on his manuscript map in the Pennsylvania Historical Society, the island was designated with the intention, it has been suggested, of honoring Gustavus Adolphus, "Keyser Eyland, Ile des Empereurs." But this aristocratic name gave place to the less euphonious one given to it by the Indians, "Quistconck," meaning "Hog Island," by which it is now known.

It attracted world-wide notice during the war as the point at which arose, as if by magic, a shipbuilding plant of unsurpassed magnitude. It was featured in newspapers and magazine stories as one of the wonders of the world. It was the achievement of the American International Corporation. This corporation was organized by bankers, business men and engineers of the United States, for the purpose of promoting enterprises throughout the entire world.

When the United States entered the war on April 6, 1917, the necessity for ships to transport food and troops was immediate. After an investigation of the Atlantic Coast from Boston to Baltimore, Hog Island was selected by the American International Corporation as the place best adapted to build ships. It was near the ocean, yet sheltered from attack by sea; has a water frontage of more than two miles, with a channel deep enough to launch large ships; ample railroad facilities; was near an industrial center with a supply of labor, skilled and unskilled; housing facilities and access to electric power.

Fifty shipways were erected and contracts entered into for the construction of one hundred and eighty steel ships at a total cost of $200,000,000. This is claimed to be the largest single contract in the world. The yard was prepared in ten months after the first survey and the fifty shipways erected and equipped occupying a space of one and one-quarter miles along the river front. The water front for another mile and one-quarter was occupied by ship basins, piers and berths to accommodate twenty-eight vessels. Twenty-six thousand men were employed and the weekly pay was nearly one million dollars.

PURCHASE OF THE ISLAND.

The American International Corporation purchased the entire island, containing about nine hundred acres from its owners, Colonel Charles N. Black and Francis H. Bohlen, in the latter part of the year 1917. Although it had been regarded as of but small value, it is said to have brought its owners a very large price.

TROUBLE IN THE TITLE.

Trouble was, however, encountered in conveying a good title to the entire tract. It appeared that 54.91 acres on the river front consisted of artificially filled or "made" land lying between the original low water shore line of Hog Island and a dike built out in the Delaware River, by the United States government, for the purpose of controlling the current of the river. (See map marked "B"). It was claimed that this land was not the result of natural accretion but was really due to the dumping of dredged material between the original shore of the island and the dike, and that, therefore, the title of the Commonwealth, in what had been the bed of the river, had never been divested.

The American International Corporation withheld a portion of the purchase price until the validity of the title should be determined by the courts. This led to the first suit at law which has become a long drawn-out litigation.

Charles N. Black and Francis H. Bohlen brought their action against the American International Corporation in Court C. P. No. 5, Philadelphia, to recover $27,500, the purchase price of 54.91 acres in dispute. In this suit they were successful, but the defendant appealed to the Supreme Court, which reversed the lower court in an opinion dated March 24, 1914, and which may be read in 264 Pa. 260.

Justice Simpson says, "If the Commonwealth ever contests plaintiff's title, she may be able to show such a state of facts as would prevent the doctrine of accretions from applying. In any event there is at least a color of an outstanding title in her and though there may be 'nothing in evidence to enable the chancellor to say' she has the better title, defendant is not required to 'encounter the hazzard of litigation' with her."

Honorable Francis Shunk Brown, Attorney General, was notified to appear and intervene in behalf of the Commonwealth in this case, but declined to take any part in it.

THE TROUBLE FURTHER COMPLICATED.

While this litigation was being pursued in the courts between Black and Bohlen and the American International Corporation the trouble was further complicated by proceedings begun before the State Board of Property.

On April 12, 1909, one, Frank M. Zeller, filed in the Department of Internal Affairs an application as provided by the Act of January 27, 1806, (4 Sm. 268) for a warrant to survey an alleged vacant island in the Delaware river, containing fourteen acres, more or less, and which he called "New Providence Island." This small island was supposed to lie in front of Hog Island and between it and the Mifflin Bar Dike, (See copy of map marked "A" which accompanied Zeller's application).

An examination of the maps of the Delaware river on file in the Department did not reveal the existence of an island at the place claimed for it, and acting upon the presumption that it was a recently formed island, the Secretary of Internal Affairs reported it as vacant and forwarded to Mr. Zeller a notice for publication.

ZELLER'S LOST OPPORTUNITY.

Zeller did not, however, insert the notice in any newspaper, as required by law, and nothing more was done by him to prosecute his application until the month of February, 1917, eight years after the filing of his application. Then he inserted the notice in a newspaper and filed proof of publication in the Department of Internal Affairs.

During the eight years of his default the entire space between Hog Island and the Mifflin Bar Dike, by natural accretion and by the dumping of dredgings and other fillings, had become firm land and his alleged fourteen-acre island had become incorporated as a part of the 54.91 acres of Hog Island already in dispute. So here was presented a dispute within a dispute. Zeller had suddenly awakened to the value of a piece of Hog Island if he could establish his long-standing claims.

A CAVEAT IS FILED.

The American International Corporation having been apprised of Zeller's claim through the newspaper advertisement, on the 26th of October, 1917, filed in the Department of Internal Affairs a caveat in which, inter alia, it declared Zeller's claim to be "without merit in that no such island as that claimed, or any island, has ever existed in the said locality," and the "caveator is the owner of the property covered by the map attached to the said application and property adjacent thereto, having purchased the same from the owners of record."

This situation continued until after the Supreme Court decision heretofore cited. Then things began to move rapidly. It had become apparent to all parties that the title of the Commonwealth had to be seriously considered.

On the 11th day of June, 1919, the American International corporation filed in the Department of Internal Affairs an application for a warrant for the 54.91 acres in dispute, pursuant to the provisions of the Act of June 27, 1913, (P. L. 665). This Act provides for the patenting of lands in the beds of navigable rivers and streams, permitted by the government of the United States to be abandoned and filled as no longer of use for ordinary purposes of navigation.

Black and Bohlen and Zeller all promptly filed caveats against this application and citations issued upon the caveats.

SUITS BEFORE THE BOARD.

The issues now joined before the Board for adjudication were:

Charles N. Black and Francis H. Bohlen vs. American International Corporation	No. 488 Caveat filed June 26, 1919 Citation issued June 30, 1919
Frank M. Zeller vs. American International Corporation	No. 489 Caveat filed July 12, 1919 Citation issued July 18, 1919

American International Corporation vs. Frank M. Zeller	No. 490 Caveat filed October 22, 1917 Citation issued July 25, 1919
---	---

The first hearing before the Board was held October 29, 1919, in the rooms of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, Capitol Building. There were the following appearances by counsel:

Frank M. Zeller:

W. Royer Fronefeld, Ralph J. Baker, Louis B. Runk, and James Wikson Bayard.

For Charles N. Black and Francis H. Bohlen:
Robert T. McCracken.

For the American International Corporation:

Thomas Ræburn White and A. B. Maris.

It was agreed that all the cases should be heard together and decision rendered in all upon the testimony taken.

Before the taking of testimony was begun Honorable W. I. Schaffer, Attorney General, and by virtue of his office, a member of the Board of Property, made the following statement:

"I am counsel for the American International Corporation generally and particularly of counsel in association with Mr. White in the litigation with Mr. Frank M. Zeller over the patent which he applied for; and because of my relation to this litigation, I think I ought not to sit in this hearing and I have delegated Emerson Collins, Esq., a Deputy Attorney General, to sit in my place."

In addition to this one, hearings were held in Philadelphia on November 11, 1919, and at Harrisburg December 2, 1919. In all, four hundred and fifty pages of typewritten testimony were taken.

At a meeting held January 22, 1920, the Board of Property filed its decisions sustaining the caveat in the case of the American International Corporation versus Frank M. Zeller, and dismissing the caveats filed by Charles N. Black and Francis H. Bohlen, on the one part, and Frank M. Zeller on the other part, against the application of the American International Corporation and the application was allowed.

OPINIONS IN SUPPORT OF DECISIONS.

490 American International Corporation vs. Frank M. Zeller	Caveat
---	--------

On April 12, 1909, Frank M. Zeller filed in the Department of Internal Affairs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania an application for a warrant to survey a vacant island, called in the application "New Providence Island," lying in the Delaware river within the township of Tinicum, Delaware county, Pennsylvania. No further steps were taken by him on this application until February 9, 1917, when the same was advertised. Against this application a caveat was filed by the American International Corporation on October 22, 1917, a citation being issued July 25, 1919.

Pursuant to the foregoing the case came on to be heard before the Board of Property. As will appear in the Minutes of the proceeding, hearings were held, at which the parties in interest were represented by counsel, at the Department of the Secretary of Internal Affairs October 29 and December 2, and at Philadelphia on November 11 and 12, 1919, at which hearings much testimony was taken and exhibits offered herewith filed.

It may be noted that the case in the matter of the application of the American International Corporation for a warrant for certain land embracing that contained in the above alleged vacant island, against which the said Frank M. Zeller and Charles N. Black and Francis H. Bohlen, respectively, filed caveats, was heard at the same hearings, but the adjudication therein is made in a separate report. That land was the subject of the action of Charles N. Black and Francis H. Bohlen vs. American International Corporation, in the Court of Common Pleas No. 5 of Philadelphia, September Term 1917, to which an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania the Paper Books in that appeal being before the Board in this case.

The question involved in the Zeller application can be briefly stated: He claims that on April 12, 1909, at the time of filing his aforesaid application and prior thereto, there was a vacant island located in the Delaware river between what is known as the Mifflin Bar Dyke and Hog Island, being connected with and adjoining the Dyke on its inner side, and which island is the one named in his application, by virtue of which he is entitled to a warrant to survey and patent the same under the provisions of the Act of January 27, 1806, 4 Sm. 268.

The American International Corporation protested this application upon the following grounds:

First—That no such island as that alleged and described in the application existed at the time of the application, or any other time.

Second—That if anything in the nature of an island existed corresponding to that called for in the application, it was merely the result of an artificial deposit and not patentable as a vacant island.

Third—That the application is defective in form in failing to conform to certain statutory requirements as to place of advertisement and as to the affidavit of the truth of its contents.

A description of the locality and of the operations carried on there is to be found in the course of the opinion of the Supreme Court in the above-mentioned case, as delivered by Mr. Justice Simpson, wherein it is said:

"The court below finds the entire tract in the year 1885, was below ordinary low water mark; beginning at that time and continuing to 1895, with the knowledge and consent of plaintiffs, the bottom of the river in front of their property, both above and below ordinary low water mark, was used as a dumping ground for materials dredged from the channels of the Delaware and Schuylkill rivers and other places, under the direction of officials of the United States government: the effect thereof, and of their construction and maintenance of Mifflin Bar Diike (which extends along the entire frontage of Hog Island), was to accelerate the deposits in the river at this point; about the year 1906, the United States Government pumped material by means of hydraulic dredge, on the land above the open basin near the upper end of the diike. Sand, gravel and earth mixed with water found their way by gravity into the river, and further materially raised the bottom of the river bed. Some of this material flowed back into the channel through the stone diike, and to prevent this, plaintiffs were required by the United States engineers to construct a mud bank along the edge of the diike on the inside thereof; this was done in 1906. In the year 1912, across bank was built by the plaintiffs. * * * so that pumping could thereafter take place behind the cross-bank without danger of the material flowing back into the water at any point. Since the construction of these banks, the area included behind them has been made fast land by further deposits of dredged material. After the pumping which took place in 1906, no further dumping from scows took place and no further pumping on this area until after the construction of the said cross-bank in 1912. The result of this dredging and pumping and of the alluvion brought down by the river, and the action of the water as to all three thereof, was that the 54 91/100 acres became part of Hog Island, and because thereof plaintiffs now claim to own it in fee."

In addition to the foregoing, it may be further added that the diike sheered out into the river as it extended down stream, leaving an open space of considerable width at the lower end between it and the mainland, but that at the upper end it approached close to the shore end, as the evidence disclosed, was connected therewith by a bulkhead or revetment, the construction of which was well described by Colonel Black in his testimony at page 292.

The applicant contends that at the time of this application and prior thereto there was an open channel through which water flowed at all tides, separating his island at the upper end thereof from the mainland, this channel cutting through at the revetment. Along the inner side of the diike and, as above mentioned, connected therewith, within the area between the diike and Hog Island, and consequently embraced within the land in controversy in Black and Bohlen vs. American International Corporation, lay in 1909 the island, if such island existed, for which his application was filed.

The burden rested upon the applicant to establish the fact of the existence of an island answering the description in his application, by satisfactory and conclusive proof. The Commonwealth cannot indulge in the pastime of patenting a doubt. The requirements as to a strict measure of proof in such a case as this imposes no hardship. A geographical fact so plain to ordinary observation as an island lying in a great highway of commerce, within the daily view of many people, is susceptible of such definite and overwhelming proof to render a denial of its existence ridiculous.

The learned counsel for the application in their brief have properly said of this case that "the real controversy is one of fact". The Board, after careful consideration of all the evidence offered and produced in this case, has reached the clear conclusion that no such island as that described and mentioned in the application of Frank M. Zeller existed at the time that the application was made, or at any other time. It is needless to review the voluminous testimony at length or to enter upon any extended discussion of the evidence to sustain this finding. Neither the testimony of Mr. Zeller nor the evidence produced by him was convincing. The maps which he offered were damaging rather than helpful to his contention. The one filed by him in connection with his application shows the low water mark of his alleged island as touching the low water mark of the mainland. It, itself, negatives his contention of an open channel separating the diike from the mainland in the vicinity of the revetment. His explanation of this was not satisfactory, nor that as to why there was an open channel on April 12, 1909, when he made his application, and none there a few weeks later when Mr. Pearson was engaged in making a survey of the premises for the United States government. A shortcoming of much of the testimony offered on his behalf to establish the contention that there was an open channel at all tides at the vicinity of the point where the revetment connected the diike with the mainland is that there was apparently wanting on the part of the witnesses that certainty of knowledge of, or the scientific means of ascertaining, the state of the tide, leaving a sense of uncertainty as to whether it was actually low tide when the parties were there.

It is most questionable whether the testimony produced by Mr. Zeller on behalf of his claim, if uncontradicted, would be sufficient to sustain it. When we turn to that against it the case is no longer in doubt. The evidence of R. G. Pearson alone is enough to end the controversy. He was the United States Engineer in charge of the survey of the Delaware river for some twenty years, and made a survey of Mifflin Bar diike and vicinity. His maps made in pursuance of his official duties were offered as evidence, one of these government maps bearing date May 27-June 2, 1909. He was engaged in his work at this very place in April, 1909. His testimony and this map are clear, direct and positive to the effect that there was no open channel between the diike and the mainland at the revetment, and that this revetment, including the land behind it extending back to the main diike, was all above low water mark. The following may be quoted from his testimony—(page 238):

"By Mr. White:

Q. Mr. Zeller has contended that there was a narrow channel through what you have referred to as the 'revetment', near the ferry house, and coming in between the shore and his alleged island; was there any such channel there, if you know?

A. Not at low tide.

Q. He also made the statement that a large amount of material was deposited by the action of the water in there between the date of his application and the date of your map. Will you tell us what would be the effect, if any, as regards the deposits of material, where there was a narrow channel like that; if there was such a channel as he described, could the material be deposited or not?

A. Well, it would eventually stop around in the channel, or block it, when there was still water in there.

Q. But if that was not blocked at that time, but had flowed through the channel as he described, what would be the effect as to the depositing or otherwise?

A. There would be an erosion, according to the velocity of the water, and if there were no current there, there would be a sedimentation in the channel."

The map of 1909 sustains his statements. Testimony from one so wholly disinterested, so altogether competent, touching a locality with which his official duties made him accurately familiar, fortified by a map practically contemporaneous poraneous with the date of the application here under consideration, must be accredited as entitled to conclusive weight. He was amply corroborated by the testimony of Mr. Van Harlingen, who made a survey of the locality in 1908, and a map of that date offered in evidence by Albert Bunting, an Inspector for the United States, who had been stationed in the neighborhood of Mifflin Bar dike, by F. S. Porter, who worked about the dike in 1906, by Colonel C. N. Black, one of the owners of Hog Island, and J. D. Black.

Colonel Black, an Engineer by profession, who visited the place yearly and undoubtedly as an interested party had it under keen observation, in his testimony (page 297) stated that he never saw anything that had the faintest resemblance to New Providence Island as shown on the Zeller map. J. D. Black testified (page 332) that in 1908 the land from the dike to the mainland at the upper end was all exposed at less than low tide. The maps are decisively against the contention of the applicant. There were three United States government maps before the Board, one bearing date 1885, one 1895 and the one of 1909, above referred to. The first shows the dike to have been constructed in deep water. The one of 1895 shows the revetment above low tide, and land above low tide between the revetment and the mainland, and that of 1909 shows the same thing with an extension of the area of the land above low tide.

The owners of Hog Island watched and observed and in some measure assisted in filling in the basin lying between the dike and the mainland. They are interested parties. It would seem strange and approach the incredible if they had stood idly by and permitted an outside party to "discover" and patent an island lying or emerging in this area, and whose possession by such party would operate to shut them off from the river front. The probabilities are strongly against an oversight or indifference of that kind.

A map of the Master in proceedings partitioning Hog Island among its owners made in 1901 shows the upper end of the basin between the dike and Hog Island low water mark and discloses no open channel at the point of the revetment.

The whole situation is perfectly plain so far as this situation is concerned. In 1885 this dike was built. To effect its purpose it was connected with the main shore at its upper end by a revetment or bulkhead, as it is sometimes called. At times this suffered deterioration, and the water at high tide would go over it, which may explain much of the testimony in behalf of the applicant. That there was ever anything that could properly be called a channel in or about the revetment, through which water flowed at low tide, is certainly refuted by abundant testimony, notably that of Mr. Pearson, as well as by various maps. At the opening at the lower end of the dike scows entered and deposited dredgings. Like dredgings were later pumped over the dike into the basin. By this means, and no doubt in considerable degree by natural accretions, the whole basin prior to 1917 had arisen above the water at all tides from the mainland out to the dike. That anything that could be called an island formed in this basin, either by artificial deposits or accretion, is not only not proved but abundantly shown not to have been the case. There was no island there in 1909, when the application was made, and, of course, none in 1917 when the next step was taken after a complete failure to pursue the application for eight years.

Having reached the foregoing conclusion, it would be pointless for the Board to consider or pass upon the other objections to this application raised by the caveators. Since it is found as a fact that there was no island, the case of the applicant fails and fails at the outset.

In accordance with the foregoing, the Board makes the following finding of fact:

No such island existed as that described in the application of Frank M. Zeller as filed in the Department of the Secretary of Internal Affairs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania under date of April 12, 1909.

The Caveat lodged against the aforesaid application is consequently sustained, and the application refused.

vs.
American International Corporation

No. 489
Caveat filed July 12, 1919
Citation issued July 18, 1919

On the 11th day of June, 1919, the American International Corporation filed with the Secretary of Internal Affairs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania an application for a warrant for certain reclaimed or filled land, pursuant to the provisions of the Act of June 27, 1913, P. L. 665. To this application caveats were filed by Charles N. Black and Francis H. Bohlen and Frank M. Zeller respectively. The case thus came on to be heard by the Board of Property. Hearings were held in the matter by the Board on the 29th day of October and on the 2nd day of December, 1919, at the Department of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, and on the 11th and 12th days of November, 1919, at Philadelphia, and, as may be noted, at the same time as those in connection with the hearing on the caveat of the American International Corporation in re-application of Frank M. Zeller for an island alleged to have existed within the territory covered by this present application. The adjudication in that case is made the subject of a separate report.

The land here in question, containing about fifty-five acres, lies between Hog Island proper and Mifflin Bar Dike, and was part of a larger tract agreed in 1917 to be conveyed by Black and Bohlen to the American International Corporation. An action was subsequently brought by the said grantors against the said grantee to No. 3445, September term, 1917, in the Court of Common Pleas No. 5 of Philadelphia, to recover the purchase price of the above lot of land lying between Hog Island and Mifflin Bar Dike. The defense set up was that the grantors were unable to convey a good title for the reason that the land lying beyond the original low water mark had been formed by artificial means and not by natural accretion, and consequently the title thereto had never passed out of the Commonwealth. The case was tried by the Court without a jury, the decision being that the plaintiffs were vested with a good title, judgment in their favor being entered accordingly. From this an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court, which reversed the lower Court on the ground that as the Commonwealth was not a party to the action it was not bound by the judgment, and the title as tendered was, therefore, not free from doubt, Mr. Justice Simpson saying:

"To now compel defendant to take title, would subject it to that hazard. If the Commonwealth ever contests Plaintiffs' title, she may be able to show such a state of facts as would prevent the doctrine of accretions from applying. In any event there is at least 'color of an outstanding title' in her, and though there may be 'nothing in evidence to enable the chancellor to say' she has the better title, defendant is not required to 'encounter the hazard of litigation' with her.

"The judgment of the court below is reversed, without prejudice to plaintiffs' right to hereafter demand the purchase money of said land whenever they can give to defendant a marketable title thereto."

The Paper Books of the parties in the case are before the Board, showing the evidence produced and the facts as found by the Lower Court. It will be seen that the case turns upon the fact whether the land in question was formed by natural accretion or as a result of artificial deposit. Under the well recognized rule of law, as stated and reviewed in the foregoing opinion of the Supreme Court, if it was formed by natural accretion it inured to the benefit of, and the title thereto vested in, the riparian owner. If, on the contrary, the formation of this land was merely the result of artificial means, the title to the bed of the river upon which this land was formed remained in the Commonwealth.

After a careful consideration of all the evidence before it, the Board is of the opinion that the formation of the said land was not so wholly the result of natural accretion as to divest the title of the Commonwealth. Unquestionably, considerable of this formation was due to natural causes, but in some measure it was clearly due to the dumping and pumping of dredgings into the basin behind the dike. The Commonwealth cannot properly suffer without contest such a mixed causation to work a complete divestiture of its title to the land below low water mark. On the other hand, it would be utterly unconscionable for it not to recognize and take into consideration that much of this reclamation was natural and consequently the land formed thereby did insure to the benefit of the riparian owner. This land was partly formed by natural accretion, and partly by artificial means. To the extent of the former it belongs to the riparian owner, to the extent of the latter to the Commonwealth, and the Board of Appraisers in determining the amount that should be paid the latter will probably take all this into consideration and fix an amount that will be just and conscionable under all the facts.

It appearing that the requirements of the Act of 1913 have been complied with by the said applicant, the application is allowed and the caveats against the same dismissed.

BOARD OF PROPERTY.

But these decisions of the Board of Property did not terminate the litigation.

By the Act of April 3, 1792, 3 Sm. L. 70, if the loser before the Board brings an action of ejectment in the county in which the land in dispute is located, within six months, it operates as an appeal.

Frank M. Zeller brought two actions of ejectment in the Courts of Delaware county against the American International corporation. They were in due time decided against him. He then appealed them to the Supreme Court of the state. On July 1, 1921, that Court rendered an opinion by Justice Kephart sustaining the lower court. It is reported in 271 Pa. 472.

Zeller, in addition to these ejectment suits, brought suit against the American International Corporation in the United States District Court for eastern Pennsylvania. It was tried before a jury and the verdict was against him. He has taken an appeal which is still pending.

On July 22, 1921, Zeller presented his petition to the Dauphin County Court asking for a mandamus to compel the Secretary of Internal Affairs to issue a warrant upon his application. After hearing, a discontinuance was filed June 24, 1922.

LITIGATION HAMPERS HOG ISLAND SALE.

The newspapers have announced lately that Frank M. Zeller had applied to the courts for an injunction against the United States Shipping Board to restrain it in its efforts to sell Hog Island at public sale.

THE STATE'S STAKE $82,365.

On the 16th of February, 1920, Charles J. Hepburn, John S. W. Holton, both of Philadelphia, and T. Woodward Trainer of Chester were appointed appraisers to value and appraise the 54.91 acres of land in the bed of the Delaware river for which a warrant has been authorized to issue to the American International Corporation. The issuing of the warrant has been suspended until the pending litigation is concluded.

The above named appraisers, however, performed the duties of their appointment and filed a report as of November 9, 1920, by which they valued the land at fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500.00) per acre, making a total valuation of eighty-two thousand, three hundred sixty-five ($82,365.00) dollars, which the state hopes to eventually realize for this tract of land which was a part of the bed of the river, but which is now covered with shipways.

I doubt if any tract of vacant land has, in the history of the Commonwealth, been the subject of greater litigation than this one.

TITLE PAPERS OF STATE-OWNED LANDS.

Until the year 1919 there was no one person charged with the custody of papers and documents relating to the titles of state-owned properties. As I was aware of this condition, I conferred with Governor William C. Sproul and Attorney General William I. Schaffer and as a result of such conferences an Act of Assembly was drawn and passed, making the Secretary of Internal Affairs the custodian of all deeds, contracts, maps, surveys, policies of title insurance, abstracts of title, and other documents or instruments pertaining to the titles to real estate owned or hereafter to be acquired by the Commonwealth.

The vault of the Land Office in the Department of Internal Affairs was made the depository of these papers. As they were scattered all over the state, and their whereabouts generally unknown, the task imposed by the Act was a larger one than at first realized. All known state institutions had to be notified and these notices followed up continually until the requirements of the Act were complied with by the managers. As the Act carried no appropriation it was necessary to perform this extra service with the regular force of clerks and employees in the Land Office Bureau. It was first necessary to classify all deeds and other papers received from the various departments, commissions and individuals, then to prepare indexes and filing cases, and to file, record and index them in an orderly manner so as to facilitate searches, examinations and inspections. This has all been accomplished and any one can now inspect the title papers to any piece of property belonging to the state.

The Act provides that the Secretary of Internal Affairs furnish certified copies of any such records to the heads or chiefs of departments of the State Government, upon request, for use in the furtherance of the business of the Commonwealth.

This is certainly a great improvement over the unbusinesslike condition which previously prevailed. The magnitude of the task imposed upon the Secretary of Internal Affairs by this Act is shown by the following table:

APPLICATIONS FOR VACANT LAND.

During the year 1919 seventeen applications for vacant land in Pennsylvania were filed in the Department of Internal Affairs. Some of these applications were for improved vacant land and others for unimproved vacant land. An investigation was made in each case and the Secretary of Internal Affairs filed his report as to the question of vacancy of the land applied for. Of nine of these applications the land was declared to be vacant and warrants granted to the applicants; one was declared to be not vacant and a warrant was refused; the remaining applications are pending.

In the year 1920 nine applications for vacant land were filed, five of which were declared to be vacant and warrants issued to the applicants. On three of the applications the land was accepted by the State Forest Commission and transferred to that Commission under the Act of May 3, 1909. During the year 1920 two applications were made for islands in the state.

In 1921 fourteen applicants were filed in the department, the land in ten of these applications being declared vacant and warrants issued to the applicants; on four, warrants were refused. One application for an island was filed in 1921.

Eight applications for vacant land were filed in the year 1922, three of which were declared to be vacant; one application was withdrawn, and on four the applicants were refused warrants, as the land was found to be not vacant.

SOME MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS OF SERVICE.

A new index to patents was made containing 390 pages, 19,500 lines, or 156,000 items.

At the request of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings, Mr. Samuel B. Rambo, a large map was constructed from records of deeds to the Commonwealth of lands now comprising the old Capitol grounds and the addition thereto acquired recently.

Charts and maps have been made by the draftsmen of the Land Office for the use of the other Bureaus of the Department, as follows:

For the Bureau of Topographic and Geological Survey maps of McKeesport Gas Fields.

For the Bureau of Municipalities, contour maps of McKeesport Hospital Grounds for City Planning Commission.

For the Bureau of Statistics and Information, three large statistical charts showing Philadelphia county statistics. Also three large charts showing Allegheny county statistics.

Other special work done by the draftsmen of the Land Office Bureau includes:

Title Page to Greene County Warrantee Atlas.

Title Page to the Genealogical, Etymological and Chronological History of Pennsylvania and thirteen tracing maps for use of State Printer and full data regarding same.

For the State Fair Commission two engineers from this Department surveyed approximately five hundred acres of farm land in Cumberland county and prepared a large detailed property map of the same; also a contour map of the land. This work required a large part of their time from August first to October fifteenth, 1922.

THE BUREAU OF STATISTICS AND INFORMATION.

Upon the transfer to this Department of the Bureau of Statistics and Information in 1919, it became my duty to completely reorganize the work, bring it up to date and, through careful choice of personnel, man the Bureau in a way to assure that the purposes of its existence would be completely fulfilled.

It has never been my idea that the state should present a mass of scientific facts and deductions on her various activities. The duty, however, of the Department to maintain a statistical agency is made clear by the Constitution and Acts of Assembly, and the general purpose has been during my term to present promptly as complete a survey as the appropriation provided for the work would permit, and in a manner that would not only be easily understood, but prove serviceable.

The coordination in the Bureau of Statistics and Information of the work of the former Bureau of Railways and the Bureau of Taxes and Assessments, and the creating of a Division of Waterways, has proved an ideal solution of the task to be undertaken. It has meant no duplication of effort and waste of funds, but a maximum return for the efforts expended.

The annual reports of the Bureau have become a medium of public information unexcelled by any state, and governmental and public agencies without number look to the Bureau to supply them with statistical data otherwise unobtainable.

To outline the scope of the work of the Bureau, the results which have been achieved and the practices which prevail, it will be necessary to deal with each Division separately. The restricted activities formerly conducted under bureau auspices are now embraced by the Industrial Division. The Bureau of Railways, now a part of the Bureau of Statistics and Information, has become the Division of Public Utilities, and the former Bureau of Taxes and Assessments is now known as the Division of Taxes and Assessments. In addition to these, there has been created the Division of Waterways elsewhere referred to.

The publication of the statistical reports of the Bureau having been provided by law, it seemed to me a good opportunity was afforded for presenting through the same medium summaries of the activities of the departments of the state government in general. Through the cooperation of the various department heads, at the request of Governor Sproul, a very gratifying presentation was made in connection with the 1920 statistical report. In addition to that, the Bureau instituted a new feature entirely aside from any of the specified duties named by Act of Assembly, in conducting a study of the savings and wealth of the people of Pennsylvania by counties. This embraced data furnished by the Federal Reserve Banks at Philadelphia and Cleveland, figures furnished by the State Banking Commissioner, and data gathered by the Division of Taxes and Assessments. The figures, by counties and for the state as a whole, for national banks, state banks, trust companies, savings institutions, building and loan associations, personal property (returned for taxation), real estate and live stock were set forth for each county and disclosed the per capita savings and wealth of the people. The exhibit thus afforded furnished for the first time in the history of the Commonwealth an accurate index of the thrift of the people, and was widely accepted and commented upon. As the exhibits are presented from year to year in the Statistical Reports, they will show a splendid comparison of the growth in savings and wealth of the people in the various counties.

Taken as a whole, the ideal I have had in mind for the statistical reports for the Bureau of Statistics and Information has been that of a statistical abstract, confined merely to the presentation of outstanding figures and data affecting the subjects with which the Bureau deals and free from any comment indicating bias or deductions. As time passes, these annual reports of this Bureau should contain all the statistical data gathered by the several departments of the state government except such as are peculiarly pertinent to the actual conduct of the departments themselves.

INDUSTRIAL DIVISION.

The story of productive industry in the Commonwealth was never completely and promptly told until in the last four years. The United States Census Bureau deals only with the so-called "factory system," and this does not embrace the production of mines and quarries, oil, gas, etc. It has seemed best to me to present the story of all the industrial enterprises of the Commonwealth without regard to the factory system, and, accordingly, the work has been so conducted during my term. Upwards of 30,000 industrial concerns report annually to the Industrial Division. They represent all activities of that nature in the Commonwealth. These reports call for information on invested capital, employees as to nationality and sex, minor employees, wages and salaries and volume and value of production; also detailed data as to occupations, particularly bearing upon rates of wage and hours per day. The magnitude of the work performed may be apparent from the statement that in the year 1920 practically 500 commodities were produced in the state, and data were tabulated on 1,614,000 employees, engaged in industries whose invested capital was practically six billions of dollars, and the value of whose production was in excess of eleven billions of dollars. These data were compiled for each of the sixty-seven counties and for ninety cities and the manner of tabulation disclosed conditions as to invested capital, employes, wages paid and value of production for each of these commodities in each of the ninety cities and the sixty-seven counties. In addition to that, rates of wages and hours per day were shown for two hundred and five separate occupations in the state, and for the counties and cities referred to.

It is of prime importance that the statistical data be properly disseminated just as soon as possible after the period studied. The objection is generally made to the reports of the Bureau of the Census that so long a time elapses after the surveys are made until the reports of such surveys are made public. I have, therefore, insisted that diligent effort be made to have the reports of the surveys conducted by the Industrial Division given to the public as early as possible after the close of the year preceding. So successfully has the work been carried on that frequently counties have known within sixty days after the end of a given year the exact showing which they made industrially the year preceding. The survey for the whole state has been finished approximately six months after the year closed with resultant benefits hard to over-estimate. Just as soon as the tabulation of a county or city is finished, the results are given to the newspapers in the county affected, so that the public will not have to wait until the publication of the annual report for the results of the survey conducted.

These reports of industrial statistes of the Commonwealth as a whole are in demand from all parts of the world. Every foreign government is provided with these figures and the American Consuls abroad. The indirect advantage to Pennsylvania manufacturers of such statistical data will, therefore, be apparent. New features recently include a study of the volume of manufactured product produced in Pennsylvania which is shipped outside the state, and the facts thereby developed have proven most enlightening. The constant contact which is maintained between the Industrial Division and the manufacturing interests of the Commonwealth has resulted in a degree of cooperation not achieved even by the United States government, as shown by the use of the records of the Division by governmental agencies in the pursuit of special studies conducted from time to time under the auspices of various government departments in Washington.

The printing of the annual statistical reports promptly is a subject which should have the attention of the state government. The Bureau has proven its proficiency in making ready these reports for printing, and whatever delay has occurred in giving to the public the information they contain cannot be charged to it. Accuracy in the reports of the Industrial Division has been insisted upon at all costs. When reports are received they are edited promptly, then started on the Hollerith Tabulating System route, with checking for errors at every step. This attention to detail is never relaxed during the work entailed until the final proof of the printer's copy is received.

The completeness of the statistical work and the dispatch with which it is conducted accounts for the necessity of the organization maintained. An up-to-date condition of the files is insisted upon and when it is considered that practically ninety thousand filing cards are involved, the magnitude of this feature of the work alone will be appreciated.

In addition to the general work of the Industrial Division, separate surveys are conducted frequently. Requests from other departments of the state government, educational institutions and investigators frequently necessitate the assignment of clerks to tasks which involve a month's study. Large corporations of the state interested in business expansion use the records of the Industrial Division for studies affecting the projects they have in mind. The individual reports filed with the Division are kept confidential, but the results of the tabulations are always open to public inspection.

In the year 1922 the Division conducted a survey on the production of crude oil by counties in Pennsylvania and made public for the first time the actual facts respecting this important industry in the Commonwealth, which embraced not only the volume of crude oil produced, but the number of wells actively involved, number of new wells brought in during the year preceding, and number of old wells abandoned. This will be a permanent feature of the work of the Division.

DIVISION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES.

To the routine conduct of the work of this Division was added in 1922 the study of production, distribution and sale of electricity, water and gas in the Commonwealth. The use of electricity for lighting, heating and power was separately studied and a mass of valuable information obtained. For the first time it is known, through the activity of the Division of Public Utilities, the actual number of electricity consumers of various classes, number of kilowatt hours used, the average price charged, and the volume of sales. Such information was never obtainable in Pennsylvania and the value of it will be apparent to everyone. The same is true of the results of a study of water and gas. In a general way, the mooted facts bearing upon the operation of private and municipal companies in the supplying of commodities to the public will be developed by the Division of Public Utilities, and accurate facts and figures upon this subject have long been wanted. Trade publications and specialists in a study of the subjects mentioned are clamoring for the information gathered by the Division and much of it has already been made public. The adoption of the Division of Public Utilities of the Interstate Commerce Commission form for reports from railroads and electric street railways has met with approval, because the respondent companies are not put to the necessity of additional work in arriving at the figures asked for, the bookkeeping system prevailing being especially adapted to the reports.

Records of the former Bureau of Railways were in default since the year 1917, but the 1920 statistical report of the Department remedied this condition by presenting a summary of the activities of railroads, electric street railways, telegraph and telephone companies in the Commonwealth for the years 1918, 1919 and 1920. The operation of the Division of Public Utilities in the Bureau of Statistics and Information affords all the means the state requires for the gathering of statistical data on public utilities. The State Constitution requires all railroads, telegraph, telephone and canal companies to file annually reports of their operations with the Secretary of Internal Affairs. This Department must, therefore, perform that service. The public Service Commission operated a Bureau of Statistics which covers largely the same ground as the Division of Public Utilities in this Department. It results in building up voluminous duplicate records, in imposing additional burdens and cost upon respondent companies, and in charging unnecessary expense upon the state. All of these could be prevented by the Commission co-operating with the Division of Public Utilities in this Department.

DIVISION OF TAXES AND ASSESSMENTS.

Few questions before the public to-day are of more commanding interest than the subject of assessment and taxes. It had been my hope to establish in this Department, through the development of the work of the former Bureau of Taxes and Assessments, a thorough-going and comprehensive medium for the dissemination of facts surrounding the practices of the state, both in the assessment of property and the collection of taxes. My object could not be obtained because of the failure of the Legislature to supply funds to carry on such work, and it was rendered inadvisable through the creation of a Tax Commission by the Legislature of 1919. However, the Division of Taxes and Assessments, in addition to the collection of the reports required by law from the commissioners of the several counties of the Commonwealth on the forms prescribed, has instituted studies relative to the cost of assessments and tax collection of exceeding interest. These studies so far as the facilities of the Division permit, are still being carried on, and constant requests from interested parties for information are supplied. As in case of the Bureau of Railways, annual reports of the Bureau of Taxes and Assessments had not been issued since that for the year 1916 until the 1920 statistical report of the Department, which contained summaries for the years 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920. The detailed figures for each tax district in the Commonwealth are on file in the Department and frequent use is made of them by investigators. Inasmuch as these records go back many years, it will be seen how important a place this Division of Taxes and Assessments fills in any study which may be instituted upon the assessment or tax question in the Commonwealth. The plans for the enlargement of the Bureau's work must be held in obedience until a clearer mandate is furnished by the Legislature.

DIVISION OF WATERWAYS.

What facilities Pennsylvania has for waterway traffic, and what business is conducted on the streams of the state, is a subject of which the public knew little until the establishment of the Division of Waterways in the Bureau of Statistics and Information. The advantage in establishing this activity in the Bureau was to conduct a study of the use made of the streams of the state in transportation of people and commodities. Though only a year has elapsed since the work was begun, a great mass of valuable information has been gathered of a purely state nature and some of it was presented in the 1920 statistical report of the Department. There has been amassed during the year 1922 a great volume of information, showing that the streams of the state contribute greatly to the industrial life of Pennsylvania, and the necessity for further development of such facilities for traffic is becoming more and more apparent. The Division of Waterways during the past year has conducted a number of studies of watersheds of Pennsylvania at the request of the United States government. These researches have a bearing upon the proposed canalization of certain streams. In addition thereto, various communities in the state interested in the resuscitation of canal traffic have called upon the Department for help in supplying needed statistical data, as well as engineering information, and the Division of Waterways has rendered splendid service in every case. In a large way, it had been my intention to coordinate studies of waterway traffic with originating tonnage in certain watersheds and some practical steps in that direction have already been made. Enough has developed to more than justify the maintenance of such activity and the information so far gathered will prove of outstanding value in studies to be made by any outside or government agency in the future affecting transportation in Pennsylvania. From original sources splendid cooperation has been displayed and those most interested in the use of the waterways in Pennsylvania for transportation purposes have recognized in the Bureau a very helpful agency.

While the United States government maintains a very extensive organization for the purpose of getting an accurate index of the traffic on streams, its investigations are not confined to state lines and this makes it more important that a similar agency be established and maintained to study the question from the Pennsylvania standpoint. From this angle the work of the Division has been conducted and the part played by our ports and streams in freight and passenger transportation is being made known through this new Division of Waterways.

THE BUREAU OF TOPOGRAPHIC AND GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

I had intended to discuss the work of this Survey at considerable length, but Dr. George H. Ashley, State Geologist, has ready his biennial report which is very complete and I hope for its speedy publication. My comments, therefore, shall be brief in comparison with the great importance of the subject.

No other state can compare with Pennsylvania in its wealth in natural resources, yet a great many years had elapsed since any serious attempt was made to take stock. It seems scarcely credible that a state which produces from its mines, quarries, wells, etc., minerals valued at one and one-half billion dollars annually would be so neglectful. This Survey is a service of immeasurable value to the state's stupendous industrial enterprise. Governor William C. Sproul, who is a business man of large experience, realized this and in his inaugural address advocated a complete and thorough survey of the state's natural resources. It was chiefly upon his initiative and by the influence that the Act of June 7, 1919, establishing the Bureau in the Department of Internal Affairs, was passed.

THE SURVEY ORGANIZED.

The intention was to make this a comprehensive survey. It was not to be a mere glance over the surface and a guess at what might be beneath, but as thorough a research as modern scientific knowledge and methods were capable of making. That presaged a big job. To realize this one had but to consider the great variety of minerals and the vast extent of mineral deposits in the state. The first requisite in the organization of the Bureau then was the securing of a competent man to head the work. This was not an easy task. The Act of 1919 places the power of appointing a State Geologist in the Governor. It was only after a long and careful canvass and upon the recommendation of eminent geologists that Governor Sproul selected Dr. George H. Ashley, and his acceptance of the place was, in my judgment, a most fortunate circumstance for the state. The appointment was made entirely without political significance and the Bureau has been conducted without political interference on the part of any one. It was recognized from the start by all parties concerned that this was to be a great scientific work, to be sufficient to meet business and scientific needs, for years and that its integrity should be unquestioned.

The State Geologist was not appointed until the month of August, 1919. He immediately entered upon the work and succeeded before the close of that year in organizing a corps of geologists and assistants and in formulating definite plans covering the complete scope of the work to be done.

GREAT PROGRESS MADE.

In the three years since the beginning of 1920 great progress has been made. The appropriations have been wholly inadequate, but the vigor and system with which the work has been conducted have been productive of excellent results.

The Survey is divided into two branches, the topographic and the geological. The United States government bears one-half of the cost of the topographic survey. In the three years of the present state Survey twenty-three quadrangles of about two hundred and twenty-five square miles each, or five thousand square miles, have been mapped. The quadrangles surveyed are Myersdale, Confluence, Donegal, New Florence, Altoona, Philipsburg, Tyrone, Mount Union, Shippensburg, Hanover, Howard, Lock Haven, Williamsport, Trout Run, Milton, Pocono, Damascus, Long Eddy, Oil City, Tionesta, Reynoldsville, Mauch Chunk and Stoddardsville. The Myersdale, Confluence, Donegal, New Florence, Altoona, Philipsburg, Hanover, Damascus and Long Eddy maps have been engraved and are being distributed. The State and the Federal governments each contribute twenty-five thousand dollars per annum towards this work. At the same rate of expenditure the entire state should be completed within a period of ten years.

On the geological branch much has been accomplished. The benefits accruing to the citizens by the timely exposure of false claims of rich mineral finds and of fake promotion schemes cannot be estimated. Carefully studied co-operation with the departments have saved the state many thousands of dollars. Information upon geological subjects has been imparted by correspondence and in personal interviews to thousands of inquirers. Sixty-three bulletins upon important subjects have been compiled and thousands of mimeograph copies distributed. One report, "Oil and Gas Fields of Pennsylvania," has been issued, and a large amount of geologic study and mapping has been completed.

THE COST OF THE SURVEY.

It was not intended that the Survey should be a permanent service and it will not, therefore, be a continuous expense upon the state. The State Geologist has made an accurate estimate of the cost to complete the undertaking and of the time that will be required. The cost will be a little under three million dollars. It can be completed in ten years if the money is made available as needed. If insufficient funds are provided for the energetic prosecution of the work, then the time of completion must be extended proportionately. But two hundred and fifty thousand dollars will have been expended to June 1, 1923. So it will be seen that the work is hardly begun. I doubt if any project ever undertaken by the state was of more importance or of greater benefit to its vast mining and manufacturing interests than this survey promises to be. In the brief period of its existence it has directly effected savings far in excess of its cost. The greatest benefits will be realized from its prompt completion and it will be deplorable if any circumstances should arise to delay and hinder it.

THE BUREAU OF STANDARDS.

The Bureau of Standards was created within the Department of Internal Affairs by Act of June 23, 1911. It was the beginning of an effort to remedy very unsatisfactory economic conditions. Man cannot buy and sell on a large scale without the use of weighing and measuring devices. They are indispensable to civilization and progress. It is important, then, that every instrument used in the exchange of commodities shall be true and correct. In the good old days before 1911 there were few inspectors of weights and measures and the crudest kinds of devices prevailed without let or hindrance. There was no means, indeed, of ascertaining whether scales or measures were correct, except in a few of the large cities and the laws were quiet insufficient. Every condition was most favorable to the dishonest dealers and even honest ones frequently gave short weights and measures ignorantly. The losses must have been appalling. All of this has been very largely changed. Of course, it will never be possible to have absolute accurate weighing and measuring devices, or to completely check dishonesty and unscrupulous dealers in practice and manipulations intended to cheat and defraud. But to-day the state has an organization covering every county and city, alert to detect defective devices and to punish fraud. This constant menace to the would-be evil doer has a very wholesome effect. Then, there is every opportunity, at the present time, to have all sorts of devices tested and to learn if they conform to established standards.

INSPECTORS AND THEIR DUTIES.

There are two classes of inspectors. The Act of July 24, 1913, makes it mandatory for the mayors of cities of the second and third class, and the boards of county commissioners in the respective counties, to appoint one or more competent persons as inspectors of weights and measures in said county or city.

All county and city inspectors so appointed shall be supplied at the expense of their respective counties and cities with standard tests of weights and measures, in conformity with those established by the government of the United States, or the Bureau of Standards of the State and the laws of this Commonwealth. The law imposed the following duties and powers:

"Each inspector shall report in writing at least once every month, to the Chief of the State Bureau of Standards, upon blanks furnished by the Chief. Such reports shall contain (1) The number of tests made since the last preceding report. (2) The number of weights, measures and balances found by such tests to be correct. (3) The number of weights, measures and balances found by such tests to be false. (4) The number of prosecutions instituted by such inspector since the last preceding report, together with the name of the accused, the title of the court where prosecution was instituted, and the result of such prosecution. (5) Such other matters as the Chief may, from time to time, prescribe.

"The inspectors shall take charge of and safely keep the proper standards. They shall be furnished by the Chief of the Bureau of Standards of this Commonwealth with full specifications of tolerances and allowances to be used by them in the performance of their duties. Each inspector shall have power within his respective jurisdiction to test all instruments and devices used in weighing or measuring anything sold or to be sold, and seal the same, if found correct. Such test shall include all appliances connected or used with such instruments or devices. For the purpose of making such test, each inspector, at any reasonable time and without formal warrant, may enter upon any premises; and may, on any public highway, stop any vendor or dealer, or the agent or servant of such vendor or dealer, or stop any vehicle used in delivering any commodity which is weighed or measured as delivered. He may condemn and mark as condemned, or may seize any false or illegal instrument or device used, or intended to be used, in weighing or measuring. If he shall seize any such instrument or device, he shall retain possession thereof until it shall have been used as evidence in any prosecution under the laws of this Commonwealth relating to weights and measures or to the sale of commodities. After the determination of such prosecution the false or illegal device shall be destroyed, unless otherwise ordered by the proper Court."

Upon conviction an offender shall, upon a first offense, pay a fine not to exceed twenty-five dollars; for a second offense, fifty dollars, and for each subsequent offense not more than one hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail for not more than thirty days, or both, in the discretion of the Court.

County and city inspectors generally number about one hundred and fifty in the state and are compensated by the respective counties and cities. In addition to the above, there are twelve deputy inspectors in the Bureau of Standards, appointed by the Secretary of Internal Affairs, compensated by the state, and empowered to enter into any county or city.

They possess the same authority as county and city inspectors. Each one is supplied with standard tests of weights and measures. The state is divided into districts, each district embracing several counties, and a deputy inspector is assigned to each district. They instruct and assist county and city inspectors and operate as a check upon their work, as they also constantly make tests and report daily to the Chief of the Bureau of Standards. The services of some of them are frequently needed in the Bureau to assist in the many tests required to be made there.

THE BUREAU'S SPECIAL FUNCTIONS.

The Bureau is the custodian of a complete set of standards of weight, length and capacity, verified by the Bureau of Standards of the United States government and conforming to the standards of weight, length and capacity established by the National Congress. All counties and cities must submit their sets to the Bureau to be compared and stamped or marked in such manner as may be established by the rules and regulations to be put in force by the Secretary of Internal Affairs and approved by the Governor.

The Bureau must test and idelibly mark with the letters "S. G. P." (Standard Glassware Pennsylvania) all "Babcock" bottles, pipettes and weights used to determine the amount of fat in milk or cream before they can be sold or used in this state.

The Act of May 5, 1921, (P. L. 389) imposed very responsible duties upon the Bureau and initiated a scheme of weights and measures regulation that is unique. No other state has such legislation but it is in force in New York city by virtue of ordinances. It is hoped that it will eventually rid the state of all cheap, flimsy contrivances which cannot be kept in standard condition. The operation of this Act will be carefully watched by all of the states and is of such importance that I present herewith its principal features in full as follows:

"SECTION 2. The Bureau of Standards of the Department of Internal Affairs is authorized to pass upon each type of weight and measure and weighing and measuring device manufactured, offered or exposed for sale or sold or given away, for the use in trade or commerce, or used in trade or commerce, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and to approve or disapprove of said type. The said bureau shall approve each type of weight and measure and weighing and measuring device, submitted to it for approval by any person, if such type is so designed and constructed that it conforms to, or gives correct results in terms of standard weights or measures or in terms of values derived therefrom, and is reasonably permanent in its indication and adjustment, and does not facilitate the perpetration of fraud, otherwise the bureau shall disapprove the same.

"SECTION 3. The submission of a type may be by sample or by specifications if, in the best judgment of the bureau, such specifications are adequate, or in such other manner as may be prescribed by the rules and regulations promulgated under the authority of this act.

"SECTION 4. When a type of weight or measure or weighing or measuring device is approved, the said bureau shall issue a certificate to this effect to the person submitting such type. When a type is disapproved, the said bureau shall notify the person submitting the same of its decision, setting out the reasons therefor, together with such information and references as may be useful in judging of the propriety of the disapproval, and shall give such person an opportunity to be heard in support of his application for approval. The bureau shall then reconsider its decision. If the new decision is adverse to such person, and he is dissatisfied with the same, he may take an appeal from this decision to the Secretary of Internal Affairs, who shall examine the matter, and decide whether the type should be approved or disapproved. If the person is dissatisfied with the decision of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, he may appeal to the court of common pleas of the county of which he is a resident, whose decision shall be final.

"SECTION 5. From and after one year after this act takes effect, it shall be unlawful for any person to manufacture, offer or expose for sale, or sell or give away, for use in trade or commerce, or to use in trade or commerce, any weight or measure or weighing or measuring device of a type not approved in accordance with the provisions of this act; Provided, however, That in the case of weights and measures and weighing and measuring devices manufactured and ready for sale or in use in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania at the time this section takes effect, no approval of type shall be necessary, and it shall be lawful for any person to offer or expose for sale or sell, for use in trade or commerce, or to use in trade or commerce, such weights and measures and weighing and measuring devices, unless they do not conform to or give correct results in terms of standard weights or measures or in terms of values derived therefrom: And provided further, That the type of a weight or measure or weighing or measuring device need not be approved if said weight and measure or weighing or measuring device is intended for shipment outside the State of Pennsylvania, but if said weight or measure or weighing or measuring devices shall in fact be sold or offered for sale, for use in trade or commerce, or used in trade or commerce, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, then this proviso shall not exempt such weight or measure or weighing or measuring device from the operation of any of the provisions of this act.

"SECTION 6. No person shall be prosecuted under the provisions of this act if he can establish a guaranty signed by the person from whom the weight or measure or weighing or measuring device was purchased or otherwise obtained, or from the manufacture thereof, to the effect that the type of the same has been approved, if such approvals required by the provisions of this act, and, if such approval is not required, setting out this fact, or if he can establish that the weight or measure or weighing or measuring device has been sealed by the local sealer of weights and measures. The said guaranty, to afford protection, shall contain the name and address of the guarantor, and, in such case, said guarantor shall be amenable to the prosecutions, fines, or other penalties which attach in due course to such person under the provisions of this act. But in any case where any such person has actual notice that the type of such weight or measure or weighing or measuring device has not in fact been approved, when such approval is required by the provisions of this act, it shall be unlawful, and a violation of the provisions of this act, for such person thereafter to offer or expose such weight or measure or weighing or measuring device for sale, or to sell it, for use in trade or commerce, or to use it in trade or commerce.

"SECTION 7. The Bureau of Standards shall register and give a serial number to each type of weight or measure or weighing or measuring device submitted and approved as provided in this act, and shall issue, from time to time, descriptions of such approved types, giving serial number of each type, copies of which shall be furnished to all weights and measures officials.

"SECTION 8. From and after one year after this act takes effect, it shall be unlawful to manufacture, offer or expose for sale or sell or give away, for use in trade or commerce, or to use in trade or commerce, any weight or measure or weighing or measuring device which does not have cast, stamped, etched, or otherwise marked thereon, in such manner as may be prescribed by the rules and regulations authorized by this act, the name of the manufacturer and the serial number of the approved type to which it belongs; Provided, however, That, whenever it shall appear to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Standards that any type of weight or measure or weighing or measuring device is such as to render it impracticable to mark it as required by this section, the said bureau shall furnish a certificate to that effect to any manufacturer applying for the same, and such weights and measures and weighing and measuring devices need not be marked as required by the provisions of this section."

This Act is now in force and is commonly known as the "Serialization Law." It has the endorsement of nearly all responsible manufacturers, approximately two hundred of whom have submitted their products to the Bureau where they have generally permitted them to remain, making an exhibit worth approximately ten thousand dollars, and of great educational value.

In this state the quantity of the contents of all goods sold in package form must be plainly and conspicuously marked in terms of weight, measure or numerical count on the outside of the covering or container. The Chief of the Bureau of Standards is authorized to establish reasonable variations on goods that are sold in package form and which are subject to losses caused by shrinkage or evaporation. These tolerances are established upon almost all packages sold in the stores and can be had upon application to the Bureau or to any inspector of weights and measures.

MINE SCALES.

In 1917 the Legislature amended the weight and measure laws so as to authorize the inspectors to include in their inspections mine scales. The importance of this requirement will be understood when it is realized that there are approximately three thousand coal mines in the bituminous districts of the state and that seventy-five per cent. of the output of these mines is weighed at the tippie by an operator of the coal company and a checkweighman representing the mines. The other twenty-five percent. is weighed over wagon or track scales. In 1920 one of the deputies was sent to a mine to investigate some trouble caused by a faulty scale and make a thorough test of the same, so as to satisfy beyond a doubt the minds of the complainants. The inspector found one hundred and fifty men on strike because of the unsatisfactory condition of the scale. The company made suggested repairs; the inspector gave the scale a thorough test and found that it weighed accurately, sealed it, and the next morning the men went back to work, thus preventing a prolonged strike and a considerable loss in money to both the miners and operators.

INSPECTIONS AND TESTS OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

This Bureau has during the four years ending November 30, 1922, calibrated for use as standard test weights and measures for city and county inspectors of weights and measures the following devices:

Weights	1,089
Dry measures	42
Liquid measures	199
Linear measures	43
Balances	26
Total	1,399

Since the law became effective January 1, 1920, the following glassware has been tested and marked by the Bureau, and is now in use in the state. It will be observed that some of the glassware tested and marked, while not in accordance with the specifications contained in the Act, were in use at the time of the passage of the law and were therefore, exempt from its provisions:

49,375	8%	Milk Test Bottles
6	9%	Milk Test Bottles
2,020	10%	Milk Test Bottles
63	30%	Cream Test Bottles
98	40%	Cream Test Bottles
12,502	50%	9 gram, Cream Test Bottles
780	50%	18 gram, Cream Test Bottles
7,550	17.6 cc	Pipettes
4	18 cc	Pipettes
6	9 cc	Pipettes

Following is the number of inspections made of weighing and measuring devices by state, county and city inspectors for four years ending November 30, 1922, together with the number approved, adjusted and condemned:

INSPECTION OF GASOLINE PUMPS.
The hundreds of thousands of automobile owners in the state will recognize the importance which attaches to the correctness of gasoline pumps and to the service that will assure them of receiving the quantity for which they paid. There is much that could be said upon this subject but lack of space forbids. The Bureau of Standards should have two small automobiles, properly equipped, for the effective carrying out of this work. The following inspections and results show the need:

BUREAU OF MUNICIPALITIES.

In Pennsylvania there are one first-class, two second-class, and thirty-eight third-class cities; nine hundred and thirty-one boroughs; and fifty-seven first-class townships. By far the largest proportion of the population of the state dwells within these municipalities and the importance of any service which is helpful to them should be readily appreciated. The Bureau of Municipalities in the Department of Internal Affairs has, by years of successful operation, proven its value. It has contributed to a better civic spirit in communities, improved accounting methods, promoted playgrounds and parks, and acted as a general clearing house for information. The many commendatory letters and resolutions which I have received from individuals, municipal officers and civic associations show to me the favor with which the work of the Bureau is received and that there is a strong demand for the enlargement of its activities.

The Bureau of Municipalities was transferred from the Department of Labor and Industry to the Department of Internal Affairs by an Act of Assembly approved April 4, 1919, effective May 6, 1919. The duties prescribed by the Act are to "gather, classify, index, make available and disseminate data, statistical information, and advice that may be helpful in improving the methods of administration and municipal development in the several municipalities of the Commonwealth; and shall maintain, for the benefit of the municipalities, a publicity service to install or assist in the installation and establishment of modern systems of accounting in the various municipalities of the state, and in order to promote a comprehensive plan or series of plans for the probable future requirements of cities, boroughs, or townships of the Commonwealth, either separately or jointly, in respect to, a system of traffic thoroughfares and other highways or main highways, transportation of every sort, suitably co-ordinated sites for public buildings, parks, parkways, playgrounds, and other public uses, the preservation of natural and historic features, and any and all public improvements tending to the advantage of municipalities or townships affected, tending to their advantage as a place of business and residence and to either make or secure or assist in making and securing the necessary surveys, plans and information."

In addition to the general work as heretofore carried on, two divisions were established; the Division of City Planning and Municipal Engineering and the Division of Accountancy. The personnel consists of planning and municipal engineers, landscape architects, accountants, draftsmen, stenographers and clerks, all of whom have had experience in the particular work with which they are charged.

The Bureau furnished lists of methods used and forms of ordinances enacted by other cities and boroughs to the community asking for information concerning a certain governmental function, which they intend to undertake or revise for their city or borough. The above interchange of data usually has been accompanied by a letter of explanation from the Department. In order to properly handle this interchange of ideas and methods, the Department maintains a library of ordinances, reports and articles on subjects connected with municipal government.

The Bureau has assisted in detail in the numbering of houses in boroughs and cities; in the assessment and registry of real estate systems in boroughs and cities; the adjustment of water rates when plant is municipally owned and in cases where local authorities have requested the Department has conferred with them in regard to street improvement, the laying of sewers and the fixing of street grade lines.

BONDS.

Supplied forms and costs of various local bond issues, showing comparison of costs and amounts necessary to raise each year by taxation to redeem bonds and pay interest for particular issues.

GENERAL ASSESSMENTS.

Explanation of various tried systems to city officials and recommendations of methods for particular communities after a study of local conditions.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS.

Including paving, sewers, grading, etc., and explanation of methods used in other municipalities of the same class and results obtained. Report on method best suited to local community after study of situation and conference with local officers.

STATISTICS.

Annual statistics have been issued in the form of lists and comparative charts showing method and costs of different phases of local government, such as fire, garbage, parks and playgrounds, paving, police, sewers, street lighting, taxation, bonded indebtedness, salaries and wages.

The request for aid and information has increased from about two hundred a year when the Bureau was first established to one thousand for the present year. Many of the requests can be furnished from the information already on hand and others may require considerable research and in many cases personal visitations.

CITY PLANNING.

City planning has come to be quite generally recognized as a necessary function of municipal government. This has been conclusively shown by recent legislation in many of the states, by the creation of official organizations for conducting the work, by the inclusion of town planning in the curricula of educational institutions, by the space given to the subject in the technical journals, and by the actual accomplishments of many municipalities. Its field of usefulness has broadened to include what is now called "regional planning" and it is quite probable that it may accomplish some of its most important results in this latter field, inasmuch as it contemplates intelligent control and direction of commodity development from the very commencement of the community and the establishment of well ordered relations between adjacent communities in all those public activities which contribute to their progress and prosperity.

It will be noted that the authority is sufficiently broad to permit the Bureau to be of great service in promoting and encouraging city planning activities throughout the state, and it even goes so far as to authorize the making of surveys and plans.

There are now twenty-six city planning commissions in existence in as many cities of the state and one of the most important functions of the new Bureau is to consult with, advise and assist these commissions in the organization of progress and methods of procedure in the preparation of general plans for extensions and improvements of the public works embraced within the usual scope of city planning activities. Similar services are also rendered to municipalities not having city planning commissions.

The Bureau also undertakes to encourage the cooperation of adjacent communities in the preparation and carrying out of plans of mutual importance and benefit in regions where common interests are involved; to co-operate with other departments and departmental units of the state in preparing general plans for the better development of the facilities of transportation and circulation, and also park and playground systems and other public properties; to prepare or assist in the preparation of comprehensive schemes of development for regions where there is limited or divided authority in matters relating to city planning and to cultivate a more general and sympathetic interest in matters relating to the growth and development of communities.

An important part of the Bureau's activity consists in furnishing speakers to attend and address meetings of council, planning commissions, chambers of commerce and business and citizens organizations generally upon subjects coming within the province of the Bureau. It endeavors to work, as far as possible, through official channels realizing, however, the influence of the business and citizen organizations in such matters and endeavoring to obtain co-operation between all those interested in municipal development and community progress.

The Bureau has met with much success in its work and requests for its services are much greater than its limited organization and resources can properly care for. The success which has accompanied its efforts appears to fully justify its work and it is hoped that the next session of the Legislature will provide for an increase in its facilities and financial resources.

Comprehensive plans for the future development of the cities of Wilkes-Barre and McKeesport have been made, those of Wilkes-Barre being completed and now being printed by the municipality. The comprehensive plan which was prepared for the city of Wilkes-Barre takes in the three mile jurisdiction of the city planning commission, which comprises fourteen boroughs and parts of three townships. The city of Wilkes-Barre has a population of about seventy-five thousand and the regional district a population of about two hundred thousand. In both of these cities the authorities are now taking steps to carry out the recommendations of this Bureau.

PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS.

Advice and assistance of the landscape architectural force was extended to eighty-four projects in fifteen cities, forty-five boroughs and fourteen state and public institutions. This service comprised the inspections of the sites and the preparation of plans outlining carefully studied recommendations for the development of the respective projects, either as a whole or in part. Reports were submitted in each instance explaining the plans in detail and outlining the methods of procedure tending to make the plans furnished of maximum value as a guide in improvements.

Not only have economical and efficient measures of improvement been furnished through these services but the results attained have been in accord with the highest accepted standards of fitting design of park recreation areas and institutional grounds.

ACCOUNTANCY.

A brief study of municipal matters revealed that without the proper budget procedure an accounting system would of itself fall far short of meeting the requirements necessary to a modern accounting system. Therefore, a classification of accounts for budget purposes and an accounting system was arranged which was theoretically in accord with the opinions advanced by recognized authorities of municipal matters. The following municipalities have availed themselves of this service: Butler, Lebanon, Sharon, Clairton, Erie, West Chester, Appolo, North Braddock, Carlisle, Forest Hills, South Coatesville and Farrell.

In addition to the above list of cities and boroughs in which complete accounting systems have been installed, many municipalities have received assistance through examination and reports on the conduct and management of some special activity. There is probably no more achieved than by considering the fact that at the present time there are over a score of requests from municipalities eagerly awaiting this service.

The applications for the accounting service have so far exceeded expectations that some means of meeting them more promptly must soon be provided.

A survey made in one hundred and three boroughs of the Commonwealth, having a population of four thousand and upward each, shows that sixty-nine of these municipalities have deficiencies in their sinking funds aggregating over $2,302,000. This proves conclusively the need of better methods of bookkeeping and more modern plans of issuing bonds than are now used by many of the municipalities.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE DEPARTMENT OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

While the Department of Internal Affairs was created by the State Constitution of 1874 and has, therefore, functioned as such for the comparatively short period of forty-eight years, any history of the Department would be incomplete which did not take into account the office of Surveyor General, which was abolished by the following simple provision in the Constitution:

"The Secretary of Internal Affairs shall perform all the duties of the Surveyor General subject to such changes as shall be made by law."

THE SURVEYOR GENERAL.

The office of Surveyor General then, the duties of which were imposed by the Constitution upon the Secretary of Internal Affairs, links the Department of Internal Affairs with the misty past and strongly sanctions the claim that it is the oldest department in the state government. To understand many of the important duties performed by the Secretary of Internal Affairs it, therefore, becomes necessary to know something about the superseded office of Surveyor General and of the Land Office. It is a fact greatly to be deplored that so many Pennsylvanians of to-day have such slight knowledge of the beginnings of their own institutions; have never sought to learn of the necessities out of which they grew nor been interested in their evolutionary development. And yet no state in the world has a more noble or a more interesting history than the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and much of this interest clusters about the millions of faded and time-worn papers contained in the great vault of the Department of Internal Affairs.

Charles II, King of England, signed the charter granting the territory of Pennsylvania to William Penn on March 4, 1681. Every school boy knows the interesting fact that the grant was in payment of a debt for fourteen thousand pounds for money advanced by Admiral Sir William Penn, the father of William Penn, to Charles I, the father of Charles II. There was a further consideration, however, named in the charter. Penn was required to deliver annually to the King at Windsor Castle two beaver skins and the fifth part of all gold and silver found within the province.

The grant made William Penn absolute proprietor of about forty thousand square miles, or 30,000,000 acres of land within almost the same boundaries as those of the present state, and it has been claimed that he was the largest land owner in the world. But it was not the Pennsylvania of to-day. King Charles doubtless had the same views of the vast domain with which he was parting as Louis XV, of France, had of Canada. When he ceded that domain to England he is quoted as having said, "Oh well, it is only a few thousand frozen acres anyway!"

No mortal man of those times could possibly foresee the future greatness of Canada or the vast wealth in natural resources of Pennsylvania, which has, as time has shown, probably exceeded that of any other compact territory of forty thousand square miles on the face of the globe. Here, then, was William Penn, the greatest of all real estate agents, for he desired to sell his land. To market his newly acquired possessions it was first of all necessary that the colony should be surveyed, looking to the defining of its boundaries; that each separate parcel or tract as conveyed should be surveyed; that a manner of conveying so as to assure title in the purchaser should be adopted, and a system for keeping a record of sales provided, so as to prevent interferences and conflicting claims. Out of these necessities arose the office of Surveyor General and the Land Office.

William Penn was an idealist and, indeed, suffered martyrdom in support of his ideals, yet he was not deficient in practical business sense and capacity. "The Holy Experiment" embodied his political and religious views and was a great conception which sought to realize lofty ideals of peace, good fellow-ship and perfect democracy. And while he, at all times, manifested a large paternal interest in the governmental affairs of the province, he kept his business interests as proprietary distinct and separate.

Penn did not delay long in laying plans for the settlement and development of the province. In 1681, the very year the charter was signed, he appointed Silas Crispin Surveyor General. And here it will be both interesting and pertinent to give a list of those who have presided over the Land Office, which shows the continuity of that important service from 1681 to the present day, a period of two hundred and forty-one years:

UNDER THE PROVINCE. SURVEYOR GENERAL.

SECRETARIES OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

(The Constitution of 1874, by the merging of the Surveyor General's Office with the Bureau of Statistics, created the office of Secretary of Internal Affairs.)

Those early Surveyors General, their deputies and other officers of the Land Office, played a large part in the making of Pennsylvania. When they first looked upon the Province it was a vast wilderness, which Penn's scheme contemplated should be divided into farms of reasonable but moderate size, each to be held by a different proprietor. It was not possible for the Surveyors General to make their surveys personally, so they appointed deputies in counties or certain designated districts. Under the Proprietaries, and in the early days of the Commonwealth, the Deputy Surveyor was a most important officer. Until 1850 that office was appointive. In the last named year the title was changed from Deputy Surveyor to County Surveyor and the office was made elective. The Deputy Surveyors in the early days must have been intrepid and dauntless men. They were contemporary with the trapper and the pioneer. They were old-time land surveyors skilled in woodcraft and the mysteries of the forest. They penetrated the wilderness and made hundreds of thousands of surveys, evidences of which are contained to-day, after the lapse of years, in the vault of the Department of Internal Affairs. What a spirit of romance hovers over those ancient papers if we of to-day could but know the stories of trials, of hardships and of adventures encountered in their making. In the daily work of the Department of Internal Affairs it is necessary in the making of "connected surveys" and warrantee maps to follow their trials—recounting the trees they blazed, the beaver dams, the posts, the stone piles and the streams they named as monuments. It is a matter of everlasting regret that their work was not done with greater accuracy and that markers and monuments on the ground were not more often of a more enduring and permanent character. Endless litigation might have been prevented. But they worked under tremendous disadvantages and, considering all the circumstances, one is constrained to wonder that original land title records are as complete and as systematically arranged as we find them to-day.

After the passing of two hundred and forty-one years the job which Penn started out to do is practically completed. Pennsylvania is privately owned. It is true that the state is buying back the denuded hills and valleys with the design of reforesting them and for the founding of game preserves. But the state has no knowledge of the existence of any vacant or unappropriated land within its borders. Each year a few small tracts are discovered by surveyors and title examiners pursuing their vocations and, upon applications being made for the purchase of the same to the Secretary of Internal Affairs, patents are issued for them as provided by law.

One can scarcely regard the present condition otherwise than as an unholy sequel to the wonderful story of the marketing of Pennsylvania's lands. What a different and grander end there might have been. Even Charles II revealed a sense of sanity and prudence when he reserved the "fifth part of all gold and silver ore." Penn's intention was to preserve one-fifth of his land in its natural condition and many manofs, the proprietary tenths, usually consisting of one-tenth of the best land in a given tract, were laid out and reserved for the proprietor in all parts of the state and the title to them was affirmed to Penn's heirs by the Act of November 27, 1779, which divested the estate of the Penn family and vested it in the Commonwealth.

If in adopting its policy for the sale of lands the Commonwealth had followed the policy of Penn—and reserved for its own use one-fifth of the land in its natural state, present and future generations would not be burdened with a heritage of naked hills and polluted streams which will cost millions to restore to partial usefulness.

The Secretary of Internal Affairs is the custodian of land records, consisting of hundreds of thousands of copies of warrants, surveys, patents and other evidences of title, accumulated over a period of two hundred and forty-one years in dividing 30,000,000 acres of land into tracts of approximately four hundred acres each. These records are contained in a large room known as the vault, and are indexed and systematized so that any paper desired can be readily found. Orders are received daily for certified copies to be used in the examination of titles and as evidence in the courts. There are a number of applications for patents every year and the procedure for granting them is almost the same as that followed by the Surveyors General. These are the duties of the Surveyor General that were assigned by the Constitution to the Secretary of Internal Affairs.

THE SECRETARY OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

When the Constitution of 1874 was framed the office of Surveyor General had lost much of its importance as the sales of public lands were no longer extensive. The convention, thereupon, using the ancient office of Surveyor General as a basis, created a new department to be known as the Department of Internal Affairs. Considering the present agitation for change and reorganization in the state government, I deem it to be my duty to present to the Governor, the Legislature and the public as clearly and as forcibly as I can the scheme of government under the Constitution and the laws, in the hope that its just claims may be recognized.

The Constitution of 1874 implanted in the Department of Internal Affairs three different functions specifically. None of these duties or functions can be taken away from the Department by the Legislature or any other branch of the state government without doing violence to the Constitution. These are (1) The duties of the Surveyor General; (2) A Bureau of Industrial Statistics; (3) Certain duties of the Auditor General relating to transportation companies. In addition to these fundamental provisions, the Constitution contemplates that the Legislature at its discretion shall confer upon the Secretary of Internal Affairs any other duties relating to corporations, charitable institutions, agricultural, mining, mineral, timber and other material or business interests.

I have in preceding pages of this report described at some length the office of Surveyor General, the duties of which were assigned to the Secretary. A bureau of Industrial Statistics was originally established by Act of Assembly in 1874. The duties of the Auditor General assigned to the Secretary were those contained in the Act of April 4, 1859, (P. L. 358) requiring all railroad corporations whose lines lie in whole or in part within the state to file annual reports of their operations in his office. By Act of April 15, 1863, (P. L. 464) this requirement was extended to all canal companies. The office of the Secretary of Internal Affairs was made elective and every word and line of the Constitution relating to the office indicate that it was the intention of the framers of that instrument that the Department should be a big, outstanding and important one.

DANGER OF TOO MUCH GUBERNATORIAL POWER FORESEEN.

Why was it made elective? There are two obvious and sufficient reasons. The first of these is because of the importance it was expected to attain with the gradual development of the state's resources. The second is that it was in pursuance of the almost century-long struggle of the citizens of Pennsylvania to further curtail the power of the Governor.

This is an interesting phase of our Constitutional history. By the Constitution of 1790 all power was centered in the Governor. Article II, Section 1, provided, "The Supreme Executive power of this Commonwealth shall be vested in a Governor." Section 8 of the same Article provided, "He shall appoint all officers whose offices are established by the Constitution, or shall be established by law, and whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for."

Under this Constitution he appointed all Judges, Supreme, County and District, Justices of the Peace, Prothonotaries, Registers of Wills, the Auditor General, Surveyor General, and Secretary of the Commonwealth. Two persons were elected for each of the offices of Sheriff and Coroner, and from the two so chosen the Governor appointed one to each of the offices respectively. The State Treasurer was appointed annually by the joint vote of the members of both Houses of the Legislature.

Here, then, were all governmental powers concentrated in the Governor, a condition advocated by many reformers of to-day as ideal. Was it a successful experiment? Subsequent history proves that it was not. Concentration of power invariably breeds abuse of power. The people became jealous of the extensive powers vested in the Governor, which led to the making of a new Constitution in 1838. Honorable Alexander K. McClure in his "Old Time Notes of Pennsylvania" eloquently and succinctly tells the whole story in a paragraph. He says:

"The vital feature of the reform Constitution of 1838 was the resumption of power by the people, in taking from the Executive nearly all his patronage, and making most offices elective. It was not a clean sweep, as it left associate judges, district attorneys and the important offices of auditor general and surveyor general to be appointed by the Executive, but the start made by the new fundamental law rapidly extended popular power until finally every office in the state excepting the Governor's cabinet and some inspectors, who could not be made to represent any particular constituency, were made elective, including the judges themselves in 1851."

A bitter contest between Governor Shunk, Democrat, and a Whig Senate over the appointment of Judge White, (father of the late Judge Harry White, of Indiana county) in the district comprising Indiana, Armstrong and several other adjacent counties started the movement to deprive the Governor of the power of appointing judges, which culminated in the amendment of the Constitution of 1860 which made all judges thereafter elective. It was in this upheaval of 1850 that the offices of Surveyor General and Auditor General were made elective.

When it came to the making of the Constitution of 1874 the people had not repented of their revolutionary actions in the years 1838 and 1850. Indeed, it appears that their distrust of concentrated power was in nowise appeased. The framers of the present Constitution made a radical change in the statement of the Executive Department. They left no room for doubt as to their intentions. In the Constitutions of 1790 and 1838 it appeared:

"The supreme executive power of the Commonwealth shall be vested in a Governor."

In the Constitution of 1874, Article IV, Section 1, it reads:

"The Executive Department of this Commonwealth shall consist of a Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Attorney General, Auditor General, State Treasurer, Secretary of Internal Affairs, and a Superintendent of Public Instruction."

The Executive power was divided. There was a further resumption of power by the people. Another office, that of State Treasurer, was made elective.

This history is not an idle story. It has a purpose. That purpose is to establish the place the Department of Internal Affairs was designed to hold in the scheme of government of the Commonwealth. By acts of usurpation and by neglect in the past its position was seemingly somewhat obscured.

It will be instructive, then, at this point to consider the provisions of the Constitution of 1874 relating to the office of the Secretary of Internal Affairs and which prescribed the jurisdiction and scope of operation which it was intended to cover:

Article IV, Section 19:

"The Secretary of Internal Affairs shall exercise all powers and perform all the duties of the Surveyor General, subject to such changes as shall be made by law. His Department shall embrace a Bureau of Industrial Statistics and he shall discharge such duties relating to corporations, to the charitable institutions, the agricultural, mining, mineral, timber and other material or business interests of the State as may be prescribed by law. He shall annually and at such other times as may be required by law, make report to the General Assembly."

Article XVII, Section 11:

"The existing powers and duties of the Auditor General in regard to railroads, canals and other transportation companies, except as to their accounts, are hereby transferred to the Secretary of Internal Affairs, who shall have a general supervision over them, subject to such regulations and alterations as shall be provided by law; and in addition to the annual reports now required to be made, said Secretary may require special reports at any time upon any subject relating to the business of said companies from any officer or officers thereof."

Article XVII, Section 12:

"The General Assembly shall enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article."

By Article IV, Section 9, the Secretary of Internal Affairs is made a member of the Board of Pardons.

Of the five state officers elected by the people under the Constitution, the Secretary of Internal Affairs is the only one who can succeed himself. There seems to be an important reason for this. It was clearly the intention of the framers of the Constitution that the State officer proposed to have jurisdiction over railroads and other transportation companies, as well as of other important matters of internal development, should be directly responsible to the people, and that while his term of office should be definite, yet he might be continued in office so long as his policies and conduct were approved by the people, such continuity in office being effective in the working out of beneficial and salutary policies.

No candid minded person can read the above cited sections of the Constitution and not admit that the office was to be second only in importance to that of the Governor. And as long as the Constitution remains unchanged it is the imperative duty of the Legislature to make the duties of the office sufficiently important as to attract the attention of the voters to the Department and to the personality and qualifications of the candidate aspiring to become the head of the Department.

WHY HAS NOT THE DEPARTMENT ATTAINED ITS INTENDED IMPORTANCE?

The Department began to function with the following divisions:

- (1) Land Office Bureau.
- (2) Bureau of Industrial Statistics.
- (3) Bureau of Railways.

The Legislature promptly passed the Act of May 11, 1874, (P. L. 135) to make effective the constitutional jurisdiction of the Secretary of Internal Affairs. It re-enacts practically the words of the Constitution, as follows:

"The Secretary of Internal Affairs shall discharge such duties relating to corporations, to the charitable institutions, the agricultural, manufacturing, mining, mineral, timber and other material or business interests of the State, as may be prescribed by law. It shall be his special duty to exercise a watchful supervision over the railroad, banking, mining, manufacturing and other business corporations of the state and to see that they confine themselves strictly within their corporate limits."

This Act has never been repealed but when it came to the enforcement of this broad supervising and regulating jurisdiction, the same Act has the following clause which is weak and ineffective in procedure and lacking in sufficient penalties. It reads:

"And in case any citizen shall charge under oath any corporation with transcending its corporate functions or infringing upon the rights of individual citizens, said Secretary shall carefully investigate such charges and may require from said corporations a special report, as enjoined in the Constitution of the State; and in case he believes the charges are just and the matter complained of beyond the ordinary province of individual redress, he shall certify his opinion to the Attorney General of the State, whose duty it shall be, by appropriate legal remedy, to redress the same by a proceeding in the Courts at the expense of the State."

The Secretary of Internal Affairs' jurisdiction over railroads was recognized by many complaints by citizens under the provisions of the above section of the Act of 1874 down to the time of the creation of a Railroad Commission in 1907. In all such cases hearings were had when necessary, decisions rendered and appropriate action taken. Complete records of these cases are contained in past reports of the Department. Possibly the most conspicuous and memorable case was in 1906 when, as a result of proceedings started before Honorable Isaac B. Brown, Secretary, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company withdrew a rebate mileage book, which was very objectionable to the public.

The internal resources of the state were being developed rapidly and tremendously. Railroads were extending their lines, business corporations were organizing and agriculture, mining and manufacturing were becoming extensive. But from the very beginning down to the administration of Governor William C. Sproul legislatures have expanded and enlarged the powers of Governors in connection with subjects of internal development and ignored and neglected the office of the Secretary of Internal Affairs. There is but one Act to the credit of many legislatures which was in line with the word and spirit of the Constitution. By the Act of July 7, 1897, a Bureau of Mines was created in the Department of Internal Affairs. Tradition relates that Governor Hastings who was largely interested in the mining of bituminous coal, withheld his approval of the Act until it was amended giving to him the privilege of appointing the Chief of the Bureau. The Bureau functioned successfully for six years in the Department. But by Act of April 14, 1903, in Governor Pennypacker's administration, a Department of Mines was established. I do not believe that this change made for either economy or efficiency, and it was a reversal of the policy begun to develop the Department along Constitutional lines.

AN ATTEMPT TO ABOLISH THE DEPARTMENT.

This was an illadvised and bungling attempt to get rid of the constitutional jurisdiction of the Secretary of Internal Affairs over transportation companies to clear the way for the Public Service Commission. While ultimately unsuccessful, it resulted in the perpetration of a series of unconstitutional proceedings and flagrant acts of usurpation such as have never been surpassed in the history of the Commonwealth. When the Act of May 31, 1907, (P. L. 337) establishing the Pennsylvania State Railroad Commission, was under consideration the authors of the Act approached their task timidly. To make it constitutional they proposed various schemes, namely, that the Secretary of Internal Affairs should be a Commissioner ex-officio; that it should be a Bureau in the Department of Internal Affairs, etc. But finally they grew bolder. The bill as enacted recognized the Secretary by providing:

(a) The Commission would hold a hearing upon any proposed change of law relating to common carriers, etc., upon request by the Secretary of Internal Affairs.

(b) After refusal of a company subject to the Commission to obey any order or decree, it should be certified to the Secretary of Internal Affairs to take appropriate action.

(c) Commission authorized to hold hearings on proposed increase of capital stock or indebtedness, when desired, and to certify result of hearing to Secretary of Internal Affairs for his consideration and action.

(d) Commission to file duplicate copy of annual report with the Secretary of Internal Affairs.

(e) Commission to certify each of its decisions, rulings and recommendations to the Secretary of Internal Affairs * * * for his consideration and action.

(f) The Act not to be construed to impair the power and authority of the Secretary of Internal Affairs in the exercise of general supervision over railroad, canal and other transportation companies vested in him by the Constitution and laws of the Commonwealth.

It is needless to say that these provisions proved nugatory. They were but flimsy pretenses wilfully devised for the purpose of evading the Constitution. During the life of the Commission they were effected as follows:

(a) Nothing. (b) One case, no action necessary.

(c) Nothing. (d) Typewritten copy of report formally filed at end of each year. (e) Nothing.

The Railroad Commission could have been organized within the Department of Internal Affairs at one-third of what it cost to organize it as a separate organization. All of the bookkeeping and administration work could have been performed by the Secretary and the general office, as has since been done in the organization of the Bureau of Topographic and Geological Survey, and there would have been immediately available all of the annual reports, maps of rights of way, and other data concerning railroad, railway, telegraph, telephone and canal companies filed in the Bureau of Railways of the Department from the year 1867 to the present time, as required by law and the Constitution. Much of this data has since then been duplicated at vast cost by the Railroad Commission and by its successor, the Public Service Commission.

When the more ambitious scheme of a Public Service Commission to succeed the State Railroad Commission was planned, the spectre of constitutional limitations again arose. It was decided to end the question for all time. The Public Service Commission Act was passed July 26, 1913. This Act dropped all pretense and absolutely ignored the Secretary of Internal Affairs and his constitutional powers. In the same session a resolution was introduced to amend the Constitution by abolishing the Department of Internal Affairs. This proceeding was a powerful admission of the grave fears and doubts entertained as to the constitutionality of the Public Service Commission Act. The resolution was passed by both House and Senate.

The scheme to destroy the Department in defiance of and in utter disregard of the Constitution progressed rapidly, especially as no great public protest was heard. A widespread propaganda was started through the press to persuade the public that the Department was "obsolete" and that it rendered no important service. All of this was but preparatory for the most amazing acts of usurpation and injustice. Article IV, Section 19, of the Constitution, heretofore cited in full, contained this mandatory provision, "His Department shall embrace a Bureau of Industrial Statistics. That Bureau has functioned in the Department continuously from the year 1874. Entirely regardless of the Constitution and the laws which fixed the number of employees and their compensation, upon the initiative of the Governor, the Act of June 2, 1913, was passed, creating a Bureau of Statistics and Information in the Department of Labor and Industry. The newly created Bureau had many additional places with higher salaries than the old ones, which places the Governor promptly filled by appointment. He then vetoed the items of appropriation for salaries of the officers and employees in the constitutional Bureau of Statistics in the Department of Internal Affairs and it had, perforce, to be discontinued.

The Governor next vetoed the appropriations for the salaries of the employees in the Bureau of Railways and that Bureau, also, had to be discontinued. He then vetoed the appropriation for the Bureau of Taxes and Assessments. The duties of the Bureau of Railways were those relating to the annual reports of transportation companies. The Constitution makes it mandatory upon all steam railroad, electric railway, canal, telegraph and telephone companies to furnish these reports to the Secretary under penalty of five thousand dollars on default, and it is the duty of the Secretary to forward the blanks and upon their return to compile the data contained therein and make report annually to the Legislature.

The result of the above described actions on the part of the Legislature and the Governor was to leave the Secretary without proper organizations to perform the services imposed upon him by the constitution and laws which were unrepealed and to strip the Department of all functions but those exercised by the Land Office Bureau and the small Bureau of Standards.

The Secretary, Honorable Henry Houck, did his duty, however. By strenuous use of general clerks and stenographers in the Department he took care of the reports. He furthermore persuaded the County Commissioners of the sixty-seven counties to make their annual reports of local taxes and assessments without the compensation which the law stipulated, upon the promise that he would endeavor to have the next Legislature right the wrong. Not a county refused, the statistical record was kept unbroken and the Secretary's promise was made good.

The resolution to amend the Constitution which had passed the Legislature of 1913 was presented in due form to the Legislature of 1915. It failed ignominiously. Not a single vote was cast in favor of it in the Senate. So ended the attempt to abolish the Department.

REORGANIZATION OF THE DEPARTMENT.

When I was elected Secretary of Internal Affairs I was fully aware of the moribund condition of the Department and recognized my duty and responsibility to exert myself in an effort to restore it as far as possible to the position of dignity and importance designated for it under the Constitution. I devoted my time between the date of my election in November, 1918, and the date of my taking office in May, 1919, to this task. During the four months that the Legislature was in session before I took office I busied myself arousing interest in the Department and formulating laws for its reorganization. I presented my plans to Governor Sproul, who recognized the justness of my claims and thereafter co-operated splendidly with me, even surrendering part of his own powers and privileges in the way of appointments. Considerable was accomplished, as shown by the following Acts of Assembly:

By Act of May 16, 1919, (P. L. 202) the Department was reorganized as to the Land Office Bureau, the Bureau of Railways, Bureau of Taxes and Assessments, and the Bureau of Standards.

By Act of April 4, 1919, (P. L. 45) the Bureau of Municipalities was transferred from the Department of Labor and Industry to the Department of Internal Affairs.

By Act of April 18, 1919, (P. L. 80) the Bureau of Statistics and Information was transferred from the Department of Labor and Industry, reinstating it in the Department of Internal Affairs.

By Act of June 7, 1919, (P. L. 420) the Bureau of Topographic and Geological Survey was established in the Department of Internal Affairs.

By Act of April 4, 1919, (P. L. 44) the Secretary of Internal Affairs was made Custodian of all title papers relating to the real estate owned by the Commonwealth.

The two-year period which elapsed between the legislative sessions of 1919 and 1921 was devoted strenuously to the task of organization and of re-organization under the above Acts. I also acquired a good working knowledge of the Department which revealed to me many defects which called for remedial legislation. As is usually the case, I could not get all that I desired, but the following bills were passed in the sessions of 1921:

By Act of May 25, 1921, (P. L. 1119) additional deputies at large were provided in the Bureau of Standards.

By Act of April 20, 1921, (P. L. 193) the Bureau of Statistics and Information was reorganized.

By Act of May 27, 1921, (P. L. 1180) the Secretary of Internal Affairs was made a member of the Pennsylvania State Park and Harbor Commission of Erie.

By Act of May 5, 1921, (P. L. 389) the regulation and control of the manufacture, sale, offering for sale, giving away and use of weights and measures, and of weighing and measuring devices, in the state is provided for.

The Department of Internal Affairs at the present time operates through the following Bureaus:

1. The Land Office Bureau.
2. Bureau of Statistics and Information, which contains the following divisions:
 - (a) Industrial Statistics
 - (b) Public Utilities Statistics
 - (c) Tax and Assessment Statistics
 - (d) Waterways Statistics
3. Bureau of Municipalities.
4. Bureau of Standards.
5. Bureau of Topographic and Geological Survey.

All of these Bureaus have been thoroughly organized under capable heads and are performing important services for the state.

Here ends the history. Almost four years ago I found the Department of scarcely greater importance than a Bureau, the results of years of usurpation and a conscienceless disregard of its rights under the laws and the Constitution. By four years of hard work it has been re-established as a live, efficient branch of the state government, charged with the performance of most interesting duties, well calculated to inspire in every man and woman connected with it the desire to give to it the best that is in him.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

I hold a commission from the people to serve them along the lines commanded by the Constitution. I was re-nominated without opposition and elected without any adverse criticism of my past conduct of the Department so far as I have learned. There are on file in the Department thousands of highly commendatory letters and many very flattering resolutions, received from men and women prominent in business, chambers of commerce, civic associations, and municipal officers. The general approbation with which the work of the Department has been received during the last two or three years is, indeed, very gratifying to me.

I look forward to four years and four months incumbency of the office of Secretary of Internal Affairs beginning with January 1, 1923. I shall not be contented to be merely an ornamental figure-head drawing a salary. I shall, therefore, oppose with all my might any attempt to tear down what I have built in the last four years. There is much work to be done and I stand ready and anxious to perform my full share of service. I am in complete accord with the great forward movement to reorganize the state government.

At the very first sitting of the Reorganization Commission appointed by the Legislature of 1921 I delivered to it a pamphlet containing a number of suggestions and recommendations concerning my own Department. As an expression of my views upon the subject generally, I said:

"Governor Lowden made for himself a national reputation by his successful re-organization of the government of the state of Illinois. According to my recollection, he succeeded in consolidating more than sixty separate commissions, bureaus and departments into six principal departments. Pennsylvania needs just such treatment. There are too many disconnected comparatively small bureaus, departments and commissions 'hung up in the air' as it were. Each of these has an overhead expense of bookkeepers, clerks and accountants which would be largely unnecessary if they were consolidated with larger departments. Many bureaus in departments maintain employees performing services which should be done by the general office of the department. Let me illustrate by the experience of my own Department. When it was at its lowest ebb the general office force consisted of the Secretary, a deputy, a chief clerk, a bookkeeper and two stenographers. With the addition of the large bureaus—Statistics, Municipalities, Topographic and Geological Survey and the expansion of the old bureaus of the Department—the same general office force with the addition of but one stenographer carries the overhead of all the bureaus. In other words, the same force is doing several times as much work as it one time performed and it, at the same time, coordinates the work of all the bureaus."

While it is generally conceded that a reorganization of the state government is imperative, it should be apparent to all that it will be a momentous task which should be approached with caution. It is possible that in many instances more harm than good may be done. There can be no thorough reorganization until the Constitution is revised and the result of the recent election proposing a constitutional convention showed that the minds of the people are not yet prepared for such an important undertaking. The reason is not hard to find. No definite, outstanding defects in the present Constitution have been formulated and pressed before the people. The work of the Commission appointed by Governor Sproul attracted very little attention and excited no popular enthusiasm. I feel certain that there will be no convention to revise the Constitution until the people are aroused to the need of one by reason of feeling the pinch of some limitations in the present Constitution. And no constitution will receive approval except it be progressive, conforming to the spirit of the times, and framed by delegates freely and fairly elected.

To attain the best results, therefore, the reorganization movement will require time and all persons engaged in it must look forward to long sustained efforts. I shall gladly cooperate with the Governor and the Legislature in promoting all measures which my judgment and experience approve as being wise and beneficial. But here, again I must insist that in the distribution and re-distribution of service and duties the Department of Internal Affairs shall receive fair and just consideration and that its constitutional rights must be observed and maintained.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CONSOLIDATION AND CO-ORDINATION.

In approaching this subject I do so from the viewpoint of the Secretary of Internal Affairs in the relation the Department of Internal Affairs bears to the other branches of the state government. I wish to have it understood that in making these suggestions I have not been influenced by any selfish purpose, or, by any desire to create friction with other officers of the state government. In planning the reorganization of my Department in the last three and one-half years I have given a great deal of thought to the subject of establishing it as far as possible in the position intended by the Constitution of the state, keeping ever in mind larger and more efficient service and the elimination of duplication and overlapping of endeavor.

On the fourteenth day of December, 1920, at his invitation I addressed a letter to Governor William C. Sproul, making some suggestions and recommendations preliminary to the sessions of the Legislature of 1921. Some of those suggestions were adopted and were made effective by legislation. I now propose to present anew those not adopted for your consideration.

THE BUREAU OF STATISTICS AND INFORMATION.

(1) The Bureau of Statistics and Information in this Department should be the sole bureau of statistics and information in the state government and embrace all statistical agencies.

(2) It should be made mandatory upon the Secretary of Internal Affairs, through the Bureau, to gather, compile and furnish promptly any statistics or information required by the head of any department of the government for the use of his department.

Few people realize the importance of statistics and that they should be accurate and available when needed. The late war furnished a lesson to the country which should never be forgotten. There was no branch of the National government in which there was a greater lack of preparedness for the emergencies of the occasion than in the statistical agencies. Professor Wesley C. Mitchell, President of the American Statistical Association, in an article published in the Monthly Labor Review (Washington) in the year 1919, said:

"When the war began the Federal government possessed twenty or more statistical agencies, the weaknesses and especially the lack of co-ordination of which had been keenly realized even in peace time. These agencies were quite inadequate to the task of supplying the data needed under war conditions concerning national resources of various kinds, and the business of putting the nation on a war footing was seriously delayed by the lack of this statistical knowledge.

"The Council of National Defense, the Food Administration, the Fuel Administration, the Shipping Board, the War Trade Board, the Railway Administration, and the War Industries Board sooner or later set up each a new and independent statistical agency to meet its especial needs. The War Department and the Navy Department followed suit. And these agencies, like the war boards which created them, had to be manned with people inexperienced in Government work and unfamiliar with Washington.

"Yet the statistical work of the war boards as a whole showed precisely the same defect in organization as the work of the old statistical bureaus and showed that fault in an aggravated degree. Each new agency worked by itself for a separate board. Hence there was much duplication of effort, and at the same time many important fields remained unworked; the results reached by different agencies could not be readily compared or combined; and the cost was needlessly great. Further, the energy of the new statistical agencies and the haste in which they worked magnified a minor fault of the old system to larger proportions. These new agencies wanted to get their fundamental data from the original sources; so they sent out questionnaires to business men in a veritable flood. Many manufacturing plants got elaborate papers which they were asked to fill out and return by the next mail in tens and in dozens. Frequently, different questionnaires covered nearly the same ground, and usually they required not a little investigation within the plant to collect the data asked for. Considerable expense was incurred and serious irritation was caused throughout the country by this obvious failure of organization in Washington.

"This questionnaire evil brought back a flood of complaints, echoes of which reached the responsible heads of the war boards. The efficiency of economic mobilization seemed threatened; that was a more serious matter than the waste of public funds."

Pennsylvania was in no different situation from that of the Federal government. It had maintained a Bureau of Statistics for half a century at a total expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars only to learn at a critical moment that it was worthless. It did not have the information so urgently needed not even an organization that could be utilized in obtaining that information. Just as was the case with the National Government, the state was compelled to expend $2,000,000 in organizing emergency agencies to perform a service which should have been immediately available.

When I became Secretary of Internal Affairs and thereby responsible for the future of the Bureau of Statistics and Information I was cognizant of this situation. One of my first determinations was to give the state a statistical organization that should be second to none. The advantages of such an organization are many and important. Statistics are useless if they are not accurate, complete and furnished promptly and when needed. To effect this requires efficient organization for collecting, compiling, tabulating, etc. It means adequate equipment, consisting of tabulating machines, typewriting, manifold, copying and other devices to facilitate work. It means close co-operation by all clerks, agencies and means, under skillful directing heads, eliminating duplication of work and effort and the issuing of contradictory results by different branches of the State Government. It means prompter and more effective publicity; a lessening of annoyance, labor and expense to the many interests required to furnish reports; more systematic methods of reporting and filing and at a less expense to the state.

The high mark set has not been reached but the progress made is very apparent. The journal of the American Statistical Association (December, 1922) in a critical review of the 1920 report, says:

"The report under review should prove to be a very useful contribution to the rapidly growing list of official statistical reports periodically issued. Other states which do not issue a compendium of information relative to their industries and resources might well follow the example of Pennsylvania in this respect. Hardly any other 'medium for disseminating information the public should have' could prove more effective than a volume of this character."

Mr. E. Whitney in charge of the Statistical Abstract of the United States wrote, under date of July 14, 1922:

"The Department of Internal Affairs' Statistical Report for the year 1920 is certainly a splendid work and entitles Pennsylvania to a high position in the matter of complete and valuable state statistics."

To these tributes from such high authorities can be added the fact that the Wharton School of Finance, of the University of Pennsylvania, and the Department of Industry in the University of Pittsburgh, as well as other teachers' classes and private schools, are using the annual reports of the Bureau as text books.

When I assumed responsibility for the Bureau of Statistics I instituted a survey and soon ascertained that there were three different bureaus in the Department, viz., the Bureau of Statistics and Information, the Bureau of Railways, and the Bureau of Taxes and Assessments, that were all in fact statistical bureaus. I concluded that reform should properly begin at home and I accordingly prepared a bill—Act of April 20, 1921, (P. L. 193)—which merged the three bureaus into one under the title of the Bureau of Statistics and Information.

The Act of 1921 above mentioned provided, in Section 3: "The Bureau shall collect, compile and publish all statistics and useful data and information relative to labor, coal mining, oil and gas production, manufacturing industries, commercial operations, public service companies, municipalities, maritime interests, and other business of the state", which gives it a very wide range. Section 4 of the Act provides:

"It shall be the duty of the Secretary of Internal Affairs to furnish statistical data and information to the heads of the state government, for the use of their respective departments, upon the subjects mentioned in this Act, upon requisition made in appropriate form, as promptly and completely as practicable, that unnecessary duplication of the gathering of statistics and information may be avoided."

This latter clause was in accord with a recommendation which I made to the Governor in a letter dated December 14, 1920. This section should have gone farther and prohibited all other state departments and agencies from gathering statistics upon these designated subjects. I have since pointed out to the Commission to Reorganize the State Government a number of instances in which unnecessary duplication is being done. This duplication necessarily leads to differences in results obtained, is imposing unnecessary burdens upon business interests, and to the building of duplicate sets of records upon the same subjects at great expense to the State, all of which is certainly unjustifiable. The Bureau of Statistics and Information in this Department should be made adequate in organization and equipment for all of the statistical needs and requirements of the state government and all other branches of the government should be required to co-operate with it and look to it for their statistical needs. A number of heads of departments have co-operated in the full sense and intent of Section 4 above cited. For two successive years the Bureau has gathered important and timely data on the consumption of pulp-wood by the paper mills of the state, upon the request of the Department of Forestry. It stands at all times to do like service for any bureau or department. I suggest, therefore, that legislation be enacted to prevent all statistical work by other departments in fields within the scope of the present jurisdiction of the Bureau of Statistics and Information in my Department as conferred by law.

MAP MAKING.

The making of maps of the state, it seems to me, is a matter that should have speedy attention. For years past a number of departments have been issuing maps for various purposes. Generally, there has been no specific authority nor special appropriations for the issuing of these maps and, therefore, they must have been paid for out of some general or contingent funds. It ought not to be left to the head of a department to contract for a large issue of maps simply at his discretion and when he thinks he can find money to pay for it. There should be a definite policy on the entire question of maps. I have given a good bit of thought to the subject and am convinced that economy and efficiency would be subserved if this work were centered in one department.

There should be a basic standard map, as accurate as possible with respect to boundaries, county and township lines, the location of rivers, mountain and other natural features and of cities and towns. Upon this, then could be superimposed railroads, highways, forests and other special features as desired and designated by Departments wishing to publish maps for particular purposes. It would be a part of the duty of those charged with this work, besides the drawing of such maps, to contract for the printing and engraving, attend to proof reading and other matters to insure proper execution.

It ought to be apparent that having this work under the supervision of a person or persons with expert geographical knowledge of the state would be a tremendous advantage, and such supervisors would at all times be alert to secure information to perfect the map of the state.

In our warrantee map work we have discovered that many township lines are actually unknown as the records establishing them are lost or mislaid, the employees of this Department having in some instances recovered them from cellars or garrets of court houses, and in other instances have been unable to find them at all.

I believe this map-making division should be located in this Department. The work of the Land Office, for more than a century, has been closely connected with the geography of the state, especially its boundaries and subdivisions. For years it published a very excellent railroad map which was much in demand.

In addition to this accumulated knowledge and experience this Department has now as one of its divisions the Bureau of Topographic and Geological Survey. The Topographic map work is being done in conjunction with the Federal Government, but the Chief of this Bureau follows with close attention every detail of the work and, therefore, every important and geologic information comes to his attention. Within the next several years this Bureau will construct and publish many geological maps of the state as an indispensable part of the great work it is conducting.

There are many demands daily upon the several departments of the state for maps of various kinds, published or to be published, which results in considerable annoyance and confusion in the effort to refer them to the proper departments. One map-making division would obviate all of this. I would, therefore, recommend the establishing of a bureau for map drawing in this Department.

ABSTRACTING OF TITLES.

The acquisition of real estate by the Commonwealth for forestry reserves, game preserves, armories and other purposes is constantly increasing. This necessitates a very considerable amount of title examination, at a large expense to the state, and the work has been done mostly by a few trust companies and private individuals. I am strongly of the opinion that the state could and should examine these titles, and that by doing so it would effect a considerable saving.

By an Act of Assembly passed in 1919, which I suggested and had drafted, the Secretary of Internal Affairs was made custodian of all deeds, maps, surveys, etc., relating to the title of real estate owned by the Commonwealth. Before that time these evidences of title were scattered all over the state and their whereabouts known only to those persons and officials who were interested in or connected with the transaction, and these persons were constantly changing in office. Several thousand of these instruments have already been entered in the Land Office of the Department where they are being carefully filed, indexed and arranged so as to be available for quick reference and inspection by any one interested.

I think it but a logical sequence that the abstracting and examination of prospective purchases by the State should be done in connection with this work. These examinations usually begin with the title from the Commonwealth, and even done by private parties they must apply to the Land Office for certified copies of the warrants, surveys and patents of the tracts involved, and frequently, when title from the Commonwealth has not been completed, it must be done through the Land Office.

This work would consist of the preparation of complete abstracts, and surveys when necessary, of land to be purchased, for the use of the Attorney General's Department in passing upon the validity of the titles.

As all of the departments purchasing real estate now receive appropriations for the purpose of title examinations and make contracts for the work to be done, an Act of Assembly imposing this duty upon the Department of Internal Affairs is necessary. It should provide for two expert title examiners and two clerks. I recommend legislation to this effect.

INLAND WATERWAYS.

The Secretary of Internal Affairs should be given a broad jurisdiction over the waters of the state. The next few years will undoubtedly witness a tremendous demand for power development in streams, for canalization and improvement of rivers for navigation, for conservation of water supplies for flood prevention, etc. All of this service come naturally under the designation of internal affairs. In my judgment the Water Supply Commission should be a bureau in the Department of Internal Affairs and its present limited jurisdiction merged in the larger one herein proposed to be vested in the Secretary of Internal Affairs. I do not believe that a Commission with limited powers and the members of which give but part of their time to the service will be adequate to cope successfully with the large problems of the near future. Already many surveys are being made and plans are being matured for power and canalization projects. Since I have been in office a number of these have been forced upon my attention and I have concluded that there is either no state officer clothed with sufficient power to meet the needs of the situation, or the subject is being very much neglected. Before the year 1820 Philadelphia was the metropolitan city of the United States, but with the completion by the state of New York of the Lake Erie and Hudson River Canal, traffic was so diverted from Philadelphia that New York city quickly surpassed it. So, to-day, untold injury may be done by neglecting opportunities at our doors. I believe that there should be a continuous, intensive study and investigation of the possibilities in our rivers for power development, canalization and flood prevention.

Impressed as I have been with the importance of this subject, I established a Division of Waterways Statistics in the Bureau of Statistics and Information, and placed at its head Mr. George M. Lehman, one of the best informed men in the state upon these subjects. He was the engineer for the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Commission and made the surveys and plans for that project which just now manifests an activity which promises a speedy consummation.

Some of the instances in which I have been called upon to render assistance from the very natural inference, I assume, that such matters would naturally fall within the powers of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, are the following:

An Act of Congress was passed appropriating a sum of money for a preliminary survey and investigation to determine the feasibility of a permanent survey for the canalization of the Susquehanna river from its mouth to Harrisburg. The Federal engineers of the War Department requested me to furnish information and data required by them. I made a complete survey of probable traffic originating in the proposed canal territory and prepared and presented to them an elaborate report covering all their points of inquiry on the subject, which was generously acknowledged as being of invaluable assistance to them. The outcome of this survey is still undetermined.

A serious break occurred in the narrow neck of Presque Isle Peninsula at Erie through which the waters of Lake Erie were passing into the Harbor, inflicting much damage and impeding commerce. I received telegrams and letters from commercial organizations of the city of Erie, asking me to assist in interesting the Federal authorities to remedy the break. Immediately took up the matter with the Federal authorities and they responded promptly and filled in the breach, restoring the peninsula to its natural condition.

During the legislative sessions of 1921 certain progressive citizens of Erie called to interest me in a project of creating a state park of Presque Isle Peninsula. They were foreseeing gentlemen with a wonderful conception of the great future possibilities of Erie Harbor and Presque Isle Peninsula. I easily imbibed their enthusiasm and readily gave my assistance in the formation and the passing of the Act creating the Erie Park and Harbor Commission. The Secretary of Internal Affairs and the Fish Commissioner were made ex-officio members of the Commission to represent the state. The project is progressing nicely.

I was also called upon by the Schuylkill Canal Association, an organization existing throughout the entire Schuylkill River Valley from Pottsville to Philadelphia, to render assistance, if possible, in preventing the abandonment of the Schuylkill Canal by its lessor, the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, and its consequent lapsing into ruin and decay; the further purpose of the organization being to secure Federal and State aid in its rehabilitation as a modern canal. Mr. Lehman's knowledge of the subject met the emergency, as he had just a short time before made a survey of the canal for the War Department, for the purpose of ascertaining the possibilities of modernizing it to relieve the crowded condition of transportation during the war period. With my permission, he attended a number of the meetings, held in several cities along the canal route, and furnished then the important information in his possession.

Since then this Association filed a complaint with the Attorney General. Upon the request of the Attorney General Mr. Lehman spent several days gathering data and facts for the purpose of determining whether a suit should be instituted.

Several months ago the Federal Engineers held a two days' meeting at Pittsburgh to confer with the leading business interests of that section as to the necessity of the construction of the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal. The services of Mr. Lehman were urgently requested. I responded thereto by sending him to the conference. He accompanied them over the entire route and contributed maps and other detailed information facilitated their labors very greatly.

The subject is now under close consideration and there doubtless will soon be a definite determination of the question.

In the month of December, 1922, I received a request from Federal Engineers asking for my co-operation in an effort to interest the state, through the Governor and the Legislature, in securing a navigable waterway to the anthracite coal region. The communication says:

"I am taking the liberty to inquire if you would care to co-operate with this office in a further investigation of the worthiness of this idea, and its preparation in more complete form for presentation to the Governor of the state. Such an investigation would require, in my opinion, a complete examination of the Delaware Division and Lehigh Canals relative to their adaptability to the project in mind, and furthermore a traffic survey of the industries located on the Delaware and Lehigh rivers within the limits of the proposed improvement. This survey would determine the character and amount of the shipments to and from the plants, and the extent to which the shipments would lend themselves to water transportation."

From the information contained in several letters which I have received relative to this subject it appears to be a project of vast possibilities and I believe that a thorough survey should be undertaken in the near future.

January 12, last, I received the following telegram from the Erie Chamber of Commerce:

Department of Internal Affairs,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Please send us such topographic maps or other charts blueprints, etc., showing contour of the district through which the suggested Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Canal could be advantageously dug with Erie as a terminal at the Lake end. Our files are incomplete as to general topography of the country lying between Pittsburgh at one end and Erie at the other. Your help will be greatly appreciated."

I placed Mr. Lehman on the task and he rendered a report which has been gratefully acknowledged. I learn, however, that is but the beginning of what will probably be an intensive study on the part of the city of Erie in an effort to locate a feasible route for such a canal.

In everyone of the cases cited the Department completely satisfied those who sought its assistance. They were all voluntary appeals and present some evidence of the way in which the mind of the public is awakening to the importance of the State's waterways. I believe it to be one of the most momentous questions of the present day and that it is shamefully neglected.

LIEN DOCKET CLAIMS.

I believe that some definite action should be taken by the Legislature to facilitate a settlement of the claims due the state as evidenced by what are known as the Lien Dockets. I recognize that this is a subject with which very few are familiar and, therefore, it will need explanation. In the early days of the Commonwealth sales of land were made upon credit, in many instances mortgages being taken. But the debtors were very slow in paying their just debts, as this statement will show.

By the Act of May 20, 1864, and supplement thereto passed April 4, 1868, a docket showing the warrants, unpatented and against which liens existed for unpaid purchase money was made up and forwarded to the Prothonotaries of the several counties in the state. There were many thousands of these claims and a patent could not be issued upon one of these warrants until the indebtedness, with interest, was paid in full. In the aggregate these claims amounted to several millions of dollars, and believing that they should be paid, Honorable James W. Latta, Secretary of Internal Affairs, made a strong effort through an Act passed May 26, 1897, (P. L. 101). But the enforcement of the Act created much opposition from those to whom the warrantees' titles had been transferred, often through many different grantors. They alleged that they were innocent purchasers and that the payment of the Commonwealth liens would impose heavy and unexpected burdens upon them. Consequently, Secretary Latta, deeming it to be a wise public policy, suspended the enforcement of the Act of 1897, and the Act of May 5, 1899, was passed as a compromise. This Act authorized the Secretary of Internal Affairs to grant patents on warrants on the Lien Dockets upon the payment by the present owners of such tracts of fifteen dollars, without regard to the actual amount due or owing. This was a most liberal concession on the part of the state, but even that has not operated to clean up the dockets. Owners of unpatented lands take their own time to pay and it seems only apply for a patent when, proposing to sell, an examination of title reveals that the land is unpatented and subject to a lien of the Commonwealth and the purchaser insists upon the title being perfected. This occurs most frequently in the sales of mineral lands. In the past seven years but one hundred and sixty-nine such patents have been applied for and granted.

Recently I had the dockets gone over and was surprised to learn that there are approximately 14,992 warrants unpatented, which, at $15.00 each, would amount to $224,880. It is very probable that one-third of these are duplications, but in any event there is a very large sum due the Commonwealth from this source which should be realized.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION FOR THE REORGANIZATION OF THE STATE GOVERNMENT.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

The Commission for the Reorganization of the State Government created by the General Assembly under the provisions of a "Joint Resolution approved the 27th day of May, 1921, Pamphlet Laws 1188," has the honor to submit herewith a summary report of its work.

In accordance with section 3, of the resolution above referred to, the duties assigned to the Commission were as follows: "To make an investigation of the laws organizing the several State departments, boards, bureaus, divisions and commissions, and prepare a plan for submission to the General Assembly, reorganizing and consolidating the same, and in such plan, the Commission shall endeavor to eliminate all duplication of work by the several departments. It was also required that the report of the Commission have attached bills for the consideration of the General Assembly providing for such reorganization."

The Commission held forty-six meetings from the date of its organization on December 14, 1921, and has made an investigation of every executive agency of the State Government. It does not feel justified in going to the expense of presenting a detailed report of all of its proceedings but submits as the report of its work the legislation already introduced and an abstract thereof which is made a part of this report.

It was deemed advisable by the Commission to submit its legislation in separate bills so as to insure the constitutionality thereof. Since the adoption of the Constitution of 1874 the substantive law of each executive agency has been treated separately and without entering into a discussion as to the merits of the question, the Commission believes that the practice has become so firmly established as to warrant the courts in holding that each of these various subjects must be legislated for separately to comply with the constitutional provision.

All of the legislation drafted from time to time for, and all legislation finally introduced at the request of the Commission was given to the "Citizens Committee" appointed by the Governor and the drafters of the proposed administrative code had free use thereof.

The Commission acknowledges its indebtedness to the Legislative Reference Bureau for assistance in drafting all of its legislation; to the Auditor General and the State Treasurer for information relating to the financial condition of the Commonwealth; to the Public Service Commission for the use of accountants in preparing budget figures; to the Highway and Health Departments for assisting in the preparing of charts, diagrams and forms; to the Secretary of Internal Affairs for a survey and inventory of State Property and to all of the other State Departments and agencies for their co-operation and valuable assistance and information which was freely and courteously given and which enabled the Commission to do its work within its limited appropriation, without the necessity of employing outside experts.

Respectfully,

GEORGE WOODWARD, Chairman.

SUMMARY OF LEGISLATION INTRODUCED AT THE REQUEST OF THE COMMISSION FOR THE REORGANIZATION OF THE STATE GOVERNMENT.

DEPARTMENT OF ADMINISTRATION AND FINANCE.

(Senate Bill No. 988 and Senate Bill No. 566)

A new department called a Department of Administration and Finance is proposed. The head of this department is to be a Superintendent of Administration and Finance. Generally speaking the superintendent is to act as a controller, and to prepare biennial budgets for the Governor. There is also created in the department a Board of Finance and Revenue which is to have the functions of the present Board of Public Accounts, the Board of Revenue Commissioners and the Sinking Fund Commission.

To prevent the enumeration of various executive departments and state institutions definitions have been adopted. The word "unit" as used in the bill includes the various departments and independent boards, bureaus, divisions and commissions of the executive branch of the state government. The word "institution" refers to the various Hospitals for the insane, sick and injured, Penal Institutions, Normal Schools, State College, Soldiers' Orphans' Industrial School, Thaddeus Stephens Industrial School and the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home. While the words "spending agency" cover all included with the word "unit" or "institution" and in addition comprehend semi-state and private institutions receiving aid from the Commonwealth.

It is proposed to give to the Superintendent of Administration and Finance a control over the cost of operation of units and institutions of the state government and in this connection to require all proposed expenditures to be submitted to him for approval. He would be required to approve all contracts and all payrolls where there would be changes from month to month. In order that there may be no unnecessary overlapping between the functions of the superintendent and the Auditor General, it is specifically provided that the control and supervision of the superintendent over the financial affairs of units and institutions is to relate only to the necessity and wisdom of making proposed expenditures and the financial ability of the Commonwealth to pay, and shall not involve the auditing of accounts after expenditures are made or question the legality of expenditures. The power of the superintendent in this connection may seem rather drastic but is the same power which has been extended to similar officers in the states of Illinois, Nebraska, Ohio, and Massachusetts. It gives the Commonwealth an officer who is really empowered to adopt a financial policy and to see that expenditures do not exceed appropriations available even though expenditures are kept within appropriations made by the General Assembly.

The superintendent is required to carry on departmental research, investigate duplication of the work of units and the efficiency of the organization and administration of units. He would really be required to carry on the work which has been begun by the Commission which submits this report. He is to provide for the classification of state employees and adopt a standard fixing uniform and graduated salaries for persons engaged in the same character of work. He may also adopt a system for the temporary transfer of employees from one unit to another as the work of units may require or permit.

The superintendent is to prepare for the governor tentative budgets for each year of the biennium for which the legislature makes appropriations. He would not later than November first of each year send suitable estimate blanks to each spending agency and require the return of such blanks with the information thereon not later than December fifteenth. After that date he would begin a revision of the appropriation requests and submit to the governor a tentative budget for each of the two fiscal years of the next biennium. With the budget he will also submit a general and other appropriation bills carrying the items in the proposed budget. After receipt of the tentative budget the governor is required to hold public hearings and revise the appropriation requests and submit a budget to the General Assembly not later than the first day of March. With the budget the Governor submits appropriation bills carrying the items he proposes for appropriations. These appropriation bills are to carry separate appropriations for each of the two succeeding years and shall specifically name the fund from which the appropriation is to be made, whether from the general fund or from a special fund. The general appropriation bill and bills making appropriations to units and state institutions are to carry provisions giving authority, with the consent of the governor, to transfer, within any respective agency, any part of any specific appropriation from one object for which appropriated to some other object deemed more necessary in view of later developments.

In order that the superintendent may have reliable information as to the revenues and expenditures of the Commonwealth, it is proposed that he shall institute a system of uniform accounts which are to be used in all units and institutions and spending agencies receiving state appropriations. All appropriations except for constructions under way or where contract is let are to lapse at the end of each fiscal year. Each unit and institution is required to submit to the superintendent quarterly estimates of the amount required for each activity to be carried on and such estimates shall be approved by the superintendent before the appropriation shall become available. Units and institutions are also required to render monthly reports of expenditures to the superintendent.

DEPARTMENT OF PURCHASING.

(Senate Bill No. 564)

A new department called a Department of Purchasing is proposed. The head of this department is to be the purchasing agent. Generally speaking the purchasing agent, is to have charge of the purchase, storage and distribution of supplies for the state government and state institutions and to have charge of the printing and binding.

To prevent the enumeration of various executive departments and state institutions definitions have been adopted. The word "unit" as used in the bill includes the various departments and independent boards, bureaus, divisions and commissions of the executive branch of the state government. The word "institution" refers to the various Hospitals for the insane, sick and injured, Penal Institutions, Normal Schools, State College, Soldiers' Orphans' Industrial School, Thaddeus Stephens Industrial School and the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home.

It is proposed that in making appropriations for supplies and printing and binding, the appropriation shall be made to the purchasing agent but that each of these appropriations shall carry a schedule of distribution, specifically limiting the amount which may be expended by individual units and institutions. Under the present practice the departments receiving these appropriations have no way in which to limit the amount which may be used by any department, and it frequently happens that one department may receive a very large amount of printing to the detriment of some other department.

It is proposed to create in connection with the purchase, storage and distribution of supplies, an advisory board composed of fourteen persons. On this board will be the purchasing agent, the Commissioner of Health, the Commissioner of Public Welfare, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and other persons, representing the state institutions, to be appointed by the superintendent. This board is to consult from time to time with the superintendent relative to the adoption of standards for supplies and to enumerate the supplies which are to be purchased for such institutions. The purchasing agent is to purchase all supplies for units and such supplies for institutions as the advisory board may agree upon. With regard to the units a provision has been inserted that supplies peculiarly adapted to the needs of units may after consultation with the purchasing agent be purchased by the unit itself. Such supplies are then not to be placed upon the schedule. The Commission has in mind such purchases as cement, sand and gravel by the Highway Department, military supplies by the Adjutant General, medical supplies by the Department of Health, horses by the State Police Department, etc. But all supplies which are placed upon the schedule can only be centrally purchased. As before noted the appropriation by the General Assembly for supplies is made to this department and a schedule to that appropriation designates the amount which may be used by each institution and unit. Supplies may be purchased by contract or otherwise. All stationery, paper, bindings and fuel and furnishings for the halls and rooms used by the General Assembly are to be purchased by contract approved by the Governor, Auditor General and State Treasurer. This provision is constitutional. The purchasing agent is required to adopt from time to time standards of qualities grades and brands of supplies, including paper used in printing, and for forms, letter-heads and envelopes. All purchases are to be made for cash or on credit, or time not exceeding sixty days to enable the State to secure the benefit of cash discounts, and the Auditor General is required to make advances of money to the purchasing agent for this purpose.

In connection with the printing and binding, it is proposed to create an advisory board composed of the Purchasing Agent, the Superintendent of Administration and Finance and a person connected with the department having practical experience in printing and binding. This board has power to adopt rules and regulations for the conduct of its business, and in such rules and regulations shall set forth the kind and character of printing and binding which is to be submitted to it for examination. If in the opinion of a majority of the board any manuscript submitted for printing other than such as is submitted by the General Assembly does not justify the expenditure of public moneys, it is required to disapprove the printing. It is also proposed to leave with this board the fixing of the number of copies of printing which shall be done instead of having the law fix a rigid number as is now the practice. The board is given power to designate one or more documents as proper to be placed on sale to the public and may fix the price to be paid therefor. Thereafter no such documents shall be distributed free except to officers of the state government and municipalities, officers of the United States Government and other states and foreign countries, to members of the General Assembly, to libraries and pamphlet laws to magistrates, aldermen, justices of the peace and attorneys at law. Substantially the present law with regard to printing is submitted for re-enactment. The Commission has made a thorough investigation of this subject and while there are evidences of waste in the printing of certain documents not considered necessary, it nevertheless believed that the printing of the state under the present system is secured at a cost less than the present commercial rate. The Commission has considered the division of the state printing into several classes as is the practice in the state of New York, but from estimates furnished by the superintendent of Printing and Binding based upon contract prices now in force in New York, it is evident that this system would prove very costly to the state of Pennsylvania. The Commission believes that a division of the printing contract by law has a tendency to bring about collusion in bidding. It is of course to be remembered that there is nothing in the law now which prevents the printing department from letting any part of the printing in separate contracts.

STATE PRINTER.

(Senate Bill No. 573).

The Commission adopts the suggestion of the Commission on Constitutional Amendment and Revision and submits a bill proposing an amendment to Section 12 of Article 3 of the constitution to enable the state government to do its own printing. Under the present constitutional clause all printing is required to be done by contract. It is quiet evident that there might be a considerable saving if the state were permitted to own its printing plant.

CONSTITUTIONAL BUDGET.

(Senate Bill No. 571).

The Commission adopts the recommendation of the Commission on Constitutional Amendment and Revision, and submits an amendment to the Constitution providing for a Budget and Appropriation Bills. The bill submitted follows substantially the language of the section proposed by the Commission on Constitutional Amendment and Revision. Under this system the Governor would submit to the General Assembly a Budget on or before the first day of March, and this Budget would contain a complete plan of proposed appropriations and an estimate of revenues and funds available. It also provides that appropriations to institutions not under the absolute control of the State Government shall be made under a plan of distribution proposed by the Governor. The amendment proposed specifically provides that the Legislature shall not adjourn until the General Appropriation Bill has been finally enacted.

FISCAL YEAR.

(Senate Bill No. 567).

This bill fixes a fiscal year for the Commonwealth, to begin on the first day of June of each year and to end on the thirtieth day of May of the year succeeding. This is the year for which appropriations are now made by the General Assembly. A careful search of the legislation fails to reveal any act which permanently fixes these dates. Presumably, they have been adopted as a matter of legislative practice.

A resolution of April 21, 1840 fixes what is known as the financial year which is to terminate on the thirtieth day of November. This is the date upon which the fiscal officers of the Commonwealth now close their books. We have, therefore, in Pennsylvania two financial years; a year used by the fiscal officers for the keeping of their accounts, and a different year used by the General Assembly for the making of its appropriations. Under the bill proposed the financial year used by the fiscal officers is to be abolished and all financial records are to be kept as of the fiscal year which corresponds with the present appropriation year.

SPECIAL FUNDS.

(Senate Bill No. 570).

The question of the numerous special funds held in the state treasury has received the serious attention of the Commission. There is no question that at periods during each fiscal year there are large sums in some of these special funds while the general fund is depleted, and it so happens that payments from the general fund are delayed and yet there are millions of dollars in the state treasury. The Commission is not unmindful of the fact that moneys in some of these special funds are properly dedicated to particular objects. It seems, however, unjust to have these moneys lying idle in the state treasury and not be available for use. A bill is therefore submitted proposing that a number of these funds shall be merged with the general fund. It is not the intention of the Commission to abolish any of these special funds but simply to pay the moneys into the general fund and to make them liquid. All of these special funds would still be carried on the books of the fiscal officers and whenever any moneys would be required for objects for which the special fund was created, payments would be made from the general fund. The funds which are to remain as now provided and the moneys kept separate are the Sinking Fund the Workmen's Compensation Insurance Fund, the State Bond Road Fund, the County Gasoline Tax Fund, the fund derived from the tax upon premiums of foreign fire insurance companies, the Federal Vocational Educational Fund the Industrial Rehabilitation Fund, and funds under the control of the Retirement Board. As said before all moneys in any special funds not enumerated above would hereafter be paid into the general fund and be available not only for appropriation for which such special funds were created but also for the payment of appropriations made from the general fund.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.

(Senate Bill No. 579).

The Commission recommends the creation of a new department to be known as a Department of Public Works. This department is to take over from the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings all functions relative to the care, custody, erection and repair of state buildings. New functions which will be given to this department provide that hereafter no appropriations shall be made to separate commissions for the construction of state buildings and institutions, but that all such appropriations shall be made to this department.

In addition to the above functions, it is proposed to transfer to this department the care and custody of all state parks, such as Valley Forge Park, Washington Crossing Park, Wyoming Valley Park, etc. The department is also to have the care and custody of all monuments and memorials erected from appropriations made by the General Assembly. No appropriations are hereafter to be made to any separate commissions for such purposes, but all such appropriations shall be made to the Department of Public Works.

The State Art Commission which is now attached to the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings is to be a part of this department and will approve all locations for public buildings, monuments and memorials and approve designs and plans therefor.

BRIDGES.

(Senate Bills Nos. 574, 575, 576, 577, 578).

It is also proposed to transfer from the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings the acquisition, care and maintenance of toll bridges over the Delaware River between the state of Pennsylvania and the states of New York and New Jersey. The Commissioner of Highways is to succeed the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings on the interstate commissions. The erection and construction of the proposed Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Bridge in the Capitol Park is transferred from the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings to this department, as is also the reconstruction of county bridges destroyed by flood or wind storm. The Commissioner of Highways is also to succeed the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings on the interstate commission having charge of the erection of the bridge over the Delaware River between the cities of Philadelphia and Camden. It is proper to remark here that the other members of the Pennsylvania Commission are not disturbed. Legislation to provide for the transfer of the functions of the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings to the Commissioner of Highways in connection with bridges is submitted by separate bills.

GAME AND FISH.

(Senate Bill No. 565).

The Commission advocates a consolidation of the Game and Fish Departments into one department of Game and Fish. The head of this department is to be a Game and Fish Commissioner and there is to be an Advisory Board composed of five members. Substantially, the present law with regard to these two departments is to be preserved. The Commission believes that a consolidation of these two departments will effect a considerable saving, especially in the number of wardens which will be required in different localities to enforce the laws adopted for the protection of game and fish.

LICENSING PROFESSIONS AND OCCUPATIONS.

(Senate Bill No. 568).

The Commission recommends the creation of a Bureau of Professional Examination and Licensure in the Department of Public Instruction. This bureau is to consolidate the executive and secretarial functions of the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure, the Dental Council, the Board of Dental Examiners, the Board of Pharmacy, the Board of Osteopathic Examiners, the Board of Optometrical Education, Examination and Licensure, the State Board of Examiners for the Registration of Nurses, the State Board of Examiners of Architects, the State Board for the Registration of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors, the Board of Examiners of Certified Accountants, the State Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners and the State Board of Undertakers. All of the boards, bureaus and councils now existing are abolished and new boards to supervise examinations of each different profession and occupation are created. It is believed that a consolidation of the executive functions of these various boards will effect a saving and will bring all of them under the supervision of the Department of Public Instruction where they properly belong.

EX-OFFICIO SALARIES.

(Senate Bill No. 569).

The Commission submits a bill fixing the salary of the Lieutenant-Governor, the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the Attorney General, the Secretary of Internal Affairs, the Auditor General, the State Treasurer, the Commissioner of Health and the Adjutant General. The salaries fixed are those now provided by law. The purpose of the bill is to fix these salaries for all services which these officers are called upon to perform whether in connection with their departments or upon advisory boards and commissions. All salaries for duties ex-officio are abolished.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT FIXING SALARIES

(Senate Bill No. 572).

To prevent the recurrence of the practice of giving State officers additional compensation, it is proposed that there shall be an amendment to Article 3, Section 13, of the constitution to prohibit the passing of any law providing for the payment of any extra compensation to any public officer of the executive branch of the state government.

TRUANCY SCHOOL.

(Senate Bill No. 887).

The act of May 27, 1921, P. L. 1200, authorizes the appointment of a commission composed of five citizens which is empowered to acquire lands and buildings of vacant lands and to erect thereon buildings to be used as a State Truancy School. $180,000 was appropriated for this purpose. Nothing has been done under the act and the Commission proposes its repeal and the return of this money to the General Fund of the State Treasury.

MEDICAL INSPECTION OF SCHOOLS.

(Senate Bill No. 885).

An amendment to the school code of 1911 proposes the transfer of the medical inspection of schools from the Department of Health to the Department of Public Instruction. It is the belief that the department now having the supervision of the public schools can function better in this respect than a department which must provide an entirely new bureau to take care of this work.

SCHOOL TEACHERS' RETIREMENT SYSTEM.

(Senate Bill No. 882).

The Retirement Board having the supervision of the School Employees' Retirement System is to be transferred to the Department of Public Instruction and a Bureau of Teachers Retirement is created in that department. The only purpose of this bill is to tie this system up more closely with that department and to abolish one more of the separate units of the state government.

MINE INSPECTORS.

(Senate Bill No. 886).

Under the present law there are two mine inspectors examining boards appointed by the Governor, one board for the examination of inspectors in the Bituminous Region and one for the examination of inspectors in the Anthracite Region. Under this system the mine inspectors seem entirely free from cooperation with the Department of Mines. The bill submitted provides for the consolidation of these two boards into one board composed of eight citizens to be appointed by the Chief of the Department of Mines. The Chief of the department is also an ex-officio member giving the board nine members. By providing for the appointment in this manner and making the chief of the department a member of the board, it is believed that these inspectors will be tied up with the department more closely and strengthen the executive authority of that department.

LICENSING PRIVATE BANKERS.

(Senate Bill No. 881).

An amendment has been drawn to the present law providing for the licensing of private bankers. This licensing is now done by a board consisting of the State Treasurer, the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Commissioner of Banking. The bill proposes to abolish this board and invest in the Commissioner of Banking the power to license private bankers.

RAILWAYS.

(Senate Bill No. 884).

The act of June 20, 1901, P. L. 577, creates a board composed of the Governor, the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Attorney General which is to approve incorporation of passenger railways operating as underground or elevated roads. This law was enacted years before the creation of the Public Service Commission. An amendment drafted to the law suggests that the function of this board be transferred to the Public Service Commission.

HOURS OF LABOR FOR STATE EMPLOYEES.

(Senate Bill No. 883).

A bill has been prepared to regulate the hours of labor and leaves of absence of employees of the executive department of the state government. This bill follows closely lines of a similar law in force for the national government. This bill would require all such state employees to devote at least thirty-eight hours each week to their work, seven hours for each day of the week except Saturday and three hours on Saturday. The bill provides for an annual vacation with pay of fifteen days in each year. An additional allowance of fifteen days in any one year may be given for sick leave.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC PRINTING AND BINDING.

To the Speaker of the House of Representatives:

In pursuance of the duty delegated to us, we beg to report as follows:

That we have investigated carefully the Department of Public Printing and Binding, as pertaining to the needs of this House, following the course of procedure from the time of the departure of the original copy from the desk of the House to the time of the delivery of the printed product, and that we have found:

First: That the Superintendent of the Department, Mr. Nevin Dietrich, has used his utmost efforts to the end that the House at all times might be supplied with its printing needs, without delay. With all other demands upon the Printing Department being subordinated to the needs of this House.

Second: That while upon a few occasions, due to unprecedented demands, the State Printer may have occasioned slight delay in the delivery of printed materials to the House it is equally true that the State Printer and his employees have met extraordinary situations in a manner entitling them to the commendation of this House, and that as a whole the service rendered by the State Printer during the present session has been more efficient in every way than in previous sessions.

Third: That with the exception of one or two occasions in the handling of the Journal, the Sergeant at Arms and his assistants have been most efficient, and that they frequently have worked to the very limits of human endurance to handle the printing material promptly, at times when the demands upon them have been almost unprecedented.

Fourth: That the Speaker of this House, in his earnest endeavor to see to it that the business of the House might proceed without delay, has interested himself, at all times, in seeing to it that the importance of the needs of the House have been impressed upon the Department of Public Printing and Binding.

Fifth: That the Department, the State printer and the Sergeant at Arms are in a position to continue the most satisfactory service, barring unforeseen contingencies, and in a way to meet the needs of this House.

HOWARD SMITH, Chairman;
WILLIAM L. MORRISON,
THOMAS M. WHITEMAN,
CHARLES H. IRVIN.

MINORITY REPORT OF COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE THE DEPARTMENT OF PRINTING AND BINDING.

To the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

In pursuance to the duty delegated to your committee, I beg to report as follows:

That the committee appointed to investigate the delays in the printing and delivering of the necessary material for the House of Representatives, made such an investigation to the extent that the said committee had an interview with the Superintendent of Printing and Binding, an interview with the State Printer and an interview with the Sergeant at Arms, and in addition thereto, made an inspection of the plant of the State Printer.

That the committee has no information other than the explanation of the Superintendent of Printing and Binding, the State Printer and the Sergeant at Arms, for the delays in getting out and delivering to the House of Representatives, the printing for the same, or for the many defects and errors in said printing.

That the committee ascertained the fact that great demands have been made upon the State Printer by the Department of Public Instruction, the Department of Labor and Industry, and the Department of Health, which in some degree may have contributed to the delay of the legislative printing. These Departments publish a large number of publications of various kinds and a great quantity of material for distribution and thereby encumber the State Printer with a great quantity of work.

That the Superintendent of Printing and Binding, the State Printer and the Sergeant at Arms, gave their assurances to the committee that no further delays would be experienced by the Legislature during the Session and that all legislative matter would be given preference and the same promptly delivered to the House of Representatives.

THE FIFTY-THIRD ANNUAL REPORT OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF CITY TRUSTS.

To the Council of the City of Philadelphia, to the Board of Appointment composed of the Judges of the Courts of Common Pleas of the County of Philadelphia, and to the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen:

In compliance with the Act of Assembly approved June 30, 1869, the Board of Directors of City Trusts respectfully presents this report of the several Trusts under its administration, for the year 1922.

Hampton L. Carson, who was appointed a member of this Board March 1, 1918, resigned November 20th, 1922.

The following Minute was adopted by the Board:

The Board of Directors of City Trusts has learned with regret that our former colleague, Hon. Hampton L. Carson, has found it necessary to resign. This is not only an official loss to the City of Philadelphia but a personal regret to every member of this Board.

Mr. Carson's ripe judgment and wise counsel have been of inestimable value in our deliberations and decisions. His charming personality and sterling character have endeared him to every one connected with this great Trust.

We desire in this Minute to express to him how greatly he will be missed, to assure him of our affectionate regard and to wish for him a long life of happiness and usefulness.

The Board of Appointment on December 1, 1922 appointed Mr. Thomas S. Gates a member of the Board, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Carson.

The Residuary Fund for the maintenance of Girard College, amounted on December 31, 1922, to $55,485,684.31 or $3,198,970.47 more than at the end of the year 1921.

The total ordinary expenditure for the support of Girard College amounted to $1,299,318.23 which is a decrease of $59,305.35 from the preceding year. The average number of pupils maintained was 1,527 and the cost of maintenance per capita, $850.89. This is a decrease of $42.35 from 1921.

The extraordinary expenditure amounted to $251,817.12 of which $247,717.02 was on account of the erection of a new building which will contain an armory and which will also be used for recreational and educational purposes.

The receipts from the property of the Girard Estate Within the City, as compared with the preceding year, were as follows:—

	Gross.	Net.
1922	$2,137,056.49	$1,132,027.49
1921	2,071,317.02	933,390.85
Increase	$65,739.47	$198,636.64

The amount invested in mortgages, stocks and bonds for the Residuary Fund is $28,814,160.00 or $4,058,810.00 more than in 1921 and the gross receipts therefrom were $1,179,485.77 which is an increase of $237,258.15.

The City of Philadelphia as guardian of minors, at present or formerly pupils in Girard College, holds the sum of $23,864.89.

The Fire Insurance Fund has assets amounting to $195,969.61. The risks being carried amount to $2,181,100.00. The Fund suffered no fire losses during the year.

The Sinking Fund for the Stock of the Girard Water Company amounts to $238,940.34 being 25.55 per cent. upon the par value of the stock of that Company held by the Girard Estate.

The Sinking Fund for Improvements to Real Estate, established to return the rentals of the improvements in South Philadelphia the amount expended to build them, amounts to $203,034.26.

The Sinking Fund for the Building Southwest Corner Eleventh and Girard Streets amounts to $199,271.71 being 20 per cent. of the cost of the building.

The Fund for the Improvement of the Eastern Front of the City amounts to $587,469.97. The expenses of lighting of patrolling, and minor items incident to the care of the district lying between Vine and South Streets, Front Street and the Delaware River, has been paid out of the income of this Fund, and amounted in 1922 to $9,225.29.

The receipts from the property of the Girard Estate within the City, as compared with the preceding year, were as follows:—

	Gross.	Net.
1922	$2,310,596.80	$2,032,292.51
1921	3,874,111.33	3,521,420.21
Decrease	$1,563,514.53	$1,489,127.70

The shipment of coal from the Girard Estate in 1922 was very materially reduced by the miners' strike, lasting from April 1st to September 11th, and amounted to only 2,050,257-17/20 tons, as compared with 2,983,723-12/20 tons in 1921. a reduction of 933,465-15/20 tons or 31%. This is less than the decrease from the State of Pennsylvania as a whole, which was 40% showing the collieries on the Girard Estate worked as actively as labor conditions would permit. The Estate's proportion of the total shipment of anthracite coal from Pennsylvania during 1922 was 5%, which was the highest it has been since 1880.

The quantity of coal consumed in operating in 1922 was 202,016-8/20 tons, making the total production 2,252,274-5/20 tons.

During the sixty years active mining on the Girard Estate beginning with 1863, there have been marketed from it 85,445,442-3/20 tons.

The coal in the small portion of the East Bear Ridge lease, which has been mined by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company through its Gilberton Colliery, was exhausted during the year. This leaves the leases now in force as follows:

COAL LEASES.

No.	Lease	Lessee
1	Hammond	Phila. & Reading Coal & Iron Co.
2	East Bear Ridge	East Bear Ridge Colliery Co.
3	East Bear Ridge (Lawrence)	Harleigh-Brookwood Coal Co.
4	Packer No. 1-6	Lehigh Valley Coal Co.
5	Packer No. 2-4	Lehigh Valley Coal Co.
6	Packer No. 3	Lehigh Valley Coal Co.
7	Continental	Lehigh Valley Coal Co.
8	William Penn	Susquehanna Collieries Co.
9	Kehley's Run	Thomas Colliery Co.
10	Girard	Girardville Mining Co.
11	West Bear Ridge	Harleigh-Brookwood Coal Co.
12	Preston No. 2 Clum Banks	Maderia, Hill & Company.
13	Kimberley (Draper)	Phila. & Reading Coal & Iron Co.
14	William Penn Clum Banks	Thomas Colliery Co.
15	Weston	Locust Mountain Coal Co.
16	Clum from Mahanoy Creek	Mahanoy Valley Coal Co.

The Thomas Colliery Company is also preparing the Packer No. 2, No. 3, and No. 4 Culm Banks through its Black Creek No. 1 Washery, under a sub-lease from the Lehigh Valley Coal Company. All culm banks on the Girard Estate were in active operation during 1922.

The quantity of coal reclaimed from culm banks in 1922 was 344,607-19/20 tons, or 16.8% of the total shipment. This is 10,479 tons less than in 1921. It is also less than the shipment from this source in any year since 1916. Since 1889, when the reworking of culm banks was first taken up on the Girard Estate, 7,001,319 tons have been reclaimed from this source.

In 1922 the fourteen collieries in operation in whole or in part on lands of the Girard Estate worked an average of 156 days, or 52 per cent. of full time, which is assumed to be 300 working days per year. In 1921 the average was 283 days.

Based on the average colliery time, the average daily shipment from the Girard Estate was 13,143 tons for 1922 as compared with 10,543 tons for 1921.

The surface leases are as follows:

Lot leases	679
Farm lease	1
Surface lease to colliery	1
Reservoir sites	3
Rights-of-way for railroads	9
Rights-of-way for pole lines	16
Rights-of-way for pipe lines	6
Site or water tank	1
Total	<hr/> 716

The Girard Water Company supplied 669,095,600 gallons of water in 1922, a decrease of 206,609,900 gallons, or 24% as compared with 1921, and less than has been supplied in any previous year since 1915. The decrease was almost entirely due to the greatly diminished demand of the collieries during the strike, the consumption for this purpose from April to September inclusive, being 200,305,500 gallons less than for the corresponding period of 1921. This was somewhat offset by an increased demand during the last three months of the year, when The Girard Water Company, owing to the completion of Reservoir No. 6 in 1921, was not only one of the only two water companies in the southern and middle anthracite coal fields having full supplies for their own customers, but was also able to assist other companies and municipalities, whose sources of supply were curtailed by the severe drought which prevailed during the last four months of the year.

The water consumed was divided as follows:

For colliery use	528,037,200 gallons, or 79 per cent.
For railroad use	7,931,200 gallons, or 1 per cent.
For domestic use	133,127,200 gallons, or 20 per cent.

The Girard Water Company has four reservoirs in use with a total capacity of 672,667,000 gallons. The pumping station at Reservoir No. 5 contains four pumping units, five stage centrifugal pumps driven by electric motors, with a total rated capacity of 5,760,000 gallons per day of 24 hours. The quantity of water pumped 1922 was 638,935,000 gallons or 95% of the quantity supplied.

The Hammond Water Company which purchases all its water from The Girard Water Company and supplies Girardville Borough and the northeastern section of Butler Township, Schuylkill County, Pennsylvania, furnished 316,107,700 gallons in 1922 as compared with 415,479,000 gallons in 1921, a decrease of 99,371,700 gallons or 24%. This is the same percentage of decrease as shown by The Girard Water Company and it is due to the same cause, viz., the strike.

The separate trust funds included in the group designated Minor City Trusts numbered fifty-one, three having been added during the year, the Simon Gratz, James E. Lennon and Joseph C. Ferguson Funds.

Mr. Simon Gratz gave to the City of Philadelphia the sum of $5,000, in trust, the income arising therefrom to be divided equally among the Philadelphia Normal School, High School for Girls, Central High School, West Philadelphia High School for Girls, Northeast High School, for the award at each commencement of said Schools of a prize in money, to that member of the graduating class of each School, who, in the judgment of the faculty of the School, has attained the highest degree of proficiency in the knowledge and correct use, oral and written, of the English language.

Mrs. Sarah D. H. Lennon, the widow of Mr. James E. Lennon, a graduate of Girard College, gave the sum of $1,000, to be known as the James E. Lennon Fund, the income arising therefrom to be used in the purchase of text books or other scholastic equipment, for such graduates of Girard College as are pursuing their studies in other institutions of learning, and who may be deemed by the Board of Directors of City Trusts as worthy of such assistance.

Various members of the family of the late Hon. Joseph C. Ferguson, contributed the sum of $600, the income to be distributed as cash prizes to students of the Joseph C. Ferguson School, at Seventh and Norris Streets, passing the best general examination, or whose work in the last term of attendance at the School shall be most satisfactory, the certificate of the Supervising Principal to be the authority for the award of the prizes.

The total capital of the Minor City Trusts on December 31, 1922 was $2,733,349.62 and the disbursements during the year for the purposes of these Trusts, $93,231.97. The cost of their administration was $5,461.83 which is charged to the several Trusts in proportion to their invested capital.

The number of new patients treated at the Wills Hospital was 13,799 of which 1,126 were admitted to the wards; the others, 12,673 have been admitted to the clinics. 12,128 diseases were treated and 1,666 operations performed. It is interesting to note that of the 1,125 patients discharged, the Surgeons report 48 per cent. cured and 45 per cent. improved. The average number of beds occupied was 57. The cost of maintenance was $53,812.14.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, at its Session of 1921-1922 made an appropriation of $54,000 to the Wills Hospital, for maintenance during the two fiscal years begun June 1, 1921. While a clause in the will of Mr. Wills gives a preference "to those persons resident in Philadelphia or its neighborhood," the State by generous appropriations has made it possible to extend the benefits of the Institution to every indigent applicant, irrespective of resident. In 1922 of the persons treated 1,347 or 10 per cent., came from 53 counties of the State outside of Philadelphia.

From the income yielded by the Mary Shields Almhouse Fund, the sick and insane poor at the Philadelphia General Hospital and the Philadelphia Hospital for Mental Diseases have been made more comfortable, at a cost of $5,884.64.

Under the authority of the Orphans' Court, the income from the Bushrod Washington James Eye and Ear Institution and the Bushrod Library Fund is invested and added to the capital fund until the principal becomes sufficient for the purposes provided in the will of Dr. Bushrod Washington James. The total assets for the Eye and Ear Institute are $143,281.27 and for the Library, $90,288.59.

From the income of the William Carter and Ann Armitt Funds $99.00 was equally distributed among the following charitable organizations located in the old City of Philadelphia, Willing Day Nursery, St. John's Day Nursery, Social Service Jefferson Hospital, Starr Centre Association, Babies Hospital of Philadelphia.

The Julian H. Good Fund contributed $132.85 of its income "toward the maintenance of a House of Correction."

From the income of the Roberts School Fund $34.40 was expended in the purchase of magazines for use in the John Marshall School; Griscom and Sellers Streets, Frankford, in the district formerly known as Oxford Township.

$426.47 of the income of the Stephen Girard School Fund was expended for the use of the public schools in the district prescribed by Mr. Girard.

From the income of the Rittenhouse School Fund $523.00 was spent for the benefit of the Alfred Crease School on Wisahickon Avenue, above Walnut Lane.

Fifteen scholarships are being maintained by the Simon Muhr Fund.

Miss Vera Randall Spencer, Mr. Jacob G. Cohan and Mr. Eugene Markley Landis completed their courses at the University of Pennsylvania and were graduated in June last.

The Scholarships awarded during the year were to Miss Carol L. Cummings, Mr. Milton Allen Bell, Mr. William F. Kennedy and Miss Ottilie A. E. Fleischmann, the first named selecting Bryn Mawr College and the last three entering the University of Pennsylvania.

The Lawrence Todd Scholarship Fund provided scholarships of 250 each, for the school year 1922-1923, to the following graduates of Girard College, who had been recommended by the President of that Institution: Robert Heller, Edward Geuther, William Berntheisel, Harry Fine, James White, Wilmer G. Williams.

Upon the recommendation of the President of Girard College, a scholarship of $250, under the James H. Windrim Scholarship Fund, was awarded for the school year 1922-1923, to Mr. Arthur Fink, who was graduated from the College with the Class of January, 1920 and is now in his third year in the Arts Department of the University of Pennsylvania.

The Franklin Institute Building Fund has assets amounting to $505,038.92 which are held in trust for a building for the use of the Franklin Institute, to be erected at the S. W. Corner of Race and Nineteenth Streets.

John Scott of Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1816 bequeathed the sum of $4,000.00, the income of which was to be "laid out in premiums to be distributed among ingenious men and women who make useful inventions, but no one of such premiums to exceed twenty dollars, and along with which shall be given a copper medal with this inscription 'to the most deserving.'" This Fund on December 31, 1922, amounted to $108,689.80.

By Decrees of Court, dated February 19, 1919, and November 29, 1921, the City of Philadelphia, Trustee, is authorized to distribute the income as it now stands, with its accumulations, in premiums of the maximum value of $2,000.00, to be accompanied by the usual copper medal; to make such rules and regulations for enabling the Trustee to make a wise selection of beneficiaries, either by the selection of an Advisory Board or otherwise, as the City deems best; that the premiums are to be awarded for inventions that will be useful to mankind in the advancement of chemical, medical or any other science or development of industry in any form, the test being that the invention is in the judgment of the Trustee definitely accomplished and that it may add to the comfort, welfare and happiness of mankind.

An Advisory Committee has been formed, constituted of representatives of the National Academy of Sciences, the University of Pennsylvania and the American Philosophical Society, which make recommendations for awards under this Fund.

Upon the recommendation of this Committee, awards with premiums of $800, were made during the year to:

William Daune, Ph. D. of Boston Mass. "Distinguished for his researches in radio-activity and of the physics of radium and of the X-Rays. He also for several years made a special study of the use of radium and its emanations in the alleviation of conditions due to cancer."

Thomas B. Osborne, Ph. D. of New Haven, Conn. "His fundamental studies on the constitution of the vegetable proteins have made possible the determination of the chemical differences between a number of them and this has opened the way to the scientific testing of their value in foods, thus leading to important advances in the science of nutrition."

Reginald A. Fressenden, of Chestnut Hill, Mass. "Distinguished for invention of a reception scheme for continuous wave telegraphy as distinguished from the damped or spark system used by Marconi. Radio receivers formerly used damped or spark wave signals, but this type has at the present time been superceded by receivers involving the generation of local high frequency currents by means of oscillating vacuum tubes. The advantage of this type of receiver over the earlier schemes are—ease of operation, simplicity, greater selectiveness and sensitiveness, lower cost, smaller space requirements and portability."

Elwood Haynes, B.S. of Kokomo, Indiana. "In 1899 he produced an alloy consisting of practically pure nickel and pure chromium. This alloy when polished retained its lustre even in the atmosphere of a chemical laboratory and proved to be practically insoluble in nitric acid. He also produced alloy of cobalt and chromium which not only showed the same untarnishable properties as the nickel chrome alloy, but was much harder. This alloy was developed by the addition of tungsten and molybdenum and was named 'Stellite.' In 1911 he discovered and demonstrated chrome-steel alloys, thus being the first to discover 'Stainless Steel.' Its use is unlimited, its freedom from rust and its capability of taking a keen cutting edge renders it admirably suited for wood cutting tools. It resists the action of both fresh and salt water perfectly and as its modulus of elasticity is much higher than bronze it finds a large use in the manufacture of propeller blades for steamers. It is also used for pump rods, cylinder linings, pump valves, etc."

The Hannah M. Dodd medals were awarded to the most distinguished graduates of the Girls High School, as follows:

Commencement, February 3,
Gold Medal—Miss Mae Russel Getty.
Silver Medal—Miss Dorothy Houseman.
Commencement, June 16,
Gold Medal—Miss Beatrice Bayuk.
Silver Medal—Miss Dorothy S. Smith.

Cash prizes of Five Dollars each, under the will of Obadiah Whelock, were awarded to Miss Grace Lillian Paulhamus and Miss Emma M. MacIntyre as the pupils receiving the highest averages at the time of their graduation from the Girls Normal School in January and June.

At the Commencements of the Southern Manual Training High School, gold medals from the George A. Vane Medal Fund were awarded to:

Robert H. Bradbury, Jr., Class of February.
Anthony D. Caamaro, Class of June.

From the Louis Wagner Prize Fund, George P. Kraemer and William Gauer were presented with gold watches as the persons with the highest honors in each of the two classes graduated from Girard College in 1922.

From the Loan Funds provided by Dr. Benjamin Franklin and by Mr. John Scott no loans have been made during the year, no applicants possessing the necessary qualifications having presented themselves.

Doctor Franklin provided in his will that the money should be loaned to an amount of not exceeding sixty pounds sterling to Young Married Artificers under the age of thirty-five years, who have served an apprenticeship in Philadelphia and faithfully fulfilled the duties required in their indentures, and who will furnish two satisfactory securities for the return of the money in ten annual instalments, with interest at 5 per cent. Mr. Scott directed that his bequest should be applied to the same purpose as the legacy of Dr. Franklin.

By decree of the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia the maximum amount of the loan from each Fund is increased to $500, the rate of interest reduced to 4 per cent. and loans authorized to any properly qualified married artificer without regard to the place where, or the mode whereby, he obtained his qualification as such artificer and notwithstanding he has never served as an indenture apprentice in the City of Philadelphia, preference, however, to be given to married artificer who have served an apprenticeship or received their training in Philadelphia, the loans to be made upon well secured first mortgages or real estate in Philadelphia.

The amount of the Benjamin Franklin Fund on December 31, 1922, was $76,471.51 and that of the John Scott Loan Fund, $67,974.91.

Upon the terms prescribed for the distribution of fuel from the various Fuel Funds, coal was distributed at a cost of $15,507.89 as follows:

FUND.	COST.
City	$254.39
James Dutton	266.19
Elias Boudinot	6,249.18
Stephen Girard	404.95
Esther Waters	419.99
Paul Beck	400.99
Spring Garden	127.53
Thomas D. Grover	6,018.26
Frederick A. Sheaff	186.29
Mary Shells	300.27
Seybert	524.33
James Claypoole	27.85
George Emlen	286.69
B. W. & I. W. Morris	40.98

In addition to the sum stated as being paid by the Estate of Elias Boudinot, the recipients of the coal furnished from this Fund themselves paid $5.00 per ton.

The John E. Maynes Fuel Fund, the income of which is not to be used until the Capital reaches $250,000, amounted on December 31, 1922 to $165,184.87.

The income of the Paul Beck Soup Fund, the Andrew R. Chambers Fund, and the Samuel Scotten Fund, also the specific bequest provided in the will of Thomas D. Grover, have been distributed to the various soup societies as directed by the founders of these trusts. The sums paid to the societies were:

Northern Soup Society	$13.00
Kensington Soup Society	13.00
Moyamensing Soup Society	13.00
Northwestern Soup Society	13.00
Spring Garden Soup Society	13.00
Southwark Soup Society	319.00
Western Soup Society	519.00
	<hr/> $903.00

From the income of the Archibald Thompson Fund, bread has been furnished to the poor at a cost of $499.46, which reached the recipients through the Social Service Department of the Jefferson Hospital, the Jewish Welfare Society and the Society of St. Vincent de Paul.

The income of the Bernard McMahon Fund, amounting to $45.00 was contributed to the Social Service Department of the Children's Homeopathic Hospital, at Franklin and Thompson Streets.

$6.00 of the income of the Bushrod W. James Cemetery Fund was spent for the maintenance of his burial lot in Monument Cemetery.

The Police Pension Fund, Firemen's Pension Fund and Teachers' Annuity Fund have each been paid the sum of $290.00 from the income of the Rudolph Blankenburg Pension Fund.

The will of Christian Schrack provides that the income shall be distributed into the hands of the Missionary Societies of the old City. In 1922, $1,200 was given to each of the following: The Protestant Episcopal City Mission, the Home Missionary Society of Philadelphia and the Society of St. Vincent de Paul.

The invested capital and the cash receipts and payments of the various Funds under the care of this Board are shown in the attached statements.

On behalf of the Board of Directors of City Trusts.

EDWIN S. STUART,
President.

ADDRESS
EDWIN S. STUART

President Board of Directors of City Trusts
At the Celebration of the 75th Anniversary of the Opening of Girard College

—January 1, 1923

On the first day of January, 1848, just seventy-five years ago today, in the presence of the City Councils and other officials of the municipality, a body of representative citizens of Philadelphia and the ninety-five boys who had been admitted as students, the Girard College for Orphans was opened to begin the great philanthropic work designed by the Founder. Today we are met to celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of that event. During that period nearly eleven thousand orphan boys passed through the gates of this Institution to receive the benefits of the training, maintenance and education bestowed and guaranteed by Stephen Girard by the directions contained in his last will and testament, an instrument which, to quote the words of Joel Jones its first President, "is the fundamental law of the institution, and his directions and intentions expressed therein must be our guide." Joseph S Chandler, a leading and influential citizen of Philadelphia, President of the Board of Directors of Girard College, delivered the inaugural address, and, in part, said:

"The object for which the community has so long waited, and for which some of us have constantly labored, it at length accomplished; and this day, having been by the authority of Councils of Philadelphia placed in our possession, we open the doors of the Girard College, for the admission, the maintenance and instruction of poor orphan boys; and the beautiful edifice which we now occupy, the adjacent buildings on the right hand and on the left, and all these spacious grounds, are now to be dedicated to the great object contemplated in the testament of the liberal minded founder of this institution, by the unostentatious, the simple services of this morning."

Since its opening day, seventy-five years ago, the College has had but five Presidents.

The Hon. Joel Jones was its first President. He held the position from January 1, 1848 to June 1, 1849, a period of one year and five months. His term ended with his resignation on the latter date.

After the resignation of President Jones the position was without an incumbent until December 31, 1849, a period of seven months. The term of the next President, Dr. William Henry Allen, begun January 1, 1850 and continued until December 31, 1862, when it expired by his resignation. He held the position for a period of thirteen years. A vacancy existed in the office after Dr. Allen resigned, from January 1, 1863 to June 30, 1863. During that time Henry W. Arey, Secretary of the College, performed the duties of President. Richard Somers Smith was the next President. He held the office from July 1, 1863 to October 31, 1867, a period of four years and four months.

Dr. William Henry Allen was then elected President for the second time. He served from November 1, 1867, until August 29, 1882, when his incumbency was ended by his death. His second term lasted nearly fifteen years, and his aggregate service in the office totalled twenty-eight years.

There was again a vacancy in the office extending from August 29, 1882, to January 1, 1883. On the last mentioned date Dr. Adam H. Fetterolf, the Vice-President of the College, was appointed. He continued in the position until the 31st day of January, 1910, when he was retired at his own request. He was Vice-President from December 1, 1880, to December 31, 1882. He served two years and one month as vice-President and twenty years and one month as President, a total of twenty-nine years and two months of faithful, unselfish and devoted service to the interests of Girard College.

He was succeeded by Chessman A. Herrick, L.L. D., who to day in the prime of life and the vigor of his intellect is the President, having filled that position from April 1 1910, nearly thirteen years; and let us devoutly hope that his life may be spared, his health sustained and that his term of service may be longer, if possible, than any of his predecessors. For there is no more honorable career for an educator, than President of Girard College for Orphans. It is, however, a great responsibility to feel that you have in your care the education, destiny and future of nearly 1600 fatherless boys.

On the second day of January, 1856, at the celebration of the eighth anniversary of the dedication and opening of this College, an address was delivered by the Hon. Robert T. Conrad, a former Mayor of Philadelphia, in which he painted with glowing eloquence the beneficent purposes of the College, foretold its glorious career and vividly portrayed the precious results of which it had been and would continue to be the producing cause. He said, among other things:

"And, doubtless, of the results sought, in this well-devised and well-directed benevolence that which the author, who required stability in all things, most exultingly contemplated was its permanence. So far as the achievements of human wisdom can be, the work is perpetual. Form the nature of the sources which supply its maintenance, they are likely rather to increase than to diminish in value. All that was perishable in the fund has already been swept away; the ample resources remaining seem to be beyond contingency. When centuries shall have passed over the College—for it is reared to be the companion of centuries—after tens of thousands of educated and worthy citizens shall have been given, through its instrumentality, to the republic, it will still be in its youth, still looking forward to further centuries of usefulness; pursuing with unweakened energies, its glorious career, and pouring forth, like some copious and constant hillside fountain, its pure and everlasting stream of moral and intellectual health and power."

Mayor Conrad's words were prophetic as to the future of Girard College and how abundantly his utterances have been verified the following statement will help to show:

When the College was opened, January 1, 1848, the Residuary Fund of the Estate of Stephen Girard, the income from which, he directed in his Will, should be used primarily for the maintenance and further improvement of the College, and then was to be applied to the purposes of carrying out the provisions of his secondary trust, was about $3,000,000 and the number of pupils 95. The expenditures for maintenance the first year were $31,821.83.

In 1873, at the end of the first twenty-five years, the Residuary Fund was $4,962,735.22, while the number of pupils had increased to 546, and the annual cost of maintenance to $188,000.00.

In 1898, when the College had been opened fifty years, the Residuary Fund had increased to $11,700,000, the number of pupils to 1,536 and the annual cost of maintenance to $480,000.00.

To-day, after an existence of seventy-five years, the Residuary Fund is $41,000,000, the number of pupils 1,545 and the annual expenditure for maintenance $1,300,000.00.

In addition to the $51,000,000, which is all income producing, there is carried on the books as the nominal value of the College grounds and buildings—$4,500,000.00, making the total Capital $55,500,000.00.

The total expenditures for maintenance from 1848 to 1922 inclusive, were approximately $29,000,000, while the amount spent for improvements during the same period, not including the $2,000,000.00 left by Mr. Girard for the construction of the College, but including the total cost of buildings already constructed and those now under contract and in course of construction, to pay for which funds have been appropriated and set aside, was approximately $5,000,000.00.

This is a wonderful showing. But wonderful as it is, it will be surpassed in the future. I am going to make a prediction that twenty-five years hence, on the first day of January, 1948, when the One Hundredth Anniversary of the inauguration of this College will be celebrated, if nothing unforeseen happens, and in the meantime the Estate has been managed in a wise, conservative, and business-like manner, and the present financial policy as adopted by the Board of Directors of City Trusts in 1897 is not changed, but strictly adhered to, the Residuary Fund providing income for the maintenance and improvement of Girard College first, the primary object of the testator, and for the secondary trust, as directed in his will to wit: "to enable the corporation of the City of Philadelphia to maintain a competent police force, to improve the city properly and in effect to diminish the burden of taxation," will be at least One Hundred Millions of Dollars. I shall not be here then, but some of you boys who are present today will be present on that occasion and I want you to recall the statement I have made today. The marvelous development and achievement of this Institution are worthy of profound admiration. Its success and accomplishment are due, in the final analysis, to that which lies at its foundation, namely, to the sagacity, common sense, superior business judgment and farsightedness of the founder, who, by his will, enacted the law which controls the management of his Estate and of his College; and the validity of that last will and testament has been ratified and confirmed by the Appellate Court of Pennsylvania and by the Supreme Court of the United States. The City of Philadelphia, Trustee, has been guided by the mandates and instructions declared in that document with the beneficial and successful results that are evident.

Girard had by his side as adviser in the matters of law a well trained legal mind; a man with profound knowledge of jurisprudence and much experience in the active practice of his profession. This learned lawyer had listened attentively and intelligently to Girard's statement of the ideas he desired to have incorporated in his will, and so successful was he in expressing them in that instrument plainly and distinctly and in obedience to law, that the document has withstood, like a Rock of Gibraltar, the various attacks made against its validity.

The man that drafted that will was one of his executors and a member of the Board of Directors of Girard College on the day of its opening, January 1, 1848, and I have no doubt was on the platform with his associates. If William J. Daune were here today, we could point to him and exclaim: "Thou art the man!"

Henry Van Dyke in his book, "The Spirit of America" says: "A source of power is the Constitution of the United States, which is supreme and sovereign over all other laws. It is the enactment of the whole people. Congress did not create it. It created Congress. No legislation, whether of a State or of the Nation, can impair or contravene its authority. It can only be changed by the same authority which made it—the people."

And so with regard to the will of Stephen Girard. It is the supreme and sovereign law which must govern those to whom is entrusted the direction and management of his Estate. Except, perhaps, in minor details, to accomplish more effectively the intentions of the testator, no power can change it except that which made it, and that power no longer exists. It must be kept inviolate in all its fundamental and essential provisions; as to them, it is unchangeable and like "the law of the Medes and Persians which altereth not."

LOANS TO ARTIFICERS.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN FUND.

Created 1790.

To be loaned to an amount not exceeding sixty pounds sterling to Young Married Artificers under the age of thirty-five years, who have served an apprenticeship in Philadelphia and faithfully fulfilled the duties required in their indentures, and who will furnish two satisfactory securities for the return of the money in ten annual installments, with interest at 5 per cent.

By decree of the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia the maximum amount of each loan was increased to $500, the rate of interest was reduced to 4 per cent. and loans were authorized to any properly qualified married artificer without regard to the place where, or the mode whereby, he obtained his qualification as such artificer and notwithstanding he has never served as an indentured apprentice in the City of Philadelphia, preference, however, to be given to married artificers who have served an apprenticeship or received their training in Philadelphia, the loans to be made upon well secured first or second mortgages on real estate in Philadelphia.

At the expiration of one hundred years, 100/131 of the accumulated fund is to be expended in Public Works which may be judged of most general utility to the inhabitants, such as Fortifications, Bridges, Aqueducts, Public-Buildings, Baths, Pavements or whatever may make living in the Town more convenient to its People and render it more agreeable to strangers restoring thither for Health or a temporary residence."

In 1908 in compliance with the requirement contained in the Will of Dr. Benjamin Franklin, a sum of $133,076.46 was set aside for the purpose of assisting in the erection of a building for the use of the Franklin Institute (see page 67).

LYBRAND, ROSS BROS. and MONTGOMERY,
Accountants and Auditors.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE THE BANKING DEPARTMENT.

To the Honorable, the Members of the House of Representatives,

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Your Committee respectfully reports:

That Resolution No. 17, introduced by Honorable Bert L. Brenneman, of York County, was on May 2, 1923, upon motion referred to the Committee on Banks and Banking; and on the same day the acting chairman of the said Committee on Banks and Banking appointed the following subcommittee to consider the said resolution: the Honorable J. Add Sprowls, John W. Storb, Benjamin H. Ludlow, Albert S. C. Millar, Gwilym A. Price, Edward B. Labar, and Wallace Bromley, Chairman.

Afterwards, on the same day a resolution offered by Honorable Robert S. Spangler, of York County, was adopted by the House, which, in brief, made and constituted the said subcommittee of seven, of the Committee of Banks and Banking, a committee of the House of Representatives "to investigate the Department of Banking, for the purpose of ascertaining the reasons for the alleged failure of said Department to discover defalcations in State banks, and for the purpose of discovering any deficiencies in the Department leading to inability to proper examination of State banks," etc. The said committee of the House met immediately for the purpose of performing its duties pursuant to the terms of the resolution, and invited Representatives Brenneman, Spangler, and Flinchbaugh, of York County, to meet and act in co-operation with it.

At the first meeting of the Committee there was prepared a list of sixteen questions, addressed to Honorable Peter G. Cameron, Commissioner of Banking, with the request that the same be answered at the earliest possible moment for the information of the Committee. A list of these questions, together with the answers thereto, made by the Commissioner of Banking, is attached to and made a part of this report.

Your Committee met on Monday afternoon, May 8th, at 2.30 o'clock, at which time, in obedience to the call of the Committee, there were present several employees of the City Bank of York and all of the members of the Board of Directors, with the exception of one who was elected two weeks prior to the closing of the institution. The two employees of the Bank were: Mr. Jesse J. Becker and Mr. Gerber Eaton. The directors present were: Messrs. E. S. Brooks, Charles D. Moul, W. H. Grothe, J. B. Budding, Calvin Stauffer, John P. Julius, Walter E. Musser, and Geoffrey P. Yost.

The testimony of the employees was taken stenographically, reduced to writing, and the typewritten notes are hereto attached and made a part of this report.

Immediately following the examination of the employees, the entire Board was invited into the room with the Committee and a searching investigation of the methods of the directors and the amount of time devoted to their duties followed. This particular phase of the investigation was not stenographically reported. Reference to the testimony given by the directors will be made in the findings and recommendations below.

From the information gained by the Committee, through the questions submitted to the Commissioner of Banking, and during the course of the meeting attended by the directors and employees of the City Bank of York, the Committee finds the following to be the facts:

FINDINGS OF FACT.

1. On April 20, 1923, Mr. R. P. Ferguson, an examiner of the State Banking Department, and two assistants, called at the City Bank of York, for the purpose of making an examination and, while there, discovered a large discrepancy in the accounts of the institution, as a result of which the State Banking Commissioner took possession of the institution.

2. The records of the State Banking Department show that during the last ten years examinations of the institution were made on the dates following:

June 17, 1913,
April 29, 1914,
March 10, 1915,
January 5, 1916,
December 20, 1916,
December 26, 1917,
November 29, 1918,
November 24, 1919,
February 23, 1921,
April 20, 1923.

3. The failure of the Banking Department to make more frequent examinations of this and other State banking institutions was directly ascribable to two causes:

- (a) A shortage of examiners;
- (b) Insufficient provision, under existing law, for the proper personnel in the Department of Banking itself.

4.—The number of examinations made by the Banking Department, during the past three years, compared with the number of institutions under the supervision of the Department and the average number of examiners employed, are as follows:

Year ended	No. of Banks, Trust Cos. Svgs. Inst. and Natl. Banks under supervision of Dept.	Number of Examinations	Number of Bank Examiners
5-31-20	595	523	16
5-31-21	701	597	19
5-31-22	773	615	22

The increase of the assets of the various institutions under the supervision of the Banking Department, between 1919 and 1923, is as follows:

	1919	1923	Increase
Assets	$2,036,174,047.70	$2,500,364,644.41	$464,190,596.71
Trust Funds	1,588,309,927.65	2,163,300,069.70	574,990,142.05
Corporate Trusts	4,387,843,821.18	4,993,544,154.85	605,700,333.67

5. The salaries of the examiners and assistant examiners of the Banking Department, at the present time, range from $1,800 to $3,600. The number of examiners receiving the maximum salary is nine.
